PRISON GATES OPEN FOR ART SHOW

Art patrons file past some of the more than 2,000 paintings and craft works on display in the 17th Annual Fall Arts and Crafts Show at San Quentin Prison. About 200 persons were waiting today when the gate opened. Prison officials estimated more than 3,000 visitors had arrived by midmorning and said "the lines were long" at the sales counters. Plans by militants to picket outside the gate did not materialize after prison officials told organizers that holding down attendance at the art show could only hurt the inmates' income from art works sales. Observers reported the show drew less patronage than former years, however, perhaps as an aftermath of the Aug. 21 violence in the adjustment center.

Students Storm Emperor's Palace To Protest Trip

Okinawans Angered By Visit

TOKYO (UPI) — Four Okinawan workmen broke past guards at the main gates of Emperor Hirohito's palace today, hurling smoke cannisters and wielding bamboo staves to protest the monarch's meeting with President Nixon and tour of Europe.

The four members of a group called the "Okinawa Youth Committee" were overcome by police about 640 feet inside the gates of the 234-acre palace compound in downtown Tokyo.

Hirohito and Empress Nagako, who will meet with Nixon tomorrow in Alaska, were in their 14-room private residence a half mile from the gate when the incident occurred.

The four protesters, wearing white helmets and carrying red flags, drove up to the palace gate in a rented car shortly after noon, hurled smoke bombs at four guards, got out of the car and rushed in.

Police said four officers were injured while subduing the group.

A short time after their arrest, leaders of the 100-member Okinawa Youth Committee called a news conference.

"We will struggle with all the power at our command to prevent any injury to Okinawa," a spokesman said. He blamed the emperor for the suffering of Okinawan people during World War II.

Far left groups and all four of Japan's regular opposition parties are dissatisfied with the terms of a proposed treaty with the United States which will return Okinawa to Japan.

The opposition wants the islands to be free of all American troops. The treaty calls for continuation of American military base rights on the tropical island 1,000 miles southeast of Tokyo.

"Hirohito is just being used as a pawn to improve the government's position," one of the leaflets read.

The trip marks the first time a Japanese emperor and empress ever traveled to a foreign country.

A visit to Washington in 1969 by Sato to negotiate with Nixon on the Okinawa question touched off a battle in Japan in which 15,000 police had to be mobilized to guard the airport.

FINAL TUNEUP

As Sandor Salgo conducts the Marin Symphony Orchestra, soprano Dorothy Kirsten puts finishing touches on her scheduled performance at tonight's opening of the Veterans Memorial Building at the Marin Civic Center. The rehearsal came as workmen were driving the final nails in the darkened auditorium last night. Miss Kirsten, who will sing arias from "Tosca," "Louise," "Adriana Lecouvreur" and "Madama Butterfly," told an observer last night, "If I feel the way I do now, it will be gangbusters tomorrow night." Curtain is 8:30 p.m. for the inaugural, which also will feature the world premiere of Darius Milhaud's Suite in G.

Justice Black Dies Eight Days After Leaving Bench

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Hugo L. Black died early today—eight days after retiring from the Supreme Court that he imbued with his penetrating liberal philosophy for more than one-third of a century.

President Nixon eulogized the 85-year-old jurist as a man of "such independence, tenacity and total integrity of mind that his imprint on the Court and on our nation will be indelible."

His death was announced at Bethesda Naval Hospital where he had been ill since Aug. 28 with arterial trouble and where he suffered a severe stroke last Sunday.

In a one-sentence statement, the hospital attributed death to those causes and said the retired justice and former Alabama senator "died peacefully at 1 a.m. EDT this morning."

His immediate family was at his bedside, including his wife, two sons, Hugo J. of Miami and Sterling F. of Albuquerque, N.M., and a daughter, Mrs. Martha Josephine Pesaresi of Hackensack, N.J.

In his tribute, Nixon said: "Justice Hugo L. Black brought to the Supreme Court a mind that was brilliantly lucid and a character that was earnest and strong.

U.S. Planes Cross Viet Border Again

SAIGON (UPI) —American jets crossed the border into North Vietnam today to bomb antiaircraft gun batteries in the fifth consecutive day of what the U.S. command calls protective reaction raids.

The Viet Cong in turn increased their rocket and mortar attacks in South Vietnam and Cambodia. At least four American bases were attacked including two airfields.

In Saigon, President Nguyen Van Thieu went on the radio to defend his one-man candidacy in the Oct. 3 presidential election and to appeal for calm. But shortly after he spoke, students and disabled veterans set fire to cars and battled police in anti-Thieu demonstrations not only in Saigon but also in Hue.

The U.S. military command said two American F4 Phantom jets were on a bombing mission over the Ho Chi Minh Trail in Laos when they received gunfire from antiaircraft guns in nearby North Vietnam. The jets attacked the gun positions in Mu Gia Pass, 78 miles north of the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ) and just east of Laos. At least one secondary explosion was sighted.

It was the 64th such protective reaction raid of the year.

Two other F4s bombed another Communist antiaircraft unit Friday in Ban Karai Pass, 38 miles north of the DMZ Friday.

U.S. command spokesmen said the shelling attacks overnight against U.S. bases officially were considered insignificant because there were no casualties but the bombardments were increased markedly over the past few days.

The Viet Cong's Provisional Revolutionary Government (PRG) had said it would retaliate for the U.S. bombings of North Vietnam by increasing attacks on allied installations in

Driver Is Fatally Hurt In Sausalito

A 29-year-old Richmond garbage collector was killed yesterday when he was crushed beneath a runaway refuse truck on a hilly street in Sausalito.

Sergio Serda, an employee of Bay Cities Refuse Co., was killed as he attempted to stop the rolling truck on Lincoln Avenue, east of Highway 101, according to a co-worker, Angel Martinez, also of Richmond.

Martinez reported that both men had left the vehicle about 11:50 a.m. when it started to roll backward. He said Serda jumped in the truck, but was unable to halt it.

According to Martinez, the truck careened across Lincoln and up a driveway, then turned over when its left wheel hit a steep bank, and came to rest in the street.

Serda, who was either thrown or attempted to jump from the truck, was pinned beneath it and apparently killed instantly, according to the Marin County coroner's office.

Serda's death was the 27th traffic fatality in Marin this year, up four from this date in 1970.

Governor Signs Collier's Coastal Rivers Legislation

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —Gov. Ronald Reagan has signed legislation directing the state to draft a masterplan for preservation and development of 19 North Coast rivers.

The governor's office announced yesterday that Reagan had signed the measure by Sen. Randolph Collier, D-Yreka.

The measure appropriates $50,000 to the state Resources Agency to prepare management plans for flood control, water conservation, recreation and wildlife preservation on the rivers.

Included in the study will be the Klamath, Trinity, Salmon, Shasta, Scott, Smith, Bear, Mattole, Van Duzen, Eel, Big, Garcia, Navarro, Noyo, Ten-Mile Russian and Gualala rivers and Redwood and Alder creeks.

Conservationists, however, are strongly supporting another bill by Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael, to declare the Eel, Trinity and Klamath as wild rivers and prevent any dam construction on them.

Behr's bill was once defeated by the Senate, but has since been revived, and he has been given permission to make a second try at it.

Detectives Recover Valuable Art Works

ROME (UPI) — Detectives today recovered more than 40 stolen works of art and arrested four persons in a nationwide raid on gangs of thieves who looted churches and private art collections.

The latest recoveries included a Vivarini oil, a 16th century silver chalice covered in precious stones, three Tiepolo canvases and a Russian bronze cross found in a basement near Naples.

DEBUT '72 IN TODAY'S MAGAZINE

Across the country the home furnishings industry, starting tomorrow, will be observing for the next two weeks a Debut '72 program to present to home owners the new styles in furniture and new trends in decor.

Many of Marin's and Sonoma's finest home furnishing stores are participating in the event. And as a kick-off for Debut '72, today's edition of the Independent-Journal Marin Magazine is a special, expanded issue, devoted largely to news, photographs and advertisements about new home furnishing developments.

Nixon Off To Pacific Northwest

WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Nixon flew to the Pacific Northwest today for a four-state visit that will include a historic conversation with Japanese Emperor Hirohito.

Nixon, accompanied by his wife, planned to stop first at Kalispell, Mont., for a look at the $426 million Libby Dam under construction on the Kootenai River.

Then the President planned to fly on to Portland, Ore., to brief Northwestern editors and publishers on national and international affairs and to stay overnight.

Tomorrow he will fly to Walla

Super Jet Behind Ouster Of Soviets?

LONDON (UPI) — Some of the 105 Soviet officials ousted from Britain for spying were trying to steal technical data on the Anglo-French Concorde supersonic airliner (SST), diplomatic sources said today.

The sources said the agents were trying to get information on such things as electronic devices, computers and aircraft engines.

First Soviet Word On Peking's 'Crisis'

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Soviet Union says Communist China is in the throes of "grave political developments" and is trying to conceal them by spreading fears of an imminent Soviet invasion.

Moscow spoke its first word about the mystery of what is happening in Peking with a commentary published Friday night by the official Tass news agency.

(Julian Schuman, an American working in Peking, told UPI by telephone Saturday that "there's certainly no war scare here." He said that "it is true there hasn't been any very clear reason given (by the Chinese authorities on recent developments) but nobody's talking about any imminent invasion or to cover up war preparations."

(Schuman said that while cancellation of the October National Day celebrations has not been carried by the Chinese press most Chinese know about it. He said they were informed at work and other places.)

"One thing is clear," Tass said. "A number of grave internal political developments are affecting the general situation

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

Defeated Again

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Critics of Pentagon programs and spending still looked for their first victory today in their fight to trim a $21 billion military procurement bill in the Senate.

This week saw them lose a series of votes.

The latest defeat came yesterday on an amendment by Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., to stop deployment of the nation's newest strategic weapon — the multiple, independently targeted re-entry vehicle MIRV. The MIRV is a cluster of nuclear warheads, placed on a single Minuteman or Poseidon missile, which separate before impact and are guided to widely-separated targets.

Granted License

NEW YORK (UPI) — Averell Harriman, former U.S. ambassador to the Paris peace talks, and Pamela Digby Churchill Hayward, the late Sir Winston Churchill's daughter-in-law, were granted a marriage license yesterday.

Harriman, 79, and Mrs. Hayward, 51, first met in London during World War II. Mrs. Hayward, who said she will remain a British subject, was twice widowed. Her first husband was Churchill's son Randolph and her second husband was Broadway producer Leland Hayward, who died last March.

Endorses Muskie

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI) — Rep. Morris K. Udall, D-Ariz., a leader of House liberals, endorsed Sen. Edmund S. Muskie's undeclared presidential candidacy today, saying polls show Muskie can be the first Democratic candidate to carry Arizona since 1948.

To Study Troops

WASHINGTON (UPI) — With the American program of disengagement from Vietnam entering a critical phase, the White House has sent a special team of experts to that country to make an on-the-spot assessment of military and political conditions.

Administration officials said today that President Nixon, mindful that his predecessors sometimes were misled by overly optimistic predictions from the field, authorized National Security Adviser Henry A. Kissinger to dispatch about a dozen experts from his staff to double-check reports received through regular channels.

Bank Firebombed

NEW YORK (UPI) — A branch of the Chase Manhattan Bank was firebombed today, apparently in connection with the recent Attica state prison uprising. Police said damage was slight.

An anonymous caller to UPI said the bank was bombed in retaliation for the assault by state law enforcement officers at Attica which killed 31 inmates and 10 hostages. The storming of the prison was approved by Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller.

Hurricane Stalled

MIAMI (UPI) — Hurricane Ginger, with winds up to 85 miles per hour, was stalled in the Atlantic Ocean early today. "All the forces" were pulling in various directions, preventing forecasters from making a prediction.

Ginger barely moved Friday from a position 575 miles southeast of Cape Hatteras, N.C. Early today, it produced swells to 12 feet along the southeast U.S. coast, the northern Bahamas and the northern Caribbean.

Sets Election

BRUSSELS (UPI) — King Baudouin of Belgium has agreed to dissolve parliament and call an election Nov. 7. Normally the election would have been held next May but a dispute between Social--Christian and Socialist party leaders upset the three-year-old government coalition.

Six Bus Deaths

NIRTH BRANCH, N.Y. (UPI) — A bus carrying 13 persons from a private school in Florida careened off a rural Catskill Mountain road near the Pennsylvania state line yesterday and struck a tree. Six persons, including four children, were killed.

Soviet Boss In Budapest

BUDAPEST, Hungary (UPI) —Soviet Communist party leader Leonid I. Brezhnev arrived today by plane from Belgrade to explain to his Hungarian allies why he endorsed Yugoslav President Tito's liberalized brand of communism.

Hungary borders Yugoslavia on the north. Brezhnev is to fly Sunday to Bulgaria, which borders Yugoslavia on the east, to brief other Warsaw Pact leaders on the results of this three-day "unofficial" visit to Yugoslavia.

Both Tito and Brezhnev, in farewell speeches at the airport in Belgrade, said their extensive private talks "cleared up" important issues between their two countries. But only a joint commique, to be issued later, would show whether Brezhnev succeeded in persuading Tito to drop some of his independence on foreign policy and line up with the Kremlin on major world issues.

There was no advance announcement by the Hungarian government of Brezhnev's visit to Budapest, although it was an open secret in the capital.

Three Deer Hunters Slain; Suspect Held

SIERRA CITY, Calif. (UPI) —Three deer hunters were shot to death and a teen-age boy seriously wounded Friday in the northern California Mother Lode country near here.

An hour after the discovery of the bodies, two deputies arrested Carter Hall Yuen, 21, of San Francisco, about 25 miles from the scene of the killings. Yuen was a companion of the three unidentified victims, who were reportedly oriental Americans.

In a brief midnight news conference, Sheriff Sam Doyle admitted he was baffled about why the slaughter occurred.

He said the bodies had been discovered by an unidentified motorist who found the wounded victim, Ronald Gong, 19, San Francisco, crawling by the side of a mountain road. The bodies were found at a makeshift campsite 200 yards away.

Sheriff Doyle did not reveal what led deputies to Yuen, who was arrested in his car near neighboring Sierraville without resistance.

Doyle said he talked to Yuen, who did not admit the killings and was in a calm state of mind. Yuen was placed in the county jail in Downieville where he is being held on investigation of murder.

Doyle said his men had confiscated four rifles, but declined to answer many other questions.

He did not say if one of the rifles was the death weapon; whether more than one had been fired in a possible gunfire exchange; where at the campsite the bodies were found; the exact location of the death wounds; or whether any type of narcotics had been found at the scene.

Gong was rushed to the Washoe County Medical Center in Reno, Nev., where his condition was listed as serious. A hospital spokesman said he had chest wounds but "would make it."

Last July 12, a man described as "laughing, grumbling and growling like an animal," hacked two persons to death while they were camping on Bear River in Nevada County, 75 miles south of here.

Clarence Otis Smith, an unemployed trash collector from Auburn, Calif., was later arrested in Mexico and extradited from Texas to California on charges of murdering the two victims and wounding two others.

New Clear Air Engine Developed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An army effort to get better gasoline mileage for the jeep has led to the first car meeting the government's stringent antipollution standards for 1976 models.

But an auto industry spokesman says there is "virtually no chance" the engine can be mass produced by the deadline.

President Nixon startled some auto industry executives Thursday night when he said during an appearance before the Detroit Economic Club that an engine had passed tests within the "very strict standards of the clean air act."

Yesterday, the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) said Nixon was talking about a Ford Motor Co. engine. Ford then confirmed the development of the engine but cautioned there was very little chance it could be mass produced and certified for 1976 "because of its highly experimental nature."

The prototype is a four cylinder, 72-horsepower internal combustion jeep engine with four wheel drive and stick shift. A second ford prototype, due next week in a Postal Service vehicle, will have two wheel drive and automatic transmission.

Ford said it is also testing V-8 versions. Texaco, Inc., a partner in the project, is scheduled to deliver two other prototypes in November.

The EPA said the engine's key concept is "stratified charge" —the use of fuel injection and special cylinders that together measure precisely the amount of gasoline and air mixed in the cylinders. The engine has no carburetor.

This produces "smooth, efficient and controlled combustion," the EPA said, with less exhaust. Remaining exhaust is reduced further with a recirculation system and a catalytic muffler. Leaded gasoline could not be used.

The EPA said the Army began working on stratified charge in 1962 to improve the jeep's gas mileage.

It worked, improving mileage by 25 to 30 per cent. Ford and EPA added the antipollution devices, losing the improved gas mileage and leaving an engine with mileage approximately matching that of today's cars.

United Bay Crusade Opens Annual Drive

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— The United Bay Area Crusade launched its 50th annual fund drive Friday by reporting a record $4 million in advance gifts at a luncheon aboard the S. S. President Cleveland.

Funds were collected from corporations, trusts, foundations and private individuals.

Last year the Crusade raised $17,038,951 and this year says it needs $30 million.

Rockefeller To Seek Prison Reform Funds

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI)—Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, following the bloodiest prison revolt in modern U.S. history, said yesterday he will soon propose a major overhaul of New York's prison systems which may cost more than $200 million.

Rockefeller told newsmen he doesn't have any of the specifics of the program drawn up yet.

The talk of prison reform comes almost two weeks after the end of a five-day rebellion at Attica state prison Sept.13, in which 31 inmates and 10 hostages were killed.

Rockefeller would not discuss how much the program would cost, but he told reporters he informed a House committee headed by Rep. Claude Pepper, D-Fla., it would cost "more than $200 million just to rebuild the prisons in the state."

"This is something we should have begun yesterday," Rockefeller said. "It's overdue."

Other state sources said the program may be presented to the state legislature in January or at a special session on reapportionment scheduled for December.

In other developments yesterday:

-Two attorneys from the National Lawyers Guild said they had "sufficient corroborating evidence to substantiate" that inmate Thomas Hicks was "deliberately singled out and killed after he had surrendered and been placed in custody." The lawyers, talking to newsmen outside the prison in Attica, said Hicks had been moved to Attica following last year's riot at the state prison in Auburn.

-State sources revised their estimate of damage in the Attica rebellion from $3 million to "in excess" of $4 million.

-Leaders of the labor union representing prison workers met with administration officials for nearly eight hours to discuss union demands for reform.

Dissolution Of Marriage Given

The marriage of Dr. Edward Vanderhoof of Ross has been dissolved in Marin Superior Court.

Judge Thomas F. Keating granted the dissolution but withheld judgment on a property settlement. Dorothy Vanderhoof was awarded custody of one of the couple's four children.

They were married Aug. 14, 1941, in Minnesota, and Mrs. Vanderhoof filed for separate maintenance in 1969. Dr. Vanderhoof then filed for dissolution.

He went to Vietnam in 1966 in connection with a project to treat South Vietnamese civilian casualties of the war.

Armored Car Guard Killed In Holdup

BERKELEY (UPI) — Two flashy-dressed holdup men opened up with automatic pistols during a supermarket robbery near the University of California, killing an armored car guard and wounding two others.

They escaped with $400.

The robbers pulled their guns when two Loomis armed guards were delivering change and picking up receipts at the store. The guards had their hands in the air when "all at once guns started going off," witnesses told police.

Killed instantly was Patrick B. Moore, 22, Berkeley, who was shot in the chest. His partner, Roosevelt Harris, 27, Richmond, suffered a hip wound and the store manager, William Bennett, 27, Pleasanton, was wounded in the shoulder.

Police said the husky assailants fired six shots into the store as they fled the store and escaped in a late model car.

Hearing Set In Felony Drug Case

A preliminary hearing has been set for Oct. 5 in Marin Municipal Court for Gary Justice, 26, of Los Angeles.

Leon Cofferata is a Sullivan Success story! Here's what Leon's mother said after her son had been enrolled in the Sullivan Program for just two weeks. "Leon had reading problems for two years. He repeated the first grade, and we were afraid he would have to repeat it again. We were desperate when we came to the Sullivan Reading Center. We had tried other sources of help with no success. Within ten days after enrolling Leon in the Sullivan Program, there was a change in Leon. For the first time he wanted to read! I don't think there is a child who can't learn from the Sullivan System. It's worked a miracle in my family!"

If your child needs improvement in Reading and Math we can help him too.

The Reading Program:

At Sullivan your child will learn to read or improve his present reading level through linguistic progression. He will find the organized, involving aspects of the program offer him an opportunity for success he may not have previously enjoyed.

The Math Program:

Our Math Program is self-motivating. Once a child is placed in the program he is presented with problems that gradually increase in complexity, leading him step-by-step to a thorough grasp of concepts. Ask your child's teacher about our proven Sullivan materials.

LUSH LOOK FORMS AT POST OFFICE

In 1966, soon after the main San Rafael Post Office was finished (top), the grounds offered only a lone fir tree for landscaping. Elsewhere, there were weeds and litter. But through a planting program, the post office yard has grown up (bottom), offering an appealing site to the person who comes to do business inside the facility. ## Attack On Leadership Of Bureau

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Rep. Donald M. Fraser, D-Minn., said yesterday Interior Secretary Rogers C. B. Morton is "Out of touch with the concerns of the Indian people" and asked President Nixon to remove the Bureau of Indian Affairs from his control.

In a letter to Nixon, Fraser said the bureau should be given independent status under the office of the President.

Fraser said he has come to share the view voiced by several Indian leaders that the BIA should be taken out of the Interior Department.

"Secretary Morton appears to be out of touch with the concerns of the Indian people," Fraser said. "But a lack of leadership at the highest levels of the Interior Department is only part of the reason for the Indian bureau's problems."

He said efforts to reform the bureau "have ground to a halt" since Morton succeeded Walter J. Hickel.

The Minnesota Democrat said he was originally encouraged by efforts of a group of "young turks" in the BIA to implement Nixon's landmark message on Indian affairs in July, 1970.

Shortage Of Trained Personnel At Drug Rehabilitation Centers

WASHINGTON (UPI) —An official of the two federal drug addiction treatment centers conceded yesterday up to 50 per cent of addicts seeking voluntary commitment are turned away, but he said this was caused by lack of trained personnel to run rehabilitation programs.

"We desperately need the resources and personnel to deal with the homosexual and homicidal addict," R. Betram S. Brown, director of the National Institute of Mental Health, told a House judiciary subcommittee hearing.

The panel is investigating the effectiveness of the 1966 Narcotic Addict Rehabilitation Act, which permits commitment of drug addicts charged with minor, non-violent federal crimes in lieu of prosecution, or commitment after conviction of such crimes or for voluntary commitment sought by an addict not charged with a crime.

The General Accounting Office, an investigative arm of Congress, told the panel earlier this week that it found that despite room at the Fort Worth, Tex., and Lexington, Ky., federal drug addiction treatment centers, that 62 per cent of the addicts seeking volunteer commitment were rejected by the two centers, which are under Brown's jurisdiction.

Brown said the rejection rate was at a maximum of 50 per cent and the main reason was lack of trained personnel to handle potentially violent addicts. This requires a "weeding out" process among volunteer addicts, Brown said.

In a related matter, Rep. Don Edwards, D-Calif., chairman of the subcommittee, said before his panel resumed hearings today that the Defense Department has indirectly hampered efforts to halt the flow of heroin into the United States.

Edwards said that during a recent trip to Iran he discovered five helicopters Iran needs to patrol its borders against dope smuggling from Afghanistan and Turkey are sitting idle at the Teheran Airport because of a dispute over a purchase price for the planes. The smuggled dope, he said, ends up as heroin in the United States.

Edwards said the Pentagon has demanded $200,000 per helicopter and Iran claimed it could not afford that.

Its complaint, Edwards said, was supported by the U.S. Ambassador to Iran, but the Pentagon would not reduce the price and is planning to bring two of the ships back to the United States.

Delta Queen Turned Into Mail Carrier

CINCINNATI (UPI) — The Delta Queen, one of the last operative paddle-wheel steamboats, will churn the waters of the Ohio and Mississippi Rivers with a new purpose. The riverboat will serve as a mail carrier.

Postmaster William M. Blount, by special order, put the Delta Queen into the mail delivery business. The riverboat will shuttle between here and New Orleans carrying mail until Nov. 11., making stops at many riverfront cities.

The Court System To Be Viewed

"Our Marin Courts: How Can We Improve Them?" will be the topic of a panel discussion at a luncheon meeting to be sponsored by the San Rafael Chamber of Commerce Court Watchers on Oct. 20.

The noon luncheon will be at the Holiday Inn in San Rafael.

Panelists will include Peter Allen Smith, presiding judge of Marin Municipal Court; Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales; Asst. Public Defender Buford L. Toney; County Probation Officer John W. Brewer and Lt. Albert Howenstein.

Samuel W. Gardiner, presiding judge of the superior court, has also been invited, according to the chamber.

The panelists will discuss such topics as causes for increased crime rate, plea bargaining and backlog of cases.

Mountanos Not Keen On Shield

A bullet-proof glass shield in a Marin County Hall of Justice courtroom would mean only added expense without any savings in security manpower, the board of supervisors will be told Tuesday.

Sheriff Louis P. Mountanos has found that even if the shield were installed, he could not reduce the number of men on duty at "sensitive" trials, County Administrator John F. Barrows said yesterday.

Last Tuesday, the supervisors voted 3-2 to install the shield, similar to the one used in San Francisco for the Soledad Brothers case. However, when Supervisor Michael Wornum joined Louis H. Baar and John F. McInnis in voting for the shield he said he would support the spending only if it resulted in manpower savings.

Mountanos's report may result in reversal of the board decision. Barrows had earlier recommended against the shield, which he said might cost up to $20,000.

Mountanos reported that the safety shield "acts only as a separation of the total number of individuals into two groups" in the courtroom, but that the same safety problems "would still exist," Barrows said.

SOVIETS

"The Chinese leadership ... is trying to shift the blame for the difficulties in the country onto external factors—the imaginary threat from the Soviet Union — and thus distract the attention of the Chinese people from acute domestic political problems," Tass said.

The Soviets also said the Chinese were attributing their cancellation of the Oct. 1 revolutionary day parade to the need for war preparations. Tass said this information came in news reports from Peking, but no report reaching Moscow supported it.

"According to journalistic circles in Peking," Tass said, "the calling off of the national day parade is explained to the country's population by references to the alleged threat to China on the northern frontiers, where an attack on Chinese territory is allegedly planned."

The Soviet agency concluded: "In short, this is nothing less than a new attempt to fan up anti-Soviet sentiments in the population and ... a campaign with the slogan 'prepare for War' is being activated."

The cancellation of the Oct. 1 parade and other unusual activities in China provoked worldwide speculation the nation is experiencing a major political crisis.

Much of the speculation has centered, without substantiation, on the possible ill-health or death of Chairman Mao Tsetung.

The Soviet commentary did not mention Mao nor did it elaborate on what the "grave developments" might me.

Dissolution Of Marriage Asked

The wife of former Sausalito Mayor Jan Paul Dyk has filed in Marin Superior Court for dissolution of their marriage.

According to the petition filed by Eugenia Benson Dyk, the couple was married Sept. 21, 1954, in Sausalito and separated Sept. 16, 1971. She cited irreconcilable differences.

Dyk, a steamship company executive with Holland-American Line in San Francisco, served on the Sausalito City Council from 1962 until 1970 and was mayor in 1964 and 1965.

Rogers Sees China Plan Going Well

UNITED NATIONS (UPI)—Secretary of State William P. Rogers said today "the momentum is going in our favor" for seating Communist China and retaining Nationalist China in the United Nations.

Rogers commented during a brief news conference after a morning call on U.N. Secretary General Thant and Adam Malik, president of the General Assembly.

Rogers said he was encouraged by the General Assembly vote Friday on the China issue. The assembly voted down, 65-47, an Albanian attempt to prevent a debate on the U.S. plan for seating the Peking government while preserving a seat for Nationalist China.

The vote, Rogers said, "has given us reason to be encouraged. The vote was larger than expected. I think the momentum is going in our favor."

The secretary of state also appraised his meeting Friday night with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko. He said "It was a particularly friendly meeting. There were no points on which there were strong differences."

Rogers added that the U.S. effort to find an interim Middle East agreement between Egypt and israel was still "quite alive."

Rogers acknowledged that the expulsion from London by the British government of 90 Soviet espionage agents might complicate the convening of a European Security conference sponsored by the Soviet Union.

U.S. sources, summing up Rogers' meeting with Gromyko Friday night, said that the Soviet official had given assurances that the Soviet Union would not interfere in U.S. efforts to reach a partial Middle East settlement.

INDO

South Vietnam.

Among the bases attacked was the American air base at Bien Hoa, 14 miles northeast of Saigon. Three 122mm rockets hit the base Friday night but none caused any damage or casualties. Phan Rangair base, 165 miles east-northeast of Saigon also came under fire.

Meanwhile, an American veteran of the Vietnam War tried to burn himself to death in the heart of Saigon tonight but was stopped by Vietnamese police.

The man was indentified as Raymond Dennis Crombie, 24, now an unemployed civilian. He was questioned by police for two hours and then taken to immigration authorities for deportation as soon as possible.

Crombie was reported wounded while serving in Vietnam in 1968, and police said he told them a brother now was serving in the war zone.

He had told police earlier another brother was killed in Vietnam. But police said Crombie appeared confused and gave contradictory statements.

Reagan Has Busy Tax Reform Week

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —Gov. Ronald Reagan has cancelled nearly all of his schedule next week to free him to negotiate with legislators over tax reform.

The schedule included a speech to the International Police Chiefs' Association Monday in Anaheim.

The Republican governor is trying to nail down a tax reform compromise plan before he leaves Oct. 8 with his family and key staff members on a two-week goodwill trip to Asia.

Accident Victim Is Reported As Fair

A 33-year-old Petaluma woman was reported in fair condition today at Hillcrest Hospital with burns of the hands and legs received yesterday in a one-car crash on Highway 101, one mile north of the Washington Street overpass in Petaluma.

The California Highway Patrol said Carolyn A. Moreda of 716 Elm Drive was southbound on the freeway about 10 a.m. when her auto ran off the road into a field, overturned and burst into flames. The car was a total loss, officers said.

Many Turn Out

STERLING HEIGHTS, Mich. (UPI)—A grandmother, 68, was the first one to show up at a free course on the basics of cars. Next came a secretary, secretary, 20, wearing a Universitq of Michigan sweatshirt. By the time the class started about 25 women were present —and just two or three men.

BLACK

the judiciary was that of giving force and effect to constitutional liberties. In his judicial life, he did exactly that—with such independence, tenacity and total integrity of mind that his imprint on the Court and on our nation will be indelible.

"His faith in the United States Constitution was absolute and so his convictions were rooted absolutely.

"Mrs. Nixon and I join the nation in mourning at the death of this noble American."

Chief Justice Warren E. Burger said Black's death removes from the scene "one of the authentic legal philosophers of our time. He will be sorely missed, not only on the Court, but in American life."

Funeral arrangements were incomplete.

During his 34 years on the nation's highest tribunal, Black probably did more than any other justice to influence the court in cases that led to broad social change.

He was an ardent defender of civil liberties and civil rights, from freedom of religion to freedom of speech and the press. He fought perpetually — and often won —his arguments that the first Amendment could never be compromised and that the 14th Amendment required every state to follow the entire Bill of Rights.

For Black, the U.S. Constitution was his Bible and he always carried a copy of it in his pocket. When he had to explain one of his many unpopular decisions, he frequently replied: "The court didn't do it. The Constitution did."

Perhaps his most notable actions were his ruling barring prayers in public schools and two dissents, both of which later became the law of the land. One required states to provide all indigent criminal defendants with a lawyer and the other ordered equal apportionment of state legislatures. Black's term on the Supreme Court was the third longest in history. His retirement was followed last Thursday by that of Justice John Marshall Harlan, 72, whose physician said he was suffering from spinal cancer.

The departure of the two men gives President Nixon a further opportunity to reshape the court. He already has appointed Chief Justice Warren E. Burger and Associate Justice Harry A. Blackmun. Two other nominations, of Clement F. Haynesworth Jr. and G. Harrold Carswell, were rejected by the Senate.

There has been speculation, part of it inspired by the President himself, that one of the two vacancies might be filled with a woman for the first time in history.

Black's condition worsened steadily after he suffered the stroke last Sunday.

Group Is Against Transfers

A group called the Marin Citizens Concerned About San Quentin is opposing a recommendation made by the board of supervisors that more violent and hardened criminals be transferred from the prison.

The supervisors had quickly agreed to a suggestion made recently by Asst. Dist. Atty. Gary W. Thomas (crippled since being wounded in the August 1970 shoot-out) that San Quentin be made into a minimum security prison.

"Such action is an attempt to shove the problem onto others and is divisive of the mutual concern of the people in all California counties," the citizens group said.

Instead, the group called for "an independent investigation of San Quentin Prison, an end to the terror against prisoners and that changes be made at the prison based on the conclusions based on an independent probe."

Boy Reported In Satisfactory Condition

A 7-year-old San Anselmo boy was reported in satisfactory condition today at Marin General Hospital with head injuries received Thursday when his bicycle collided with an auto on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard.

San Anselmo police said Michael Burke of 142 Barber Avenue was injured about 3 p.m. when he crossed the boulevard against the red light and collided with an auto driven by Kenneth J. Barnes, 20, of 4 Norma Court, Novato.

Clean Summer Air

NEW YORK (UPI)—New York City enjoyed the cleanest air this summer of any summer since such records have been kept, the Department of Air Resources reported Friday.

OBITUARIES

Hans C. Nissen Dies At 74

Hans C. Nissen of Cotati, former poultry ranch owner and manager of the community's Veterans Memorial Building, died yesterday in a Sonoma County hospital after collapsing at his home. He was 74.

A native of Denmark, he came to this country in 1923. After a brief stay in Idaho, he moved to Watsonville, Santa Cruz County, where he owned and operated a poultry ranch. He came to Sonoma County in 1945 and resided at 9615 Lau Lane.

After retiring from the poultry business, Nissen worked as manager of the Cotati Veterans Memorial building from 1963 until his death. He also operated a catering business with his wife, Jeanette.

Nissen, who served with the Navy during World War II, was a past commander of the Cotati American Legion and a member of the Cotati Veterans of Foreign Wars. He was past president of the Danish Brotherhood of Petaluma, a deacon of the Penngrove Community Church and a member of the Independent Order of Oddfellows, Petaluma Lodge 30.

In addition to his wife, Nissen is survived by three sons, Paul and Chris Nissen, both of Cotati, and Art Nissen of Honolulu, and a daughter, Mrs. Muriel Lumry of Redwood City. Other survivors include three grandchildren and two sisters and two brothers in Denmark.

Funeral will be at 11 a.m. Tuesday at Sorensen's funeral home in Petaluma. Burial will be in Cypress Hills Memorial Park, Petaluma.

MARGUERITE BAKER

Memorial service for Marguerite E. Baker of 52 Piedmont Road, Larkspur, will be at 7:30 p.m. Monday at Holy Innocents Episcopal Church in Corte Madera.

She died tuesday at a local convalescent hospital after a long illness. A native of Florida, she had lived in Marin 28 years.

Before retiring several years ago, she worked for the state of California as a clerk for 20 years. She was a member of the Vendanta Society in San Francisco.

There are no known survivors.

NIXON

Walla, Wash., to inspect the Hanford Atomic reactor plant, and then on to Alaska for his visit with Hirohito in a pink-carpeted, velvet-lined U.S. Air Force hangar.

It was a goodwill tour for Nixon in many ways. The visit with Hirohito at the start of the emperor's first trip abroad was intended to soothe Japanese feelings hurt by Nixon's new policies on mainland China and the world trade.

Nixon plans to visit China before next May, and one of the Communist government's biggest fears in Peking has been the growing strength of Japan since World War II. Nixon's economic strategy was intended in part to strengthen the United States' trading situation in the light of sharply rising imports from Japan.

While in Anchorage, Nixon was invited to a reception at the home of Walter J. Hickel, whom he fired as secretary of the interior on Thanksgiving eve last year.

Presidential speechwriter William Safire told several newsmen he had been tipped that Mansfield threatened to cut off campaign funds to any Democratic senator who did not support the Mansfield antiwar amendment on the draft bill. Democrats angrily denied it.

But Nixon was not expected to discuss publicly at least one controversial subject —whether the United States will go ahead with plans for an underground nuclear test at Amchitka in the Aleutian Islands.

Hamilton Set Sale Of Surplus Good

The surplus property sales office at Hamilton Air Force Base has announced that office machines, books, hand tools, hardware and photographic equipment are available for sale by sealed bid.

Items can be inspected at the base weekdays 8 a.m. to 3 p.m., until Oct. 6. Bids will be opened at 10 a.m. Oct 6 at the defense supply sales office, building 502, Naval Supply Center, Oakland.

EDNA KILLIAN

Requiem Mass for Edna Barry Killian of Mountain View, former Marin resident, will be celebrated Monday at 10:30 a.m. at St. Simon's Church, Los Altos.

Mrs. Killian died yesterday in a Santa Clara County hospital after a long illness. She was 60.

She was born in San Francisco and lived in the Yolanda area of San Anselmo for 25 years before moving to Mountain View in 1950. She was a graduate of Tamalpais High School.

While in San Anselmo, she did clerical work for the San Francisco News.

Mrs. Killian is survived by her husband, Frank Killian; two daughters, Patricia Haworth of Saratoga and Sandra Duller of Los Altos; a son, Jack Killian of San Jose; two sisters, Clarre Nilsen of San Anselmo and Marcella Jones of Novato, and five grandchildren.

Rosary will be said tomorrow at 8:30 p.m. at Spanglers Funeral Home in Los Altos.

Hub Board Hears Good Fund News

The San Anselmo School District board has been told the district will not lose any state aid this year but may during fiscal 1972-73.

According to Supt. W. Kenneth Lowry, a decrease in student enrollment this year will not be felt financially until next year since state aid to the district is based on the previous year's enrollment.

Trustee Mary Helen Olive earlier had expressed concern that the loss of students may cost the district more than $40,000 in revenue this year.

The board met Thursday to review its financial position.

A proposal that one teaching position be dropped or cuts made elsewhere in the budget to free revenue for emergency use will be considered at the board's Oct. 5 meeting.

The board also will meet Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. at Red Hill School to discuss with a panel of speakers the role and responsibilities of public education.

Glamorous Future Ahead For Ship

By STEVE SWENSON

One might expect a pornographic film maker to buy a large boat or yacht complete with expensive red carpet, wood paneling, a shining hull and a plush interior.

But San Rafael film maker Alex de Renzy, who has produced thousands of short skinflicks and a feature length film, "Pornography in Denmark," has recently bought a 185-foot Navy vessel that has about as much whoopee as a manhole cover.

The ship with a Navy flavor of hard grey steel was purchased by de Renzy in June for the meager sum of $41,500 (boats over 60 feet usually sell for a minimum of $1,000 per foot). However, de Renzy said, it has cost about another $40,000 so far to get it running and to begin refurbishing it.

The Marysville was built in 1944 by Pullman Car Co. of Chicago at a cost of $1.2 million. De Renzy said he was able to buy it for less because of depreciation and, because, among other things, the Navy took all the toilets out.

Now that the 36-year old movie maker has a 640-ton former Navy rescue ship, what does he intend to do with it?

De Renzy said he is not quite sure. "I don't plan my life more than six months ahead and right now the ship is just a project for me to have something to do."

He did say is is planning a trip around November to Acapulco, and he wants to make a documentary film on the boat. He said he hasn't had much time to develop an idea for the film because he is currently working on another film called "Weed," a non erotic study of marijuana around the world, from Mexican fields, to Nepal hashsish shops and people in prisons.

De Renzy along with his wife, Christine, and 10-month old daughter, Cheryl, spends many hours on the ship with a crew of 16 men and women. The crew is setting about painting the vessel white and the decks blue, tuning up the huge engines, decorating the interior and making it livable for people not used to the rigors of Navy life. He said 100 people could live comfortably on the Marysville.

The ship is now anchored off Paradise Cove on the Tiburon pennisula although de Renzy said he will anchor the boat in different spots because "we don't want to wear out our welcome and we don't want to bother people."

De Renzy said about 1,000 hours worth of work will be needed to get the ship in shape. Already things are beginning to get more civilian as the captain sailed it from San Diego to Sausalito and de Renzy said he was very satisfied with the sturdiness and sailing of the boat.

Sex films and former ownership of the Screening Room blue movie theatre in San Francisco have caused de Renzy legal hassles that have put him in and out of courts.

This week he is involved in a trial in San Francisco Municipal Court, charged with four counts of showing obscene movies in the theatre, even though he contends he leased it to another company last year.

ALEX de RENZY
The ship's master

and the officers' quarters are nicely arranged with double and single beds, television sets, good size bathrooms, rugs, dressers and closets.

Empty gun decks and other steel appendages which get in the way of a shuffleboard game will be removed from the decks de Renzy said.

A tour through the interior of the six-deck ship resembles a walk through a submarine because there are no portholes below the third deck. Walking through oval-shaped doors and climbing down steep steps, one looks into a beehive of rooms.

The narrow corridors dimly lit with red lights lead one to two huge engine rooms which vibrate the coffee cups on the tables in the mess hall above.

Contrasted with the dreariness still in most of the rooms on the ship, the mess hall has bright orange and padded seats stretching along the wall and shining white tables.

The Marysville was the last ship of its type built for the Navy, de Renzy said. During the last part of World War II and the Korean War, it used its several guns and depth charges for escort and rescue missions.

After the wars, it was based in San Diego and used for oceanic research for the Naval Electronics Laboratory. The Navy has since built new vessels to replace ships like the "Marysville" which in July, 1970, was the last one of its kind to be decommissioned.

De Renzy who said he comes from a long line of river and sea captains wanted to buy a big boat to use in film making. He said he was impressed with a 125-foot ship a friend of his bought from the Navy. He said his friend told him how much to bid for the Marysville.

He mailed in his sealed bid and found out in June that the ship was his. He gives the impression there isn't anything at all extraordinary about a private individual buying a boat three times the size of a large yacht.

While there is a certain restrained excitement about his new ship, de Renzy casually comments, "Well, it's a little big."

State Looks At Prison Security

By CARL INGRAM

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Prison guards yesterday proposed locking up all potentially revolutionary and violent convicts in an isolated maximum security penitentiary but state Corrections Director Raymond Procunier dismissed the idea as "inconceivable."

At the same time, the California State Employes Association called for construction of a new $50 million prison in San Diego County to house and treat inmates needing psychiatric care.

The two proposals were handed the state Board of Corrections, which launched an investigation into security and safety precautions at California prisons in the wake of violence last month at San Quentin where three guards and three inmates were killed.

A third proposal by the Teamsters Union called for the board to immediately lobby the legislature and Gov. Ronald Reagan for vast sums of money to hire more guards and beef up safety procedures at prisons.

Arnold Thompson, a San Quentin guard and vice president of the California Correctional Officers Association, proposed establishing a single prison where the inmates with "high violence potential" and "militant revolutionaries" would be kept.

"The militant revolutionary type inmates should be isolated from the rest of the prison population," Thompson told the board, suggesting that the California Medical Facility at Vacaville could house them.

But Procunier, who rose from the guard ranks to direct the California prison system, told the board such a proposal was unworkable.

"It's inconceivable to me to segregate completely all the troublemakers and deal with them," he said. "It's impossible. People have to be dealt with."

Thompson said it would be a simple matter to identify such convicts because "correctional officers know their names and their numbers. They are well known."

But Procunier insisted that identifying potential troublemakers "is the whole problem; identifying a man before he does something."

He said "the solution is to have as many of these kinds of persons under tight control and at the same time have an overlay of psychiatric care and try to work with them."

Board member Michael Canlis, sheriff of San Joaquin County, asked Thompson whether guards should carry "tranquilizing" equipment to headoff violence before it starts.

"No, sir, we're not qualified on the medicine part," he replied.

The idea of guards "tranquilizing" inmates also was brushed aside by Barney Apfel, secretary and business manager of Teamsters Local 960 in San Francisco which includes prisons guards as members.

"I don't know anything about tranquilizers," he said. "Teamsters know a little muscle and a punch in the jaw gets the job done."

Both Apfel and Loren Smith, general manager of the 116,000-member California State Employes Association, appealed to the board to lobby Reagan and the Legislature for more money for prisons, salaries, personnel and fringe benefits.

Smith said $50 million should be appropriated this year to start construction of the proposed Otay Mesa prison in San Diego County, a project long on the drawing boards. Land for a prison site already has been purchased.

He said the new prison would concentrate mainly on care and treatment of those convicts most in need of psychiatric care. He proposed using the existing California Men's Colony at San Luis Obispo as a temporary psychiatric facility until Otay Mesa was built.

Procunier last week proposed hiring 403 more employees for the prisons this year, including 318 guards. The CSEA repeated its call for hiring 441 more workers, including 344 additional guards.

The employee group also called for a 21 per cent pay increase for guards, personal alarm devices, and expanded retirement and fringe benefits.

Youth Commission To Begin Newspaper

The Marin County Youth Commission has voted to start a countywide youth newspaper in an attempt to improve communication among high school students in the county.

The commission, meeting Thursday night, appointed Ann Duggan of Terra Linda High School and Brad Craig of Sir Francis Drake High School to an editorial committee for the paper, to be called Free Youth News. Marla Koss of Novato, a student at College of Marin, also will be a member of the editorial committee.

The committee will review articles submitted to them and decide which ones will be published.

Next meeting of the committee is set for 4 p.m. Tuesday at the Planned Parenthood office, 710 C Street, San Rafael.

L. Charles Smith, youth coordinator, said articles will be submitted by each of the county's high schools. "We also hope to involve youth service agencies so that their services can be publicized," he said.

"We need articles from youths or adults," said Smith. "We also need people to work on the paper and distribute them on campuses. We need especially the use of an offset press at reduced rate."

The Marin County Youth Commission also:

EXPENSES Decided to ask the board of supervisors permission to use operating funds to reimburse commissioners' out-of-pocket expenses in carrying out commission activities.

LEGISLATION — Supported Sen. Peter H. Behr's bill (SB 265) to establish a statewide bicycle path system, and assemblyman March K. Fong's bill that would include information about venereal disease in sex education courses in schools without parental consent.

PAKISTAN RELIEF — Appointed Paul Cohen and Brad Craig as co-chairmen to campaign for Pakistan relief funds at various high schools. The campaign thus far has raised $70 from churches and the business community.

NEXT MEETING — Set the next meeting for 4 p.m. Oct. 7 at the Civic Center.

State Funds To Be Considered

The Kentfield School District board, meeting Monday at 8 p.m. at Wolfe Grade School, will consider a staff recommendation that it apply for state funds for a new program for mentally retarded students.

Under a new law, the district could acquire up to $13,000 a year for the program, aimed at integrating mentally retarded children into regular classes.

The district staff has recommended it be tried first with one student and a part-time teacher.

She's Thin Enough After Crash Diet

SYDNEY (UPI)—An English woman refused permission to immigrate to Australia because she was overweight arrived in Sydney today 147 pounds slimmer after a crash diet.

Mavis Holden, 31, from Kearsley, near Manchester, was refused a visa by the Australian immigration department in London because officials said she was too big a health risk at 270 pounds. Mrs. Holden joined a weight reducing club and lost 147 pounds in 12 months.

Innocent Plea To Pot Charge

Kenneth Keith Wynns, 23, of Novato, has pleaded innocent in Marin Municipal Court to misdemeanor charges of possessing marijuana and drunken driving.

His case was continued until Tuesday for setting of a trial date.

Wynns was arrested Sept. 11 on Grant Avenue in Novato. Police said they found marijuana in his pocket.

Indians grew squash in their gardens long before Columbus arrived in North America.

SWEEPING VIEW

Of the Valley, Sausalito & San Francisco. We have an exciting typical Mill Valley home in a best weather area. Altho it has 3 plus bedrooms, 3 baths, a large formal dining room, it's just a bit different. One of the bedrooms and one bath are on the lower level, ideal for a maid, or an in-law or teen-ager. Let us show this $77,500 charmer.

LOVELY IMMACULATE HOME

We have one for sale with an asking price of $44,950. This would be a great rental at $375 per month or a total of $4,500 a year. Buy why rent? We can obtain an 80% loan & the owner will carry back a 10% second, if needed. So with 10% down plus closing costs, this home can be yours to buy instead of to rent. After the down payment is made, & buyer takes title, the monthly payments on the loan & taxes will be approximately $383 a month, almost all of which is tax deductible. 3 bdrms., 2 baths, family room, all in excellent condition.

A MOST CONVENIENT LOCATION

For this 3 bedrooms, 1½ bath home with an asking price of $34,500. This home also has a formal dining room, electric kitchen, plus an interesting level backyard. Why not ask to see it!

Legal Notice

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING BY THE BOARD OF DIRECTORS OF NORTH MARIN COUNTY WATER DISTRICT

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that on August 17, 1971, the Board of Directors of North Marin County Water District duly and regularly adopted the following resolution:

RESOLUTION NO. 901

A RESOLUTION OF THE BOARD OF DIRECTORS OF NORTH MARIN COUNTY WATER DISTRICT DECLARING THE NECESSITY FOR INCURRING A BONDED INDEBTEDNESS, STATING THE PURPOSE OF THE DEBT AND THE AMOUNT THEREOF AND FIXING THE TIME AND PLACE OF A HEARING BY THE BOARD ON THE QUESTION OF WHETHER THE WHOLE OR ONLY A PORTION OF THE DISTRICT WILL BE BENEFITED BY THE ACCOMPLISHMENT OF THE PURPOSE AND IF ONLY A PORTION OF THE DISTRICT WILL BE BENEFITED WHAT PORTION WILL BE SO BENEFITED.

BE IT RESOLVED by the Board of Directors of North Marin County Water District in regular meeting assembled this 17th day of August, 1971, as follows:

1. This Board hereby declares that it is necessary for the District to incur an indebtedness by the issuance of general obligation bonds in order to provide water service for domestic, commercial, industrial and other beneficial uses on lands within the District.

2. The purpose for which the proposed indebtedness is to be incurred is to provide financing for the North Marin County Water District's portion of the costs incurred by Sonoma County Water Agency for importing supplemental water supplies from the Russian River to the North Marin County Water District, including all costs and estimated costs incidental to or connected with the acquisition, construction, improving and financing of said project, and including all engineering, inspection, legal and fiscal agents fees, costs of the bond election and of the issuance of said bonds and bond interest estimated to accrue during the construction period and for a period not to exceed 12 months after completion of construction.

3. The amount of the proposed debt is the sum of $1,600,000. (one million, six hundred thousand dollars).

4. This Board of Directors hereby fixes Wednesday, the 8th day of September, 1971, at the hour of 8:00 P.M., PSDT, at the offices of this District at 999 Atherton Avenue, in the City of Novato, County of Marin, State of California, as the time and place for a public hearing by this Board of Directors on the questions:

(a) Will the whole or only a portion of North Marin County Water District be benefited by the accomplishment of the aforementioned purpose?

(b) If only a portion of said District will be benefited what portion will be so benefited?

5. It is the present intention of this Board of Directors, subject to the determination to be made at said hearing, to exclude from any improvement district to be formed which describes the area to be benefited by said indebtedness all portions of North Marin County Water District located in the western part of Marin County, being those territories denominated Annexations 2, 3, 5, 6, 7, and 8 and known as Olema, Point Reyes Station, Inverness Park, Oceana Marin, and the territories of North Marin County Water District on the east shore of Tomales Bay.

6. If this Board of Directors cannot hear all interested persons desiring to be heard at the time and place aforementioned said hearing may be continued from day to day until all such persons shall be heard.

7. The Secretary of this District be, and he hereby is, authorized and directed to cause a notice of the aforementioned hearing together with a copy of this resolution to be published in the Novato Advance, a newspaper of general circulation printed and published within the District, for at least two weeks before the time fixed for the hearing and in the manner prescribed by law.

FURTHER NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the public hearing referred to in the foregoing resolution will be held at the time and place specified in the resolution, that is, at the hour of 8:00 P.M., PDST, on Wednesday, September 8, 1971, at the office of said District at 999 Atherton Avenue, City of Novato, County of Marin, State of California. At that time and place any person interested, including all persons owning property in the District, will be heard upon the questions stated in the resolution.

Dated: August 18, 1971

BY ORDER OF THE BOARD OF DIRECTORS OF NORTH MARIN COUNTY WATER DISTRICT

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Dissolving Of Kidney Stones Depends On Chemical Makeup

Is it possible to dissolve urinary stones? The answer depends on their chemical composition. Uric acid stones, for example, develop mainly in persons with gout. The victim has too much uric acid in his blood and tissues and the excess is eliminated through the kidneys.

Additional amounts of uric acid are excreted when antigout remedies are taken. When the crystals become too highly concentrated in the urine, they are likely to stick together and form a stone. Urinary acidity also plays a role. Stone formation is avoided by drinking plenty of fluids (four quarts a day) and taking an alkali, such as a citric acid sodium citrate mixture (Polycitra). For this reason every gout sufferer should drink ample fluids.

Several years ago allopurinol was introduced for the treatment of gout. It prevents the formation of uric acid and also tends to dissolve the urate crystals in the tissues and the uric acid stones in the kidneys.

CYSTINE STONES develop in 25 per cent of those with cystinuria, an hereditary disorder. The urine of these individuals contains 10 to 50 times as much of the chemical, cystine, as does normal urine. Those with cystinuria should drink large amounts of fluid and take alkalies.

Cystine (and also uric acid) stone formers will cease to make stones by following this procedure. In addition, the existing stones will not increase in size and those present often dissolve.

Large cystine stones also respond to penicillamine. This product may have some deleterious effects and consequently is used only for short periods of time.

AT PRESENT, there is no way to dissolve calcium oxalate and phosphate stones. This is unfortunate because they are the most common urinary calculi. Prevention involves treating the cause, drinking plenty of water and the use of thiazide siuretics and phosphate salts. Stones associated with urinary infections are held in abeyance with antiseptics and antibiotics.

NAGGING — TWO-EDGED SWORD

K. W. writes: I've read several articles in which physicians accuse many wives of "killing their husband unintentionally but efficiently" by nagging. Perhaps some wives become naggers intentionally so the husbands will get a coronary. In this way they can embark on another matrimonial venture, spend the insurance money, or enjoy single blessedness.

REPLY

The man who is said to be nagged to death probably had so many faults that his bad habits killed him, rather than his wife. But nagging works both ways. Some men would say: "I've had enough" — and wham. The Casper Milquetoast might say: "Yes, dear," and let it go in one ear and out the other.

HEART SYMPTOMS

R. D. writes: I'm weak and short of breath and the diagnosis is cardiac embarrassment. Does this mean heart trouble?

REPLY

Possibly, in that these symptoms develop when the heart fails to function properly. But weakness and shortness of breath also develop in severe anemia, malnutrition, nervousness and fatigue from too much work or too little sleep.

Today's Health Hint — Never give nuts to a toddler under the age of 2 because he may choke on them.

STARS ABOVE

Aquila The Eagle Has Double Star

By SHERMAN WALKER

The constellation that is crossing the local meridian at about 9 p.m. these evenings is Aquila or the Eagle. When it is crossing the meridian, it is nearest to overhead. Aquila has one first-magnitude star, Alpha Aquilae, which also carries the Arabian name of Altair. The other stars of the figure are of third, fourth and fifth magnitude.

Altair has a star on each side of it, Beta and Gamma, about the same distance away, somewhat like the stars on each side of Antares in Scorpius. Or it is like the belt of Orion, except that in the belt the stars are more nearly the same brightness.

To locate the Eagle in the sky, face southward at 9 p.m. and look at the region that is two-thirds of the distance up from the southern horizon to overhead.

The celestial equator, which is the plane of the earth's equator extended until it apparently touches the sky, passes through Aquila. The constellation is an aid to the casual observer in locating the sky equator.

Altair is a double star having a faint 10th magnitude companion. North of Altair, Gamma Aquilae or Tarazed is a third magnitude star of golden-yellowish color. The star south of Altair is Beta Aquilae or Alschain. It is orange-colored and of fourth magnitude.

No Complaint Filed As Yet

No complaint has been filed in Marin Municipal Court against James Edward Ireland, 20, of San Rafael, who was arrested Sept. 15 on suspicion of possessing narcotics.

The district attorney's office said no complaint would be filed pending further investigation.

Christian Scientist Will Give Lecture

Gordon F. Campbell, a Christian Science lecturer from Santa Monica, will speak at 8 p.m. Wednesday at the First Church of Christ Scientist in Mill Valley.

His lecture is titled, "Why Put Up With Fear?" and is being sponsored by the Mill Valley church.

Lick Observatory Official Will Talk

Dr. Josehh Miller of the Lick Observatory in Santa Cruz will address the Star Observers of Marin Thursday at 8 p.m. at Civic Center.

According to Melvin Beck, secretary to the 18-member organization, Miller will speak on the "Electronic Revolution in Astronomy." The meeting will be in the supervisors' chambers.

Housing, Jobs Help Avert Student Unrest

HARD CORE CAMPUS radicals are now well known to all.

We have read often about these militant perpetrators of violence. We have seen their pictures in our newspapers over and over. We have seen them on TV ad nauseum.

We are familiar with their polemics and their four-letter rhetoric.

We are thoroughly fed up with them.

Unfortunately, we have been so thoroughly exposed to their repugnancies that some of us tend to forget the grubby TV demonstrators are but a small minority of the totality of our college students.

One might say that the grubby few have given college students a "bad press" or "bad image" undeservedly.

AT SONOMA STATE College, the student housing situation and lack of part-time jobs for students are more grievous than conditions which have led to violent confrontations elsewhere.

However, I-J reporter Bonnie Bard's front-page story earlier this week made it clear that most Sonoma State students appear, so far, to be making the best of the bad situation in good humor.

Mrs. Bard reported that both the student employment director and the student housing director described applicants for jobs and housing as "not choosy."

In short, they are mostly glad to take what they can get, working in some cases for substandard wages and in some instances paying exorbitant rents.

THE HOUSING DIRECTOR says he is angry and frustrated by the situation.

This should be a warning to employers and landlords in the vicinity of Sonoma State College.

Students, like any other humans, cannot be expected to long endure such conditions amidst our affluent society. The student inclination to question the sanctity of the establishment can easily be steered by radicals into bitter attacks.

We must not let the Isla Vista explosion be duplicated at Rohnert Park and Cotati.

UNDER CONSTRUCTION on campus are 400 new student dwelling units. Four hundred isn't a drop in the bucket compared to what's needed. Further, the 400 will not be ready for occupancy until this time next year.

Those in a position to influence community action to provide more part-time jobs and better housing at more reasonable prices for students had better get off the dime.

City and county officials, chambers of commerce and real estate boards had better wake up and get busy before they find a new Isla Vista in their front yard.

A person can endure all sorts of hardship good naturedly if he believes help is on the way . . . that things will soon get better. But if he thinks there is no hope, watch out!

ONE OF THE FIRST out-of-state male students to enroll at Dominican College in San Rafael this fall understandably had a problem finding housing. The only thing the student housing office could find for him was a room in a private home near the campus where, in consideration for lower rent, the student would be expected to do babysitting and help with the housework.

The young man seeking housing, understandably, passed up the proposition, at first. After a day or two of reflection, he appeared at the student housing office to announce he was quite agreeable. After all, he explained, at home he had been a babysitter for younger brothers and sisters and he had always "helped around the house."

Bully for that young man! It is a good bet that he will succeed in college and go far in life. Bully for all the students who approach their job and housing problems at college with the same attitude!

But the rest of us must not make the mistake of thinking the problem is solved; that we have no problem; or that is not our problem but someone else's.

That was the Isla Vista attitude which led to violence and destruction.

We must not be so blind as to require violence and destruction to awaken us.

—Jack Craemer

Bouquets And Brickbats

BOUQUET to Robert E. Marcucci on his appointment as San Rafael fire chief. "Bob" is in position to carry on a family tradition in the footsteps of his father, the late Nello Marcucci, longtime fire chief of San Anselmo — who wisely advised his son to join the San Rafael department rather than have accusations of nepotism perhaps hamper his advancement in the San Anselmo Fire Department.

And while bouquets are going to fire fighters, a BOUQUET to the Kentfield Fire Department for promptly pumping water out of the flooded home of Mrs. Walter Zwieg on Woodland Road when she discovered a pipe break on a Saturday and found that getting a plumber on the job was a long-wait proposition.

BRICKBATS to factions in Sausalito (and its school district) who seem unable to deal with each other on a simple man-to-man basis and must turn each difference of opinion into a confrontation.

Wrong Amendment Printed In Letter

Thank you for publishing my letter concerning "mundialization" and the Constitution, but I would very much appreciate your further noting that I referred to the XIVth (14th) Amendment and not to the 5th Amendment as the published letter reads.

I haven't received any complaints yet but I'm sure that there is some fellow Constitution-lover out there wondering if I've lost my marbles.

Strange Performance By Tiburon Council

The Tiburon City Council has recently been acting in a manner which can only be described as "strange".

At their meeting on Monday night, the Tiburon City Council capped their recent performance by going into closed session and emerging with the announcement that they would put off condemning a 6.7-acre parcel of land in the Strawberry Cove area. The "strange" part of this entire performance is that the City of Tiburon has no jurisdiction at this time over this parcel of property. Perhaps the city council, along with their "strangeness," has acquired the gift of prophecy. However, it would seem that until such time as the council has the legal authority to act in regard to Strawberry Cove they could put off any official actions and possibly stick to "hopeful" statements, which are allowed.

The City Council of Tiburon has many other things that they could do to more usefully occupy their time.

School Class Barred From Watching Trial

It appears that the overriding concern for courtroom security at the Marin County Civic Center has had the unfortunate effect of endangering the existence of the public trial in this county. A small class of students from Mewah Mountain High School in Corte Madera, accompanied by their teacher, visited the Civic Center today, intending to sit in the courtroom during a criminal trial proceeding as a part of their study of the workings of government.

In attempting to reach the courtroom, we were repeatedly asked our "business" in the case by the sheriff's security men, and were finally told that we were not allowed in the courtroom until after the defendant was brought in. We returned at the suggested time to seek entry to be informed that we could not be admitted because the proceedings had already begun, and again later only to be told that the court had recessed. Throughout the episode it appeared that as members of the public without personal concern in this case, we were not welcome.

I and the students in my class feel that we learned a great deal about the workings of government from the incident, although it was not the lesson we had expected.

Secret Politicians Don't Know: What It's Like On School Bus

WASHINGTON — Many politicians talk about school busing, but it is doubtful that any of them has ever ridden on one under actual combat conditions.

Only those who have been on a school bus mission know what busing is all about.

I once took a school bus ride from St. Germain-en-Laye to Paris years ago, and to this day whenever the climate gets damp, my wounds start to ache.

This is what happened:

IT SEEMS THAT a group of American mothers who lived in the suburbs of Paris discovered there was no bus to take their children to the American school in town. So they went out and rented one, which would pick up the students in the morning and bring them home in the afternoon.

The first year they tried it without chaperones, and so many bus drivers quit that the bus company said they wouldn't rent them another bus again unless an adult other than the bus driver accompanied the children.

At first the mothers tried to hire chaperones, but they couldn't take it, so finally it was decided a different mother would ride the bus each day, trying to maintain some semblance of order. To give them a certain esprit de corps they called themselves the Mother Riders of School Bus No. 5.

AS A YOUNG newspaperman on the Paris Herald Tribune, I was always volunteering for dangerous assignments, and when the editor of the paper asked for someone to write a story about what it was like to ride an American school bus in Paris, I asked to go on the mission.

The Mother of the Day was a Mrs. Richard Edelstein, whose husband worked for Paramount Pictures. She had ridden No. 5 six times, which she told me was the equivalent of 50 bombing raids over Dusseldorf during World War II.

We picked up our charges, about 35 girls and boys at 3:15. The bus was fairly quiet when we first started off because most of the students thought I was a detective who had been hired by the parents to keep them in line. (This was a possibility because the school had gone through four bus drivers in five months, and the mothers had threatened to hire a detective after the last driver had slipped on a banana peel on the steps of the bus and broken his back.)

But when they found I was nothing more than a reporter, the wraps were off. The students in the back of the bus started hitting the students in front of them with their school books. The injured retaliated by swinging their lunch boxes at the attackers' heads. Mrs. Edelstein went back to break it up when a boy in the front produced a live frog, which he dropped down a 12-year-old girl's dress.

Her screams brought Mrs. Edelstein to the front of the bus, which gave the students in the middle an opportunity to kick the ones sitting in front of them.

A FIRE BASE for spitballs had been set up in the last row, which was targeted in on the bus driver, who like all French drivers, was barreling through the narrow streets of Paris at 60 miles an hour.

Every 10 minutes the bus screeched to a halt to discharge some human cargo, which gave the other riders a chance to throw orange peels at pedestrians.

Mrs. Edelstein walked up and down the bus, first threatening, then offering bribes of candy, and finally making the driver stop until all her charges had quieted down.

Miraculously we had arrived at the end of the line with no serious casualties. The only one shaken by the trip, besides myself, was the bus driver.

Mrs. Edelstein, who eventually was voted Mother Rider of the Year with an oak leaf cluster, told me, "If you think this was bad, you should have ridden with me through the Bois de Boulogne last week."

Tough-Minded Interior Secretary Faces Crucial Alaska Decision

WASHINGTON — Within the vast domain of the Department of Interior — 70,000 employees — are the sensitive issues that send conservationists charging into the courts and even on occasion into the streets. The new head man at interior, Rogers C. B. Morton, is coming to a decision that will infuriate either the conservationists or the powerful oil interests that have been so cozy with the Nixon administration.

With a deadline at the end of two months, Morton must issue an environmental finding on the proposed oil pipe line in Alaska. It is a crucial decision. Already conservationists have filed three suits in federal courts to prevent construction of the 789-mile line.

IT SEEMS HARDLY credible that Morton could rule against the oil companies that have been impatiently waiting with vast stores of steel pipe at Prudhoe Bay on the north slope. The need for new sources of oil in view of the nation's growing shortage of energy and the rise of price initiated by oil-producing countries provide objective reasons for a favorable finding.

Yet Morton has an independence of mind that has often been shown. His temperament — salty, down to earth, with a strong sense of humor — matches his massive physique.

He showed his independence in a confrontation with the White House shortly after he took office at the end of January. Morton had found Interior in a shambles following the removal of Walter J. Hickel, who showed little interest in administration, and less ability, as he pursued his personal overweening ambitions. The new secretary wanted to make his own choices for the positions to be filled in his department.

But he was confronted by Office of Management and Budget Director George P. Schultz with a list of names that, according to Schultz, the President wanted appointed. These were, for the most part, political payoffs. Indebted to the White House, they would have reinforced the Nixon staffers in exercising remote control over policy decisions in the sprawling empire of Interior. Morton said no, he had his own list.

THIS WAS DISCLOSED initially by the last Democrat to serve as secretary of interior, Stewart Udall, who writes a newspaper column with Jeff Stansbury. They went so far as to say that Morton had served notice on Schultz after a second confrontation that the President would get his resignation in 24 hours if he could not make his own independent choices.

Morton denied that he ever considered resigning and in a letter to editors he spoke of the "fine working relationship with the President" that he continued to have as secretary of interior. The resignation report caused a flap, with Director of Communications Herbert Klein getting into the act.

In the appointments Morton went contrary to the trend in the Nixon Administration, which has been to downgrade career officers and replace them with political appointees. The new undersecretary, replacing Fred J. Russell who had been the principal manipulator for the White House, is William T. Pecora, a career officer who moved up from director of the Geological Survey to the No. 2 post. Other career officers have been made assistant secretaries with broad responsibility. Younger men, several with extensive conservation experience, have been brought into the department.

THE BIG TEST is still to come. Alaska is the last frontier, a storehouse of great natural beauty and of animals some of which are threatened with extinction, and at the same time a treasure trove of oil, minerals, riches still uncounted.

Will this treasure be so exploited as to reduce the last frontier to a shambles? The answer does not rest entirely with Morton. A bill expected to pass Congress would give the natives — Aleuts, Eskimos, Indians — a billion dollars and up to 50 million acres of land. Never has such a bonanza been held out, and the exploiters are already on the starting line. As the initial land grabs, the scandal of Teapot Dome, and innumerable lesser peccadilloes have shown Interior is strewn with political booby traps. Morton is cautiously trying to find his way through the mine fields.

Latin Americans Solidly Opposed To Import Surcharge

By ARTHUR GOLDEN

PANAMA CITY (UPI)—The confrontation here between the United States and Latin America on the 10 per cent surcharge on most U.S. imports was a dialogue of the deaf.

The United States repeated in public and private discussions that the "temporary" surcharge announced by President Nixon Aug. 15 was nonnegotiable. In the same forums Latin American nations demanded immediate exemption from the levy.

To nobody's surprise, the 22 Latin American nations lined up solidly against the United States on a resolution opposing the surcharge at the final session of the Interamerican Economic and Social Council.

THE LATIN AMERICANS had come to the annual meeting committed to such a resolution, as the result of the Buenos Aires declaration three weeks ago by the special Latin American Coordinating Committee.

"There was no negotiation," said a weary U.S. official after the final eight-hour closed meeting between the sides. "In effect, they read the CECLA declaration to us. We told them we just could not deliver."

Basically, the Latin Americans argued that the surcharge should not apply to their region because they were not responsible for the U.S. balance of payments crisis. The U.S. has always enjoyed a commanding trade balance in the area.

The U.S. delegation replied that the measure was intended to be non-discriminatory and global. It stressed Washington was well aware of Latin America's problems and reaffirmed the U.S. commitment to aid in hemispheric development.

THIS DID NOT sooth the tempers of the Latin Americans, who estimated that 30 per cent of their exports to the United States would be affected by the levy. (The United States said the figure was slightly under 20 per cent).

If the surcharge could not be lifted now, asked the Latin Americans, then when? The United States simply could not answer.

A Brazilian mused that he had served a "temporary" government for the last seven years. An Argentine predicted the surcharge would last until after the U.S. elections inNovember 1972. A Chilean said he feared the measure would become permanent.

THE LATIN AMERICANS came up with several other proposals, all equally unacceptable to the United States.

Argentina sought compensation for damages caused by U.S. trade barriers erected in the last eight years. Brazil urged a system of U.S. generalized tariff preferences by Jan. 1. Chile called on Latin America to suspend payment on the region's debt service for the next 10 years.

For the most part, the Latin American proposals were couched in diplomatic language.

THE EXCEPTION was Chile, which has a Marxist government. United States officials submitted they were shaken by the bitter attacks of Hugo Cubillos, the 33-year-old director of economic affairs of the Chilean Planning Office and head of his nation's delegation.

Cubillos said U.S. military expenses were the real causes for Washington's balance of payments crisis. In a 40-minute tirade at the final session, he said the U.S. was determined to maintain what they implied was an economic stranglehold on the region.

A U.S. official, only half in jest, told a newsman: "If you don't watch out, we'll turn the Chileans on you."

This Week In The World

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

President Nixon was looking for two Supreme Court justices this week.

Justice John M. Harlan, 72, announced his retirement Thursday after 16 years on the bench. Harlan has suffered cancer of the lower spine and has been hospitalized for more than a month.

Six days earlier, Justice Hugo Black also announced his resignation for health reasons. Black, 85, had served 34 years and 28 days on the Supreme Court.

Nixon already was considering seven men for Black's position when Harlan retired. After Harlan's announcement, the White House said the list might be expanded. Speculation a woman might be considered for one of the Supreme Court vacancies arose when the White House said Nixon was trying to find "highly qualified persons."

THE UNITED NATIONS General Assembly opened in New York. Adam Malik, the Indonesian foreign minister, was elected president. This assembly has the job of picking a successor to Secretary General Thant and also will face the annual question of Communist Chinese membership. The United States now wants to allow Communist China to become a member but without expelling Nationalist China.

Thant told the world body his successor should have more power. He has said he will quit as secretary general at the end of the year.

Various developments in Communist China brought speculation that a power struggle was going on or that Chairman Mao Tse-tung may be seriously ill or even dead. The developments included cancellation of the Oct. 1 National Day celebration in Peking and a report that most air activity was cancelled for three days a week ago.

U.S. PLANES flew 200 sorties to attack targets north of Demilitarized Zone in Vietnam. The U.S. command said the North Vietnamese had increased the number of antiaircraft guns.

The South Vietnamese senate passed a resolution saying President Nguyen Van Thieu's one-man presidential race was a "threat to the nation." Thieu reacted by challenging the parliament to reorganize the Oct. 3 elections, newspapers in South Vietnam said.

President Nixon said the economic controls of "Phase II" of his new economic policy to begin when the wage-price freeze ends would last indefinitely. He apparently ruled out controls on business profits.

Nixon met with leaders of consumer groups who urged a ceiling on profits and dividends and said everybody should share equally in economic sacrifices.

THE COMMERCE Department reported an increase in consumer prices in August, three-tenths of one per cent. But it said the index included figures collected both before and after Nixon's price freeze announcement on Aug. 15.

The Department of Health, Education and Welfare reported that national welfare costs increased 27 per cent last year.

The Senate finally approved the draft bill and sent it to the White House. The authority to induct men into the armed forces had expired June 30 while the bill was debated. The Senate tacked on a resolution calling for troop withdrawals from Indochina subject to the release of U.S. prisoners of war.

Capt. Ernest L. Medina, charged in connection with the My Lai massacre in Vietnam, was acquitted. The charges at the close of his court-martial at Ft. McPherson, Ga., were premeditated murder of a Vietnamese woman, involuntary manslaughter of 100 civilians and two counts of assault.

A FREE MAN — Capt. Ernest L. Medina poses with his family at Fort McPherson, Ga., after being cleared of all charges of crime in connection with the My Lai massacre. # Jaycee Chapters In Prisons Help Convicts Solve Their Problems

Behind The News

SAN RAFAEL, CALIFORNIA, SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 25, 1971 21

LINCOLN, Neb. (UPI) — If you went looking for a chapter of the U.S. Jaycees — formerly the U.S. Junior Chamber of Commerce —it is unlikely you'd seek out the nearest prison.

In fact, there are Jaycee chapters in approximately 140 state and federal penitentiaries with an estimated membership of 9,000.

It began as a modest "soul saving" project almost 10 years ago. Since then it has grown into a nationwide grass roots program to help convicts while they are inside prison walls, and with job counseling and other help when they get out.

THE PROGRAM began in April 1962, with the chartering of a chapter at the West Virginia prison at Moundsville, and spread from there. Much of the credit goes to Gary Hill, the 31year-old president of Northwestern Metal Co., in Lincoln.

Hill, a short, handsome, bundle of energy, helped found the Jaycees' fourth chapter behind the walls at the Nebraska State Prison here in 1965. Since then, he has spent much of his time working to establish chapters at other prisons and has devoted full time to the project during the past two years as the Jaycees' non-paid crime and corrections consultant.

"I suppose we got involved in prisons because we had the farfetched and somewhat naive idea of saving the souls of these men by exposing them to the Jaycee principle and enthusiasm," Hill said. "But we found it didn't quite work that way."

IT WAS ONLY after the convicts were allowed "to participate fully in the Jaycee program," he said, that it really got moving. As he states it, "We have no prison chapters, but we have chapters that happen to be in prisons."

The aim and function of the in-prison chapters is the involvement of the prisoners in dealing with their own "community" problems, and to involve "outside" Jaycees and other citizens in the lives of men behind prison walls.

Hill said one of the most satisfactory accomplishments of the program has been the wide interest it has aroused in efforts to improve the lot of convicts while they serve their terms. He said as one example that about 300,000 persons had, through the program, visited prisons in just the last year or two.

"THIS HAS helped bring a new outlook on the problem of criminal rehabilitation," Hill said. "They (the visitors) found out the animal called convict or inmate is really a person. If anybody has gained from this thing it has been the outsiders and us —the organization."

Among programs fostered are drug rehabilitation, the development of halfway houses for exconvicts, and communicating with black militant groups to obtain a better understanding of their thinking. The chapters also have been a leading instrument in bringing about prison reforms through such projects as work release, correctional officer education, and internal rules changes.

At Nebraska State Prison, for example, the prison's chapter helped bring about the elimination of the old screened off visiting area, where convicts had to communicate with their wives and families via closed circuit telephones. Now, the convicts have a lounge-type visiting room where a man can hold his child on his lap and kiss his wife when she leaves.

Among other accomplishments have been the construction of a miniature golf course in the prison yard, the cleanup of a local park in a poverty area of Lincoln, and the purchase of a new fire engine for Indians on Nebraska's Macy Reservation.

"WE'RE NOW involved in the really gut level issues that don't fit the old, white, middleclass image of the Jaycees," Hill said. He is the first to concede that the program isn't perfect and doesn't have all the answers. There are still "challenges to be conquered if someone works long enough and hard enough."

At the Nebraska prison, inmates interviewed by UPI all were in favor of continuing the existing Jaycee chapter, although several said they thought more needed to be done "for our community, for those of us who live here."

And there were suggestions that membership in the Jaycees was used as an "angle" by some convicts for more favorable consideration at parole hearings, or quicker response from prison officials dealing with individual problems.

Over-all, however, there was convict approval. One man told this reporter: "It's got problems like any other organization, I suppose. But it also has helped make things a lot better for us around here."

WARDEN CHARLES L. Wolff Jr. is also a booster of the program, although he admits to having been skeptical when it was first initiated in Nebraska.

"Initially I thought it would be a great paper program, but in many respects it has been outstanding both within the institution and with its outside followup," the warden said.

"It's not the whole answer to our problems by any means, but it provides a tool. It allows a man to think of somebody besides himself and to get involved in the community."

In recent years, prison chapters have won 11 of 33 national awards for chapters of their size. In 1968 the top Jaycees chapter in community development was a prison chapter and the Washington State prison chapter recently won one of the five top division awards in the nation.

FOR THE CONVICT, the Jaycee participation does not end when he leaves prison if he doesn't want it to. Hill estimated there are 8,000 former convicts, both black and white, who are members in outside chapters. Several former inmates have become national officers.

"We can put a man in contact with a warm body anywhere in the country who can assist him with any in a wide range of housing, employment or counseling problems," Hill said. "It's up to him whether he joins the Jaycees."

'Liberty Gate' To Naval Base—Big Drug Operation

Editor's Note: American sailors who go on shore leave through the "liberty gate" of the vast U.S. Naval Base at Subic Bay in the Philippines — up to nearly 3,000,000 of them a year — are fair game for hustlers ready to sell them just about any kind of drugs they want, from heroin to LSD to marijuana and a wide variety of other narcotics.

These fast-buck drug sellers tend to be very careful when they talk to newspapermen or other strangers, but they cotton up quickly to men in Navy uniform. The writer of this dispatch was until his recent discharge a Navy journalist who served inthe Subic Bay area, a role that opened up for him sources of information not available to civilians.

By PETER HEYNE

Written for United Press International

SUBIC BAY NAVAL BASE, Philippines (UPI)—Fortune has turned a silver dollar smile on Nick, a hard-charging entrepreneur in the wildest, gaudiest city of the Philippines — Olongapo City.

Olongapo City sits at the lip of the huge United States naval complex at Subic Bay and through it last year passed 2,800,000 American sailors on liberty. To Nick, every last one of them was a potential customer for his wares — narcotics.

A honky tonk town if there ever was one, Olongapo has always indulged American sailors. Its serpentine main street of bars and brothels winds right to the gates of the U.S. Seventh Fleet's most important resupply base.

AND NICK indulges drug-seeking sailors the best he can. He does very well.

Until last fall, Nick, a 23-year-old Filipino family man, long had teetered on the poverty line. He earned his living driving a Jeepney — the native jitney rebuilt from World War II jeeps and transformed into jiggling ensembles of tassels and crucifixes, circus colors and rusty bolts.

With the war in Indochina only two days away by sea, Jeepneys proliferate in Olongapo and it became ever harder for Nick to make a living.

"Nobody makes money just driving Jeepneys anymore," Nick told me one sweltering evening earlier this year as he thumbed a fat wad of American dollars. The dollars were the fruit of the greener pastures the skinny, affable Filipino had found late last year when he began wheeling and dealing in illicit drugs and peddling them to a thriving tide of customers who keep coming back — American sailors and marines.

ON THE OCCASION of my interview with Nick, he was a happy man, laughing, his eyes alight with the pleasurable thought of more profits still to be made tht night. He climed into his new-looking Jeepney, kicked the gears, invited me to come along, and off we went down Magsaysay Street, with its bars and clubs and painted girls (Olongapo has 7,000 bar girls by local estimate).

"Happy? Why do I feel so happy?" he asked. "Man, me and my partner sold $1,600 worth of dope tonight. That's at least 20 times more than we usually make. And you ask me why I feel so happy."

Two carriers and a dozen other ships, just in, were responsible for much of Nick's big night. Sailors were all over the narrow sidewalks, some lurching from bar to bar.

Sounding like a cheerful, suburban ice cream vendor, Nick leaned over to me and said, "Okay, what would you like ... 'O,' LSD, red devils, hearts, bennies, you name it. I probably got it, or at least can get it."

"O" IS SHORT for opium — the street name in Olongapo for heroin, an opium derivative. It sells for $1.50 for .05 grams — the usual "paper" or fix. It is the No. 3 stuff, for snorting or smoking, no mainlining. Red devils are barbiturates. You can buy them for 25 cents. Hearts and bennies are amphetamines.

Nick said he had already sold a huge amount of opium to one customer that day.

"Then those carriers that just pulled in, they helped. Guys off them bought a lot of grass, pills, a little LSD, and some opium. And, well, there are just a lot of ships in right now."

Nick was referring to the attack carrier Ranger and the helicopter carrier Iwo Jima. Combined, they added some 8,000 potential customers to Olongapo.

NICK SAID marijuana and pills were still the mainstay of his business but, he added, "more and more guys are asking for opium all the time."

We rounded a corner and drove through "Harlem," home of Olongapo's black bars. Nick slowed down, waved to someone in front of a dingy grocery store, and in a minute a youngster with floppy hair hopped into the rear of the Jeepney. He tossed into my lap a "lid," a small, plastic package equal to about 12 matchboxes of marijuana. It was quality stuff, and cost me $15.

The boy then pulled out of his left sock a "paper" of heroin and flipped it to me. I flipped it back and said no thanks. The "lid" was 1.2 grams, sold for roughly $3.

NICK DROVE me back to the main gate of the base and let me out. Along the way he was delighted to talk about his success.

"Shortly after I started selling drugs," he said, "I went into partnership with a really cool sailor stationed at the base. The guy organized everything and right away we started to make lots of money."

Nick reinvested most of his profits back into the business.

"Now I've got six other Jeepneys working for me," he boasted.

But Nick had no monopoly. Later I talked at random with 25 other Jeepney drivers and asked if they could get me some "O." Twenty said they could, and virtually all said they could get me LSD, marijuana, barbiturates and amphetamines. I found that many "legitimate" drug stores in Olongapo will sell servicemen drugs without prescription.

NARCOTICS WERE once considered to be just the problem of American Army and Air Force personnel stationed in Vietnam and Thailand, close to the source. But Navy men now agree they have a drug problem, too, and Olongapo City represents a key source for the 6,000 men stationed at Subic Bay and the men of the 150 ships of the 7th Fleet.

However, Navy authorities believe a very small percentage of the sailors who went through Subic's main gate last year on liberty were really hooked on the hard stuff. The number of known users is very small, a Navy spokesman said.

Authorities do acknowledge narcotics from marijuana to heroin are readily available in Olongapo and at prices cheaper than in the United States. They also acknowledge a small, undisclosed number of sailors and marines at Subic have been given "administrative discharges" for drug abuse instead of being court martialed.

Administrative discharges carry nearly the same benefits as an honorable discharge and generally have little effect on a serviceman returning to civilian life.

The 500-man Marine detail at Subic — the men who handle part of the security at the base —had some trouble with drugs, the authorities admit. But a naval investigator denied a rumor that as many as 300 marines had been implicated in the use or possession of heroin. "That's way, way high," he said, but gave no exact figure.

AT LEAST FOUR U.S. Navy ships were reported to have had drug problems among the crews during the past year:

—The destroyer James E. Kyes. Nineteen crew members were accused of drug abuse while the ship was in Long Beach.

—The destroyer Wallace L. Lind. Twenty-two sailors were implicated in drug charges shortly after the ship arrived at Subic Bay in August, 1970.

—The USS Satyr, a repair and maintenance ship. An investigation started after three bags of marijuana were discovered on the ship while in port at Yokosuka, Japan, in November, 1970, led to 26 crew members being accused of drug abuse.

—The USS Beneway, a floating barracks anchored off Vietnam. Fourteen crewmembers were connected with drugs in February. The ship later was brought to Subic Bay.

THE SHIP HARDEST hit in terms of the number of men involved was the U.S. Coast Guard cutter Morgenthau which patrolled for infiltration trawlers off the South Vietnam and Cambodian coastlines.

Following investigations by the ship's captain and Naval Investigative Service Office (NISO) agents from Saigon in early February, 42 of the cutter's 150 enlisted men were implicated in use of drugs ranging from marijuana to "O."

Navy authorities at Subic Bay are not convinced the drug problem is bigger today than it was six months ago. Instead, they maintain the "level of awareness" is much greater and point to their new program designed to combat drug abuse.

Keystone of the program is the amnesty or "exemption program" first introduced July 9 which allows volunteers to be treated for drug addiction without disciplinatory action. According to one doctor, this has moved the use of drugs from a legal to a health problem.

The exemption program gives the drug user only one chance to repent and is granted only to volunteers whose only offense is narcotics use. It is not available for drug-related or drug-induced offenses or for sale or transfer of drugs.

ADDITIONALLY, the Navy has established in each command a "drug abuse specialist" trained at a school in San Diego to combat drug use and help users kick the habit.

Since early July a "drug abuse team" composed of a medical officer, a legal officer, the drug abuse specialist, an investigative representative and an information officer has been meeting every Wednesday night to work on a campaign to fight the use of drugs.

The team measures the progress of the drug program, makes recommendations to higher authorities and provides lecturers.

To reach the younger men, authorities at Subic plan to open sometime in October a "rap center" complete with mod decor and stereo sound. It will be supervised by the drug abuse specialist, open 24 hours a day for users and nonusers to establish communication and provide accurate information. "It's group therapy," a Navy doctor said.

All that still isn't going to turn off the supply of drugs in Olongapo, or eradicate the likes of Nick. Authorities have been encouraged in recent months, however, by the growing awareness of Philippine national and community officials of the problem affecting Filipinos as well as foreigners.

William Moorhead—A Quiet Congressman With A History Of Getting Into Fights

By DANIEL RAPOPORT

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The new chairman of the house "freedom of information" subcommittee has taken a stand that may not endear him to his colleagues. He thinks Congress ought to be as free of secrets as it wants the government to be.

Rep. William Moorhead, D-Pa., did not blare out his position, He did not even volunteer it. It came in response to a reporter's question and was expressed in a soft, somewhat hesitating voice.

What he suggested was that the legislative branch of the federal government be covered by the provisions of the Freedom of Information Act, the same as the executive branch.

THE PROPOSITION may seem logical to outsiders but to lawmakers it is literally unthinkable. Congress specifically exempted itself when it drafted and approved the bill in 1966 and the odds are heavily against Moorhead if he ever tries to put his theory into practice.

For Moorhead that would be nothing new. Though he is not personally combative —shy would be a better word —the 48-year-old lawmaker has a way of now and then getting in battles with congressional powerhouses.

Back in 1969 he calmly remarked on a television interview that some members of Congress had dealt so long with the Pentagon and its contractors that they no longer could see their faults. The late Rep. L. Mendel Rivers, D-S.C., chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, was outraged. He virtually ordered Moorhead to appear before his committee and back up his charge.

Moorhead, who at the time was carrying on a campaign against the Air Force's C5 transport, accepted the offer. Rivers backed down.

IN THAT SAME year Moorhead infuriated another powerful dfender of the military, Rep. Chet Holifield, D-Calif. With information prepared by his staff, Moorhead surprised and annoyed Holifield by utilizing a hearing of Holifield's government operations subcommittee to raise some embarrassing questions about the C5 with Air Force witnesses.

Moorhead reflects his background. He comes from a well established Pittsburgh family, and in Washington he lives in fashionable Georgetown. His education is pure eastern establishment —Phillips Andover Academy, Yale, and Harvard Law School.

His political ideology is solid liberal Democrat. The Conservative Americans for Constitutional Action examined his 12-year voting record and gave him an approval rating of 6 out of 100.

MOORHEAD TOOK over the reins of the "freedom of information," subcommittee this year when its first and only chairman, Rep. John E. Moss, D-Calif., was forced to step down because of a Democratic rule limiting Democrats to one legislative subcommittee chairmanship.

Known officially as the foreign operations and government information subcommittee of the House Government Operations Committee, the panel was created in 1956. Its purpose is to serve as a watchdog over government information practices .

Over the years it became a champion of the press and its staff has worked with reporters in prying information out of reluctant agencies. In 1965, following a reorganization of the Government Operations Committee, it picked up the added task of maintaining a watch on the foreign aid and other U.S. overseas programs. Though its title was enlarged, newsmen still refer to it as "the freedom of information" subcommittee.

In 1966 Moss and the panel achieved its crowning triumph, passage of the Freedom of Information Act. The law went into effect on July 4, 1967, and stated as a general principle that all federal government records, unless specifically exempt, should be open to any citizen.

SUCH AREAS as military and trade secrets, personnel files and criminal investigative data were exempt. Courts were authorized to settle disputes between an individual and an agency over whether a particular piece of information should be exempt, with the burden of proof on the government.

Congress, however, was not covered. A former staff aide who played a part in drafting the law explained that it was directed against the executive branch and he could not recall any representative or senator proposing that it apply to the legislative branch.

NOVATO'S ST. ANTHONY'S CHURCH OPENS

This is the exterior of the recently completed St. Anthony's Catholic Church in Novato. The building, located at the south end of Cambridge Street, was completed 11 months after groundbreaking. Pastor of the church is Daniel J. Sheehan. Opened for services within the past month, St. Anthony's will be formally dedicated Oct. 10. The parish serves the southern part of Novato.

PRISON CRISIS

Eshelman Will Conduct Study

Former San Quentin chaplain Byron Eshelman will inaugurate a six-week study on "Our Stake in the Prison Crisis," at tomorrow's 10 a.m. service at San Anselmo's First Presbyterian Church.

Eshelman will devote tomorrow and next Sunday to backgrounding the present penal system crisis. On the following four Sundays, former inmates and present Quentin staffers will present their views.

The retired chaplain is an ordained minister of the United Church of Christ. He was introduced to the prison chaplaincy through a course he took at the Pacific School of Religion in Berkeley. Prior to taking his job at Quentin in 1951, he served for three years as a chaplain on Alcatraz Island.

He is a graduate of Kansas State Teachers College (now Kansas State University) and received his bachelor of divinity degree from Yale University in 1942.

The series conducted by Eshelman is the first of several studies the church will offer this fall, Rev. John Najarian said.

Also tomorrow, the chancel choir, under direction of Wilbur Russell, will present its first special music of the new church year.

AT THE VATICAN

Funds From Special Purchases Of Blessings Are Well Used

VATICAN CITY (UPI)—They cost the equivalent of 70 cents, and any Roman Catholic in good standing can go to a special office in the Vatican and buy a blessing by Pope Paul VI.

But put it down to philanthropy rather than commercialism. For an enscribed papal blessing to hang on the wall may well be a blessing of a material nature for a poor family in the Pope's own diocese.

In this little-known aspect of the Vatican's work, fees charged for the blessings are put toward the pontiff's extensive charity work in Rome.

Since at least 150 persons every day apply for blessings, the Pope does not sign them himself. This job is delegated to Archbishop Antonio Travia, the pontiff's former secretary and now head of the department known as "The Assistential Service of the Holy Father."

The easiest way to obtain a personal blessing is to go to any of the souvenir shops near the Vatican which sell readymade parchments, lacking only Travia's signature and the name of the petitioner.

The United Services Organization (USO) branch near the Vatican sells hundreds of parchments to U.S. servicemen during the tourist season. Both the stores and USO take care of such details as getting the parchments signed and embossed.

The scrolls vary in price and range from the simple to the ornate, like one, for example, that begins: "Prostrate at the feet of your Holiness . . ."

But the price for turning the parchments into a proper blessing is always the same, 400 lire or 70 American cents. However, Travia's office also demands a letter from a parish priest stating the petitioner is a Roman Catholic in good standing. One of Travia's aides still remembers with a wince how, some years ago, a blessing was inadvertently given to a divorced woman.

Besides distributing aid through parish priests, the office also is organizing a parish assistance network— doing such things as finding babysitters for working mothers and helpers for the old and handicapped—and it is organizing a central file of all Rome assistance organizations.

But buying a parchment is not the only way of getting a papal blessing. The Pope blesses the crowds in St. Peter's Square at noon every Sunday and at his general audiences in St. Peter's Basilica every Wednesday.

Bishops and priests around the world also have the opportunity of giving blessings in the name of the Pope on certain occasions.

Meanwhile, the Vatican's Congregation for Divine Worship is studying the whole question of blessings in the Roman Catholic church. A recent report by the congregation questioned, for example, "whether some blessings found in the Roman ritual should be approved or not, such as the blessing against throat ailments on the feast day of St. Blaise, or the blessing of seriously sick animals."

And the report said "care must always be taken that blessings do not merely become apotropaic (devil-chasing) and do not turn into talismans or good luck charms..."

Special Children's Class Is Announced

A class in Christian awareness, a pilot program for mentally retarded children, will start Oct. 17, at the First Presbyterian Church in San Rafael.

The purpose of the class, which will be conducted each Sunday from 10:45 a.m. to 12:15 p.m., will provide opportunities through a structured, but varied program.

"Adventures in Christian Living and Learning," a cooperative publication of 12 denominations, will be the basic course of study.

Director of the course will be Dorothy Nichols, who holds a masters of arts degree in Christian education and has five years' experience working with mentally retarded children as a senior child welfare worker in the San Francisco Department of Social Services.

Miss Nichols said "every effort will be made to adapt the curriculum to meet the needs and develop possibilities of each class member."

Applications to the class, which will be free, can be obtained from the church office.

No Standard Rules In Planned College

BALTIMORE (UPI)—What? A college without standard attendance, course requirements, formal measures of progress? Yep. Such a school — called a university without walls — is being planned by Morgan State College for Baltimore area adult education.

Morgan State is seeking foundation funds to put such a model program onto the drawing board. The Morgan program, as it's called, would allow students to complete studies in from a year to seven years, depending on progress and aptitude of the students.

Exchange Pastor To Be Honored

Christ Church Episcopal Church in Sausalito will honor Rev. Charles Craft and his wife of St. Martin's Church, East Horsley, Surrey, England, at a festival choral evening at 5 p.m. next Sunday.

Reverand Craft has been serving the Sausalito parish for the past five months on an exchange with Rev. Bart Sarjeant of the Sausalito church.

Combined choirs of several Episcopal churches in Marin will participate, including the host church; Church of Our Saviour, Mill Valley; St. Stephen's Belvedere; St. John's, Ross; St. Paul's San Rafael, and Church of the Redeemer, Marinwood. Organists will be Rev. Al Price of St. Paul's and Mrs. Emily Ross of Sausalito.

Assisting Craft in the service will be Rev. Hugh Hardin of San Rafael, Rev. D. Murray Hammond of Mill Valley and Jeff Sells of Ross.

The service is open to the public. A pot-luck supper will follow.

Vigil Set At Seminary

An all-night vigil of reparation and prayer for world peace will be held next Friday and Saturday at St. Peter Chanel Seminary Chapel in San Rafael.

Sponsored by Our Lady of Fatima Crusade, Legion of Mary and Third of Mary in Marin County, the vigil will begin with a Latin mass at 8 p.m. on Friday and will conclude with a similar mass at 5 a.m. Saturday.

Rev. George Kathrien will officiate.

New Board Chairman For Baptist Seminary Board

Dr. H. J. Flanders, professor of Old Testament at Baylor University in Waco, Tex., has been named chairman of the Golden Gate Baptist Theological Seminary Board of Trustees.

Flanders, who was vice-chairman of the seminary's trustees, succeeds Dr. E. Warren Rust, assistant director of the Division of Associational Services for the Southern Baptist Home Mission Board.

Flanders, a Golden Gate trustee since 1967, will serve a one-year term as chairman. He is a 1943 graduate of Baylor University with the bachelor of arts degree and a 1950 graduate of Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, Louisville, Ky., with the doctor of theology degree.

Flanders is joint-author of a textbook on the Old Testament, "People of the Covenant." The book has been used in classes at Golden Gate Seminary and at Baylor University.

The new trustee-chairman is former pastor of First Baptist Church of Waco and served on the faculty at Furman University in Greenville, S.C., where he was professor and chairman of the department of religion.

Helping Innovative Teachers: Project

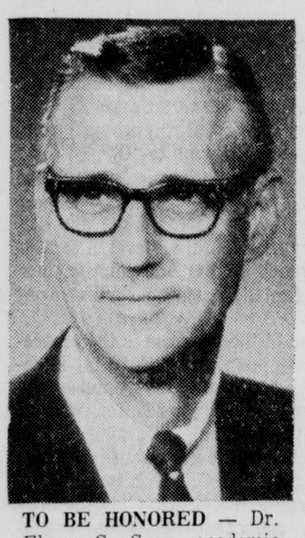
NOTRE DAME, Ind. (UPI)—The results of research on "Project Aurora," a teacher-centered experimental educational program run by a University of Notre Dame group at a local high school, confirms success of the projects goal: preparing faculty to initiate substantial educational change.

The research shows that teachers can be freed from the psychological and organizational restraints which inhibit innovation.



TO BE HONORED — Dr. Elmer G. Gray, academic dean at Golden Gate Baptist Theological Seminary at Strawberry, will be honored at an autograph party at 10 a.m. Wednesday in the seminary's student lounge. His new book, "Luke for the Space Age Church," has just come out.

Bible Study Course Set

The 13th annual Bible Study Fellowship in the Bay Area will be launched this coming week.

Sessions in San Rafael will be held on Thursdays at 9:30 a.m. at the First Methodist Church of San Rafael.

Course of study this year will be "Israel and the Minor Prophets."

The course, which will run through next spring, will be one of home study as well as lectures and discussions during the weekly meetings.

Annual Picnic Set Tomorrow

The Sleepy Hollow Presbyterian Church of San Anselmo will hold its annual church picnic tomorrow at 10:30 a.m. at Samuel Taylor Park.

A worship service will be held at 11 a.m. in the park's amphitheater, followed by the pot-luck picnic.

Next Sunday, the church will resume its regular Sunday school schedule with classes at 10:30 a.m.

Union Of Sanitary Districts Proposed

All existing sanitary districts in Marin County should be dissolved by 1973 and their duties taken over by water districts, County Administrator John F. Barrows recommended yesterday.

His recommendation, delivered to the board of supervisors, will be discussed at a public hearing at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the supervisors' chambers at the Civic Center. Officials of all sanitary districts and the Marin Municipal Water District and the North Marin County Water District have been invited to participate.

Barrows said his proposal for consolidation was not meant to reflect on the performance of the sanitary agencies.

"Directors of sanitary agencies in Marin are carrying out their responsibilities in a most competent manner," said Barrows.

Tam Fire Panel Will Meet Monday

Tamalpais Fire Protection District directors will hold a special meeting at 7:30 p.m. Monday in the Station One firehouse to hire a new secretary-dispatcher.

Alma Van Asperen, now district secretary, will be leaving the post after training her replacement, she said yesterday.

Another Layoff At A Platinum Mine

JOHANNESBURG (UPI) — The Rustenburg Platinum Mine, once the world's largest, announced Thursday it was firing 8,800 miners because of a slump in platinum prices.

It was the second major cutback at Rustenburg, which laid off 11,000 men in January. The latest cut means the labor force which once numbered 35,000 is now 15,000.

SAN JOSE, Calif. (UPI)— Karl Warner, 19, convicted of knifing three teen-age girls to death in the foothills, was sentenced to life in prison Friday.

Pair Held In Probe Of Narcotics

Two Sausalito area men have been booked into Marin County Jail on suspicion of car theft and marijuana and narcotics violations, San Rafael police reported today.

Officers said they descended on a room the pair had rented in the Bermuda Palms Motel at 4:15 a.m. yesterday after a motel clerk reported the pair had acted suspiciously. The car the pair was using was found to have been reported stolen from San Francisco.

In the room, officers said they found James Christopher Wright, 22, and James Phillips, 26, both of Gate 5 plus a quantity of suspected marijuana, a hypodermic syringe, some white powder and what appeared to be paraphernalia for taking narcotics.

After booking, Wright was turned over to Sausalito police for questioning about another case. Phillips remained in jail pending court appearance Monday. No bail was set.

Familiar Names Exhibiting In Two-Day Benefit At College

By ADA GARFINKEL

What, then makes the Art Fair sponsored by the College of Marin Student Council today and tomorrow at the Student Center different is that 25 per cent of all sales will go toward helping the Marin County Economic Opportunity Council. Proceeds will directly benefit the child care center, the welfare rights program and the emergency food program.

Among the 30 painters, photographers, potters, sculptors, and weavers, whose works will be on display on both days from 10 a.m. until 6 p.m., are several well known Bay Area artists.

Eric Norstad, who is one of the award winners in the current San Francisco Art Festival, is showing two large ceramic fish platters and several bowls. Mill Valley painter Roy Gover's exquisite watercolor fantasies from his 1971 series are also there. Arthur Okamura, internationally recognized, has a red, yellow, and blue COW MAP in a silkscreen print. Some ink-on-velum (with the look of etchings) drawings by Gordon Baldwin are striking for their perfection and architectural imaginativeness.

Other items that merit considerable attention are Mardi Sears's beautifully functional teapots. Formerly associated with the ceramics department as instructor at the Mendocino Art Center, Miss Sears is now sharing a studio in Marin. And Rebecca Johnson's functional weaving includes such items as bags, packs, woven weed-pots and window shades.

Jackie Baks, a serious and pensive young fourth-year student at the San Francisco Art Institute, has done some commendable paintings, graphic prints, and oil pastels in organic combinations of nature and human forms. Two muted paintings by Ted Saladin with crystalline frosting and design are quite handsome. Photographs of people and things by Steven Frisch and Bernard Shick are worth pausing for; so are the delicate drawings of flowers and trees by Ken Murphy.

Prices are reasonable, there is lots of time to browse and sip tea or coffee and there is a children's play area in front of the Student Center. It should make for a worthwhile weekend for you and for the Economic Opportunity Council.

Winners In Art Festival

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Seven Marinites and a Petaluma resident have been honored for works entered in the San Francisco Art Festival, which continues through tomorrow at Civic Center Plaza.

A Bolinas couple, William and Patricia Creitz, was given one-man show awards in crafts by a penl of three jorors. Creitz also won a city purchase award in the same category.

Other awards went to Dennis Beale, San Anselmo, city purchase prize in graphics; Tony Williams of San Rafael, Larry Fuentes of Larkspur and Mary Fuller of Petaluma, city purchase awards in photography, and Eric Norstad of Corte Madera and Dale Roush of Stinson Beach, city purchase awards in ceramics.

Mayor's Wife In Pot Case Probe

Mrs. Ruth Rowley, wife of mayor H.G. Rowley, and another woman, Cecile Shepler, were charged with a felony for "delivery of a controlled substance."

Both women, who reside in this community of 2,536 persons, pleaded innocent and Superior Court Judge Ross R. Rakow said he would set trial for sometime this fall.

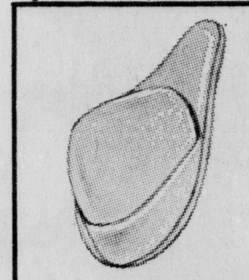
MONTGOMERY WARD

AT WARDS NOW... A NEW BREAST FORM FOR WOMEN WHO HAVE HAD BREAST SURGERY

StyleForm

DESIGNED TO BE WORN IN AN ORDINARY BRA

This new form is in two sections: a poly-foam pad and a fluid-filled form... important because the chest area often is made slightly concave by surgery. The foam pad brings that part of the chest level with the normal side; fluid-filled part approximates the curve of the remaining bosom. The breast form moves naturally with the body; closely resembles a natural bosom.



Breast form gives natural lines

I WANT TO BE A PRINCESS

Using her 4-year-old daughter Kathy as a model, Mrs. David Faraday demonstrates the art of makeup and body paint for Mrs. Robert Conway at a workshop session for members of the Sunny Hills Junior Auxiliary who will work at the Grape Festival Oct. 2 at the Civic Center. Children have choices of princess, clown, bunny, Indian, and pirate faces or peace signs, flowers, lady bugs and butterflies on their bodies. Among the unusual requests Mrs. Faraday has had during three years as chairman of the booth is for a peace symbol on the tip of a teen-ager's nose. It is all done with makeup and poster paint that washes off easily, says the self-taught artist.

'GOOD COOK' CONTEST

Best Recipes To Win Cash Prizes

The Independent-Journal is sponsoring its annual "good cooks in Marin" recipe contest and will select the 25 best recipes submitted for cash awards.

The winning recipes will be included in the annual I-J Cookbook Special Edition in November. More than $200 in prize money will be awarded to the 25 winners.

Judge for the contest again this year is Marin home economist Virginia Shattuck, past president of the Bay District of the California Home Economics Association and formerly home economist with the North Bay Division of the Pacific Gas and Electric Co.

Contest entry recipes must be submitted by Oct. 12.

Co-sponsoring stores with the Independent-Journal are the Bourbon Shops in Northgate, Marinwood, San Rafael and Corte Madera; Byrnes Fine Foods in Kentfield; Cala Foods in Tiburon, Fairfax, Corte Madera, Marinwood; Cox T.V. and Sound Center in Terra Linda; the Emporium at Northgate Mall; the Great San Rafael Coffee and Tea Store in San Rafael; Greenbrae Pharmacy; Hickory Farms at Strawberry Shopping Center; Jacks Drugs in San Anselmo; Marin Piano and Organ in San Rafael; Martin and Harris in San Rafael and Mill Valley; Mayfair Markets in San Rafael and Novato; Montgomery Ward in Corte Madera; Petrini's Market in Greenbrae; Rainbow T.V. in Greenbrae; United Markets in San Rafael and San Anselmo, and Western Furniture in San Rafael.

Public Tour Of Icehouse Tomorrow

The second annual public tour of the Icehouse home furnishings will be held tomorrow by the members of the Northern California chapters of the American Institute of Decorators, the National Society of Interior Designers and the National Home Fashions League.

Hours are 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. for the tour of the seven floors of furnishings at the Icehouse in San Francisco, not normally open to the public. Tickets will be available at the door.

MARRIED AT ST. RAPHAEL'S

Theodore Charles Perino and Rosemary Louise Cox exchanged wedding vows at St. Raphael's Church in San Rafael. A reception at the Meadow Club followed and the pair left on a Canadian wedding trip. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Adrian B. Cox of Kentfield, and his parents are Mr. and Mrs. James Perino of Pittsburgh.

AFTER 53 YEARS

Few Women In State Assembly

By LIZ LAGUE

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — Only 14 women have served in California's assembly, beginning in 1918 — women were granted the right to vote in California in 1911 — with four assemblywomen — Esto Broughton of Stanislaus, Grace S. Dorris of Kern, Elizabeth Hughes of Butte, and Anna L. Saylor of Alameda. There has been at least one woman in the assembly ever since.

But no woman has ever been elected to the state senate.

There are currently three California assemblymen — they are Yvonne W. Brathwaite, D-Los Angeles, black and a lawyer; Pauline L. Davis, D-Portola, white, widow of the late Assemblyman Lester T. Davis, and March K. Fong, D-Alameda, Chinese-American and a doctor of education.

When Mrs. Brathwaite was elected, she says, "there was so much race emphasized they didn't get around to feminism." She has served on the assembly finance and insurance committee since the beginning of her term. "They had to change their meeting place because I was the only woman and they had been meeting in an all-male club."

"We assume 'stag' means all the members to come alone, unless they tell us otherwise," says Mrs. Brathwaite.

Mrs. Brathwaite is a native Californian, born and educated in Los Angeles. She graduated from University of California at Los Angeles (A.B. in political science) and went directly to University of Southern California law school. Of those days she says the law school "wasn't too female oriented — there were only four or five girls and in most classes were asked to sit together.

"I chose law because at that time I felt it was a good opportunity to work with civil rights," she explains.

Law firms at this time weren't hiring any women, so she began her own practice. This led to work representing civil rights demonstrators in federal and state courts, and, finally, politics.

No longer married, Mrs. Brathwaite has no children — a situation she says makes it easier for her to be a full-time legislator.

"If a woman has any problems in a man's field, it is because she creates them," says Pauline Davis, adding that if women take time to understand how men think, it will make their jobs much easier. Mrs. Davis has been at her job for 20 years.

"Actually 26 years," she adds, "because I was my husband's private secretary for six years before I was elected to office," in 1952 to fill the vacancy left by her husband's death. She says she was readily accepted in the assembly because "I had the opportunity of being personal friends with many of the legislators already.

"In fact, they never considered me as a freshman since I knew the floor procedures, and I was assigned to important committees immediately." With 26 years experience, Mrs. Davis has reached the top in committee appointments. She serves on the Joint Budget committee and the assembly Ways and Means Committee.

Mrs. Davis, from Plumas County, represents 10 rural counties of Northern California, and is active in legislation dealing with natural resources. She has three children and five grandchildren.

March Fong believes being of a minority race gave her high incentive. "My attitude was that while overcoming the handicap of being in a minority, I might as well overcome the other (being a woman) along the way." She says "when we first came here, our male colleagues regarded us with wonderment — I've had no problems being a woman, but I feel I have to do a little better because of it. I know I'm under scrutiny, and my private life must be exemplary."

Women have long been accepted in the field of education, but, says Mrs. Fong, "There were only a handful going for higher degrees." A native of Oakland, Mrs. Fong received her bachelor of science degree from the University of California College of Dentistry, a masters in education from Mills College in Oakland and a doctor of education from Stanford University. She prefers the title "assemblywoman" or "Mrs." to "doctor."

Mrs. Fong, also no longer married, has two children — a son and daughter — ages 15 and 17.

When asked how the women of the assembly get along with each other, the answer is, as Mrs. Brathwaite puts it, with a warm smile, "As well as the men do!"

ON THE AGENDA

Sausalito Woman's Club Will Take Tour Of Cal's Museum

The Sausalito Woman's Club will have a tour of the newly opened University of California Art Museum Thursday at Berkeley.

Members will leave by bus at 10 a.m. and return at 3 p.m. Cars will be parked in No. 1 parking lot in Sausalito, and the bus will leave from the street behind the Bank of America building (Anchor Street), arriving at the museum at 11 a.m.

Hostesses from the museum will take the group on a conducted tour. Tour members will bring bag lunches to eat in the sculpture courtyard. Mrs. Henry F. Clouette is chairman, and reservations chairman is Mrs. H. Bowen Wands.

Politicos To Attend Tonight's Premiere

By MOLLY MARIN

A large contingent of legislators and officials will celebrate the opening of the Marin Veterans Memorial Building tonight at the Civic Center in San Rafael, attending the Marin Symphony concert and champagne buffet afterward.

Marin's Congressmen William S. Mailliard of San Francisco and Don H. Clausen of Crescent City will attend the "Premiere: Marin." State officials who plan to attend are Sen. Peter Behr and Assemblyman William Bagley of Marin, and Dr. Wilson Riles, state superintendent of public instruction.

Marin County's supervisors, Peter Arrigoni Jr., Louis H. Baar, Arnold M. Baptiste, John F. McInnis and Michael Wornum, will be prominent in the number of Marin officials, and supervisors from neighboring counties who will come for the opening are Robert Scofield of Solano, Henry Wigger of Napa, Henry Spomer of Sonoma and Peter Tamaras of San Francisco. Thomas Mellon of the City of San Francisco will also be a guest.

Marin mayors at the premiere will be C. Paul Bettini of San Rafael, Thomas S. Price of Belvedere, Denis T. Rice of Tiburon, Alexander R. Imlay of Sausalito and George M. Wickham of Mill Valley.

Mayors' representatives will be Joseph Gargiulo of Novato, Earl O'Grady of Larkspur, Holmes Norville of Corte Madera, Cornelius Van Vliet of Fairfax and Kenneth Anderson of San Anselmo.

Attending from the Frank Lloyd Wright organization, Taliesin, will be the architects Wesley Peters and Aaron Green, along with Mrs. Frank Lloyd Wright. The group will gather at a buffet prior to the opening, with Dr. and Mrs. S. I. Hayakawa of Mill Valley. Mrs. Hayakawa is Mr. Peters' sister. His wife, Svetlana, daughter of the late Joseph Stalin, remained at home in Arizona with the couple's baby daughter.

PRIOR TO the opening symphony program at the Veterans Memorial Building tonight W. Robert Lomax Jr. will entertain a group at dinner at his home in San Anselmo. The guests will include Mr. and Mrs. Leon Kalimos (he is executive director of the new Veterans Memorial Building), Mrs. Alma Lauritzen, Shirley Thorton, vice chairman of the Marin Community Music Association; Mrs. Dorothy Garner, president of the Contra Costa Community Concert Association; H. Donald MacKinnon of Olympia, Wash., who is visiting his mother, Mrs. Elizabeth MacKinnon in Kentfield, the Rev. Henry Kent of San Rafael, Mrs. Robert Gaines of Piedmont and Russell Farnsworth of the San Francisco School District. Hostesses will be Mmes. Mary Johnson, Peggy Bullock, Yvonne Hodges and Jessie Coleman. Also attending will be Mmes. Jackie Kirk and Shirley Pahl.

The group will go on to the opening and Marin Symphony concert.

THE COUNTY of Marin will host a reception prior to the opening at the Holiday Inn at Terra Linda, with Marin Supervisors Bud Baar, Peter Arrigoni Jr., John McInnis and Michael Wornum as hosts. Among the guests invited are Assemblyman William Bagley, and Congressmen William S. Mailliard, who have been living in San Rafael for the summer, and Don H. Clausen.

Supervisor Arnold Baptiste and his wife will host a pre-concert party at their home in Novato.

MR. AND MRS. Harry Smith of Mill Valley will host an afternoon of sailing on their "Islander," a 1904 classic sailboat. Invited aboard this third oldest sailing boat on the bay tomorrow afternoon, are Messrs. and Mmes. Ralph Neelands, Joseph Zajak, Michael Shermer, Tom Tamsma and Dale Starkey.

NOW LIVING in Santa Clara are Mr. and Mrs. James Alan Doiron, who were married in Morganton, N.C., Sept. 4 and took a wedding trip to Lake Tahoe and Carmel. The bride is the former Sharon Elizabeth Walker of Morganton, who is now employed as a dental hygienist in San Jose. James is the son of Mrs. John Analla of San Anselmo and Robert Doiron of Novato. He is a San Jose State College student.

Proper Way To Handle An Aunt Who Likes To Meddle Next Door

HI, YOU TWO:

I have a managing maiden aunt. She's great at bossing, and she makes uncalled-for remarks that my folks don't like, but put up with. As she lives next door, I can't avoid her.

Mom lets us eat when we come home from school. Auntie says this will "spoil our dinner." It doesn't. If I've heard it once I've heard it a hundred times: "Sandy, are you into the candy (or whatever) AGAIN?" Being it's none of her business — and Mom agrees but is too polite to say so — what's a good comeback? — SANDY

DEAR SANDY:

How about, "No, the candy's into ME! (Tee-hee-snicker-snicker)". — SUE

DEAR SANDY:

. . . And get standard maiden aunt lecture No. 353 on "The Impudence of the Younger Generation, Tsk, Tsk?" (Which you might enjoy, but your mother wouldn't.)

NOTE TO READERS: Writing a column with your teenage daughter is sometimes like square-dancing to rock music: we don't always agree about the beat, but we usually end up on — or near — the same chord. — HELEN

DEAR SUE AND HELEN:

I'm sending you my picture so you'll see the problem. See, my Dad doesn't understand that long hair for guys is just a fad — like wide ties and bell bottoms. He thinks "hair" means you're a hippie dope fiend. Mine isn't even half way over my ears and it's neat and trimmed, but he (Mom, too) insists I get it cut — or else!

My grades are high-B and I don't even smoke. The smartest and most active, leader-type guys in school are longhairs — and mine's only medium yet. Please help if you can. — HAIR LOVER

DEAR HAIR:

If it's any help: I like your hair — and so do my girl friends, who agree long hair on guys is fine, just so it's neat, clean — and not longer than ours.

And it doesn't mean you'are a "shaggy mutt" (Mother's version), or "Hippie'fag-doper" (Father's worry). As you say, "hair" is just a fad. You'd look like a real Delbert, these days, in a crew cut. — SUE

DEAR FATHER OF "HAIR LOVER":

Come on, Pop, buy yourself a wide, wild tie, grow sideburns, get your hair styled instead of sheared — and look back to those 1940 school days when teen fads also drove parents bonkers. Everybody survived, remember?

You have a son to be proud of. (Just ask the girls who read his letter and saw his picture!) — HELEN

DEAR HELEN AND SUE:

Here's my "rap" on the so-called generation split. I feel I am the luckiest teen in the world to have as great parents as I do. They are the two people I value most. They're open-minded, understanding, and always there when I need them. I'm not an angel in return for what they have done for me, but I'm — THANKFUL FOR THE GREATEST PARENTS EVER, MARY

DEAR MARY:

Your letter, I'm sure, says it for a lot of kids who haven't gotten to voicing it yet. We have a tendency to take our parents for granted, sometimes because they are always there when we need them. We've sorta "grown accustomed to their faces."

I'd like to go along with you and thank my mother and father for putting up with my gripes and moods for the past 17 years. They deserve all the thanks I can give. — MY PARENTS' DAUGHTER: SUE

Send your "Generation Rap" questions and comments to Sue and Helen Bottel (either or both), care of the Independent-Journal.

AGENDA

UNITED PRESBYTERIAN Women of Westminster Presbyterian Church in Tiburon will sponsor its fall ingathering dinner for the church's members and friends on Wednesday at 6:30 p.m. at the church. Youngsters are invited and child care is available, according to chairman Mrs. Milton Stannard.

A DOZEN members of San Francisco Yacht Club Women's Auxiliary will learn to sail some glamorous yachts during the 1971 "Dreamboats" Series. Lessons will be held on five consecutive Wednesdays starting Sept. 29. Times will be announced later by Mrs. Joanne Zink of Belvedere.

EIGHT MARIN General Hospital Volunteers in August received 100-hour pins for service. The group included the first male Junior Volunteer to receive a 100-hour pin in the history of the Marin General Volunteers organization.

He is Robert Dasher of San Rafael High School, who was part of a group which included Wendy Heller and Mrs. Michael Smith, San Rafael; Gayle Abrams and Eve Gazzola, Ross; Mrs. W. E. Blackmar, Tiburon; Mrs. Gerald Kelleher, San Anselmo, and Patti Smith, Greenbrae.

A total of 283 Volunteers served 4,207 hours in August.

Two Volunteers, Mrs. Paula Glaser of San Rafael, and Mrs. Ray Kraft of San Anselmo, earned 2,000-hour pins. Two others, Mrs. Robert McKendry of Ross and Mrs. Jane Orr of Kentfield, were awarded pins for 2,500 hours of service.

NEW ASSOCIATE members of Chicken Little Chapter, Childrens' Home Society, will be welcomed Wednesday at 11 a.m. by active members.

Preceding a salad luncheon at the Rohnert Park Recreation Center Mrs. John Tennyson, president, will introduce the auxiliary's interpretation team. The team consists of Mmes. Harold Griffith, John Roberts and Hal Janney. They will answer questions following the agency's film. "I'm 17, Pregnant and Don't Know What to Do."

Mrs. Richard McKenna is reservations chairman.

SEW SIMPLE

Some Tips For Smashing Clothes

By EUNICE FARMER

DEAR EUNICE,

When planning a fall wardrobe, it's so difficult to have the courage to do the things with your sewing that you see in the fashion magazines. How can we get the courage to really make smashing clothes?

MARGIE S.

DEAR MARGIE,

This has always been one of the problems with the home sewer. Half of the joy of sewing is the excitement your finished product can generate. If you find a garment that appeals to you, cut it out and keep it as a guide when you go fabric shopping. It isn't nearly as important to find the exact fabric or color or even pattern as the one you have chosen, but try to get the same feeling that was in the picture. Do this with your very own courage. Don't ask your friends if you should do it. They probably would defeat you by negative ideas.

I can guarantee that the day you start getting raves from your family and friends, that's the day it will be hard to keep you away from the sewing machine. The creative excitement will open up a whole new world for you. Try it on your next garment and let me know the results. It's much easier to follow the same path you've always followed, but not nearly as much fun.

TAILOR TRIX WINNER

Mrs. Roger Dinelli of Sausalito is this week's Tailor Trix pressing board winner for her following suggestion.

"When my velveteen all-weather coat showed a distinct line mark when I lowered the hem, I decided to do a decorative machine stitch in a contrast color (or you could use the same color) and make it a border effect. The same detail should then be used on the collar and cuffs. The coat looks like it was meant to have the stitching and I feel like I have a new coat on instead of one that had been tampered with." (See story this page)

SEAR EUNICE,

I wish to line a knit jacket even though according to all the books, they don't need to be lined. Is there any special trick when one proceeds with this?

MRS. J.C.

DEAR MRS. J.C.:

You will probably not have a pattern to go by and will have to feel your way cautiously as you go. Cut the sections of the lining larger than necessary, it's always easy to take away the excess. As you baste each section in position, remember that you must allow a little extra for the "give" of the knit. It's best to slip stitch the lining by hand at each seam, lightly catch it to the shoulder, armhole, and sides of your garment. Remember to keep all your hand sewing very loose so that it won't draw up the garment.

It is also important to choose the right type of lining. I would suggest a lining similar to silk broadcloth, china silk, or any other lightweight fabric. A crepe would not be suitable because it would sag and show at the hemline.

DEAR EUNICE,

When using stretch swim suit material for a swim suit, I noticed runners from the cross grain wherever I cut the fabric. Also, when I tried to use the cross grain for binding, it stretched out of shape and rolled up.

MRS. D. L.

DEAR MRS. D.L.:

All helenca type knits that are commonly used for swim wear will run if it is pulled on the cross grain before seaming. A preventative measure would be to stay stitch these edges before construction.

The same fabric for binding was the wrong thing to use. Instead, you must use a chlorine treated elastic to stabalize the edges of your swim wear. Helenca knits don't recover their shape if machine washed, they will stretch crosswise. Never machine wash a swim suit of this fabric, instead, hand wash and towel dry.

Banlon that is chlorine treated is often used for bindings, but it will never give the same stability that the elastic will give. If you wish to use a contrast binding, we suggest you use the elastic first, then apply the binding.

New fabrics are marvelous, but along with them comes a new world of sewing and washing techniques, one is no good without the other. You must absorb every new bit of information you get because it will surely apply to something you will be questioning in the near future.

EUNICE FARMER gives illustrated instructions on how to make frog closings and button loops in her informative booklet "Spaghetti Straps and Rope Belts". For your copy send 10 cents and long, stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request forit to Eunice Farmer in care of this newspaper.

Marinite Wins Prize For Her Sewing Tip

Mrs. Roger Dinelli of Sausalito says she was very much surprised to learn that she has won a prize for a tip sent to Sew Simple, the syndicated sewing column printed in the Independent-Journal Women's Section each Saturday.

Her tip was simple indeed, she feels, for it consisted merely of covering the line of a lowered hem on a velveteen coat with decorative stitching in a contrasting color to effect a harder detail. The stitching was used also on collar and cuffs.

For this tip Mrs. Dinelli will receive Eunice Farmer's "tailor trix" pressing board, to be mailed to her from Mrs. Farmer's sewing school in St. Louis.

"SEWING AND improving clothing is just a hobby with me — my way of relaxing," she says. "These days anything helps with alterations that have to be made to fit changing styles. If I come up with anything, I like to share it with people."

Mrs. Dinelli confesses she has had very little training in sewing — just what she learned in high school. "Enjoying what you do is the secret of success," she maintains, and she has imparted her enthusiasm to her two daughters.

Darlene Dinelli, a Greenbrae school teacher, does her own sewing and designing of clothes, and 14-year-old Lynn, a sophomore at Marin Catholic High School, is already making dresses, her mother says.

"IT'S EASY nowadays," Anne Dinelli says. "The patterns are very simple, and it's so worth while because you can select your own materials. I have some beautiful fabrics from the Philippines."

The Dinellis — he is a training captain for Pan American Airways — also have a son, Robert Dinelli, who is a department head with Akron in San Francisco.

Speaking of her prize, Anne Dinelli laughed, "Perhaps this will give me an incentive, and I'll go on to bigger things."

MAKES 'ADVERTIQUES'

Edith Lutz's Part-Time Hobby Turns Into Big Money Maker

By KATHLEEN NEUMEYER

AZUSA (UPI) — When Edith Lutz quit smoking, she had to have something to do with her hands.

So she took up a hobby that's probably going to wind up paying to furnish a new house when she and her husband retire next June.

"I went to the hobby shop and bought some acrylic paints and made a wall plaque out of a page from an old family ledger — an 1843 entry from a general store record book," she explained.

"Then I went to a swap meet where I met a man with beautiful boards. They were actually cabinet door panels — he worked in a door factory."

SHE BOUGHT a big boxful of them for $5 and got a stack of old magazines from a friend who collected them.

"All my life I've made something from nothing," she laughed, pointing to some old high buttoned shoes she had sprayed bright red, filled with flowers and placed on her coffee table.

She set up shop in the backyard of her one-story home in this suburb east of Los Angeles and started turning out "Advertiques" — attractive wall hangings featuring old covers from "Woman's Home Companion" and "the Saturday Evening Post," old Union Pacific Railroad posters and quaint advertisements.

She signed them "Miss Edith" — "That's what they call me when I go back to Dresden, Tenn., where I'm from," she said.

"THE THING that makes my plaques different from others I've seen," she explained, "is the three-D effect."

Using a knife, Mrs. Lutz cuts out protions of the ad and glues them on particle board cut to the same shape, Then she glues them back on top of the cutout area, achieving a dimensional effect.

Twice a month she sells her wares for $4-$8 apiece at flea markets and arts and crafts festivals in Southern California.

"I have sold some of them in department stores and boutiques," she said, "but they double and triple the price and then they don't move as fast."

Sometimes she will sell 25 or 30 plaques in an afternoon, and other days she sells only one or two.

"I DON'T ever expect to get rich, but I'm enjoying it," she said.

Mrs. Lutz said she has socked away enough profits to help furnish a home in Nashville, Tenn., when Lutz retires after more than 30 years as a mail carrier.

Her favorite ads are the oldest ones — those for products like victory bread have been very popular.

Firms whose ads she uses have been enthusiastic. Some have bought her plaques to decorate their offices.

"And I have onc customer who wants every old Packard ad I can find," she said.

"The old Coca Cola ads are very popular too, and if I make one showing a MacDonald's hamburger, mothers will buy them for their kid's rooms. They say it's their favorite meal."

EDITH LUTZ makes wall plaques with a three dimensional effect from old advertisements. It all started when she needed something to do with her hands when she quit smoking. The hobby has grown into a successful business for the Southern California woman and her husband, who are using the profits to furnish a home they plan to retire to in Nashville, Tenn.

75-Year-Old Woman Takes To Mountains

By KATHLEEN NEUMEYER

LOMA LINDA (UPI) — Hulda Crooks intended to take a 75-mile hike this summer, one mile for each of her years, but she settled instead for a 54-mile trail which included ascending Mt. Whitney.

It was the tenth time the fragile-appearing grandmother has climbed the 14,502-foot mountain in the past 10 years, and she made it in faster time than ever before.

She thinks it is because she has been jogging.

Mrs. Crooks, who at 75 still holds down a full-time job as a research assistant in the school of health at Loma Linda University here, gets up early five or six mornings a week and runsa mile.

"I WORKED up to it gradually," she explained, starting out four years ago running just a block or so every morning.

"Then I do an hour of exercise in the university gym for the upper trunk," she said.

She began mountain-climbing nearly 40 years ago. A Saskatchewan farm girl, she grew up "chasing cows and pigs, but I didn't get any education."

At 18, she hadn't yet finished sixth grade, but she went back to school and worked her way through high school and two years of college before suffering a physical collapse.

"My husband, who was a doctor, knew he had a semi-invalid to keep or cure," she said, "so he tried every way he could to encourage my interest in the outdoors."

MRS. CROOKS loved flowers, and her husband urged her to learn the names of all the Southern California wildflowers and trees.

"It's been such a blessing, because all the trees and shrubs have a personality to me. I get many invitations now to take groups for nature walks and I tell them what all the plants are. They drink it all in, but they don't remember it," she laughed.

Mrs. Crooks began going on mountain hikes with her small son in the 1930s. Her husband, who had a heart condition, could not accompany them.

"My husband died 20 years ago," she said in an interview. "But one time when were passing through Independence, Calif., he pointed out Mt. Whitney to me and told me it was the tallest mountain in the continental United States.

"Neither he nor I ever dreamed I would climb it, but after I started working at the university, I heard students talking about climbing it, and I wondered if I was good enough."

IN 1961, she made her first ascent, with a small group of students, and she has been back nine times since. In 1968, she took her two older brothers, Dr. Edward Hoehn of Angwin, Calif., then 75, and Chris Haines, of Issaquah, Wash., then 77, along with her.

All three of them made the top of the mountain but only one of the three television cameramen who accompanied them got to the peak.

Sierra Club Wants Halt To Logging

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Interior Secretary Rogers C. B. Morton was asked yesterday to halt logging just outside Redwood National Park, Calif.

The Sierra Club, a national conservationist organization based in San Francisco, told Morton logging by three companies is a serious threat to the park created by Congress in 1968.

Dr. Edgar Wayburn, former club president, said he had met Morton to deliver a petition asking for action to halt logging operations by the Arcata National Corp., Georgia Pacific Corp., and the Simpson Timber Co.

Wayburn said the three companies had increased their logging operations adjacent to the park since it was established.

"It is apparent that destruction rather than preservation is their goal," he said, at a news conference held during the Sierra Club's 12th biennial wilderness conference.

Wayburn said Morton was urged to acquire a two-year leasehold over part of the Redwood Creek drainage and land along both sides of Highway 101 between Redwood Creek and the Prairie Creek Redwood State Park, to protect it for possible future inclusion in the park.

The petition said the companies were engaging in clear-cutting — the logging of every tree in a given area — in lands that might otherwise be added to the park in the future.

"Clear-cutting is the most destructive logging operation known to man," Wayburn said. He singled out Arcata National for special criticism because of its logging operations in the Skunk Cabbage Creek drainage. That area, he said, contains "one of the finest and heaviest stands of redwoods in the world."

Death Row's Eldest Inmate Dies

Information officer Joseph R. O'Brien said Winhoven, who had been awaiting execution for the 1960 slaying of the assistant manager of a Los Angeles bank, died yesterday in the prison hospital.

O'Brien said Winhoven, an electronics technician prior to his commitment, had suffered from a heart ailment since 1968, and had most recently been in the hospital since February 1970.

Winhoven was one of six condemned convicts who tried to escape from the row in 1962, holding two hostages at gunpoint for four hours before surrendering in a barrage of tear gas.

Public Hearing Set Monday On Proposed Rezoning In Fairfax

Proposed rezoning of the North Fairfax area west of Oak Manor subdivision for low residential density, limited agriculture and commercial recreation will get a public hearing before the Marin County Planning Commision Monday.

Another major topic before the commission, meeting at 9 a.m. in the Civic Center, will be discussion on scrapping or changing the Bolinas-Stinson Beach General Plan, adopted in 1961.

The North Fairfax rezoning area is north of Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, from Oak Manor to White's Hill. Most of it is now zoned either limited agricultural, which allows lots of 7,500 square feet, or two residential units per acre.

The proposed rezoning conforms with the Fairfax area general plan.

The Bolinas-Stinson Beach general plan will be reviewed because of major discrepancies with the preliminary countywide plan and the Bolinas Lagoon plan.

For example, the present Bolinas-Stinson Beach plan calls for harbor-commercial uses at Bolinas Lagoon, and shopping areas and resort-recreation areas near Bolinas and Stinson Beach, along the San Andreas Fault zone. The preliminary countywide plan would not allow concentrated development along the fault, and the Bolinas Lagoon plan treats the lagoon as an ecology reserve.

Other items on the planning commission agenda include:

INDUSTRIAL PARK — William Wright Jr. will seek master plan approval for his Del Pantano Industrial Park on 13 acres near Gnoss field.

Emission Regulations Due Study

Terra Linda Whips Ells, 29-16

By RON LENT

Erstwhile injury case John Buckley latched onto a pair of Kevin Donohoe touchdown tosses in pacing Terra Linda High School's 29-16 football victory over visiting Harry Ells High of Richmond last night on the San Rafael High School field.

The wily wide receiver snagged eight passes in his delayed 1971 unveiling. Despite the flashy showing by Buckley, who had been out with a dislocated finger, head coach Don Lucas was less than impressed. "We were inconsistent in our passing, and we started getting cozy with our lead in the second half," allowing the invaders to register eight points in both the third and fourth periods.

"But overall," he added, "we played better."

The estimated 1,700 partisans who gathered to witness the Trojans' second consecutive win would likely concur with Lucas' final contention, based on the host's impressive attack and stingy defense exhibited last night.

The blue and gold Chargers of Terra Linda drew first blood with 1:47 remaining in the opening quarter when fullback Steve Sabel boomed over from six yards out, climaxing a two-play, 25-yard drive set up by defensive back Larry Offenback's 15-yard return with a pilfered pass.

The victors subsequently increased the advantage to 13-zip when fullback Doug Long powered across from the Ells' seven. An 11-yard, Pete Corbett field goal pushed the Trojan lead to 16-zero at intermission over coach Lou Guida's young team.

The Falcons, now 1-1, are only in their second year of varsity competition, but don't tell that to the bruised Trojans who were outpointed in the final 24 minutes, 16-13.

The eager birds procured the lone third period point production after junior quarterback Maurice Hamilton teamed with classmate Oscar Williams on a 32-yard paydirt pass.

Impressive 34-7 Win For Redwood

By PAUL CANE

Look out, world, the Redwood Giant football team is for real.

Daryl Edralin shredded the Encinal High School defense for 116 yards and three touchdowns on the ground yesterday, as Redwood devastated the Jets, 34-7, in Alameda.

Edralin picked up a blocked Jet punt early in the first quarter, and raced 20 yards for the first of his touchdowns, to spark the Giants to their second straight win.

With nearly half the first period gone, Bob Stubbs crashed through the Encinal line on fourth and four, and blocked Bob Leach's punt. Edralin scooped up the ball on the run and cruised into the end zone, as the Giants sped out to a 6-0 lead.

Immediately after the kickoff, however, Earl Rivard of the Jets took the handoff on a cross buck, and raced 48 yards for the only Encinal score.

Following an exchange of punts, Brown marched Redwood 92 yards in 15 plays, highlighted by two Connor catches, and culminated with a one-yard off-tackle burst by Edralin for the second of his touchdowns.

The Giants picked up a break on a Jet fumble, and moved on a 10-play drive, which was topped off by a seven-yard

Cincy Is Very Good In Role Of Spoiler

Giants' Lead Cut To 2 Games

CINCINNATI (UPI) —The San Francisco Giants left the Houston Astrodome with renewed confidence, but the Cincinnati Reds, who seem to be overdoing their role as spoilers, are bent on keeping the National League West race in the cliff-hanger stage.

The Reds, last year's N.L. champions, clipped San Francisco, 6-5, Friday night behind Johnny Bench's two-run homer, ending the Giants' two-game winning streak that they had put together in Houston.

The Giants' loss narrowed their first-place margin in the N.L. West division to two games over the Los Angeles Dodgers, who defeated Atlanta, 2-0.

Cincinnati, which has been in a season long-slump this year, beat Los Angeles last Tuesday and Wednesday, allowing the Giants to take a three-game lead as they were winning in Houston.

San Francisco looked like a team hungry for the division title Friday night when it drove Reds starter Ross Grimsley from the mound with a three-run first inning.

In the fourth, the Giants made it 4-0 when McCovey walked, took second on Dave Kingman's single and scored on Chris Speier's infield out.

But the Reds came back with three runs in the fifth, touched off by George Foster, a former Giant, who hit his 12th homer of the season.

In the sixth, Cincinnati tied it when Jerry Johnson, who had replaced starter Don Carrithers, balked home pinch-runner Buddy Bradford. Bench's game-winning blast came in the seventh.

The Giants tried to come back in the ninth when Jim Hart hit a pinch single and scored on Willie Mays' pop double to right field, but reliever Clay Carroll got Henderson to ground out and

Odom Out Of A's Playoff Plans

After rookies Jim Slaton and Rick Auerbach combined to give Milwaukee a 1-0 win over the A's in a night game, manager Dick Williams of the American League West champion A's announced he was reluctantly removing righthander John Odom from the 25-man roster for the A.L. playoffs because of a "tired arm."

"John says his arm felt tired in recent outings and he couldn't get enough zip on the ball," said Williams. "The doc says when your arm gets tired, you don't pitch. So rather than risk permanent injury to Odom's arm, I decided to take him off the roster. He and I talked it over Thursday."

Williams said he hopes to replace Odom with Ron Klimkowski, a mid-season acquisition of the A's. But first the Athletics must obtain permission from the baseball commissioner's office, the A.L. president and the Baltimore Orioles, Oakland's opponent in the playoffs.

"But this is just a formality," said Williams.

Williams said righthander Chuck Dobson (15-5) would hurl five innings today against the Brewers and go seven innings (hopefully) in the season finale against Kansas City next Wednesday.

"I plan to let Vida Blue go seven innings Sunday against Milwaukee because it will be his final outings before opening the playoffs next Saturday," added Williams.

Slaton, a 21-year-old rookie righthander from Lancaster, was especially happy in shutting out the A's on five hits. That's because his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Slaton, and his brother, Frank, were in the stands watching him pitch a big league game for the first time.

"I'm glad I could pitch so well in front of them," said Slaton. "I found I had good control of my curve ball early in the game. That gave me confidence and I wasn't afraid to throw it to a batter the rest of the game.

Jackson singled in a pinchhitting role and Rick Monday then singled pinch runner George Hendrick to third base. But Slaton got out of the jam by getting Curt Blefary on a flyout.

Slaton struck out 10 batters, a major league high for him and one short of the Milwaukee club record. His control was excellent and he didn't walk a batter.

Another rookie, Rick Auerbach, supplied Slaton with the only run he needed when he slammed a 1-1 pitch off starter and loser Diego Segui, now 10-8, for a 350-foot homer run in the fifth inning.

After Joe Rudi singled in the first inning, Slaton retired 17 A's in a row until Rudi led off the seventh with another single. Rudi was retired on a fielder's choice grounder but Mike Epstein singled and the A's had runners on first and third with one out. Sal Bando then hit into an inning-ending double play.

"We had that one big chance in the seventh but the double play killed us," said Williams. "The kid pitched a fine ballgame. In fact, the Brewers have a lot of good, young arms . . . all they need is some experience."

Williams announced that he would go with the rotation of Blue, Jim Hunter and Dobson in the playoffs.

Saints Entertain 49ers

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — The San Francisco 49ers, who had their troubles in the South last week in their National Football Leaguer opener, meet the New Orleans Saints Sunday in a NFC Western Division matchup.

The 49ers, Western Division favorites, fell to the Atlanta Falcons, 20-17, last week. The Saints knocked off Los Angeles, 24-20, on rookie quarterback Archie Manning's one-yard scoring run on the last play of the game.

The 49ers have been picked as a 13-point choice over the Saints, but coach Dick Nolan has said he is worried about two things—Manning and the Saints' defense.

A drop-back quarterback who also likes to run, Manning ignored seven traps and completed 16 of 29 passes for 218 yards, including touchdown tosses of 37 and six yards.

"Manning can be a problem, because, like any rookie, you don't know what he'll do," Nolan says.

Nolan said he was worried about the Saints Defense because it carries so many variations.

Nolan will go with his veteran quarterback John Brodie, who hit 17 of 34 for 225 yards against the Falcons, but had four passes intercepted. NFL rookie Vic Washington will open in place of veteran Doug Cunningham at halfback in this Channel 5-aired game at 11 a.m.

On defense, starting outside linebacker Skip Vanderbundt has missed workouts this week after twisting a knee in last week's game, and Nolan said he may not start. Jim Sniadecki, who replaced Vanderbundt for two games last year, would move into the starting role if Vanderbundt could not make it.

Rancho Wallops San Marin, 32-8

Mixing a sprinkle of Steve Wlodarczyk passing with a dash of fullback Steve Murray running, a well-seasoned Rancho Cotate High School of Rohnert Park "11" undressed San Marin High School 32-8 last night at Petaluma High.

"This is the first time that I know of that we gained more on the ground than in the air," Claude Brock, coach of the pass-happy Cougars, enthused today.

The mentor extended kudos to Murray for churning out a gaudy 148 yards on 24 bursts, 25 yards better than the Wlodarczyk aerial circus.

"Murray had a good game," Brock continued, "but he had to, because we just couldn't throw against San Marin. Those people (the 0-2 Mustangs) are going to beat somebody."

However, it won't be the greedy hosts who held the Mustangs to a scant four first downs and only 69 total yards. The victors checked all visitor attack outlets, except for wingback Marty Larson. The lithe lad caught two passes, but, more importantly, scooted 80 yards with a third period kickoff for San Marin's lone score.

Teammate and quarterback Hoza Wright connected on only five of 19 and suffered two pilfered passes enroute. "It just wasn't their night," Brock commented.

Maybe not, but the Mustangs presented a good first half ac-

Raiders Take On Chargers

Still smarting from last week's 20-6 loss in Foxboro, Mass. against the New England Patriots, the Oakland Raiders visit the San Diego Chargers tomorrow at 1 p.m.

Channel 4 will air the game live which matches long standing quarterback rivals, the Raiders' Daryl Lamonica and John Hadl. Of the two, Hadl fared the better in the season opener the previous Sunday, leading the Chargers to a 21-14 upset over visiting Kansas City, while Lamonica had his troubles against the one-lowly Patriots.

In tomorrow's tussle, the Raiders will attempt to untrack a sputtering offense, however the defense has improved significantly over last year's edition, despite surrendering two touchdown passes to Jim Plunkett and the Patriots. Rookies Horace Jones at defensive end, linebacker Phil Villapiano and free safety Jack Tatum took turns in giving Plunkett fits last week.

Though the young trio performed admirably, Coach John Madden realizes the Oaklanders need a return to form by Lamonica, and tackle Bob Brown, plus come-though efforts at two other key offensive slots, split end and fullback.

With All-Pro split end Warren Wells sidelined by a jail sentence, the pressure is on veterans Rod Sherman and Drew Buie to fill this major gap.

If the pair fail, Madden may look to third-year rookie Eldridge Dickey. After trying unsuccessfully to make the 40-man roster the two prior annums, Dickey landed a spot when Wells' probation was revoked.

In addition to the end problem, Madden must solve a difficult fullback deficiency stemming from a knee injury to incumbent Hewitt Dixon. Last week, rookie Don Highsmith and veteran Marv Hubbard shared the post.

If the 7% excise tax is repealed, and you bought a Volkswagen after Aug. 15, you're entitled to a refund. If you bought one before, you're saving money anyway.

If Congress votes to repeal the 7% federal excise tax on automobiles, and makes it retroactive, and you bought one of our cars after Aug. 15, lucky you.

It means you'll be getting back a nice amount of money from Volkswagen of America. (Something like $103-$171 depending on which car you've bought.)

But if you happened to buy a Volkswagen before August 15, don't feel deprived.

You're still saving over the average car about $1500 on the car itself, $135 a year on gas, and $who-knows-how much on repairs.

NFL Roundup

Colts Favored Over Browns

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The quarterbacks —Johnny Unitas and Earl Morrall —were once synonymous with the Baltimore Colts' success.

But no more. A young man named Norm Bulaich and the defense must be the keys if the Colts hope to unlock a second straight National Football League title.

Bulaich emerged from the first week of the season as the American Conference's leading rusher, carrying 22 times for 198 yards, and the defense was perfect in a 22-0 victory over the New York Jets. The only time the Jets got into Baltimore territory was when they recovered a fumble on the second half kickoff on the Colts' 27 and were forced to punt from the Colts' 48.

Bulaich broke the club single game rushing record of 194 yards set in 1955 by Alan Ameche despite spraining his ankle in the first quarter, and he highlighted the afternoon with a 67-yard touchdown run.

Meanwhile, Baltimore's passing attack went for 69 yards. Morrall completed five of 13 for 78 yards, and Unitas, recovering from a ruptured Achilles tendon, came in for two series in the fourth quarter and threw for minus nine yards on one completion in three tries.

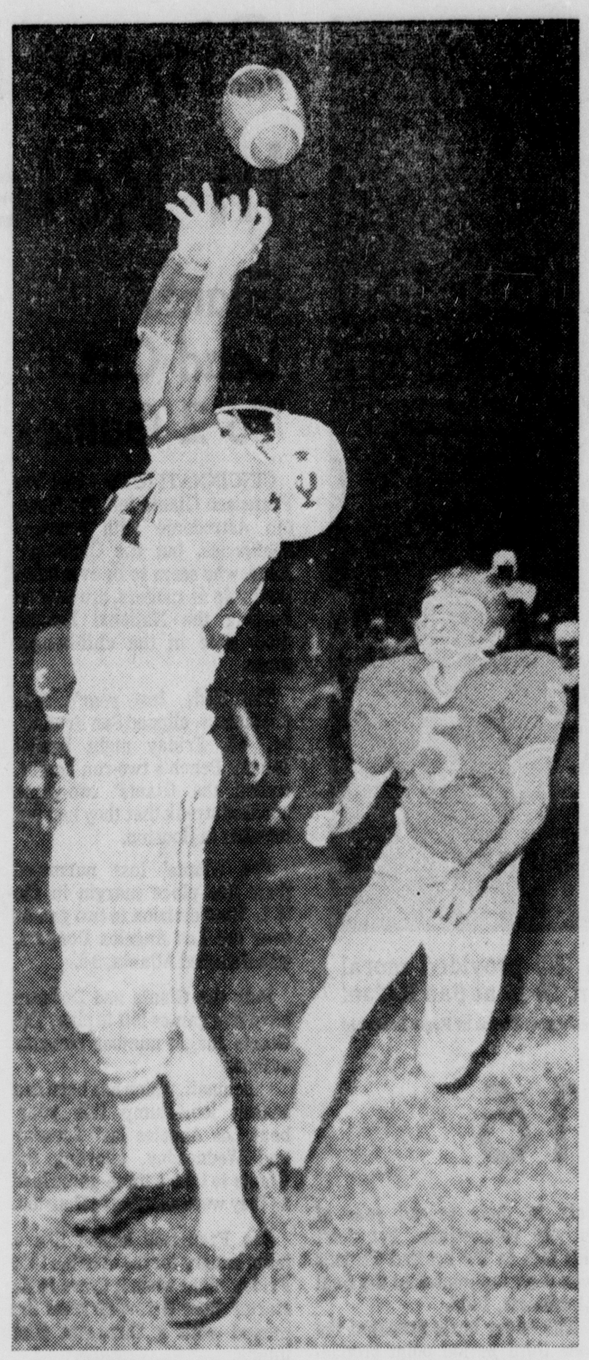
Cleveland also scored a shutout in its opener, 31-0 over Houston, and the Browns have scored all three of their victories at Baltimore in their seven-game series against the Colts. In their last meeting, Baltimore defeated Cleveland 34-0, for the 1968 NFL title.

In other games, Los Angeles is favored by 2 1-2 points over Atlanta. Washington is three over the New York Giants, Dallas is 13 over Chicago, Cincinnati is 6½ over Pittsburgh, Miami is five over Buffalo, Detroit is 10½ over New England, Green Bay is 2½ over Denver, Kansas City is seven over Houston and, on Monday night, St. Louis is 5½ over the Jets.

Los Angeles, its defense depleted when former coach George Allen took many Rams with him in his move to Washington, try to bounce back from a 24-20 upset by New Orleans last weekend. However, Atlanta is the surprise leader in the Western Division of the National Conference after beating San Francisco, 20-17.

Atlanta's Ray Berry completed 16 of 21 passes for 185 yards and two touchdowns against San Francisco while the Rams' Roman Gabriel managed only 11 completions in 30 attempts for 164 yards against New Orleans.

The Giants' hopes for a second straight upset were dimmed when quarterback Fran Tarkenton came down with a 102 degree temperature on Friday and was listed as a questionable starter against Washington.



BIG STRETCH — Harry Ells end Larry Amato reached high for an errant pass as Terra Linda defender Paul Berry moved in. Both the pass and the game went awry for the visiting Richmond "11" with the Trojans registering win number two in as many outings last night at San Rafael High. (Independent-Journal photo) touchdown pitchout to Edralin, with 1:20 left in the half.

Leading 20-7 in the third period, Redwood's defense held the fort and protected the lead, allowing Encinal only 31 net yards for the final periods.

In the third-quarter Redwood's Mark Asiano and Jay Lehman carried the ball out of what Coach Phil Roark calls the "T-Bone Set," (a variation of the "Wishbone T") for another score, with Asiano carrying it over from the nine.

Lehman was featured again early in the fourth quarter, carrying four successive times for 28 yards and a touchdown, to reach the 34-7 tally. The drive was set up on a diving interception of a Leach pass by Katsumi Johnson at Redwood's 35.

Roark said he was amazed at the 247 rushing yards, but said he had expected the long passing game to click better against the Jets.

Cager Injured In Pickup Game

DALLAS (UPI) — A North Texas State University basketball player was in critical condition today in a Dallas hospital, paralyzed from the shoulders down following a fall during a pickup basketball game Thursday.

Doctors said Herb Larkins, native of New York who transferred to the Denton, Tex., campus from New York Community College three years ago, broke his neck in the fall.

Redwood, San Rafael Runners Win

Redwood High walloped Tamalpais 15-50, while San Rafael High topped Drake High 20-35 in separate cross country meets Thursday.

Eric Moller of Redwood took first on a three-mile Phoenix Lake course with a 15:46.5, while Jerry Lansing of San Rafael was victorious at Forest Meadows in the Dominican section with a 16:12.0 clocking.

The Redwood yearlings romped to a 15-43 triumph over Tamalpais with the winner's Pete Demarais turning in a 12:51 in circling the two-mile field.

Marin Tars Win Soccer Match

Carter Ingram and Mark Ehrhart tallied to pace College of Marin's 2-0 win over Diablo Valley College of Pleasant Hill yesterday at Kentfield in a defense-oriented soccer match.

The pair scored goals in the first and second periods respectively, and hung on from there to win.

Baltimore 'Bubbly' Abounds

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

Manager Earl Weaver had every reason to celebrate. After all, it isn't every day that your team clinches the division championship and two members of your starting rotation join the 20-game winners circle.

Weaver joined the rest of the Orioles in celebrating Baltimore's clinching of its third straight American League East championship. To add icing to the cake, Mike Cuellar and Pat Dobson each posted their 20th victory as the Orioles swept a doubleheader from the Cleveland Indians, 9-2 and 7-0, Friday night.

"You didn't hear any cheers between games after we clinched the title but the boys really let loose after the second game," said Weaver, who was pouring champagne over his players in the post-game celebration.

Cuellar and Dobson joined teammate Dave McNally as 20-game winners for the Orioles. If Jim Palmer, who has 19 victories, reaches the 20-game mark, the Orioles will become the first team in 51 years to boast four 20-game winners.

"I feel real good and I'm looking forward to the playoffs," said Cuellar, who reeled off his third straight 20-victory season.

"Heck, I had only two victories on June 1 and I never thought I would win more than 15 games this season," said Dobson who was acquired in an off-season deal with the San Diego Padres.

The Orioles will go for their third straight American League pennant when they meet the Oakland Athletics in the playoffs starting Oct. 2.

In other American League action Milwaukee blanked Minnesota 1-0, Detroit whipped New York 8-5, Boston shut out Washington 4-0 and California edged Chicago 4-3. Minnesota at Kansas City was postponed because of rain.

In the National League, Cincinnati nipped San Francisco 6-5, Los Angeles blanked Atlanta 2-0, St. Louis topped Montreal 10-6, Pittsburgh edged New York 3-2, Philadelphia tripped Chicago 6-1 and Houston beat San Diego 2-1 in 21 innings before losing the second game 5-4.

Rookie Roger Moret pitched his first major league shutout with a four-hitter and drove in a run as the Red Sox defeated Washington. It was his fourth complete major league game.

Jim Northrup blooped a two-run double to drive home the last two runs of a seven-run seventh as Detroit topped New York and Joe Coleman earned his 19th victory.

Jim Fregosi singled in Sandy Alomar from second base with none out in the ninth inning to give Andy Messersmith his 19th victory.

touchdowns to elusive end Don Walden, covering 21, 7 and 67 yards. The Titans other tally came on a brilliant 35-yard run by speedy halfback Eugene Howard.

After a "pointless" first period, the Oaklanders drove 59 yards in six plays with Falschi hitting Walden over-the-shoulder from 21 yards out.

The Titans, now 2-0, quickly struck again on a three-play, 40-yard march culminated by Howard's 35-yard burst around end.

Down 14-0, the valiant Indians promptly reeled off a 55-yard six-point parade of their own with Davlin alternating quarterbacks Don Locey, Mark Dawson and Brad Bann.

All three proved useful as Locey scampered 11 vital yards in the drive, Dawson hit on a crucial fourth and nine pass to sustain the progression, and Bann teamed with Greg Biber on the eight yard touchdown aerial. Bann, making his season debut, collected the TD on his second pass.

"He's some linebacker," Davlin commented.

Though Nottingham repeatedly reeked havoc on Tam ball carriers, he could not dampen Indian enthusiasm. Playing without All-League middle guard Herb Wade, out with a kidney infection, and halfback Tom Collins, still awaiting doctor clearance on a dislocated shoulder, the junior-dominated Braves kept plugging away despite the score.

"We'll get 'em next week," a Tam player barked bravely enroute to the bus back to Mill Valley, referring to the league home opener Friday night at 8 o'clock versus defending champion Terra Linda.

DRAKE, MARIN ON ROAD

San Rafael Hosts Montgomery Vikes

Saturday evening prep pigskin fans have three games on tap.

Marin Catholic visits Piner of Santa Rosa; San Rafael entertains Montgomery of Santa Rosa, and Drake travels to Vallejo, all three games at 8 o'clock.

In the lone local contest, the Bulldogs will attempt to Muster a second straight win when they take on the Sonoma County team, but San Rafael coach Bob Muster doesn't foresee another whitewash like that week's opener at Lincoln High of San Francisco.

The S.F. team "probably wasn't ready for us, but Montgomery will be," he cautioned. Muster depicted the visitors as "a quick club, about our size. It should be quite a physical contest."

The Bulldog boss also tossed kudos at Klein's running mate Tyree Gray. Tyree has a brother Mel, currently employed as a St. Louis Cardinal wide receiver after starring in track and football at Montgomery High and later at the University of Missouri.

To no one's surprise, the younger Gray is also a speed merchant with a penchant for finding the end zone. To steer him in the proper direction, the visitors have quarterbacks John Stimack and Rick Lund. Lund, a senior, will open over his junior rival. Last week, the pair led the Vikings to a 28-7 decision over Serramonte High, a new San Francisco suburb school.

However, the volatile Vikings will face a tougher task in this, the second tilt for both teams. Bulldog rooters boast about the vaunted San Rafael running game featuring All-League halfbacks Scott Duncan and Dave Urquhart, fullback Mark Ferrar and quarterback Dirk Gansloser.

The unit combined to pulverize the Mustangs on the losers' field in the opener, no small task considering the vanquished were picked as among San Francisco's better prep squads.

Drake Coach Bob Franceschini's Pirates surrendered a 12-7 decision to Petaluma in the season inaugural for both clubs but are fully capable of springing a surprise on Vallejo.

If the invaders do, they will accomplish it with a plethora of changes, including quarterback. One-time backup Jim Tang will replace Tom MacAusland in a move Franceschini hopes will put punch in the attack. Starting ends Steve Urban and Don Trimble will give way to Gene Gilbert and Dan Trimble. In two other offensive switches, Mark Parachini stepped ahead of Rick White at left guard. Dave De Moss abdicated his fullback title to Dan Nichelini.

In assessing the rationale behind the defensive alterations, Franceschini commented that "we saw some major errors in the films which called for prompt action."

Now, if the Buc offense puts points on the scoreboard ... conversely, Marin Catholic can keep scoreboards busy, so Wildcat helmsman Bruno Banducci made only a single adjustment, but is was a big one. Steve Sherry is tentatively set to recover his starting signal calling nod from Steve Schaumleffel.

The pass-oriented Wildcats will have to assemble a solid effort to unhinge the Prospectors from Santa Rosa, but Banducci and his boys are confident they can do so.

The lineups:

BIRTHDAY QUIZ

By GORDON GREB

Guess who was born today and became famous.

1. If you watch carefully, you'll see a Hollywood tough guy playing a scoutmaster in TV commercials on his 46th birthday today. To guess who, try these clues: He starred in films like "Battle Cry"; was once a constable at Crockett, Calif.; and served as a Navy frogman in World War II: (A) Lloyd Bridges; (B) Charlton Heston; (C) Aldo Ray.

2. Now try to identify an American novelist who fought with the British Royal Air Force in the first World War. This war veteran came home to Mississippi to publish "Soldier's Pay" and start a writing career that led to so many distinguished works on the South he was awarded the Nobel Prize for Literature in 1949: (A) William Faulkner; (B) Tennessee Williams; (C) F. Scott Fitzgerald.

3. Music lovers, two greats for you today. Let's start by naming this Canadian concert pianist. He was a three-year-old prodigy who finished his conservatory studies at Toronto by the time he was 14, began professional appearances at age 15, and won acclaim from critics for his brilliant interpretation of "Piano Concerto": (A) Van Cliburn; (B) Garrick Ohlsson; (C) Glenn Gould.

4. Now wish Happy Birthday to Russia's 65-year old composer of classics. Can you match these facts with the right name? He was born in Leningrad, took music lessons from his mother, and is noted for his great composition, the Fifth Symphony: (A) Dimitri Shostakovich; (B) Sergei Prokofiev; (C) Igor Stravinsky.

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

A Familiar Rule Must Be Broken To Pull Off Victory

The principle of today's hand would be familiar to a beginner, although no beginner would make four hearts. The average good player would go down because he has been taught not to waste trumps in his own hand by ruffing. The exception to that rule occurs when you have no long side suit to protect by drawing trumps and when you can't be sure of winning tricks with your low trumps in the usual way.

Opening lead — ♣ J

ACTUAL PLAY

When the hand was actually played, South won the first trick in dummy with the ace of clubs and led the singleton trump, losing the king to the ace. West returned another club to the king.

South drew trumps with the queen and jack, discovering that he still had to lose another trump trick to the nine. He also had to lose a club and a diamond. Down one.

SHOULD MAKE SURE

Declarer should have made his contract by making sure of his three low trumps. He wins the first trick with the king of clubs, leads a space to the ace and ruffs a spade. Then he leads the king of hearts, forcing out the ace.

West returns a club to dummy's ace, and declarer is now in position to ruff another spade. Having done so, South can draw two more rounds of trumps with the queen and jack. The trumps break badly, and South sees that he must ruff with his last low trump.

CASHES DIAMONDS

Declarer cashes the king and ace of diamonds and leads dummy's last spade. East must follow suit, and South takes his 10th trick by ruffing.

Even if East were out of spades he would be unable to defeat the contract. If East put in the nine of hearts, South would discard a club or diamond loser and would make his last trump later.

DAILY QUESTION

As dealer, you hold:
♠ - 8
♥ - K Q J 5 4 2

What do you say?

ANSWER: Most experts would open the hand with one heart.

ROBERT R. CELLI

Cancer Unit Elects New Officers

Other new officers named were Richard S. Riede, first vice president; Dr. William A. Galeno, second vice president; Barbara Allen, secretary, and Richard H. Malloch, treasurer.

Guest speaker at the dinner was Dr. Hale Tolleth, president of the Contra Costa County Unit of the society, who described the need for volunteers in the fight for cancer control.

Fifty-six persons attended the meeting.

Temporary Site Selected For Basing Span's Fleet Of Buses

Golden Gate Bridge District directors, with a fleet of buses virtually at the starting gate in Michigan ready for delivery, yesterday approved a $5,012-a-month lease for a temporary site in San Rafael to base the coaches.

A separate site the district is buying on Highway 17 east of the San Rafael Post Office will not be ready for use when the bus system begins running in December. Because of a condemnation suit against the property, and the resulting delay of construction, the permanent site may not be ready for a year, according to district officials.

The temporary site is the adjacent Ghilotti Brothers property at 517 Jacoby Street. Ghilotti originally asked $6,200 a month, but the district's attorney, Thomas M. Jenkins, negotiated the lower price.

The directors approved a nine-month lease, with two three-month options to extend up to a total of 15 months. The price includes warehouse, office and parking space.

The district's bus transit manager, H. Donald White, told the Independent-Journal he planned to base 100 of the 152 buses at San Rafael, with the rest divided roughly evenly between satellite stations at Novato and Santa Rosa.

Only one of the 132 new buses has been delivered, the rest held back at the General Motors factory in Pontiac, Mich., pending arrangements for the San Rafael bus site. Gen. Mgr. Dale W. Luehring reported that 25 coaches were ready for delivery, and that the remainder are being readied at the rate of six a day.

The district also will buy 20 newer buses from Greyhound.

Directors previously applied to the federal government for an additional 20 buses powered by smogless engines, which would bring the fleet to 172 buses.

A Custom

NASSAU-PARADISE ISLAND, Bahamas (UPI) —As they pass through customs at the airport, arriving Nassau-Paradise Island visitors are serenaded by the welcoming music of Blind Blake and his combo. The group has been ofering its Bahamian hellos this way for the past three years.

Golden Gate Bridge District Board Also:

FERRIES — Trimmed two of the five new ferryboats from the planned fleet for early 1973 in order to boost the chance for federal funding. Each ferry costs $2.1 million, and additional vessels — perhaps hydrofoils — could be ordered later, directors agreed.

VALUATION — Received a staff report that assessed valuation of the six counties in the district totaled $3,811,827,199 for the new fiscal year, up $224,108,800 over last year. Of this new total, San Francisco accounted for 58.8 per cent of the valuation, Marin, 17.9 per cent, and Sonoma, 14.6 per cent. Napa, Mendocino and Del Norte counties accounted for the remaining 8.6 per cent.

SMALL CRAFT — Adopted an ordinance barring use of district floats by unauthorized small craft, a problem especially in San Francisco, where small craft have forced delays in docking the Sausalito ferry.

BARRIER — Referred back to committee for further review a $40,000 engineering test planned of a proposed suicide barrier.

ROPES — Asked the New York engineering firm of Ammann and Whitney to submit a proposal to supervise shop drawings, contractor's procedures and laboratory tests to replace every other suspender rope.

DREDGING — Authorized payment of $5,700 for dredging by Duncanson-Harrelson Corp. of the Sausalito ferry landing.

SIGNS — Invited bids for approximately 1,000 bus stop poles and signs, the cost estimated by White at up to $15,000.

SHELL — Awarded a $175,667 contract to Shell Oil Co., low bidder, to provide the district 1,370,500 gallons of fuel and oil for its buses, bridge maintenance vehicles and ferry.

CONCESSION — Received a report from Deputy Auditor Robert D. Tough that earnings from the Sausalito ferry concessionaire totaled $4,732 in August.

SEASHORE — Authorized staff to help Marin Transit Systems Inc. get federal funds for a demonstration shuttle bus service within Point Reyes National Seashore, and approved "in principle the concept" of moving people to and from the seashore "by means other than by private automobile."

OIL SPILL — Received $20,000 from Standard Oil to cover the full cost of repainting the Sausalito ferry for oil fouling resulting from Standard's oil spill last January.

SECRETARY — Accepted "with regret" the resignation of district secretary Helen Jack, effective Dec. 31, for health reasons. She had been with the district since 1953.

Popularity Of Ferry Boat Booms

Patronage during the first 15 days last month was 78.2 per cent higher than the same period last year, which was two weeks after operations began.

For the commute runs, patronage was up 69.5 per cent over the previous year's figures for the first 15 days in September. This was on the 7:15 and 8:25 a.m. runs from Sausalito and the 4:10 and 5:30 p.m. runs from San Francisco.

Total traffic during the sample period this year was 69,016 passengers, up from 53,946 the previous year. Of these totals, 16,536 were commuters, compared to last year's figure of 11,502.

Meanwhile, the prospect of increased commuter runs came before district directors in an offer by Harbor Carriers to add a second ferry for peak commuter-hour runs. The private carrier already serves Tiburon ferry commuters.

Harbor Carriers said it would carry commuters to and from Sausalito for 50 cents, but the district would have to pay the company 25 cents for each passenger to cover the difference between the fare of the company and the district.

The company also asked that it be allowed to share the district's Sausalito float for tourist operations, just as the district shares the company's float in San Francisco.

Harbor Carriers recently lost a second attempt to win permission by the City of Sausalito to land in that city, and has appealed the city council's denial to Marin Superior Court.

Both proposals by the company were referred to committee for study.

Ceylon's Senate Is Abolished By Leader

COLOMBO, Ceylon (UPI)— Ceylon's upper house of Parliament ceased to exist as of yesterday, a victim of Premier Sirimavo Bandaranaike's decision to abolish it on grounds it was obstructing her socialist legislative measures.

The United National Party, which was defeated in last year's general elections, has a majority in the Senate. Since Mrs. Bandaranaike's socialist programs faced hard sledding there she simply did away with it.

Another Showdown Due On Apartments

Another confrontation between land developers and residents of Larkspur appears likely with a proposal that 224 apartment units be built on Bon Air Hill.

A. Charles Brouse, chairman of the Larkspur Town Meeting, said yesterday his group probably will fight the proposal, submitted by Larwin Multi-Housing Corp. of Beverly Hills.

The firm, according to city officials, would like to construct the two-story units on about 12 acres adjacent to the Tamalpais rest home.

Its plans will go before the city planning commission Tuesday at 8 p.m. at city hall.

"This may be the first head-on collision between us and the city's leading developer," Brouse said, referring to owner Niels J. Schultz Jr., owner of the hill property. "We've just had skirmishes before."

Brouse said he will present a town meeting resolution calling for a building ban throughout the city on all developments larger than 10 units.

He said the town meeting steering committee feels such a moratorium should remain in effect until after the city's master plan is reviewed.

"We haven't studied it (Larwin's plan) in depth yet," he said, "but chances are great we will fight it."

Your Complete Guide To New Home Fashions

A Home Furnishings Extravaganza —

Marin, Sonoma Stores Join In Two-Week Debut '72 Program

For the first time in history the home furnishings and fashions industry across the country has joined forces to conduct a nation-wide program introducing to the consumers the latest ideas, trends, designs and materials in house decor.

They are calling it Debut '72 in recognition of the fact that the program will offer home owners and renters a preview of the furniture styles of the coming year.

The event opens tomorrow and continues through Oct. 9.

AND UNDER the sponsorship of the Home Furnishings Council Inc., 1 Vanderbilt Ave., New York, it has attracted the enthusiastic participation of hundreds of manufacturers, plus designers, distributors and retailers.

Locally, 11 merchants, 10 in Marin and one in Sonoma, are taking part in the Debut '72 observance.

They are Johnson's Red Barn, 7389 Redwood Highway, Novato; Young Brothers of Novato, 7514 Redwood Highway, Novato; Bellach Furniture Co., 777 Francisco Blvd., San Rafael; Casa Marin, 1654 Second St., San Rafael; Braverman's, 208 Greenfield Ave., San Rafael; Colony House, 2158 Fourth Street, San Rafael; Bell's Interiors Inc., 1212 Fourth Street, San Rafael; Western Furniture, 1848 Fourth Street, San Rafael; Hideaway Bed Centers, 310 Town and Country Village Shopping Center, Strawberry, and Manor House, 1005 Fourth Street, San Rafael, in Marin, and Yeager's Carriage House, 2503 Cleveland Avenue, Santa Rosa, in Sonoma.

OF THOSE participating stores, Johnson's Red Barn, Young Brothers, Bellach's, Casa Marin, Manor House, Braverman's, Colony House, Hideaway Beds and Bell's Interiors will all be open tomorrow, Sunday, with their special Debut '72 displays.

The other two stores will begin their participation on Monday.

As a special feature of the Debut '72 program, all 11 stores through the Oct. 9 closing date of the observance will be accepting registrations from their visitors for a $20,000 modular dream house built by General Shelter Corp. that will be given away nationally to some fortunate family.

The attractive home pictured on this page is built of four plywood, steel and glass components, and stands two stories, containing a living room, a sleeping balcony, three bedrooms, kitchen, two bathrooms and outside decks. It is both heated and air conditioned, and it is fully carpeted.

THE DREAM house features a unique system that allows its owners to alter the living spaces to suit their specific requirements.

Builder General Shelter Corp. says the house is suited for use as either a vacation home or as a year-around dwelling.

Registrations for the house will be accepted at all participants in Debut '72 across the country, beginning tomorrow.

But even more important for decor-minded Marin and Sonoma residents will be the opportunity to view the special new furnishings and displays assembled by the merchants for the duration of Debut '72.

DICK SCHWARTZ of Colony House and Darryl Bellach of Bellach's have coordinated plans for the observance of Debut '72 locally.

They point out that it marks the first time such a large scale effort has been undertaken in the home furnishings industry, and that Debut '72 is particularly remarkable in view of the involvement of literally hundreds of manufacturers.

"Actually," they note, "there are only a handful of really large furniture factories. Most of our fine furnishings come from the many, many small manufacturers."

Thirty-two national consumer magazines are also taking part in the program by featuring room settings and ideas in their fall issues. And hundreds of the country's leading newspapers are according the important event special recognition, as is the San Rafael Independent-Journal with the publication of this special issue of its Marin Magazine, devoted largely to news stories, photographs and advertisements concerning the program and the new furniture products and design ideas.

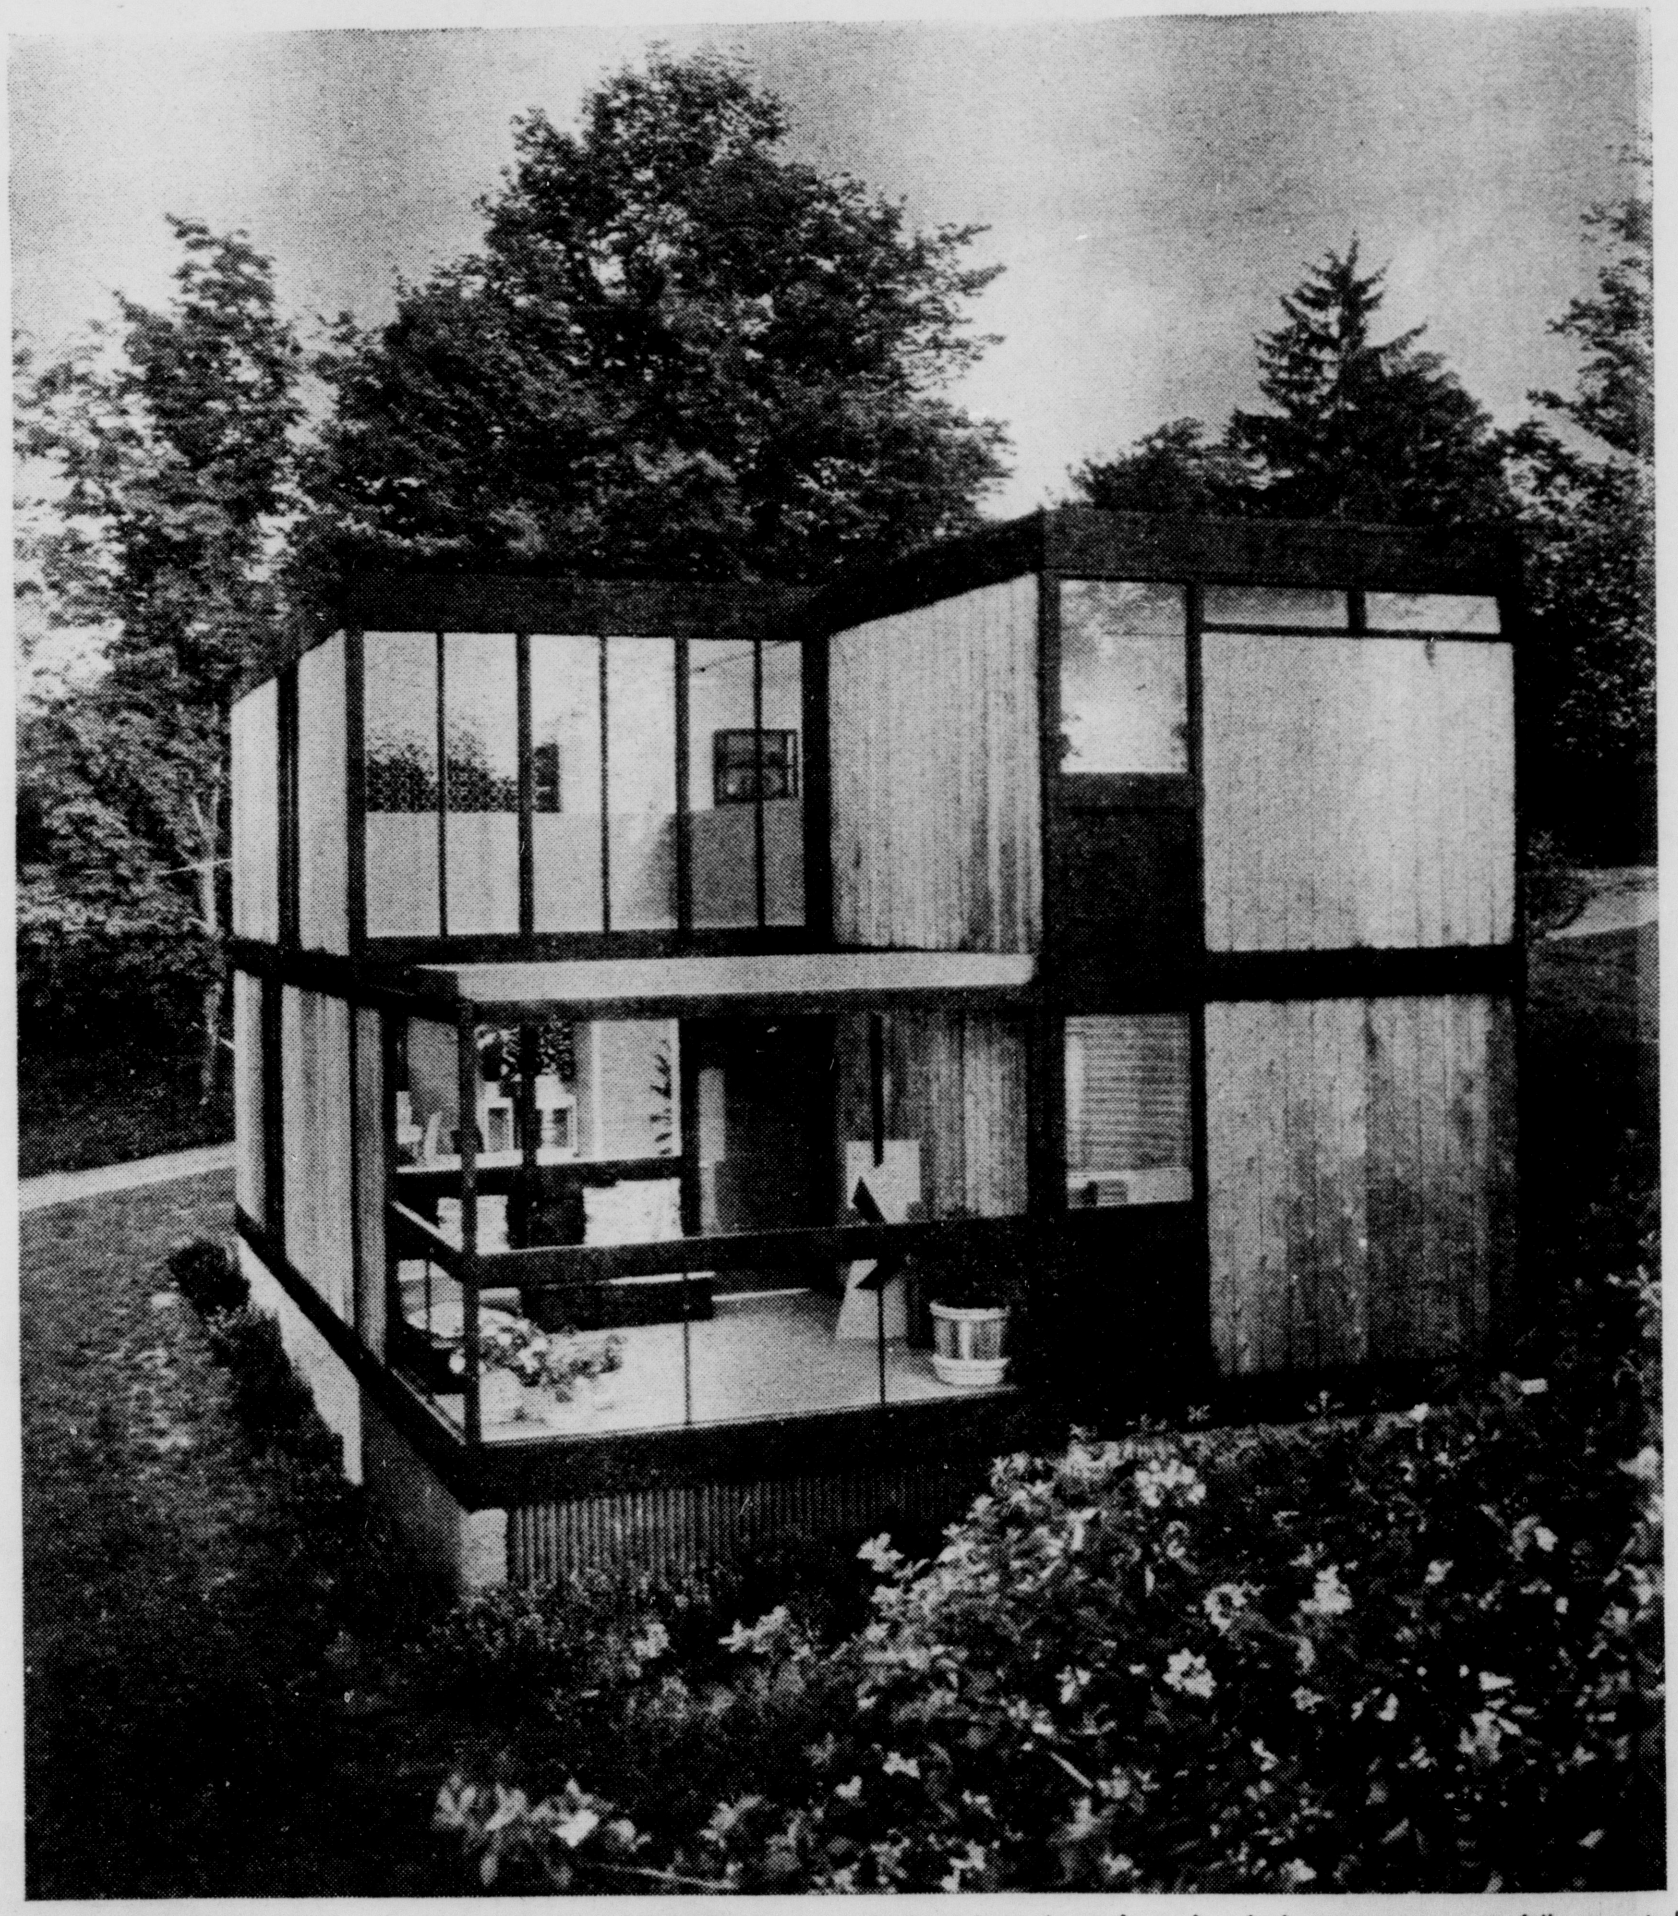
THE EMPHASIS in Debut '72 is upon meeting the home decor needs of four American life styles — the "nearlyweds," the "newlyweds," the "on-the-way-ups" and the "home-free agains" whose children have left the "nest."

It is planned to make the event an annual program for the next five years.

The goal will be: "To increase awareness of the importance of the home, and to help homemakers express themselves in their homes."

With that in mind, the 11 participating Marin and Sonoma stores will be going all-out during the next two weeks to bring to their customers the very newest and the very best in home furnishings and in ideas for their most effective use.

They invite you to visit them and to enjoy Debut '72. And to sign up for that dream home that they will be helping to give away.



THIS $20,000 MODULAR dream house built by General Shelter Corp. as its contribution to the home furnishing industry's Debut '72 campaign was selected by American Home Magazine for its October issue cover story. It will soon become home to some lucky family as first prize in the Debut '72 Home Fashions Sweepstakes. Would-be winners can sign up at any of the participating stores. The house is built of four plywood, steel and glass components, is fully carpeted throughout, stands two stories, and includes a living room, a sleeping balcony, three bedrooms, a Hotpoint-equipped kitchen, two completely fixtured bathrooms and outside decks. It is both heated and air-conditioned.

Renaissance In The Home Is Under Way

Social prophets are forecasting a renaissance in the home for the 1970s.

Whether it's a high rise apartment, townhouse, plastic bubble, commune, or the traditional house, home is where we are going to spend much of our time this decade.

Among the popular social and economic theories cited in support of this prediction, the most frequent is the reaction to the population explosion which prompts us to seek a refuge, a haven, and an identity.

FORTUNATELY, THE manufacturers who produce those things which furnish our homes, are more tuned in to the dawning of the age of the consumer than ever before. They realize that relatively few of us live in grand-scale houses. Some of us live in mobile homes, other actually have attic or garage apartments. And all of us need help in decorating.

They have realized that great numbers of us prefer the eclectic or mixed look, and do not seek matched pieces. Many are designing complete collections blending a variety of elements for a ready-made eclectic look. Others are creating individual designs to be selected from to fit that special need.

As with our cities, we are going to be moving up, not out, in our homes. This calls for furniture that makes use of wall space. Interchangeable systems that bunch horizontally and vertically, etageres, bookcases, dividers, hanging wall units, tall slim chinas and armoires, will all be important to our new decorating.

EQUALLY IMPORTANT will be furniture that goes anywhere and serves several functions. Our mobility, life styles and houses dictate multi-purpose, flexible furniture.

Disappearing will be the huge pieces, which, even if you can get them on the elevator, seldom go through an apartment door.

Increasing will be more and more maintenance free furnishings. Much of the real excitement of the 1970s will generate from the multitude of new materials pouring out of the laborities. Ease of maintenance, reduced costs, and design expansion are the chief by-products of these new test-tube wonders.

GREATER VARIETY will be ours. Inexpensive things that fill the need, but can be thrown out in five years without a trace of guilt, are already here. An enormous range of colors, bright to add sparkle to the life of someone with a routine occupation, soft for those seeking serenity after a hectic day.

The '70s promise to be the decade in which "express yourself" is not only good advice but a realistic possibility.

THIS ROOM FOR the apartment of young moderns was designed by the editors of Modern Bride for comfort and the contemporary feeling preferred by the younger generations. A multi-purpose wall unit forms a backdrop for white vinyl sofas and a handsome lounge chair, all by Dux Furniture. It is a room that takes a strong stand on color. Modern Bride used a red, white and green combination with dazzling effect. The room was a part of Modern Bride's portfolio of Debut '72 rooms featured in that magazine's September issue. Other rooms featured the same bright, airy treatment. Ziff-Davis Publishing Co. is the Modern Bride publisher.

What Total Decor Means

Total decorating is a much used phrase these days that sounds simultaneously completely clear and totally confusing!

However, the concept is perhaps the most significant aspect of your personal decorating, and not nearly as abstract as it may first appear.

ANYONE WHO has purchased on impulse, a lamp that was the wrong height for a table or an area rug whose colors screech against the draperies has already had a lesson in the importance of total decorating.

Total decorating is simply a total plan — in your head, if no place else — of each area in your home. A complete image of a room, first of what you will need. Do you need a sofa, or sectional seating? Do you need a table next to a chair? Where do you need lighting? Is there a place for the TV or stereo?

What will you be doing in this room and how can you furnish to suit those needs?

THEN, THE look should be visualized. Formal or casual? Bright or serene? Lots of pattern or splashes of it? Woods, plastics, metal and glass, or a combination?

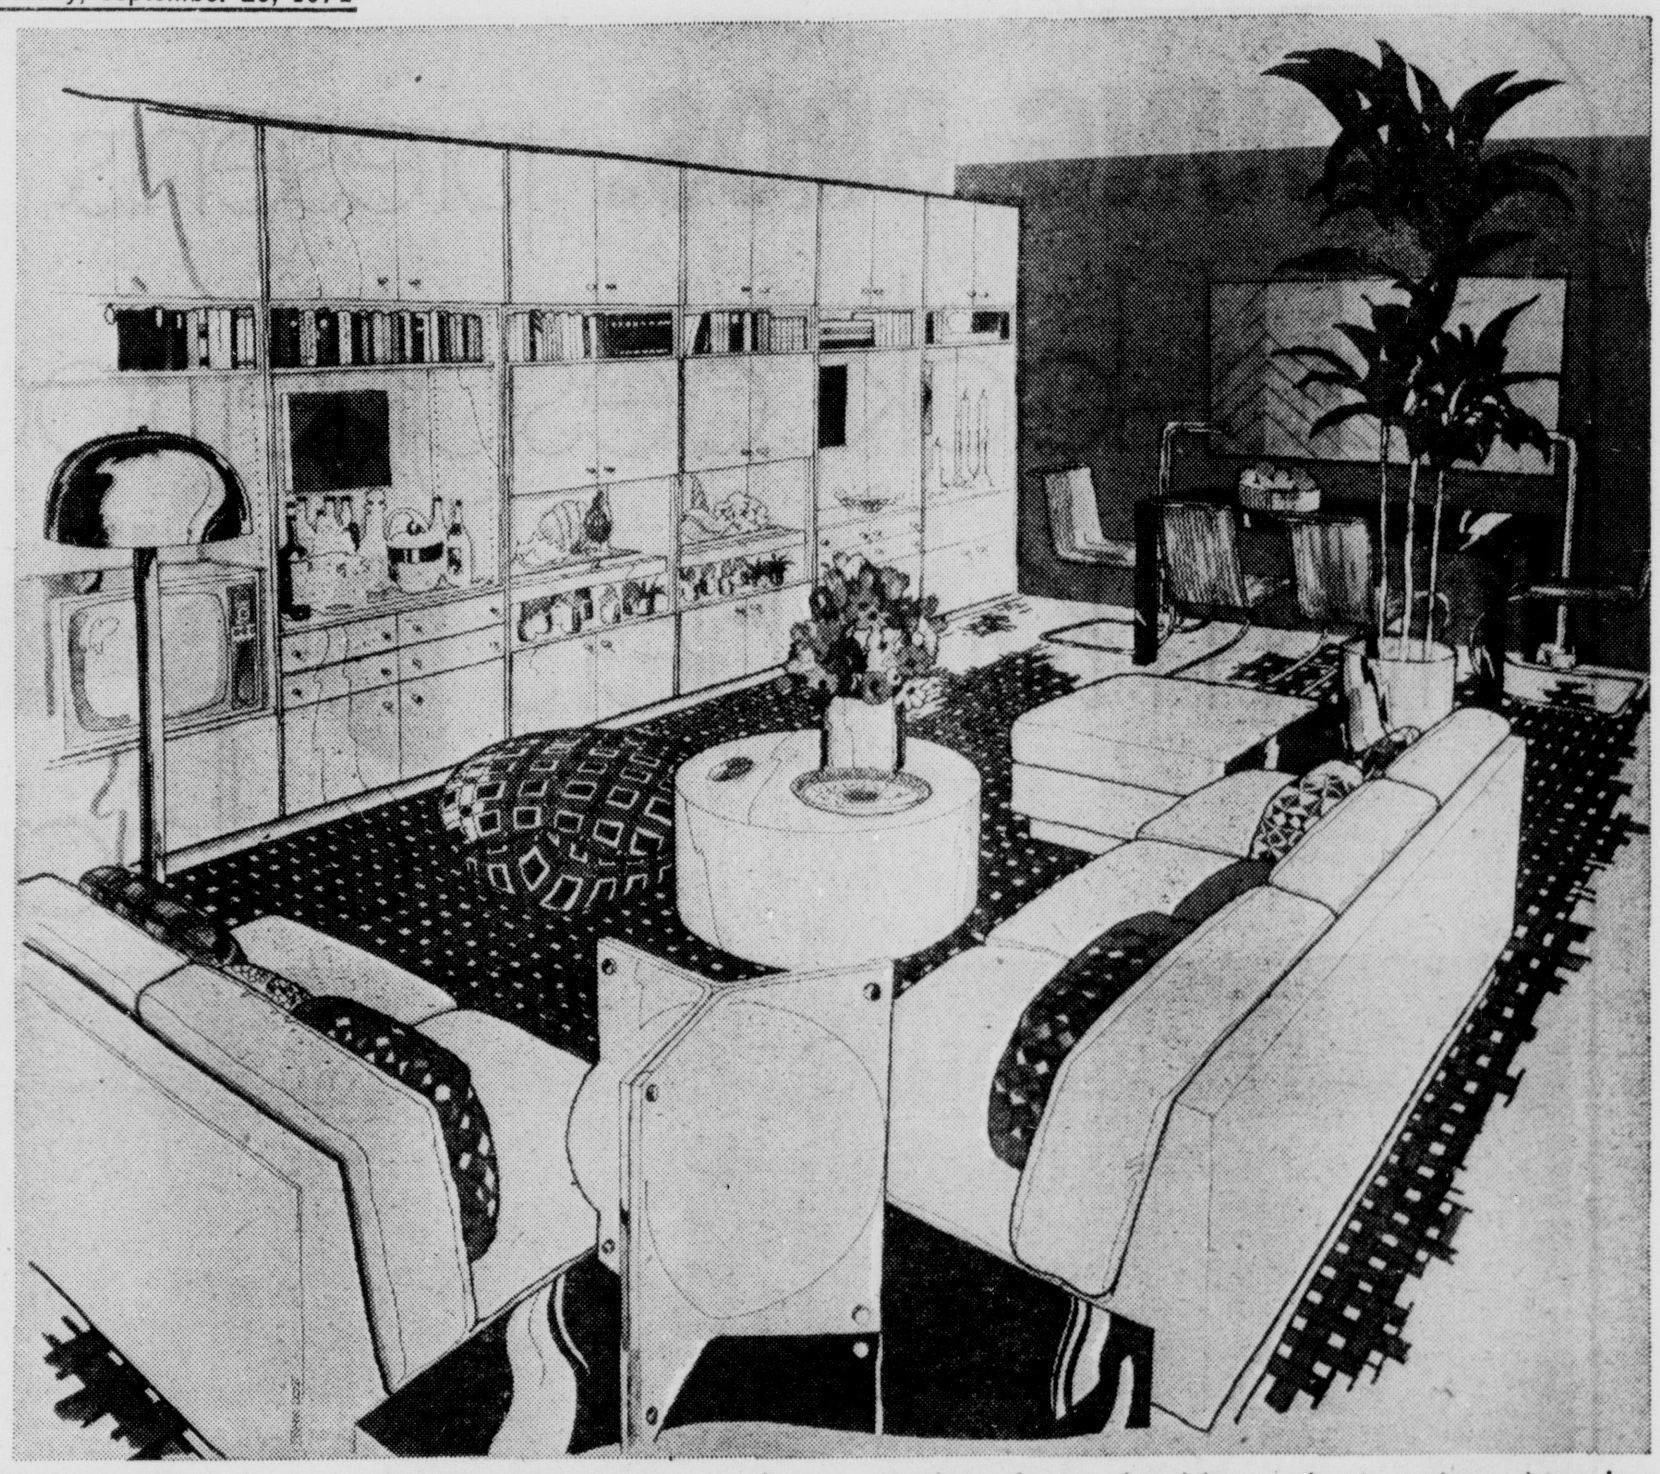
Most people can determine what their needs will be very easily. Not as many can visualize how they would like a room to look. You can learn in detail by studying the room settings in good home furnishings stores, and in the home fashions pages of newspapers and magazines.

When you see a setting that you respond to, ask yourself why. First, what is the total atmosphere: light and cheerful, formal and gracious, casual and inviting, dramatic and different?

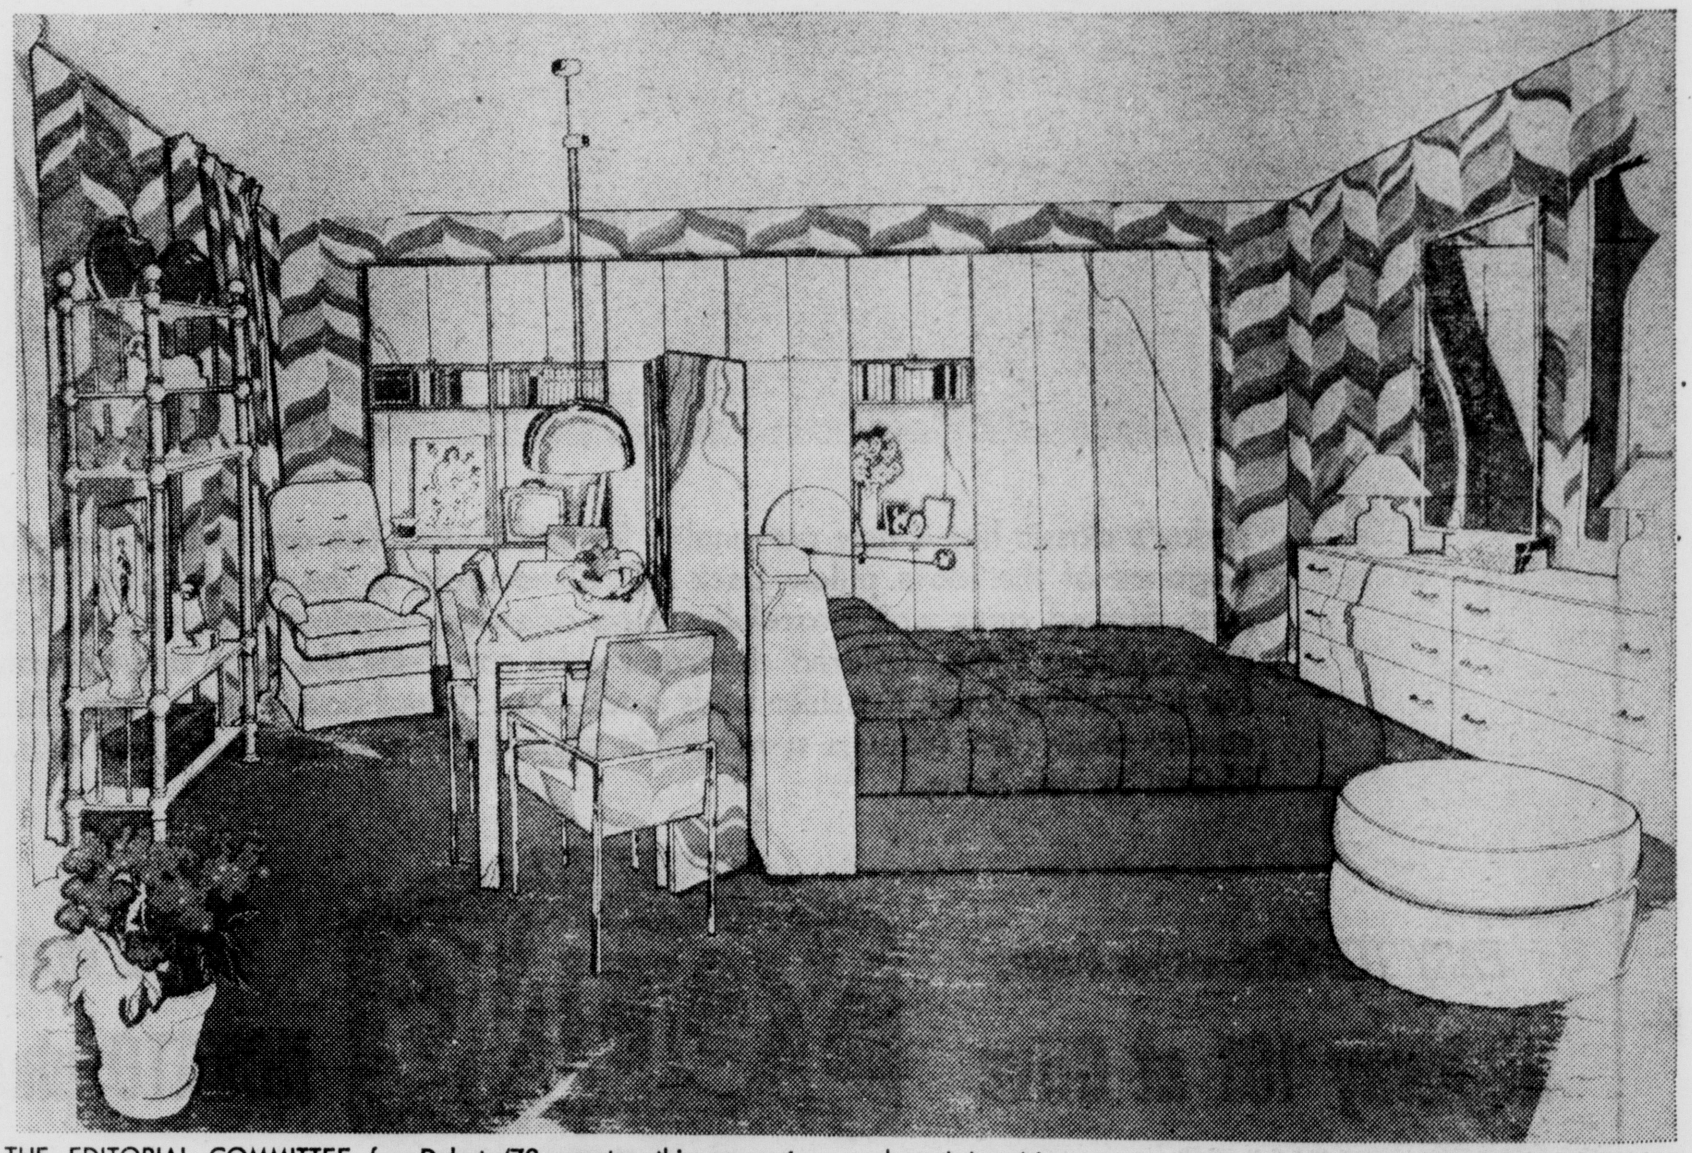
BUT DON'T stop there. Analyze each element in the room in terms of size, color, finish, texture, placement. Ask yourself what any particular item does to the total picture. Does the texture of the rug enhance the smooth velvet on the chair? Does the bookcase provide a balance for the sofa on the other wall? Would the chair and table make as pleasing a grouping without the floor lamp?

You will undoubtedly discover that everything has been placed in the setting in relationship to all things around it, much as you would evaluate the relationship of colors when painting, or composition when taking a photograph. This is not unlike the way you would buy a costume.

That is purely and simply what total decorating is all about. It is by far the most practical, and the most rewarding approach to use.



FOR NEWLYWEDS beginning their married lives in a studio apartment, or for live-alones, multi-purpose furnishings can be a savior. Here the living area has been planned for multiple use, including entertaining that can be so important to the social lives of a young couple. The furniture was selected for its sleek, contemporary use, chosen for its adaptability, so that it can be used in a larger home when the couple moves to new quarters. Note particularly the generous storage for both funcitonal and ornamental objects made available by the modular wall unit. Such storage is too often lacking in the apartment. The bold color and pattern scheme complements the youthful spirits of the occupants.



THE EDITORIAL COMMITTEE for Debut '72 creates this room to illustrate the living bedroom concept for "home-free-agains" — the parents whose children have now gone off to school or gotten married. The room is designed to serve not only as a bedroom, but also as a retreat, study and sitting room. It offers privacy and serenity as it incorporates a sleeping area, storage wall, study-brunch-breakfast-sewing area, collection display and recliner into the space of one room. Living bedrooms are also popular with parents whose offspring have taken over the rest of the house, leaving them without a place to pursue their own hobbies and interests. This room is a whimsical, sunny yellow. But a warmer, gracious color could be used with equal effectiveness.

DEBUT '72

We're not quite settled yet . . . but we're opening anyway

. . . you know how it is, getting settled in a new area. So much to do! We had hoped to have everything perfect for the opening of Debut '72. We've painted, primped and fussed, and there's still so much to do. Our Design Staff has created a whole gallery of exquisitely furnished and accessorized room settings for you to admire, browse in, learn from . . . even order, if you like . . . in whole or in part. Many are ready, and beautiful we think . . . like the Country French room, complete with parquet brick floor and tiled hearth. Or the Chinese Chippendale setting with its magnificent Chinoiserie secretary . . . or the Contemporary Suite, sparkling with chrome and glass, warmed with suede and natural cork. There's much much more. Our staff is working even as we go to press. And, even if our ladders and levels show a bit when you come in, we think you'd like to get a sneak preview of the special kind of store we plan to be. A store of brand names and custom quality. A store of far-reaching ideas and fair prices. A store of service. A store for everyone. Come in Sunday, noon to five. We'll trade coffee & compliments.

EARLY AMERICAN furnishings have given this bedroom an air of elegance and relaxation. Ethan Allen Debut '72 furniture is mated with Bigelow's Longmeadow shag carpet in a rich royal plum, while wallpaper is by Katzenbach and Warren and the lamp by Stiffel. The setting was designed by Carole Frankel.

Know Your Styles, But Pick Freely

Quality and personal preference should be the guidelines for anyone about to decorate or redecorate her home.

The battle pitch between the traditionalists and the modern buffs will go on forever. Don't let it mislead or confuse you. You must base your selection of furnishings on suitability to your life style, your budget, and your own creative tastes.

Since your home is your personal domain, don't fool around with anything that doesn't strongly appeal to you. In the words of the young "Do your own thing."

Debut '72, the nationwide home furnishings event which is being promoted locally by 10 Marin retailers Sunday through Oct. 9, offers you the unique opportunity to see and hear about the newest product of the home furnishings industry.

EVERY AREA will be covered, from furniture, right down to accessories. Coordination of the various elements that make up a room will be stressed, not to suggest stereotyped interiors, but to provide ideas hat you can interpret in your own fashion.

Today's manufacturer of furniture is well aware of your space limitations. Long-time traditional and Early American favorites have been scaled down to fit into smaller room areas. Flexibility and multi-functioning have become important design concepts.

New introductions include all sorts of horizontal and vertical systems which make walls play an integral part of the room. You will find an endless variety of bunching chests, etageres, dividers, hanging units, tall chinas, armoires, etc., all of which provide more living in the same space.

While wood will, of course, continue to be the primary material for the production of furniture, most manufacturers are researching and developing products of plastics, which simulate as well as stand on their own virtues. Quality, ease of maintenance, and design vitality have become production criteria.

FUNCTION, OF course, is basic. But don't let it be the "Be-all, end-all" of your planning. Advance thinking-through of your floor plan will help to make each of your rooms serve its purposes with convenience and comfort while sparking your own innovative freedom.

Most people start their decorating plan by selecting a furniture style. Major styles are:

EARLY AMERICAN: A design bounty from America's early settlers, with warmth, informality and rugged construction. Woods are usually maple, pine or cherry.

PROVINCIAL: Delicate, yet rustic styles of European inspiration which can veer towards Early American informality or more formal traditional pieces.

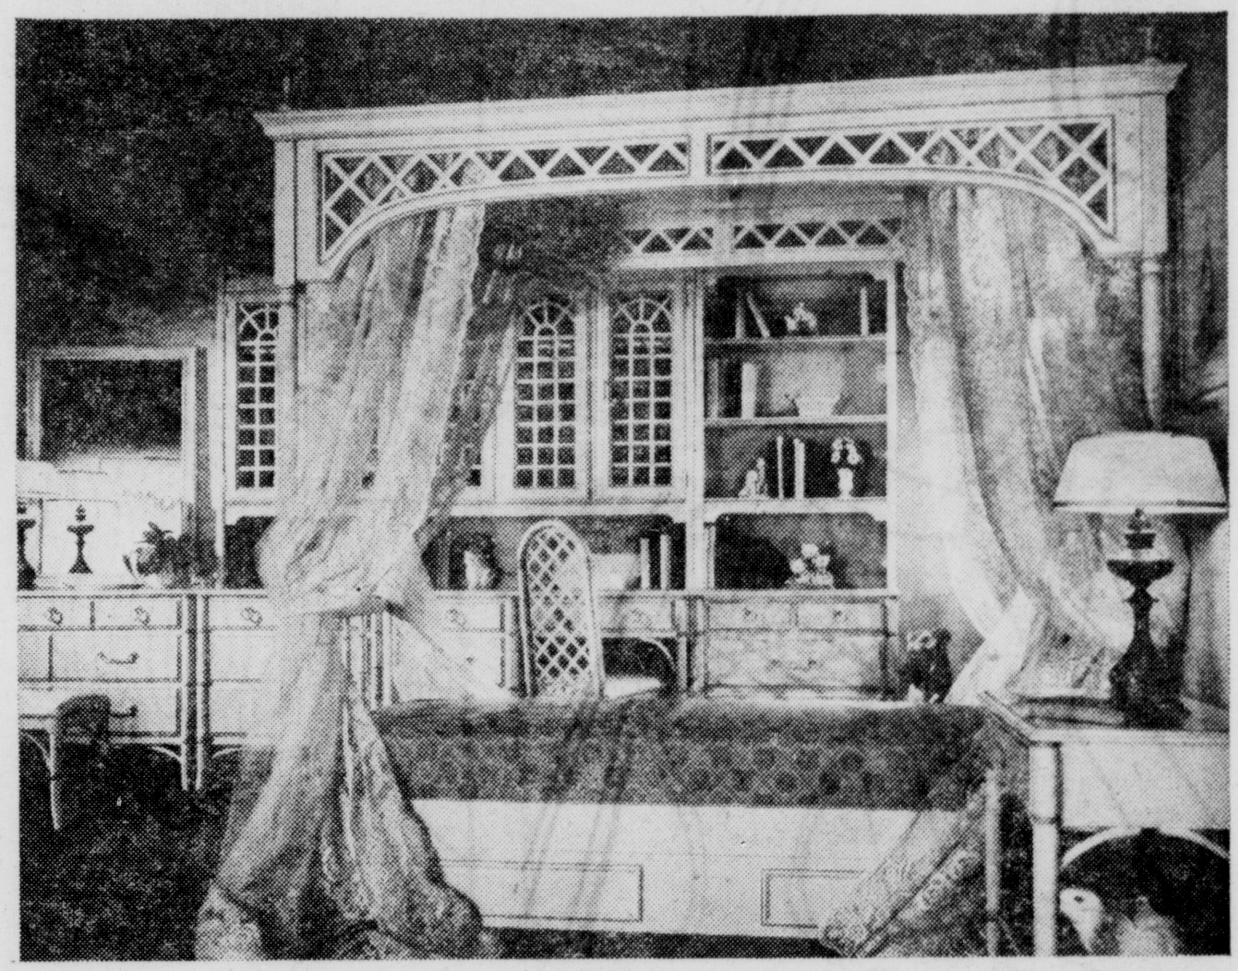
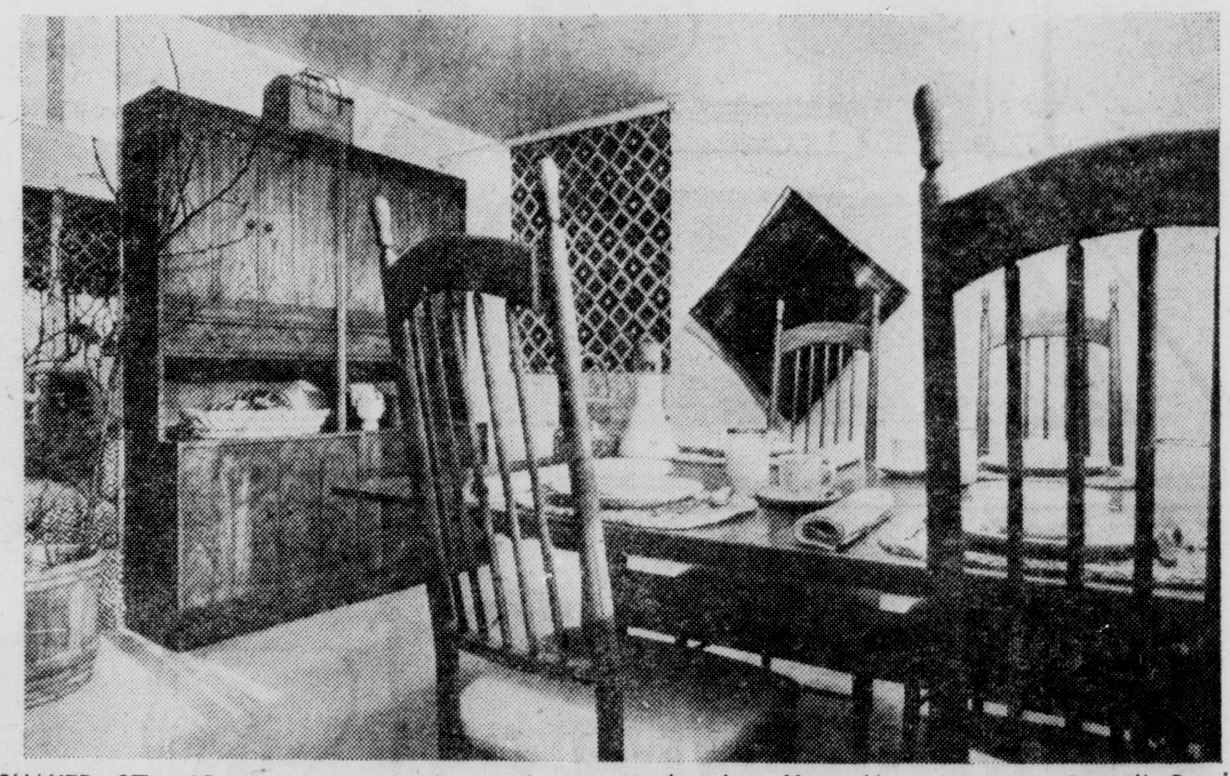
ECLECTIC: A typically American trend, which allows complete freedom of selection of various pieces, combining them with a blithes, personal spirit.

THE CONTEMPORARY styling of this Thomasville collection, the Sans Sei, has been given an Oriental touch for added flair. Thus we have both the understated and graceful lines of contemporary design, and the ornamentation, particularly in the curving legs of platform bases and chairs, that are definitely in the tradition of the Far East.



THE BRIGHTON Collection, a Debut '72 introduction by Thomasville, was inspired by gay English resort furnishings. It comes in brushed off-white with green or pink trim, or brushed daffodil with white trim, and is especially suited for the teenager's room. The plastic tops minimize upkeep worries.



SHAKER STYLING is a particularly appealing version of Early American furniture as demonstrated in this dining room created for Debut '72 by American Home Magazine, using Drexel's Benchcraft group and a camel-colored, nylon-pile carpeting by Trend. The wall sculpture is by Susan Weitzman.

Furnishings That Fit Your Life Style

From The 'Nearlyweds' To The 'Home-Free-Agains'

The kind of home you have, its size or its magnificence, is of little importance. None of us require a vaulted temple for gracious living.

However, whatever it's like, our home becomes our castle and our refuge. Its atmosphere helps to mold and solifify family life, stabilize our day-to-day living habits, and develop for us a place of warmth and serenity.

Homes differ . . . and viva la difference. Some people require a cozy little nest, while others will create a home interior that is geared to a constant round of people and parties. Each of us has divergent views of how to use our home space, and often these views change as we progress from one life style to another.

DURING THE DEBUT '72 home fashions event, Sunday througgh Oct. 9, our Marin stores will gear environmental displays and promotional events to four progressive life styles: the "nearlyweds," the "newlyweds," the "on-the-way ups," and the "home-free agains."

Under the leadership of the Home Furnishings Council Inc., the home furnishings industry (suppliers, wholesalers, manufacturers, and retailers) has banded together to visually demonstrate the important contribution interior furnishings can make to one's well-being.

In today's world, the "nearlyweds" have more money to spend than any other generation before them.

While many young girls no longer have hope chests, per se, they are formulating their tastes, evaluating their desires, and purchasing items that can be used in their future homes. No longer is the furnishing choice left solely in the hands of the girl. It is a combined effort of the couple.

FOR THIS GROUP, Debut '72 displays will be invaluable, since they will cover all styles of furnishings and mixes, an will run the gamut of prices, proving that attractive interiors can fit into any budget formula.

"Newlyweds" will number 2,250,000 in 1971. Many will purchase basic items before the wedding and continue to add to these during the next several years. Since both partners will probably be working, this couple will be seeking products that require little upkeep and care.

Because of their dual incomes, they will be in a position to make major purchases that will continue to be used during their lifetime.

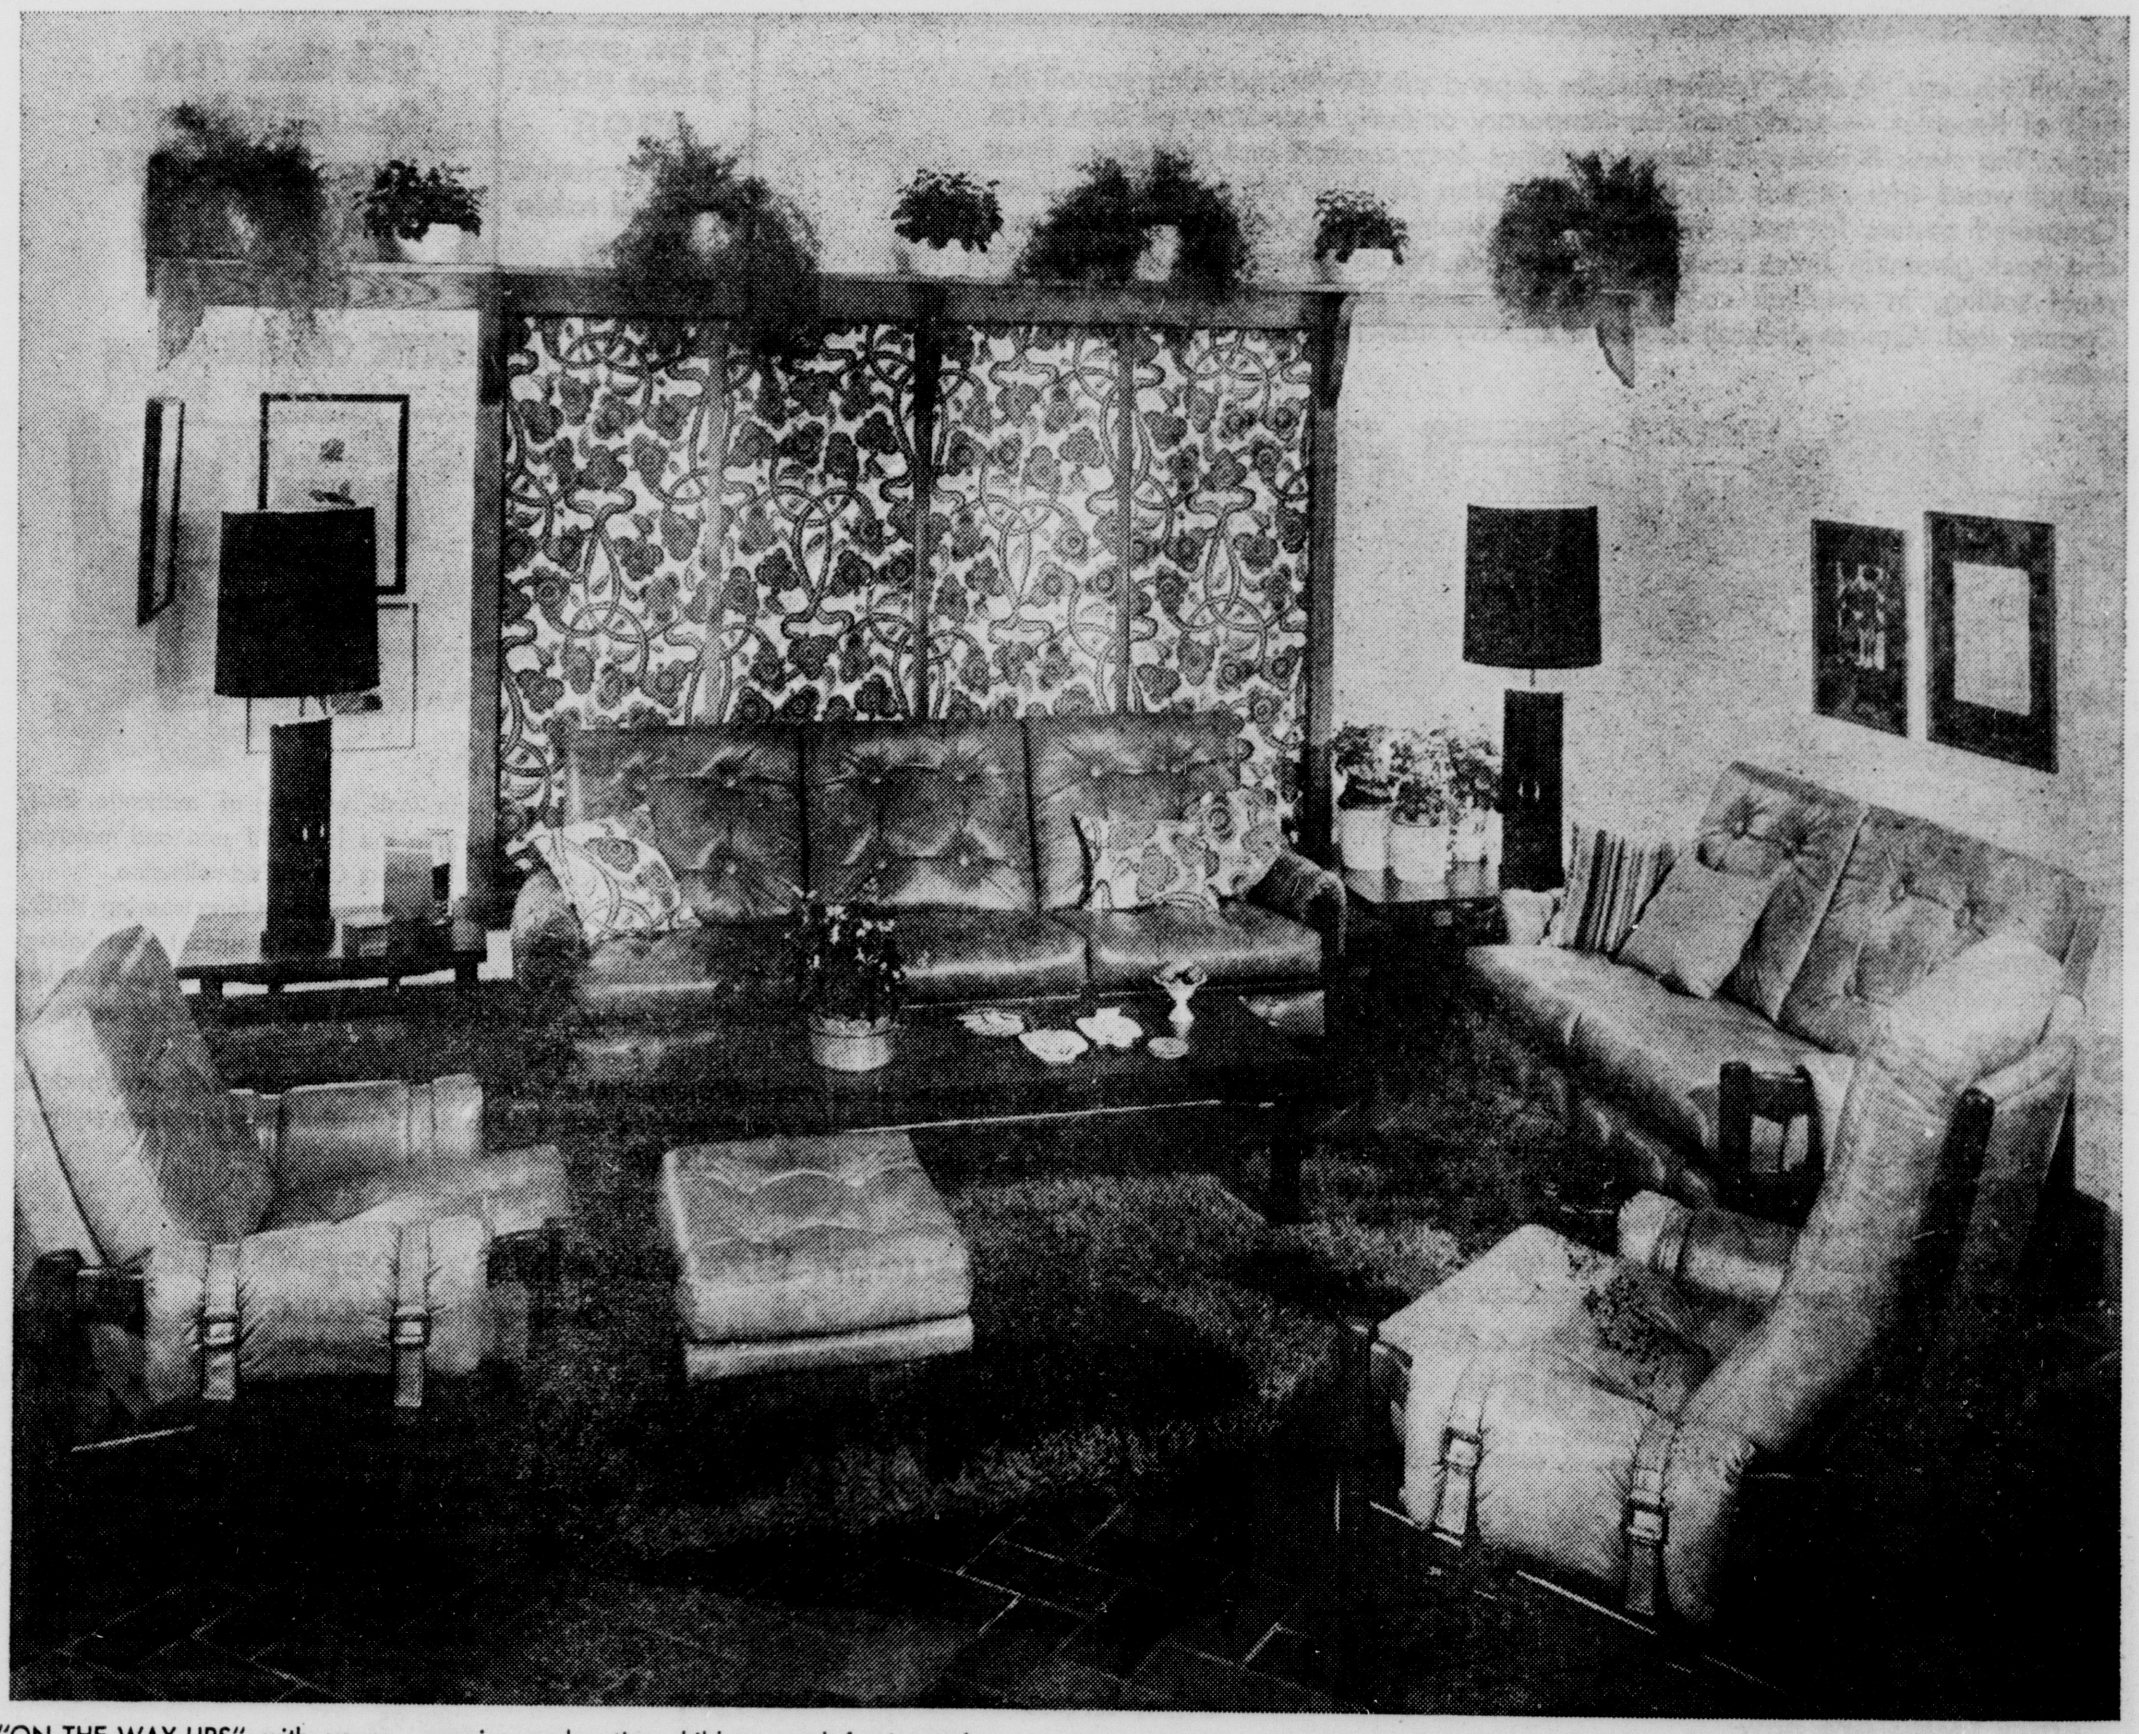
"On-the-way-ups" are usually in the midst of child-rearing. Their homes change to meet the needs of a growing family . . . more space, more equipment, more long-wearing and easily maintained products, to free mother from morning till night chores.

THIS YEAR WILL be a big one for the "home-free-agains." It will mark the Silver Anniversary year of those married in 1946, the biggest wedding year we ever had.

With their children grown and having left the nest, many in this group will find their homes too large and filled with now, unused and obsolete furnishings. They are ready for a whole new life, geared to fulfilling their personal ambitions and desires.

Interior furnishings, patterned for modern life styles and living needs, are available now. Adaptability is a keynote factor in practically all home furnishings design concepts. Whether you're in the practicality-plus-style, stage; the grace and grandeur period, or the classic simplicity mood, Debut '72 will lead the way to new enjoyment of your home.

The home furnishings industry knows that today's consumer is far different than yesterday's. She is more creative, more imaginative, knows better quality and demands that she receive value for her dollar. With program such as Debut '72 and the ones to follow for the next five years, the industry will have much more direct communication with consumers across the country and will be able, more efficiently, to fulfill their requirements.



"ON-THE-WAY-UPS" with young, growing and active children need furniture that is sturdy and can stand a lot of use and abuse. This family group by Berkline fills those requirements, with an added resistance to staining. It includes a recliner in which dad can tilt to television-watching position or shift full-out for a nap. The chair at right is the recliner, covered to match the rest of the group in palomino poromeric. Buckled straps of the chairs, sofa and love seat are repeated as trim for the lamps. And these, with tables, complete the Berklin assemblage. The simple window treatment is a no-care idea — fabric panels installed on suction rods for easy removal for laundering. High-up plants do require some attention, but, say homemakers, are worth the effort because of the freshness they lend to the atmosphere. Over tile floors, easily maintained, there's a rya rug to tie colors and furnishings together.

Living Space Counts

Do You Get Best Use Out Of The Room?

Scientists remind us daily of our shrinking spaces. Nobody knows the facts more intimately than today's homemaker.

She is the real 20th Century space expert, juggling an ever increasing assortment of people, things and activities in a limited amount of living space, called home.

The space age technique for this miraculous feat is to look at our living spaces from a new point of view. Examine them less as separate rooms marked "bedroom" or "kitchen," but rather as living spaces for people.

EUPHEMISTIC? Not at all. Try walking through your home, reviewing it in terms of your life style.

Ignore a room's official name, and evaluate the amount of actual living available in each area. Are there spaces for togetherness, and privacy? Spaces for eating in a variety of moments and moods? Spaces for hobbies, work, entertaining? Is there, for example, a favorite family hobby crammed into a closet or corner of the basement while a dining room sit useless the majority of th time?

HERE'S A 24-HOUR dining room, geared for around-the-clock livability. Flair's Debut '72 dining-plus room puts versatile furniture to work to create an area for dining, games, social correspondence, reading and relaxing. One multi-use piece, the game table, has a flip top that opens to double the table-top space and make sufficient space for a dinner for six. The bench, ottoman and desk chair all can fill in as extra at-the-table seating. Along the wall are ceiling-high storage units that can house all the accessories of family fun and relaxation.

Bedrooms and dining rooms tend to be the biggest wastelands.

A dining room can be the children's study area, a contemporary version of the library, a greenhouse for an indoor gardener. Properly thought out, it can even be the guest room.

THE BEDROOM offers even greater versatility because you can close the door on cluttering hobbies, without feeling the need to explain to unexpected guests.

Think of a bed standing away from the wall, with the back panel of a room divider acting as a headboard. The "room side" of the divider is a bookcase, a desk or sewing surface, a television cabinet or other interest center. For a more convention look, leave the bed against the wall and use a wall system which will offer bookcases, working surfaces, as well as chests of drawers which eliminate the need for space consuming dressers.

If in reviewing your home, you find that some of your valuable living space is locked into a single function . . . a costly luxury today . . . think of your activities and interests that need better or more convenient accommodation. This is known as decorating for your life style.

CHANCES ARE that restricted function in a given area is the result of single purpose furniture . . . a large dining table that will not adapt to any other function, perhaps, or a huge triple dresser that is strictly dresser and ignores the wall space above it.

After your living spaces tour, take another walk, this one through a Marin home furnishing store. Ask to see the multi-purpose furniture. You'll discover a new world of super-engineered furniture . . . interchangeable, rearrangeable, versatile and functional.

There are wall systems that offer storage space for everything from a cassette player to shirts and socks, that not only replace the buffet and china, but provide a dining table as well. File cabinets become night stands. Hassocks double as storage units. Chairs which serve as beds by night. Chairs that stack. Game tables which double in size to serve dinner for eight. Dining tables that drop down from wall storage to also double as desks.

THE LIST is endless.

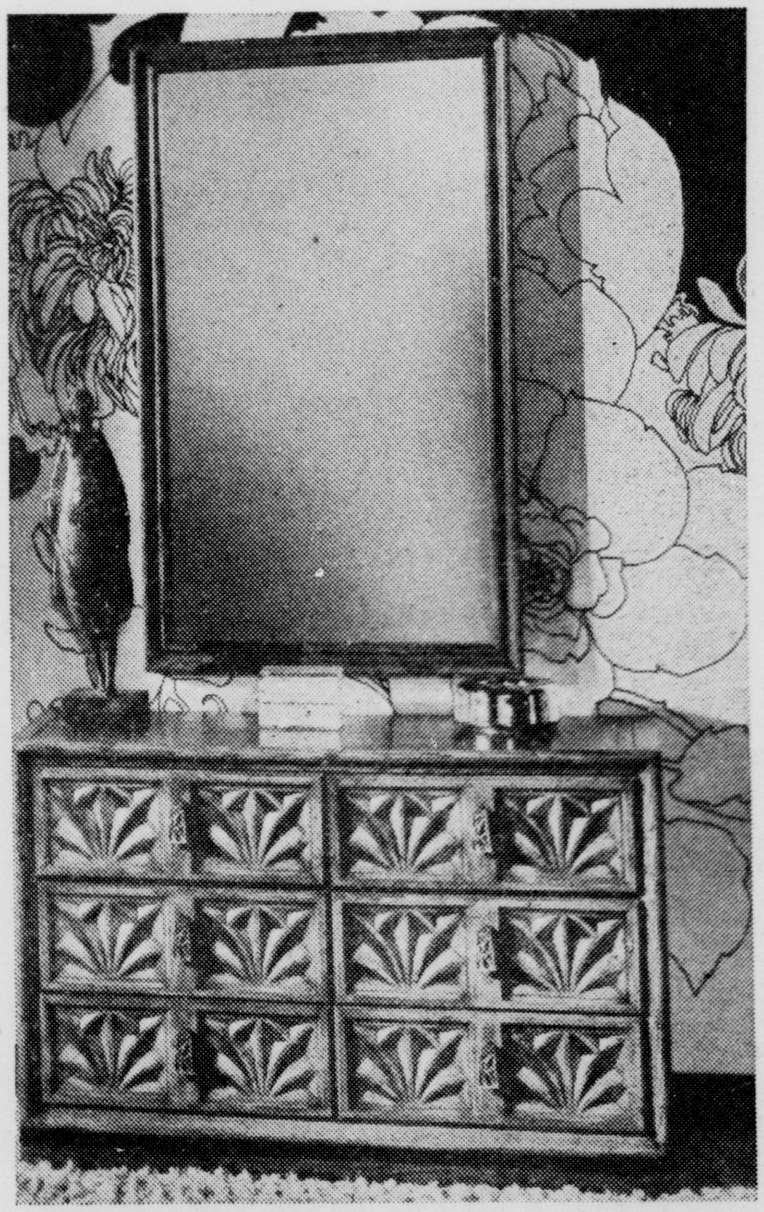
The multi-purpose marvels are your greatest allies in the battle against diminishing spaces. They can help you convert mere rooms into living spaces.



FLEXIBLE FURNITURE such as this dresser and mirror from the Spindrift Collection by Kenlea Division of Lea Industries can be used in any room of the house. It fits perfectly in bedroom, foyer, or even dining or living room. With a slightly primitive look, the pecan case features drawer fronts in a leafy jungle pattern.

THIS BEDROOM HAS been made into a hideaway villa in a Spanish mood with furniture and do-it-yourself ideas that let you work, study, sit or sleep, all in one room. The elegant furniture in a royal gold oak tone is from the Castillian III Group by Gracemark Division of Lea Industries. Both the combination bookcase and desk and the screen that divides sleeping and seating areas are easy for do-it-yourselfers to put together. All is done in warm, earthy colors. It is part of Lea Industries' Debut '72 presentation of innovative room setting.

The Child Can Learn From His Home

A Room Can Spur His Appreciation Of Beauty

Love and acceptance are unquestionably the best "furnishings" for a child's room, be it simple or showcase.

Yet this home — the child's center of the universe — includes its furnishings, and they are part of all the things that say home to him. It only follows that they can work with or against the more important emotional climate in the home.

Most young parents think of durability, guard rails for bunk beds, rounded edges for safety, and whether the furnishings are appropriate for a little boy or girl.

FURNISHINGS can help parents in teaching responsibility and sharing. They can be part of the child's first knowledge of color, form and artistic appreciation. The child who grows up in a setting that is deeply meaningful to him will thereafter treat any environment with love and respect.

On the other hand, a child who grows up in an environment that has no pleasant or personal meaning, cannot be expected to care about any environment anywhere, later in life.

Creating a home for the family's enrichment is not merely the selection of good furnishings. One of the first considerations is not to make a child feel like an intruder in his parent's well-ordered house, among their treasured possessions.

If he is taught to appreciate and respect these possessions, and feel they are part of his world, he has learned an important lesson.

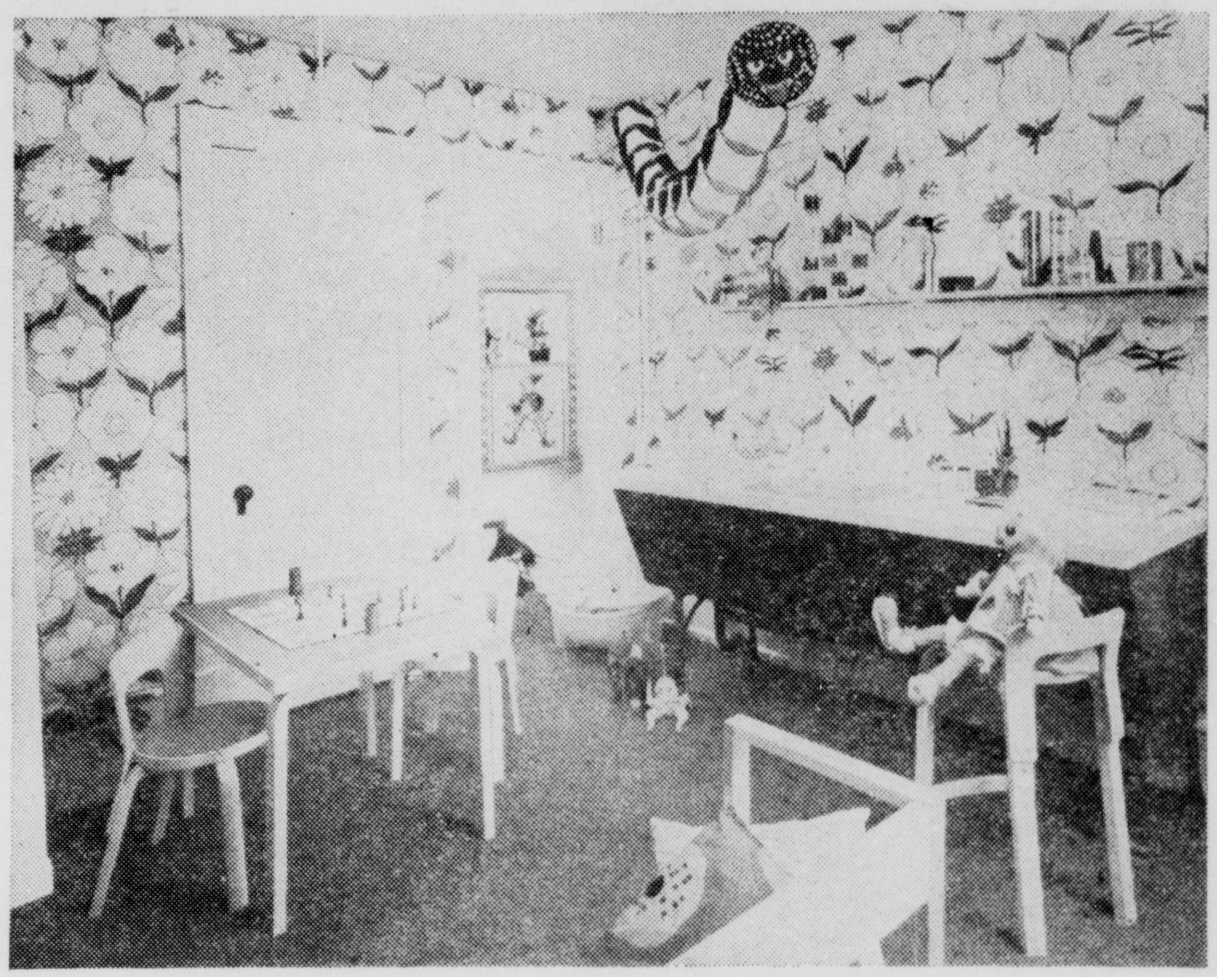
In furnishing a home for children, allow the space for a child to grow as he does. A newborn likes rather confined areas. As he begins to explore, he needs an unprohibited play area. When his interests widen, and possessions accumulate, his space needs continue to grow. And with them, his emotional needs. He usually becomes fiercely possessive about those things that belong to him and needs an area that is marked exclusively his, even if it's only a corner or a storage chest.

This can be a time when interest in things of beauty or good books can be introduced, and take their place in the prized possessions, along with the rabbit's foot and yoyo.

During the teen-age period, the child seeks and needs privacy. It may not be possible for each child to have a private room, but there should be private areas. These can often be achieved with a room divider, a personal desk, or a chest with a lock on it.

THE SOLUTION to the need for privacy offers an opportunity to teach the understanding for everyone's need for it.



BEFORE DESIGNER Kate Gaydos went to work on this room, it was an eyesore with cracked walls, peeling floor tiles, a single light bulb dangling from a cord, and hand-me-down furniture. She transformed it into a delightful, well-lit, airy playroom of which any child would be proud. And what were once wash tubs for a laundry room have become a useful part of the decor. Miss Gaydos started with Topside, the Lees indoor-outdoor carpet, for the floor, and repeated its grass green color along with red, white, blue and yellow in the wallpaper. The carpeting wipes clean and stands up to the hardest wear. The rest of the "furnishings" and games strike the whimsical note preferred by tykes.

The point is not a matter of furnishing a picture-book home. The most professionally designed house is not necessarily a home. However, a thoughtfully furnished home on any budget, can play an integral part in creating a healthy environment for the developing child. That child, having had a respect for his needs, will learn respect for others, will understand sharing, will know the real value of possessions.

Trained early in life to appreciate beauty, it will become a necessity, not a luxury.

Home Lighting Can Be Much More Than Decorative

No matter what room in your home you are thinking about, lighting is an essential part of the overall concept. It can optically lengthen a room or give it height. It can emphasize or diminsh, as you prefer.

It should never be considered as an after-thought. Rather, lighting should be planned to fit with the style, furnishings and spirit of a room.

AS PART of the Debut '72 nation-wide home furnishings event, you'll have the chance to see the latest innovations in home lighting, via room settings and vignettes at our participating Marin retail stores. Placed in a coordinated environment, lamps and lighting fixtures will take on a new meaning to you and will help you visualize how they might look in your own home.

Ceiling fixtures come in infinite variety — pull-down; recessed; spot-light, etc. Wall fixtures, back in popularity, run the design gamut.

Floor lamps, which provide a vertical element, have arms that swing, shades that swivel. Table lamps are big and small, fashioned from all available materials — ceramics, plastics, wood, metal, etc.

In addition, there is, of course, built-in lighting which contributes mightily to a home's total unity.

HERE ARE SOME general suggestions for suitable lighting for various areas in the home:

Entrance: Ceiling or wall fixture lighting

Dining Room: Light directed downward to table.

Kitchen: Lighting directed onto work centers.

Bathroom: Shadowless lighting near the mirror.

Bedrooms: Direct and indirect lighting to suit multi-needs of reading in bed; dressing; desk work, etc.

Halls: Overall ceiling lighting.

Stairways: Downward lighting to avoid accidents.

LIGHTING SHOULD always be functional as well as decorative. No matter how attractive the effect may seem, if a lamp is too dim or too glaring, it just doesn't fulfill the need.

When positioning a table or floor lamp be sure that the bottom of the lamp shade is at eye level for the person using the lamp. In working areas, place your lamp to avoid shadows. Wall fixtures with incandescent bulbs should be placed about 66 inches above the floor.

Check the lampshades, too. An opaque one is good for reading, while a transluscent shade is better for applying makeup.

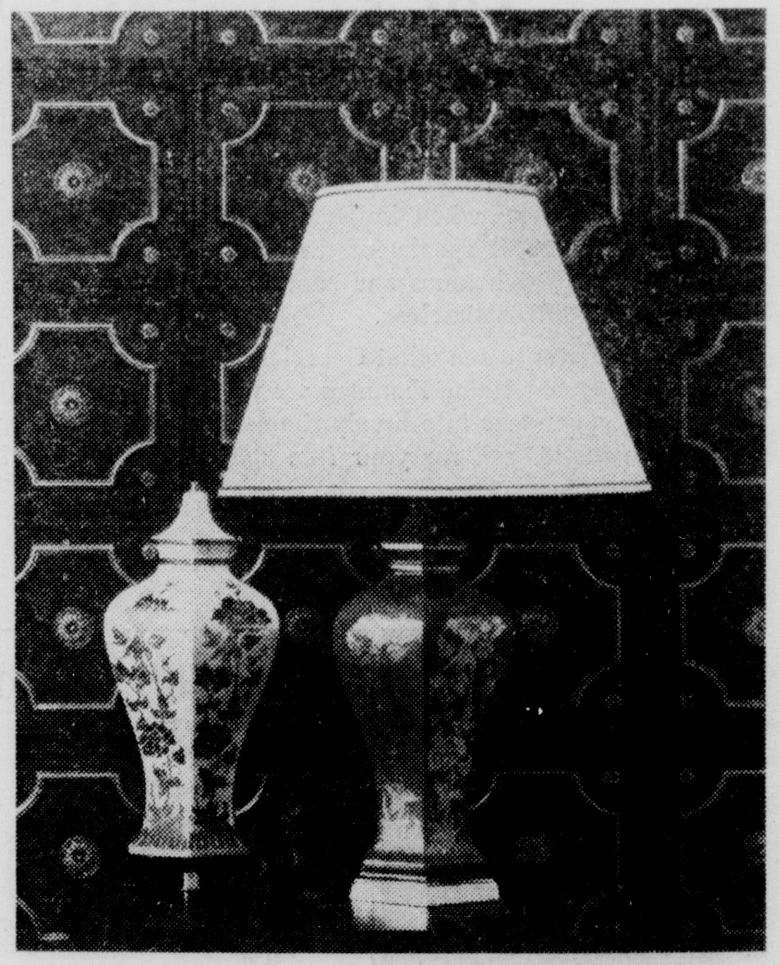
Wall colors are important when considering the effects of lighting. Light colored walls and ceilings will reflect, while deeper, darker tones do not have good reflective qualities.

Colored illumination makes a difference in a room, too. White light shows colors as they are. Warm light brightens warm colors, deadens blues and purples. Cool light has a tendency to separate objects from each other.

As with other elements of furnishings lighting can set up a pattern of design, which can run through the entire home.

Light can be employed to create an atmosphere. Bright light is stimulating. Softly diffused light will give a feeling of spaciousness. Low levels of brightness are restful and relaxing.

Spotlights can be used to dramatize a certain area to create a focal point of interest in a room.



THE RICHNESS AND beauty of Oriental antiquity highlights this new Phil-Mar Dynasty series table lamp from Thomas Industries Inc. Thirty-four inches tall, the lamp, with its four-sided ginger jar base, features a gold carnation design on a glazed olive, ebony or white jade base. Its 15-inch-high empire shade is of white textured fabric over translucent styrene. Another variation features a chromecoat shade matching the base.

AT RIGHT — NEARLYWEDS-NEWLYWEDS. Gracious dining begins with the dining table. Around this table go the chairs which lend individuality and charm to the dining area. This beautiful, but compact, drop leaf table is intimate for two and gracious for four. The rocking loveseat and chair adds charm and comfort. The space required — next to none! Perfectly scaled pieces to fit any Nearlywed or Newlyweds first apartment. Storage problem? The corner china uses space that always went to waste.

BELOW — On The Way Ups. Candlelight Pine heightens your sense of history and inspires nostalgia for America's Colonial past. It was an honorable time, when devoted craftsmen labored with love over each and every piece of furniture. Wood, one of the noblest materials known to man, was shaped and finished with reverence. Nothing was hurried. True to such tradition, Williams' dining room designs are worked in pine solids and veneers combined with cabinet hardwoods, both solids and veneers, and treated to a warm candlelight finish. There is a strong sense of today in this furniture scale and engineering. And yet as a collection, its communion with the past is clear.

AT RIGHT — HOME-FREES. French kings held court in their opulent boudoirs. Winston Churchill, smoking his breakfast cigar, conducted cabinet meetings from his bed during the war. Matisse sketched, Puccini composed, Mark Twain wrote — all in bed. One day Samuel Johnson advised young men "that nobody who does not rise early will ever do any good." He then proceeded to announce that he himself never got out of bed before noon. Pennsylvania House knows that bedrooms are special places. That's why their bedroom pieces convey a special warmth and intimacy. # Beauty Begins With Design Mastery . . . as in BENCHCRAFT

by Drexel

AT LEFT — The Shaker craftsmen who made furniture like this sought perfection. Beauty was a happy by-product! Now, Drexel brings this Shaker philosophy to life again, in a collection any connoisseur would be proud to own. Splendid shapes created a century and a half ago, with a self-sufficient grace that couldn't be more contemporary. With the warmth of woods in sturdy pecan solids, pecky pecan and figured pecan veneers. Choose the glow of fruitwood or selected pieces in warm country colors of blue, red, green and spice. All tops are super-finished for stain resistance. See this newest Drexel collection for living, dining and bedrooms. Big news, too, for the budget-conscious homemakers!

BELOW — The simplicity, the serenity, the deep sense of feeling for the natural qualities of wood make this Henredon collection of bedroom furniture a superb mixer with any period. Mandalay is crafted of solid mahogany and walnut veneer. The rich patinas of its Tokay and Imperial finishes make it as good looking as it is enduring. It's scrupulous detailing and exquisite metal work are a far cry from cliche' ornamentation. Mandalay is a most fitting match for contemporary as well as traditional homes because it is itself an elegant expression of these two worlds.

Accent Pieces Give A Home An Added Decorative Sparkle

Don't let the finishing touches in your room be the tag end of your decorating budget.

These accents, which fall intc two categories . . . decorative or functional . . . shouldn't be selected as after-thoughts. Rather, they should be considered at the very start of your planning and be in complete harmony with your total decorating concept.

Today, as never before, there are more well executed accent notes for the home . . . at every price level. Often seemingly small, accessories can pack a powerful "pow." To get a first-hand view of how accessories can spark a room, you'll want to visit your local retail stores during the Debut '72 promotion, Sunday through Oct. 9. Complete room settings and vignettes will be displayed, themed to the "Total Environment."

WALLS ARE the biggest area in the room for accessories, which can be elaborately done or decoratively stark, depending upon the theme you've selected. Pictures, of course, are basic. They can provide motion, form, and color to an interior.

Reactions to pictures are highly personal, so select completely in accordance with what appeals most to you. Styles and periods of pictures can be matched or mixed. One of the best ways to plan a grouping is to set each on the floor below the wall and play with them until you've found the most appealing arrangement.

You will have to decide whether your pictures will be originals or reproductions. Today's art explosion makes it feasible to find good originals from unknown artists at moderate prices. Prints, encompassing lithographs or etchings, are also another way to inexpensively own original art.

Mirrors combine decorativeness with function. They can create a feeling of spaciousness and depth. They are especially useful in entranceways, where they can be utilized for last-minute checkpups before leaving the house. Framing of mirrors should, of course, be selected to be in harmony with other aspects of furnishings.

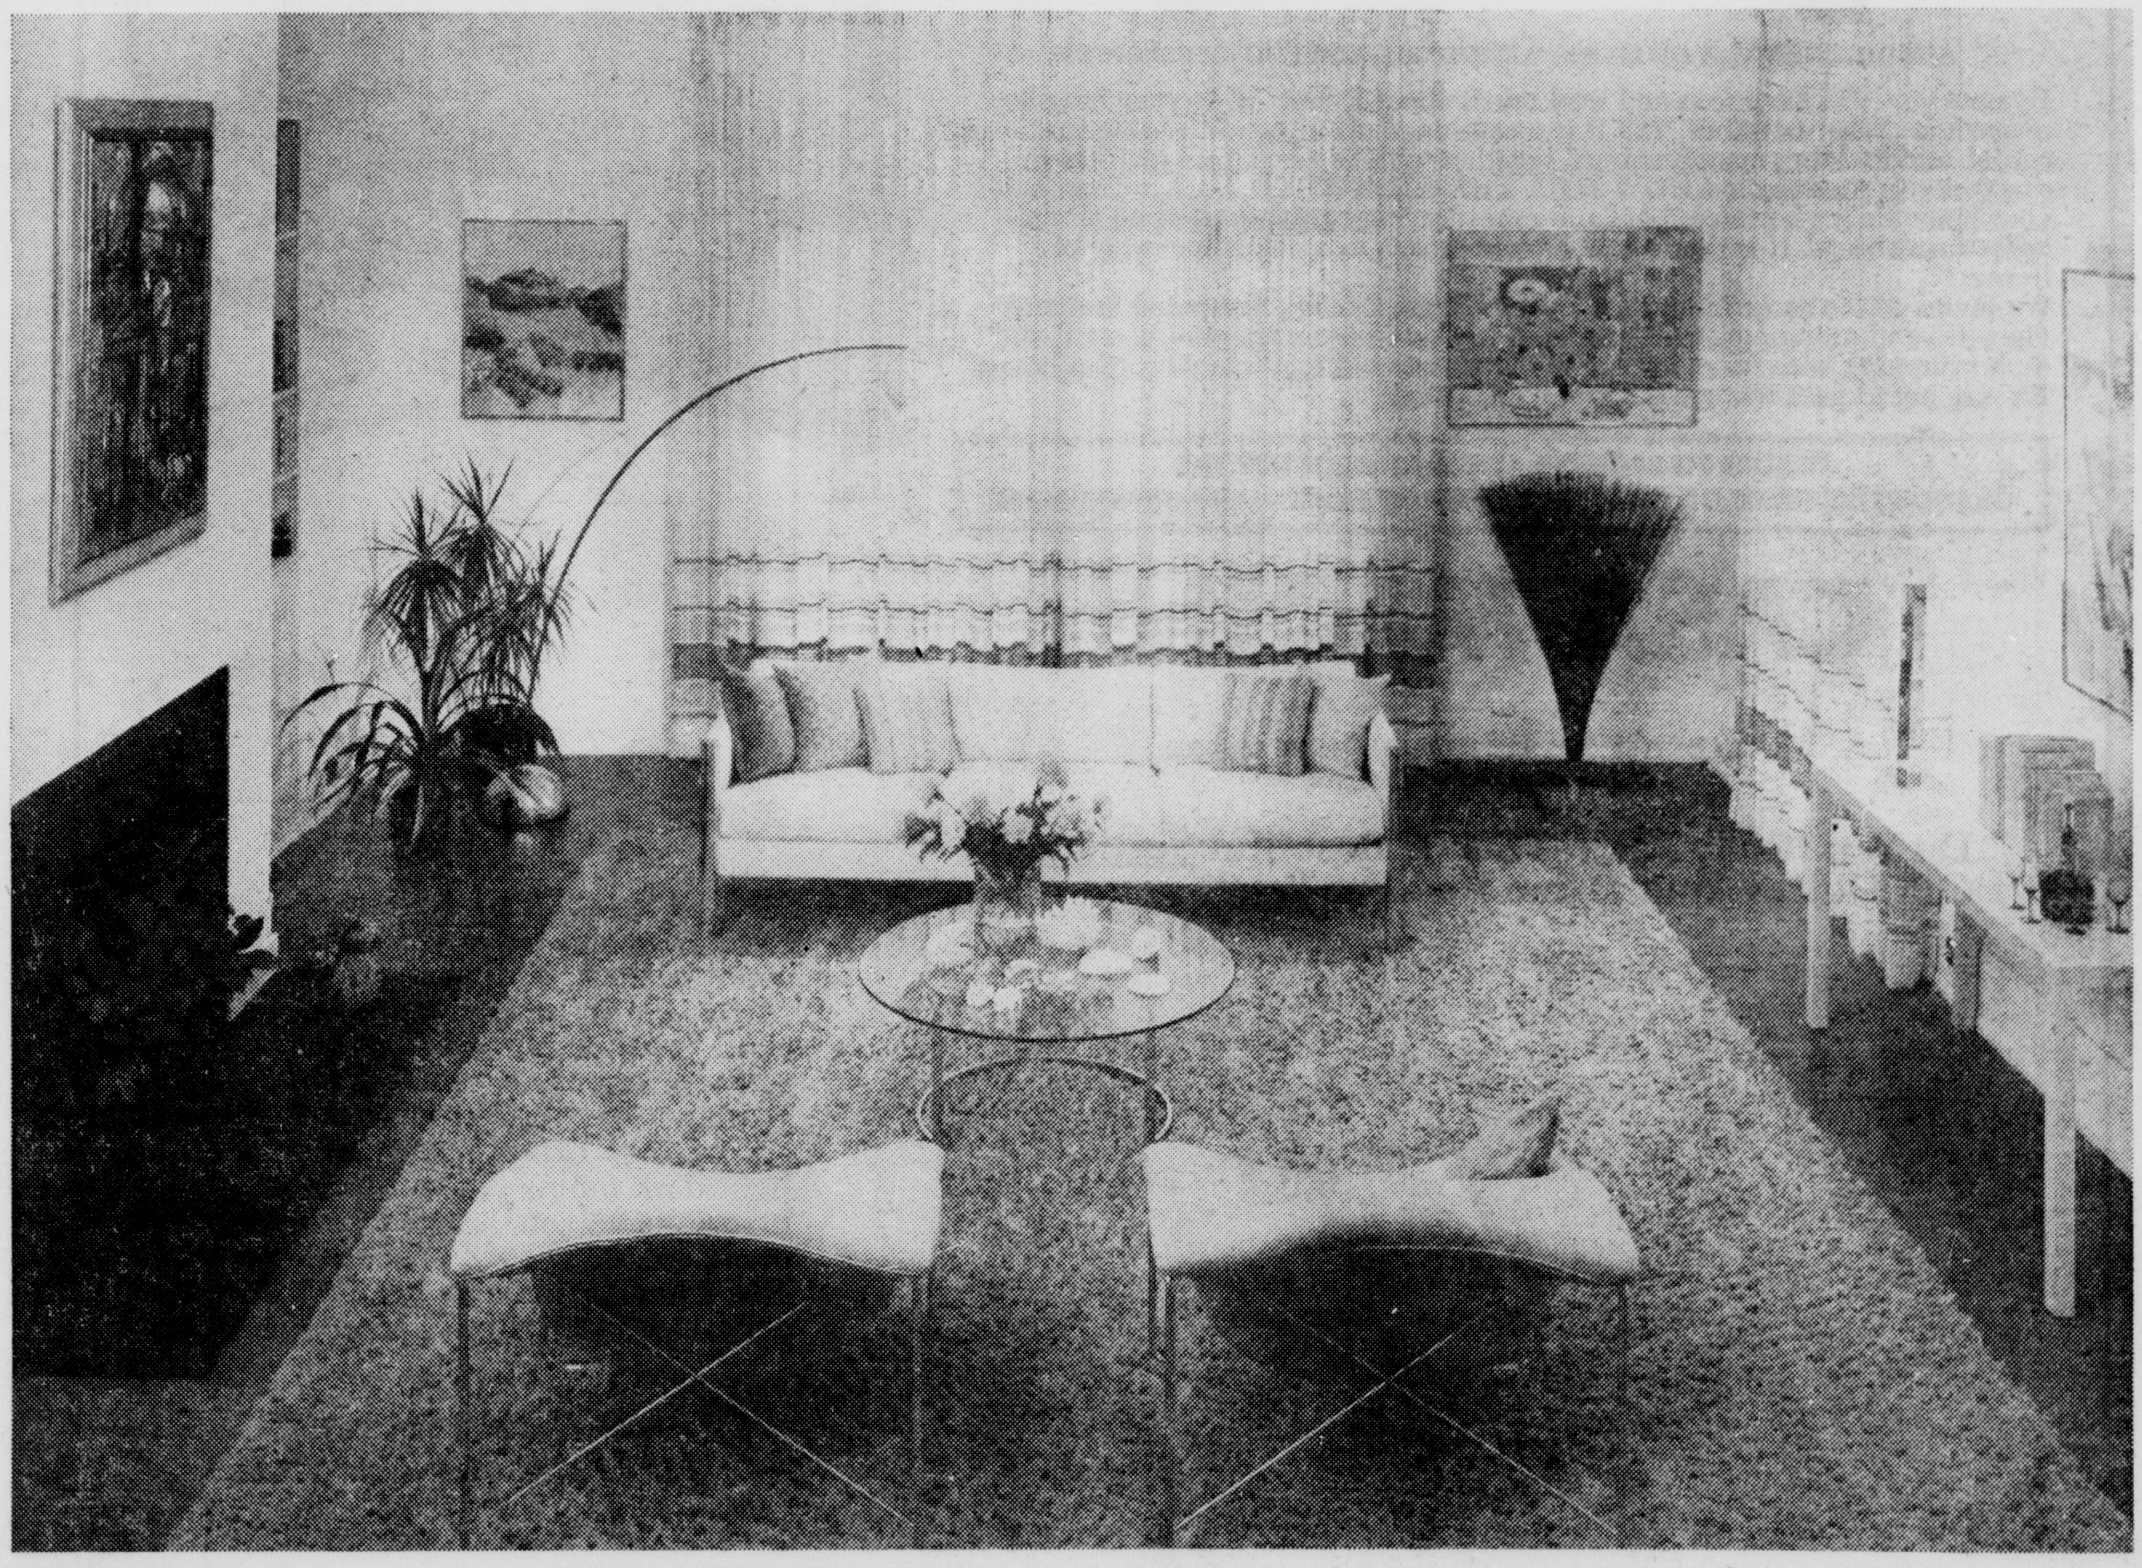
Wall hangings can be tapestries, Oriental screens, area rugs, etc. Decorative hanging shelves spaced on wall to pinpoint a special collection of figurines or hobby objects, can also prove to be an interesting addition to a room.

Wall arrangements can be done either symmetrically or asymmetrically. More formal in feeling, the symmetrical arrangement is achieved by equal distribution of size and weight. Asymmetrical arrangements require careful planning and placement, combining both large and small objects.

COLORS PLAYS its role in accessories, just as it does in all elements of a room. Use color in your accents to blend other room furnishings or to spice and contrast.

When placing your accessories about the room . . . on mantel, tables, in cabinets, etc., be careful not to give a cluttered effect. Most often you will find that a fine sculpture, a bowl of greenery, or a handsome floral arrangement can stand alone and be very beautiful.

THE HANDSOME furnishings of this Spanish-style dining room of a vacation home have been further enhanced by the lavish, yet tasteful, use of accent pieces. Not only wall art, but sculpture, flowers and plantings have been used with splendid effect. The rug that is the outstanding feature of the room is Karastan's classic Alexei design in bronze and blue. It is of all-wool pile with fringe. And it adds a touch of brightness that is heightened by the use of greenery and art objects that makes the dignity of the furniture itself all the more impressive.



MODERN FURNISHINGS, too, can take an added appeal when accented with just the right paintings and other decorative pieces. Here the effect is one of slim, graceful lines and gleaming surfaces, shown in both the contemporary furniture and the accents. Again the largest area of color is on the floor in a Lees carpet, Psychedelia, in a grass green. It is a rough-textured shag made of a new kind of bright nylon. Bands of the same green appear in the draperies, throw pillows and upholstery fabrics.

Treat Your 'Fifth Wall' With Care

Choice Of Floor Covering Is An Important Decision

The floor has been called the "fifth wall," and when viewed from this standpoint its treatment is generally more decorative.

Since floor covering is a major investment, it is important to select one that not only fits your life style but one which will please your eye for a long period of time.

Wall-to-wall provides the look of spaciousness and is especially good for small or "cut-up" areas. It wears best if the furniture can be re-arranged occasionally to change the "high traffic" areas.

Intense colors can offer vitality to a room for long periods of time, and have less tendency to become drab looking in soot-filled city apartments. Neutral colors, on the other hand, provide a background for colorful furnishings and a change in color scheme.

A room-sized rug will be less expensive, generally, since there will be no installation charges, and it can be turned periodically to equalize wear. It is a wise selection for the "transient" type as it is easily moved.

AREA RUGS are the new decorating pets. Bright in color and packed with design excitement, they are economical, functional and portable. They easily define living areas, can create a focal point, and even be hung on the wall.

Homemakers of the 1970s are offered, as never before, the most varied and comprehensive line-up for selection of fibers, colors, constructions and price ranges.

EACH FIBER has its own properties and price range, which make it more satisfactory for certain uses. Check this capsule rundown:

Wool: Vital quality of appearance retention. Highly resistant to soiling and abrasion. Wearability is good to excellent, depending upon price, which can go from $8 to $30 per square yard.

Nylon: Excellent color ranges, with depth and clarity. High resistance to abrasion. Easily cleaned, but more readily soiled. Priced according to quality, from $6 to $15 per square yard.

Acrylics and modacrylics: High fashion carpets. Dense, wool-like hand. Cleans easily. Good resistance, wearability depends upon quality, with pricing going from approximately $8 to $15 per square yard.

Polyester: High durability, with look of wool. Resistance to water-borne stains. Good to excellent wear, depending upon construction and pricing, which ranges from approximately $9 to $15 per square yard.

Polypropylene Olefin: Outstanding stain-resistance due to its moisture-resistant feature. Fiber has ability to withstand all kinds of weather, moisture and most chemicals, making it practical for outdoor use as well as for kitchens and other heavily trafficked areas of the home. Using price as an indicator of wearability, the range goes from approximately $7 to $11 per square yard.

AS WELL AS the variety of fibers, you must also make a style selection. Use this guide to help:

Textured: Can be sculptured look with overall design for use with formal or semi-formal furnishings or casual random effect for more casual living.

ANY RUG OR carpet will feel more luxurious and will give better service if it is protected with a good quality padding. The padding adds comfort, quiet, and insulation. It also acts as a shock absorber, extending the life of the carpeting.

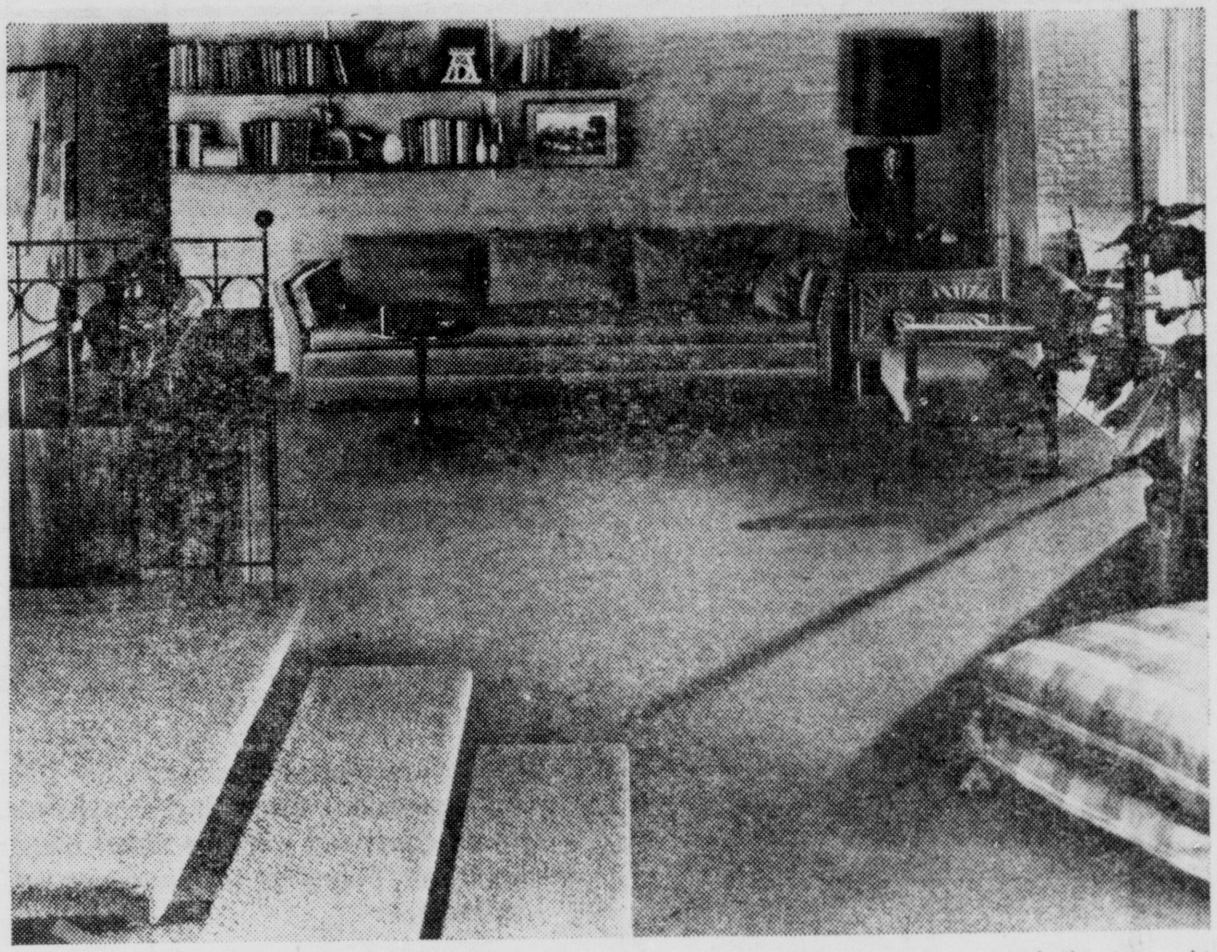
Regular care of carpets and rugs is a must to keep them looking their best. Daily carpet sweeping keeps dust and dirt from becoming imbedded. A thorough vacuuming at least once a week is required. Once a year, it's wise to have the carpet or rug cleaned by a reputable professional cleaner.

Even in the most organized of households, accidents do happen. If these accidents are taken care of immediately, they will not develop into major disasters. Stains and spots that are unattended will set into the carpet and become more difficult to remove.



IT'S NO SECRET that shag carpeting has mushroomed in popularity in the past five years until today every fourth carpet sold is shag. What will be the next carpet texture to capture America's fancy? Designer Milo Winter at Lees Carpets thinks a softer, more tailored look might be in the cards. He came up with this one, which Lees calls Live-a-Little, of high-bulk, resilient Acrilan acrylic yarns with a tip-sheared texture that stands the hardest wears and from which spots are easily removed. It is ideal for the living room of families with children.

Bedding: Select The Best For Your Rest

Probably of all the furnishings you buy for your home, bedding will be the first and one of the most important. Restful sleep is the regenerator of energies and good bedding equipment is the foundation for that restful sleep.

What type of bedding is best for you? The type that satisfies your idea of comfort.

Some folks prefer a hard mattress, others sleep better on a medium or soft mattress. Be sure you try the "stretch out" test in the store before you purchase.

AS YOU examine mattresses you will notice that each has an attached label which lists the materials used in construction. This is a federal law. Here are some of the listings you'll want to know about:

Innerspring mattresses are constructed either open-coil or pocketed coil. Open coil is created with units made of high-carbon wire. The heavier the gauge, the firmer the mattress. If coils touch each other, it will result in a noisy mattress. In a pocketed coil mattress, each spring is sewed into its own pocket of muslin. These strips of springs are then wound back and forth.

Padding is most often an all-cotton felt, sometimes with a layer of curled hairor foam added. Then there is insulating material which keeps the padding from working down and prevents feeling the coils.

Foam mattresses, which can be made of natural latex, foam rubber, or polyurethane have the denisty and firmness controlled in the manufacturing processes. Since foam mattresses do not collect dust, and are moth-and-mold proof, they are an excellent choice for anyone suffering from an allergy.

Outer fabric of mattresses has gained a whole new look with the past several years. Sturdy, firmly woven fabrics are a necessity, of course, but now they come in plaids, florals, in bright and beautiful colorings instead of the formerly staid striping.

IT'S ALWAYS best if you buy your mattresses and box spring at the same time, so you will know how they work together. When you lie on the mattress you'll find that your weight will depress the springs below.

A good box spring starts with a solid frame, and each row of springs should be supported by a slat. Spring count varies, since construction methods differ from the coil-over-coil to intricate tying methods. They are then covered by a good layer of insulation and durable fabric. Test the box spring by running your hand over it. You should not be able to feel the coils.

Size is highly important to restful sleep. A mattress should be at least six inches longer and comfortably wider than the person sleeping on the bed.

Fabrics Make The Mood For Your Living Room

Conjure up the vision of your living room with a spectacular multi-colored print, mixed well with vivid splashes of correlating plain colors in other areas, and you will readily understand why fabrics have sorcery powers which can magically change the mood of a room.

A veritable treasury of fibers and fabrics are yours for the buying, and it's a joy to see how much decorating a little money can buy.

Windows come to mind immediately when you think of fabrics. Just consider the leeway you have! You can buy yardage and make curtains and/or draperies yourself; you can have them custom-made; or you can buy ready-made treatments in a wide assortment of prints or plains. Upholstered furniture, of course, employs fabrics; and there are slipcovers, which give the chance for seasonal change.

Most of us are familiar with the world of natural fibers . . . wool, cotton, linen, silk and jute. But the overwhelming line-up of new man-made fibers, with a variety of trade names, will often seem bewildering. Check these staccato facts:

Acetate and Triacetate: Drapable, resists wrinkling. Takes brilliant dyes. Has excellent colorfastness. Hand-washable or dry-cleanable.

Polyester: Dyes well; easy to care for; resists stretching or shrinking.

Rayon: Easily dyed; has soft hand and good drapability.

Spandex: Soft and lightweight. Stretches up to 500 per cent without breaking.

The Cotswolds Charm Visitor

Roman Ruins, Quiet Inns Are Among Attractions

When the Romans wanted peace and quiet they headed for the English Cotswolds. Travelers still do.

The Romans subdued a tribe know as the Dubonni. Today, people come for the beautiful countryside with forests, farms, trout streams, old villages, market towns built with the local honey-colored stone, also cathedrals and abbeys, manors, coaching inns and antique stores.

Two towns are good bases for exploring this charming corner of England. First is Cirencester, 88 miles from London. It was originally the Dubonni-quelling fort, which grew into the Roman's administrative center of Corinium, today "capital of the Cotswolds."

THE TOWN'S Roman history is recorded in the Corinium Museum in Park Street — a fine collection of Roman mosaics, sculpture and antiquities. The Market Place is dominated by the 400-year-old church of St. John the Baptist, one of the outstanding examples of Perpendicular architecture, with an exquisite fan-vaulted chapel and a south porch that's unique in all England.

On the edge of town is one of those lordly gardens vast enough to be called a park without blushing. It's Cirencester Park, the 300-acre estate of Earl Bathurst, laid out with long avenues, ornamental buildings and "follies." Energetic visitors can walk right through the park to the village of Sapperton, about five miles away. On Sundays, May through September, they can lounge on the lawns and watch some of the world's best polo matches.

THE OTHER Cotswold tour base is Cheltenham — a fashionable spa resort with elegant Regency-style terraces, tree-lined streets and luxuriant gardens, usually considered one of the loveliest towns in England.

From these two centers the visitor can follow a rewarding series of morning, afternoon or full-day trips into the type of countryside people dream about when they dream about England. And no matter which direction the visitor takes, he will pass through villages with ancient churches and market places, mansions and inns, cottages and village greens.

A typical tour from Cirencester, for example, could include Barnsley (fine mansion and estate), Bibury (one of the "crown jewels" among Cotswold villages), Eastleach Turville and Eastleach Martin (each with a Norman church facing its neighbor across the narrow River Leach), Fairford (a tiny village with a church boasting the most perfect display of 16th Century stained glass in existence), and the Ampney quartet — Ampney St. Mary, Ampney St. Peter, Ampney Crucis and Down Ampney (where England's renowned composer, Ralph Vaughan Williams, was born in the local vicarage).

A SECOND short tour from Cirencester could include Tetbury ( a hilltop market town), Malmesbury (12th Century abbey church with a famous carved porch), and the village of Garsdon (burial place of no fewer than five ancestors of George Washington.)

From Cheltenham, a short drive might take the visitor to Winchcombe (ancient capital of the Kingdom of Mercia), Broadway (the other "crown jewel" of Cotswold villages), Chipping Campden (an old wool town with many medieval buildings), and Hailes Abbey (a medieval pilgrims' shrine).

Some visitors, bedazzled by these riches, simply follow the most intriguing signposts: Upper and Lower Swell, Upper and Lower Slaughter, Wych or Little or Great Rissington, Stow-in-the-Wold, Bourton-on-the-Water, Moreton-in-Marsh, Guiting Power and Temple Guiting. When the visitor finally reaches the signpost marked Paradise he'll probably believe it, and stop at the Adam and Eve Inn for a nip.

THE COTSWOLDS also offer visitors an opportunity to live history. Many of the region's old coaching inns are still welcoming guests; many of its old manor houses have been converted into hotels.

Among the inns in Cirencester are the Fleece and the King's Head, where Lord Chandos, an emissary of King Charles I, was forced to take refuge from a rioting mob. Nearby is Stratton House, a 17th Century manor house turned into a hotel.

Other famous old Cotswold inns are the Lygon Arms in Broadway, the King's Arms, the Swan and the Noel Arms in Chipping Campden, the Manor House and Redesdale Arms in Moreton-in-Marsh, and the Swan in Bibury. Bed and breakfast rarely costs more than $4 double, even with a private bath; dinner costs from $1 to $3.

MANY OF THE inns retain their period furniture, with cozy lounges and big open fires where visitors can get together with the local folk.

Another way to meet people is to travel around the Cotswolds by bus and coach. Services are frequent, punctual and inexpensive.

But the best way to get around is by car. Car rentals cost as little as $65 a week with unlimited mileage during the summer, and $48 a week with unlimited mileage during the winter. So visitors can enjoy the scenery without counting the miles as they drive along the Cotswolds' network of roads — many of which were originally laid out by the Romans when they went down to subdue the Dubonni.

The Museum That Ford Built Lures The Traveler

Henry Ford did more than preserve for this and future generations a rich store of Americana when he developed Greenfield Village and the museum that bears his name.

He selected a site — at Dearborn, Mich. — that is more than handy for jet-age travelers. The village and museum are only about 20 minutes away from Detroit Metropolitan Airport.

Some proximity to a major air terminal is a real advantage, especially in the winter months. Businessmen who delight in Americana — whether as a study, as a hobby or simply as a matter of occasional historical curiosity — can drop in here conveniently enroute to or from Detroit or between appointments.

Hotels, motels and restaurants are available within minutes of the Village. Snacks and lunches are served on the grounds. The Village is open daily (except Thanksgiving, Christmas and New Year's Day) from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. in the winter months, 9 to 6 in the summer-time. Admission is $1.75.

Henry Ford spent many of his later years personally overseeing the gathering and reconstruction of historic buildings, landmarks and other memorabilia of an earlier America that are on display in the 260-acre village.

Restoration of the homes and shops — about 100 of them in all — was accomplished by the most skilled craftsmen Ford could assemble.

Here in their original condition are homes or other buildings that were associated with Abraham Lincoln, Noah Webster, Luther Burbank, Stephen Foster, William H. McGuffey and other prominent Americans.

Trout In Desert? Yes, And Beautiful

Whitewater Canyon Provides The Best For Fishing Addicts

"Trout fishing! In the desert? Impossible!"

Such are the exclamations of visitors when they are told that not 20 minutes from Palm Springs, at Whitewater Trout Ranch in Whitewater Canyon, they can catch rainbow trout in all sizes up to three pounds — and all by themselves and with all tackle furnished.

And if that isn't enough, you can have your fish cleaned and packed in ice, ready to take to your favorite hotel chef, who will cook it for you in gourmet style.

Here, you can learn something about these beautiful game fish; follow their rearing in each circular tank from "fingerling trout" to 15-inch beauties of full growth. They are ready to catch in either of the two large, beautiful trout ponds, where you can see hundreds of fish swimming in the sparkling cold water ready for you to cast in your line.

This serene, refreshing oasis on the edge of the desert provides a recreational delight for the entire family, and casting your lure into the big fish pond is a thrill, especially for the youngsters.

SOMETIME IN the year 1653, Issac Walton, the english author and exponent of trout fishing, wrote his classic, "The Compleat Angler," the story of a hunter who was "converted" to a fisherman. Walton lived to be 90 years old, and he went fishing until he was 83. So says history.

If you want to find "serenity and contentment" the Isaac Walton way, try trout fishing at Whitewater Trout Ranch, one of the many year-round attractions Palm Springs offers the visitor. It's a family affair, open to all ages from 6 to 60.

And what does all this cost?

One dollar per person, including fishing pole, bait and cleaning your fish. The trout you catch, if they are from eight to 10 inches, 45 cents each. If your catch runs from 11 to 15 inches and up, $1.50 per pound. Isaac Walton, indeed, never had it so good!

For further information, write the Palm Springs Convention and Visitors Bureau, Palm Springs Municipal Airport Terminal Palm Springs, Calif. 92262.

Shopping And Sports

The stores in Charlotte Amalie, the main town, are laden with goods from all over the world. They can be bought at duty-free prices — often for only half what you would pay on the mainland.

Some visitors miss two of the best shopping bets — the Old Market, a wrought-iron, open-air mart best seen early on Saturday mornings when farmers bring in their produce, and the Schooner Market on the waterfront, where island vessels dock to sell their catches.

The cuisine is tempting at hotel and resort dining rooms and at the well-known restaurants. But for special treats, find the places featuring traditional Caribbean dishes. Oldtimers can point you in the right direction.

TRY THE soup-stew called kallaloo with crab, pork, fish, onions, okra, herbs, vinegar and spices; the fried cakes (with bananas and spices) known as benye; a zesty pot roast, daube meat, garnished with bananas or plantains.

American Airlines suggests some other things to see and do.

There is the historical side of St. Thomas, for instance, reaching back over a period of nearly 480 years. The early Carib Indians, the Spanish, English, Dutch, French, Africans and Danes all have left their mark on the islands.

THERE IS 17th Century Fort Christian and its dungeons.

In an alley back of Cavanagh's store there is a flatcar, a remnant of the old railroad line that hauled rum and other goods between the waterfront and warehouses.

There is Government House, where the legislature meets.

There is the old Danish cemetery where tombs were fashioned from conch shells and often carved with facial likenesses and painted in bright colors.

THERE ARE such historic churches as All Saints, St. Peter's and St. Paul's. And the family home of the noted French impressionist painter, Camille Pissarro, who was born here.

From Drake's Seat, across the island, there is a widespread vista of Magens Bay and the north side of St. Thomas.

The bay itself means water sports, another prime island lure. Many resorts have private beaches, but there are eight public beaches with admission prices ranging from 25 cents to $3 scattered around the shores of the 36-square-mile island.

MAGENS BAY is the largest and most popular. But the sand is white and the palm trees enticing at such others as Coki Point, Morning Star and Sapphire Bay.

Snorkeling and scuba diving are ideal over the colorful reefs. Coral viewing is simple at St. Thomas Harbor even for non-snorkelers thanks to the glass-bottom boats that ply its surface. You can skim over the water on skis or in sailboats or other craft.

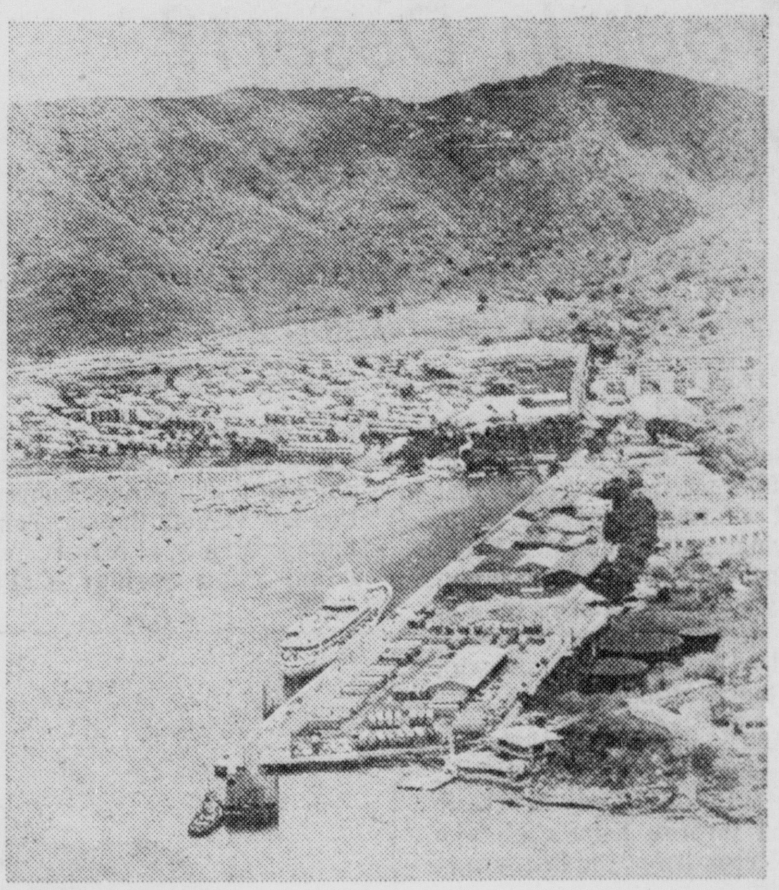
There is golf, of course. And sun-bathing.



CHARLOTTE AMALIE Harbor at St. Thomas in the Virgin Islands reflects the tranquility of the Caribbean isles. Its shopping bargains and water and land sports are also prime attractions for travelers, who come on both cruise ships and airliners.

The Fight Johnny Cash Won With His Own Troubled Self

By DON KEOWN

Yes, human nature can be changed. And that is one of the more hopeful facets of life upon this planet.

Few have demonstrated this ability to make an abrupt switch in direction more dramatically than country singer Johnny Cash whose biography is told by Look magazine editor and reporter Christopher S. Wren in his "Winners Got Scars Too."

It is the story of the son of a poor Arkansas farmer who grew up to become one of the four or five biggest names in American entertainment.

But that is not the change to which we referred. His boyhood that often saw his family on the brink of poverty was to leave him sometimes insecure even as, paradoxically, it fostered a strain of independence inside him.

But the real scars Johnny Cash bears he inflicted upon himself in the earlier years of his musical career. And it was from that way of life that he was to make a dramatic break to become the very different kind of person that he is today.

The story of Johnny Cash's addiction to amphetamine and counteracting tranquilizer pills is well known today. And this addiction was responsible for many of his erratic actions and troubles.

But it was also a symptom of other difficulties within Cash — flaws that made him moody and hot-tempered, restless and reckless, given to dangerous pranks and vandalism that betrayed a basic immaturity. Wren details dozens of those antics in which Cash and his musician-buddies quite literally played with dynamite, committing thoughtless acts that often spilled over into meanness against their victims.

It was the old, old story of the young man whose inner stability had not grown apace with his creative gifts. Cash was a mischievous, and sometimes malicious, boy involved in a man's world. And society, as it so often does, tolerated and sometimes even encouraged conduct from yet another spoiled celebrity that it would not have permitted from the less famous.

So Johnny Cash slid deeper and deeper into boyish behavior, and finally skidded the full distance from adult reality with the help of his responsibility-killing pills.

Cash rightfully claims for himself the credit for his metamorphosis. But he had two invaluable helpers in his second wife, June Carter, and her mother, Maybelle Carter, members of America's most famous hillbilly music family. They stood by Cash as he endured the ordeal of shaking the pill habit. And they watched with sympathetic and patient understanding as the man they loved struggled to regain control of his inner self.

No doubt most of the traits that made Johnny Cash such a source of heartache to himself and to others still lurk inside him. But now they are subdued. The new Johnny Cash is only sometimes restless and moody, and the old propensity for reckless violence and destruction has been tamed.

Today's Johnny Cash is a gentler and more considerate person. He can still be obstinate. But the temper tantrums that opposition used to arouse are gone. In short, the new Cash is a mature man, as opposed to the juvenile who first rose to fame on his voice, his guitar and his ability to write songs that struck a responsive chord in a large segment of America — a sector, incidentally, which has long felt neglected.

Writes Wren: "There is a nostalgia in the public response. Cash is the lost American, recalling some classic gunman or preacher (it doesn't matter which). He has walked out of yesterday at an uncertain juncture when yesterday looks very, very good. His strength is in neither the singing nor the songs, but in grassroots credibility . . . The land has graced Johnny Cash with a sense of its tradition."

Some have criticized Johnny Cash for his failure to empathize with the black's struggle for social justice, sensing in it the Southern poor white's traditional antagonism toward the Negro. Wren offers no real rebuttal, perhaps because there is none. But he does point out that Cash, while eschewing the role of crusader, has nonetheless worked for the betterment of two minorities — the Indians (he has some of the redman's blood in his own veins) and prison convicts (he has spent short stays in jails himself).

It is not the only contradiction in the Cash character. He calls himself a dove and is emphatic in his dislike of war. But he has rebuffed peace demonstrators and has defended Richard M. Nixon against his critics.

But, admittedly, he is still changing.

"Don't ever tell anybody how John Cash feels about anything unless I've told you in the last few minutes," he says. "I'm always changing. I intend to keep changing. I'm building. I'm expanding. I am still being born.

"You haven't seen the complete me yet."

So Johnny Cash, subject of an excellent and aptly titled biography in "Winners Got Scars Too," has demonstrated not only that change is possible, but also that it is a limitless and continuing process.

JOHNNY CASH is on top of the entertainment world now as America's No. 1 country musician. But for a time it was uncertain as to whether success would make or ruin the former Arkansas farm boy. His story is told in Christopher S. Wren's "Winners Got Scars Too."

Sleuths & Suspense

COPPER BEECHES by Arthur H. Lewis; Trident Press, 317 pages, $6.95. Reviewed by Don Keown.

"Copper Beeches" is one of the most implausible — and most delightful — mysteries you are likely to encounter.

Arthur H. Lewis' characters are the members of the Sons of the Copper Beeches, the Philadelphai branch of the Baker Street Irregulars, Sherlock Holmes buffs extraordinary.

Despite all their careful screening, it develops, there is one among the Copper Beech membership, a Colonel Eberhard, who has only pretended admiration for the master detective. This scoffer and blackguard reveals himself and makes a wager with more loyal Copper Beeches that he can vanish for six months without traveling more than 125 miles from Philadelphia and not be found by them.

The chase is on. And soon the pursuers sense that they are involved in something more sinister than a simple game.

The narrator is a particularly stuffy and egotistical Philadelphian whose sanctimonious air and bumbling efforts lend added humor to an already very funny story. Holmesian scholars will relish the frequent references to the master and his cases. And Lewis makes good use, too, of material collected for his earlier book, "Carnival."

As we said, the whole thing is quite impossible. But that doesn't detract from the fun. Sherlock Holmes parodies and satires have been done before and will be done again. But few of them have been done with such imagination and flair. And none has produced greater merriment and entertainment.

SOME interesting new paperback titles from a recent Ballatine Books list:

"A Catalog of the Ways People Grow" by Severin Peterson is a $1.65 original that discusses in some depth many of the various methods people are employing to expand their potential. The former Esalen Institute sstaff member's topics range from aikido to zen, and include the likes of hatha yoga, bioenergetic analysis, gestalt thereapy, astrology, prayer, shamanism, encounter groups, hypnosis and t'ai chi ch'uan. It is a lot of ground to cover, but Peterson succeeds in imparting a lot of information in limited space upon each of his subjects.

"Diet for a Small Planet" by Frances Moore Lappe is also an original. Priced at $1.25, it is an odvocacy and explanation of a high protein diet -- without meat.

"The Radical Therapist" is a $1.25 anthology collected by Jerome Agel of the writings by the advocates of the theory that the sick individual is the product of a sick society, and that the individual can be cured only if society is cured first.

RANDOM HOUSE has made available a $2.45 Vintage Book softcover edition of Charles E. Silberman's "Crisis in the Classroom: The Remaking of America Education', that has stirred so much interest in educational circles. Life magazine described it as "the most widely and earnestly reviewed book on education in years . . . a sane, strong, responsible work of reportage."

"THE WALTER Syndrome," the excellent suspense novel by Marinite Richard Neely, is available now in a $1.25 Signet paperback edition from New American Library.

A Tremendous Work

THE AGE OF ENERGY by Howard Mumford Jones; Viking, 434 pages, $12.50. Reviewed by Bryce W. Anderson.

"The Age of Energy" in the United States, as defined by Howard Mumford Jones, is the period from the Civil War to World War II. It was then, he holds, that the United States was dedicated to achievement, to doing things and to breaking new ground, to the near-exclusion of almost everything else.

Jones, Lowell professor of the humanities emeritus at Harvard, has undertaken to survey and analyze this period of our history in "The Age of Energy." He does not attempt a historical recital; rather a critique and overview, as suggested by the sub-title, "Varities of American Experience 1865-1915."

Professor Jones is a scholar of the first rank, and brings his scholarship to bear in this simultaneously diverse and incisive volume. At times, in fact, his scholarship is almost overwhelming — so that it comes as genuine relief to catch him in such errors as believing that Henry Comstock discovered the Comstock Lode, identifying Eilley Orrum as "Ellery Orrum," and reporting the wrong men as having been convicted of the murder of Idaho Gov. Frank Steunenberg.

But if the scholar cannot resist parading his scholarship, and if this is inclined to make heavy going, the going is less heavy in "The Age of Energy" because Jones also writes in an easy style, being too wise a scholar and too good a writer to fall into obscurantism.

He might have titled his volume "The American Age" as readily as "The Age of Energy," for his thesis is that the years 1865-1915 saw the emergence and solidification of America as a truly united nation — despite the unrest of the '80s and '90s (so like that of today), the persistence of sectional feelings, the Pupulist uprising, and other diversions.

Americans in that period were more and more sure of themselves. A series of events, culminating in the Columbian Exposition and the Spanish-American War, served to reinforce this assurance.

Following World War I, however, the assurance began to disappear, and the energy which had characterized the United States began to diminish as a result — or so Jones holds, and he makes an interesting case for his theory.

He blames the change principally on the emergence of Freudianism (which, as he points out, became as alien from Freud's own theories as progressive education became from those of John Dewey). And as the event signalling the end of the "Age of Energy" he chooses the New York Armory Art Show of 1913 — a precursor of what was to come, with its total departure from what had been considered the canons of art.

"Things were no longer things in themselves," he writes of this show, "they were not even what they seemed to be to the beholding eye; they were merely excuses for assembling a private idiom of form, line, and color . . . Public and rational controls of art were now not possible except as censorship; and after the Armory Show, after Freud, after World War I, though energy multiplied, the Age of Energy vanished. And we were never again to be the nation — heady, adolescent, picturesque, unpredictable, yearning to be loved and fearing to be outdone — that we had been between 1865 and 1915."

In developing his thesis, Jones perhaps puts too much emphasis on the role of critics in creating the national taste ("the genteel tradition"). He does not even mention the role of William Holmes McGuffey, who did more than all the critics put together to give Americans what historian Henry Steele Commager aptly termed "a common body of allusion." And in citing the cuases for the period's end, he perhaps puts too little emphasis on World War I, in whic for the first time hundreds of thousands of ordinary Americans (not the rich for whom the "Grand Tour" was a ritual) trod foreign soil and saw how people lived in other lands. Much that happened subsequently to change America was hinted in the tag line in a popular song of that way (which Jones also doesn't mention): "How ya gonna keep 'em down on the farm, after they've seen Paree?"

But just spotting a few ommission is easy. "The Age of Energy" is a tremendous volume, providing illuminating insight into the America That Was — and thereby, into the America That Is.

A New Novel By A Pulitzer Winner

THE CONDOR PASSES by Shirley Ann Grau; Knopf, 421 pages, $7.95. Reviewed by Alice Dalbey.

Thomas Henry Oliver is a lecherous old man, a self-made millionaire with an eye for the main chance, a man without a soul who identifies himself with that great, black, soaring bird — the condor.

But despite the feathered symbolism which flutters through this novel, Oliver is an interesting, though frightening, old buzzard with whom to spend an evening.

Most of his predatory activities take place in the steamy, seamy New Orleans of the past 75 years.

Robert, a half-starved Cajun boy he picks out of a swamp, chooses for a son-in-law; Anna, Oliver's beautiful daughter, who tries to fit Robert into her nest as the perfect groom; Margaret, Oliver's lusty, restless daughter, a reincarnation of her ruthless father; Anthony, the fatally ill, pathetic, grandson.

Of the family in spirit, though not in blood, is Stanley, the observant, outwardly impeccable black servant, who sees himself as "a big black hawk . . . stealing pieces of their lives."

Ironically, it is Stanley, rather than any of the family, who becomes fulfiller-of-wishes — the young condor with his wings powdered with gold — for old man Oliver.

Shirley Ann Grau won the Pulitzer Prize, in 1964, for "The Keepers of the House," and her writing is deft and professional. Her characters are vigorous, their conflicts and conversations believable, and her knowledge of the South is deep and understanding.

Pleasant Reading By British Author

Diane Pearson, an editor with a London publisher, has carved out a second career for herself as a novelist specializaing in the British middle class of the late 19th and early 20th centuries.

"Sarah" resumes her story of the Whitman family begun in her earlier "The Marigold Field" and focusses upon Sarah Whitman, now, in the 1920s, having risen from servant to school teacher.

In Miss Pearson's quiet, understated writing style, quiet appropriate to her material, we follow Sarah through a series of contacts with men that awaken within her the fuller woman, and finally to marriage to a missionary and a new life in India. Neither marriage nor her experiences in India are happy, for Sarah is too much of a woman for her juiceless husband and too much of a human for the restricted mission role insisted upon by the head of the mission who becomes her bitter enemy. But Sarah learns from adversity.

The book ends in 1939 with Sarah, widowed and returned to England, certain that "life was good" and that "lots of things were going to happen."

Miss Pearson's novel makes for easy, pleasant reading, and provides a welcome change-of-pace from the more frenetic and sensationalized novels pouring from the publishers. It is an old-fashioned novel. And right now there is a hunger in many of us for old-fashioned things.

Probing The Ocean Floor

200,000,000 YEARS BENEATH THE SEA by Peter Briggs, Holt, Rinehart and Winston, 228 pages, $7.95. Reviewed by Richard B. Lyttle.

Peter Briggs, who has become a specialist in the field of geophysics, puts together a fine account here of the pioneering voyages of Glomar Challenger, the first research vessel equipped for deep ocean drilling.

Briggs avoids the highly technical, explaining the workings of this complex ship and its goals in clear language. He takes pains to round out the characters of the many scientists involved, making this a very human venture on the high seas.

A People Shaped Through Battle

THE LION IN THE NORTH by John Prebble; Coward, McCann and Geoghegan, 344 pages, $15. Reviewed by Don Keown.

No land of comparable size offers a richer tapestry in its history than does Scotland.

Centuries of violence and intrigue, of a mixing of bloods and cultures, of resistance to intrusions, of clan conflicts, of religious controversy, of towering historic figures, of sometimes reckless courage, of treachery and murder, and of the gradual rising amid the violence of a distinctive Scottish culture make the writing of that record a formidable challenge.

Fortunately, John Prebble, is a man equal to the challenge, as he demonstrates in his "The Lion in the North." And ironically, historian Prebble is not a Scot at all, but a member of the English race with which the Scots have fought their bloodiest wars in a futile effort to maintain or regain their independence.

But says Prebble: "I have been in love with Scotland ever since I wrote 'Culloden' (part of a trilogy on Scotland) and have been its literary servant."

"Lion in the North" springs from that love, and is a masterful job of history-writing.

Credit publisher Coward, McCann and Geoghegan, too, with a superb job of illustrating the book with fascinating photographs including some most striking color plates.

Prebble begins his absorbing story with the ascent of Kenneth MacAlpin as the first king of Scotland 11 centuries ago and follows through to the mid-19th Century when the last real hopes for an independent Scotland died.

To the reader it sometimes seems that Scottish history is one long, only briefly and infrequently interrupted, chronicle of war, Scot against foreigner, or Scot against Scot, with the Campbells, stormy petrels of Scotland's past, most often involved on one side or the other.

But it is also the Scotland of Robert Burns, Sir Walter Scott, Adam Smith, David Allan, Allan Ramsay, Jacob More and Robert Fergusson along with other creative talents.

And if the patriotic Scot could be fierce and even savage, he could also be courageous, loyal and even romantic.

All these facets of Scottish character and life show through in Prebble's extraordinary telling of a most complex and involved story. If he seems to have given great emphasis to battle, he has good reason. For more than most people and most lands, the Scottish and Scotland have been shaped by strife. Only relatively recently has the land of the heather and the kilt come to enjoy anything like extended periods of peace. May they continue. And may John Prebble write more history.

Some New Books For The Juniors

For the scientifically-curious youngster, "What We Find When We Look Under Rocks" (McGraw-Hill) opens up a whole new fascinating world.

It is the world of the ant, the earthworm, the beetle, the salamander, the sow bug, the millipede.

Dr. Frances L. Behnke, scientist and teacher, has written the text Jean Zallinger, artist, instructor and illustrator, has done the drawings. And the two make a happy team, covering their subject with all the thoroughness of a good school text, but with a great deal more imagination and zest.

The nicely-done book will open young eyes to a facet of nature often overlooked, making the backyard or the nearby vacant lot quite suddenly a veritable jungle teeming with animal life. The book, we are informed, has been classroom tested and proven. But it will be equally useful, and enjoyable, in the home.

SNOW IS another subject that holds a special fascination for children. Unfortunately, children of the California coast rarely see it firsthand. So the suggested experiments and demonstration ideas that accompany "A Walk in the Snow" (Lippincott, $3.95) with text by Phyllis S. Busch and black-and-white photographs by Mary M. Thacher will be limited in their application here. Still, Marin youngsters will enjoy the informative and nicely descriptive text and the pictures. And the book should build anticipation for and add zest to field trips to the mountains where the white stuff can be enjoyed and examined.

Some other new books for juniors:

"A Woggle of Witches" (Scribner's, $5.95) by Adrienne Adams is a fun book for the Halloween season, with big double page picture spreads of witches enjoying a feast and spree. The colors are appropriately somber. But the characters themselves are good-humored, as witches should be for small children. The price of the book seems a bit steep, but undeniably the artwork is exceptional, and the theme of the book creatively conceived and executed.

"Harry's Bee" (Bobbs-Merrill, $4.95) is an entertaining frolic with an Englishman who finds in his prize rose "the biggest bee in England." The discovery leads to complications that involve various arms of the British government. The story is funny. And the artwork by Campbell, a New Zealander now living in England, is equally good-humored, presenting droll characters that should delight the youngsters. It's a clever book likely to tickle the funny bones of all boys and girls.

"Willy" (Doubleday, $3.95) by Helen H. King, with pictures by Carole Byard deals humorously with a situation that has had tragic implications for many a young ghetto resident. As the man in his fatherless house, it is up to the 10-year-old to get rid of the rat he calls Willy that has invaded his home. The boy experiences some setbacks in his battle of wits with the wily and persistent rodent, but eventually wins out. It is a warm, simply told story, that carries a special message — just how common such problems are for the people of the slums, and how difficult it is for them to solve these difficulties themselves without community concern and support.

BOBETTE GUGLIOTTA has chosen an unusual subject for her first published biography, "Nolle Smith" (Dodd, Mead, $4.50). Few will recognize the name — unless they hail from Hawaii. Smith was the son of a Scot-Irish father and a Negro-Indian mother, born on a Wyoming ranch, who, refused admission to West Point because of his black ancestry, earned an engineering degree, went to Hawaii and rose to political prominence. Smith is more worthy than most of biographical treatment. But such constructive lives, alas, do not always make for exciting reading. And, unfortunately, the author gives his story a rather routine treatment.

Robert B. Jackson has produced yet another of his books on cars and car racing, this one entitled "Cars Against the Clock" (Walck, $4.25). It is a history of efforts at the world land speed effort, beginning with a 39.24 miles an hour timing in 1898 and continuing through today's mark well in excess of 600 miles an hour. Some might hope that the newest generation will be less obsessed by speed than its predecessors. But such is unlikely. Speed holds a fascination for most of us. And today's small boys are likely to be beguiled by Jackson's readable text and by the photographs of the cars. But the price is too high by a good dollar.

Charles Perrault's classic "Cinderella" or "The Little Glass Slipper" (Walck, $4.75) which has charmed little girls for generations is given a lovely illustrating job by Shirley Hughes in this newest of its many editions. Miss Hughes has based her sketches upon the France of Louis XIV in which Perrault lived. And there is a delicate and romantic air to her work that is the perfect accompaniment to this grand old story.

"The Wishing Balloons" (Holt, Rinehart, $4.95) by Maryke Reesink is an enchanting picture and story book for the little ones, all about two youngsters who find the balloons at the school carnival are wishing balloons — a wish for each pop. Jan and Marika seize the opportunity for some astounding, impaginative adventures. Adrie Hospes' illustrations are a riot of eye-catching colors, quite extraordinary. Both author and artist are Hollanders.

A Bit Of Old America From Vermont Potteries

THE JUG AND RELATED STONEWARE OF BENNINGTON by Cornelius Osgood; Tuttle, 222 pages, $15. Reviewed by Maxine Keown.

"I happen to like jugs," Cornelius Osgood, Yale University professor of anthropology, begins this book. "The broad shouldered ones thinning off toward the base appeal to me most. I enjoy the touch of their cool bodies in summer and the uniform unevenness of their salt-glazed skin. . ."

Osgood's affection is apparent in his handling of his subject, and it is an attitude with which many of us can identify.

For there was something peculiarly American about the jugs produced by the Norton potteries of Bennington, Vt., so functional and yet not without an esthetic appeal as well.

The mere words "Bennington jugs" touches off a spell of nostalgia, particularly among those with New England associations.

But Professor Osgood's simple but learned history and dissertation upon the Bennington potteries and their products will touch off something more than nostalgia — especially among collectors. There is 100 years of history and page after page of fascinating expertise. And while one regrets the absence of color plates, the black and white artwork and photos present must be acknowledged as informative and helpful.

Richard Carter Barret, director of the Bennington Museum, calls it "the definitive work in its field. . . an all-time classic."

There are appendages and a bibliography. And a source reference.

It is in short a scholarly job, but done without pedantry or pretentiousness. A book as solid and practical, and yet appealing to the sense, as the bluebird decorated jugs and jars of the no-nonsense yet creative Nortons.

A Pony For Tiny Tots

Handyman's Pages

By STEVE ELLINGSON

No thoroughly occupied man was ever yet very miserable. The great secret of human happiness is this: Never let your energies go stale.

The old adage of "too many irons in the fire," conveys an abominable lie. You can't have too many — poker, tongs and all —keep them all going.

If you doubt this statement, look around among your friends. You'll find the ones with lots of projects are the most happy.

THAT'S WHY the season ahead should be a happy one for do-it-yourselfers. They can have projects going making Christmas gifts for all members of the family — saving money too.

Since it's the small fry that gets the biggest thrill at Christmas time, we though we should begin the do-it-yourselfer's busy season with a pony rocker for tiny tots.

This toy, shown at left, is designed so even the smallest infant can sit in it without fear of falling out. When it's all painted up with the bright colors, and decorated with a few upholstery tacks, you'll have a real range ridin' bronc.

TO BUILD the article requires no particular skill because you simply trace the full-size pattern on plywood and then saw the parts out and put them together. Painting is easy because you merely trace the horses' features on the plywood, then paint over the tracings.

The pattern gives complete directions for putting the parts together and the colors to use in painting. There are pictures printed on the pattern which show the various steps of assembly. Simple tools are all you need.

Some other patterns especially appropriate to the Christmas season are: No. 411, Dollhouse, $1; No. 458, Sidewalk Locomotive, $1; No. 363, Kiddy Kitchen, $1, and No. 361, Doll Furniture, $1.

But remember: When Christmas gifts are to be hand-made by daddy, an early start is essential. To make any of these fun toys for your youngsters, or a favorite nephew or niece, order your pattern without further delay.

A little bit of nature that can be your own.

PARK TERRACE an enclave of individual townhouses in the heart of Mill Valley, offers your family a new way of living by bringing back some old values . . . privacy, a sense of space, an unhurried environment at home with nature.

Small courtyards interspersed with fountains and trees, give Park Terrace a village character. Each house looks out onto patios front and back, thoroughly private. And the entire community is nestled in a terraced park, with its own landscaped brook, forming a shelter of greenery and quiet on three sides. Here nature can be enjoyed on a human scale, with the conveniences not even possible in city living: a maintenance program that includes all outside gardening, lighting, and upkeep of all fences and building exteriors . . . all outside land taxes, an underground cable TV system . . . even pays all water bills and insurance on every structure. Unlike the conventional homeowner, you will never be faced with the cost of roof repairs or exterior repainting.

This unique worry-free community is the result of more than two years of planning by the team of The Haywood Company, Developer, and Agora, Architects and Planners. We have attempted to take into account the full idea of what a dwelling should offer you for twenty, thirty, forty years into the future.

PREVIEW:

We want Marin County to be the first to see Park Terrace...

65 townhouses for sale, from $33,900, most favorably located in the heart of Mill Valley, ideal for commuting, for schools, for shopping, for recreation, for worry-free living.

It's a new way of living you must see for yourself. For broadest selection, we urge you to visit or call

A Mini-Study Helps The School Child

The old adage, "a place for everything," leads to some imaginative possibilities — like putting an at-home study in a closet of the children's room.

Such a "mini-study" could be the answer to some seemingly insolvable problems including:

How to keep the children's room neat.

How to make space available — among the clutter of toys, games and sports equipment — for school essentials like a desk and bookshelves.

How to keep school supplies, texts and homework papers out of the reach of younger siblings — especially if they share a room with the school-age child.

TRANSFORMATION of conventional closet space into a workable study area requires minimal carpentry skills, a few tools, and not much time or money. The concept works in either a regulation single-door closet or in a double closet.

Desk space in the closet is easily provided with a wide shelf installed at a comfortable height for the student to work. A straight-back chair or high stool slips under the shelf when not in use.

If the closet is shallow, you can use a wall-mounted shelf unit with a swing-down counter. If the closet is exceptionally roomy, you may be able to fit in a regulation knee-hole desk. For maximum storage and work space, choose the type with a pull-out shelf for a typewriter.

ABOVE THE desk top, you can mount as many book shelves as needed. Adjustable shelves on wall standards work well because they are easy to install and provide versatile space for books of different sizes.

If there's room, add a small cork board on which to pin notes and homework assignments. You will also need an electrical outlet for a desk or wall lamp.

TO CLOSE OFF the closet study when it is not in use, folding or sliding louver doors are an ideal choice. They are available, in stock sizes, with all necessary hardware at local lumber dealers or building supply stores, and can be installed by a do-it-yourselfer.

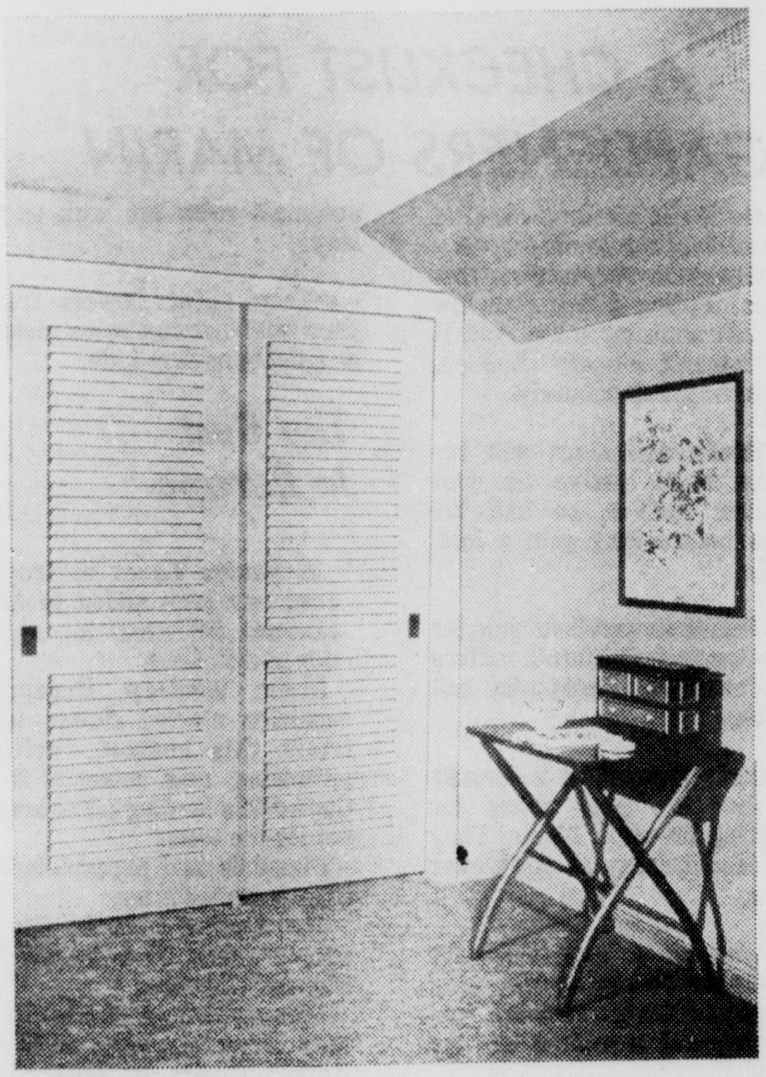
Folding doors open and close easily, and since they operate in accordian-fashion, take up minimal floor space. Sliding doors take no floor space at all. Both come in two decorative styles: fully-louvered, or with louvers in the top half, and a closed wood panel in the bottom.

Special advantage of louvers is that they allow a free flow of air to keep the study-closet from getting stale or stuffy.



BEHIND THESE sliding doors of ponderosa pine in what was intended as a closet there is plenty of space for books and school supplies, and even room for a mini-study with mounted bookshelves and a work counter.

Tulip Time In Marin

It's tulip and hyacinth buying and planting time now in Marin County.

While the dock strike has caused some interruptions and delays in the arrival of imported bulbs. Nevertheless, Marin nurseries generally have succeeded in accumulating generous stocks of quality bulbs.

IN NO OTHER planting is quality more important than in flower bulbs. The finest quality bulbs produce accordingly. Lesser quality bulbs are often a disappointment.

It is not too early to begin planting these bulbs. But the preferred practice is to chill your bulbs by placing them in the vegetable bin of your refrigerator — not in the freezer — for a few weeks before putting them into the ground.

This will delay the planting, but it will be worth the extra time. And tulip and hyacinth bulb planting can continue into early December with good results.

SOME NURSERYMEN are recommending to growers with good soil that they plant the bulbs deeper than the recommended six inches — perhaps as deep as nine inches. But this holds good only for well drained, sandy soil. And that can be found in but few places in Marin.

Tulips and hyacinths are bulb flower with dual personalities. Though both are most often thought of as formal, aristocratic-type flowers, they are impressive when planted in informal drifts, scattered in clusters along walkways and paths, in rock gardens, and in clumps beneath trees. And, with the wide range of spectacular and pleasing colors both flowers afford, no spring garden is complete without tulips and hyacinths.

THERE ARE SO many types of tulips, the best way to select them is to view the choices in the nursery, where color reproductions accompany the individual varieties. The various tulips classes make it possible to enjoy weeks and weeks of floral beauty. As one class reaches its peak, another is already preparing to burst forth in bloom.

Those with the classic "tulip-look," Triumph, Darwin and Cottage types, are ideal for planting in garden beds and borders. Early-blooming species tulips, which grow four to 12 inches tall, are most effective in a casual planting, such as rock gardens. The double Tulips, lacy-petaled Parrot types and Lily-flowering varieties—plus the large Darwin hybrids—are dramatic flowers which should be planted where they can be the center of interest.

HYACINTHS ARE colorful and fragrant, and should be planted in clusters for best effect. Being planted sparingly at random in the garden, or set out in a row like so-many wooden soldiers, doesn't give these easy-to-grow bulbs a chance to show their best.

They can be planted almost anywhere—a complete bed of hyacinths is a true showpiece; natural drifts in a given area, or clumps for accent purpose, or you can fill-in around shrubs in the landscape—where they will appreciate the partial shade—or use them to complete a garden border.

Hyacinths are among the most adaptable of bulbs for container growing. They can be planted in pots, planters and window boxes; and an indoor fun experience is to grow the bulbs in water—in special hyacinth vases which are readily available at your nursery or florist shop.

A CHECKLIST FOR GARDENERS OF MARIN

✓Give your chrysanthemums a final feeding if their buds are still not showing color. And if you haven't already done so, stake the plants securely.

✓Snails and slugs will become more active as cool weather arrives, so bait for them before they gain a foothold.

✓This is an excellent time for planting such California natives as Ceanothus, Fremontia and Toyons.

✓Late September and early October are good times for planting lawns in Marin. They will benefit from fall and winter rains.

✓This is a good time for getting such spring-blooming bulbs as daffodils, freesias, ranunculus and anemones into the ground.

✓Don't let up on your watering schedule until you are sure autumn's rains are with us to stay.

✓Keep spent flowers from your fall-blooming roses picked as quickly as they fade.

The Best In Europe

A foreign flavor or fragrance has been added to All-America Selections for superior new flowers.

Eight Western European countries started flower seed trials this season, inviting promising new annuals from the world's leading plant breeders for the tests.

Biennials and perennials are to be accepted later.

The testing organization is simply called Fleuroselect for Flower Selections.

There are now 15 trial locations, including three in Great Britain. Others are in Sweden, Denmark, Holland, Belgium, France, Germany and Switzerland.

The Groundcovers Solve The Problem Of Sunny Slopes

Groundcovers provide a ready answer for many problem landscaping areas, and, especially, are a solution for sunny slopes.

Soil conditions on sloping ground may prevent certain plants from flourishing in the location, and this difficulty is double when the slope basks in the hot sun most, or all, of the day.

There are several groundcovers which perform admirably in such landscape situations, according to the California Association of Nurserymen.

FOR TEXTURE and year-round interest, the prostrate junipers are attractive, durable choices. Wilton Carpet Juniper is just that—it all but carpets an area with its appealing silver-blue foliage. Sage green San Jose Juniper and Emerald Spreader are other junipers for slopes.

Your nurseryman can show you still others which flourish under local conditions.

Gaining in popularity, because of their ability to cover expanses of ground, are the Trailing Gazanias. On a slope, the gray-green foliage and spectacular show of yellow or orange daisy-like flowers are showcased in almost unbelievable fashion. Months of continuous color are to be enjoyed from these sun-loving performers.

ANOTHER BLOOMING choice is the Trailing African Daisy. Nurseries offer varieties that produce large white, or lavender-tinted flowers—from mid-winter into summer. These fill-in rapidly and may cover an area after one full season's growth.

Durable and attractive are apt descriptions of Baccharis (Coyote Bush). Small holly-like leaves are borne on compact branches, which follow the contour of the ground. Baccharis is planted extensively along California freeways; it requires little attention, yet provides beautiful rewards—and will do the same thing in the home garden.

Here where winters aren't marked by severe frost, Ice Plant varieties, lavender Trailing Lantana, Ivy Geraniums and even Dichondra—commonly utilized as a lawn—are other attractive groundcovers for slopes.

Hardy, too, is the groundcover Vinca Major. It has luxuriant green, heart shaped foliage and produces lavender blue flowers above ground, creates a cool illusion on the steepest of slopes.

Things You Should Know About Mums

When the plant hybridists develop a daisy that looks like a chrysanthemum ... and a chrysanthemum that looks like a daisy ... it's time to face facts. The chrysanthemum has become the most valuable and varied flower for fall.

You can use cut chrysanthemums for long-lasting arrangements ... you can enjoy masses of them in flower beds ... or have a bright closer view when you plant them in pots.

There are good reasons why chrysanthemums have been cultivated in the Orient for 2,000 years. They can be as frugal or as grand as you want them to be. They are so easy to propagate. You take cuttings from new growth and start them in moist sand. You can swap old faithfuls with your friends, or seek out the latest hybrids. They will brighten your fall garden when all else has retired for the season.

Garden Pages

THE ONLY things that rival flowers for embellishing a garden are the birds. And one way to attract them is with a bird feeder. You can buy them ready-made (this one of redwood is marketed by Germain's Inc.), or you can build your own. The feeder shown measures 11 inches wide, nine inches high and 10 inches deep.

THE TOTAL CONCEPT APPROACH FOR GRACIOUS LIVING

Have you ever purchased, on impulse, a lamp that was the wrong height for a table; draperies that were the wrong color for your room; a rug that didn't quite fit? If you have you will appreciate the "Total Concept" approach to decorating.

"Total Concept" simply means total plan. A complete look of a room. What do you need and how does it fit? What will you be doing in the room and how can you furnish to fit these needs. Should the room follow a formal or casual look. Will you use splashy bright colors or stay with a more subdued scheme? How will you combine woods, metal, plastics and glass?

All these things must be considered even when you simply want to add a lamp or occasional table.

Visit Bellach's Design Center room settings as prepared for "Debut 72" with special attention to "Total Concept" in a variety of ways. When you see a setting that you respond to, figure out the reason.

Analyze the elements of the room. Do the colors and materials of the furnishings enhance, balance and blend? You will probably find that in these room settings everything is placed in a relationship of all things around it . . . like the composition of a fine oil painting or a photograph.

Bellach's Design Center hopes that the room settings we have prepared for you will aid, inspire and open up to you the living advantages of "Total Concept" room decor in your home. Feel free to come in any time and browse. We welcome your questions. Our decorators will assist you in any way that they are able. We're eager for you to enjoy this fascinating adventure in home furnishing. It's new. It's Debut '72.

TV NOTES

By JACK GAVER

"A Christmas Carol" is always turning up in one form or another on television. ABC has an animated half-hour version slated for Dec. 21 with narrations by British star Sir Michael Redgrave.

During the football season, NBC's "Meet the Press" will be seen in the 12:30-1 p.m. space instead of the normal 1-1:30 period. After the football season, it will return to the regular time.

Violin virtuoso Yehudi Menuhin will conduct the CBS New York Philharmonic Young People's Concert tomorrow. He will be dealing with Bela Bartok's Concerto for Orchestra.

Leon Uris' best-seller, "QB VII," is being turned into a multi-part feature for ABC by Screen Gems for unannounced future broadcasting. Story of a libel case in a British court based on an actual experience of the author.

"NBC Children's Theater" will have six new specials during the 1971-72 season. Actors Lorne Greene and Sterling Holloway will be involved in two of them, the first as off-camera narrator for "The Blue Edge," and the latter as the voice of a character in an animated film, "All About Me."

ABC plans a series of weekly one-hour original motion pictures for children for the 1972-73 season. They will be seen on Saturday mornings.

Milburn Stone is due soon to go back to work in Hollywood in his Doc Adams role on "Gunsmoke." Open heart surgery took him out of circulation last April. The first six episodes of the new season on CBS will feature Pat Hingle as a Dr. John Chapman, filling in for Doc Adams, supposedly on a trip back East.

On The Stereo Scene

By JOHN SUNIER

Some more albums from RCA:

SCHMITT: "La Tragedie de Salome"; CHAUSSON: "Viviane"; DUPARC: "Lenore" — Antonio de Almeida conducting the New Philharmonic Orchestra — RCA LSC-3151: These three French symphonic poems of the late Romantic period are not often heard and that's a shame. They are sensual, colorful portraits of their three female personalities.

The Schmitt is the longest and most spectacular, and shows influences of both Debussy and Richard Strauss. It makes fascinating listening paired with Strauss's "salome."

"STAFFAN SCHEJA Plays Romantic Swedish Piano Music" — RCA LSC-3119: Now that's quite a mouthful of a title, but wait — look first at the portrait of handsome young pianist Scheja on the cover and you'll understand why he's packing the teen-age girls into Swedish concert halls. Then listen to any one of these four first recordings and hear some really exquisite piano music perfectly performed and recorded.

I enjoyed the "Ironical Miniatures" by Dag Wiren the most, probably because of an acquaintance with some of his other music, but the "Sonatine" by Larsson, "Three Fantasies" by Stenhammar and "Legends from Lake Malaren" by Rangstrom were also provocative listening.

A fine piano album.

"PEACE IT All Together" — Lighthouse — RCA LSP 4325: Having read a number of reviews comparing Lighthouse to Blood, Sweat and Tears I was full of expectations when first placing this LP on the turntable. Forget it.

Lighthouse has taken the least attractive parts of B, S & T and thrown out the attractive parts — like an exciting lead vocalist and a swinging sound.

The album includes something like the fourth or fifth tune titled "Sausalito" recorded in the last few years.

CZERNY: "Variations for Piano and Orchestra"; RIES: "Concerto" — Felicja Blumental, piano/Vienna Chamber Orchestra (Czerny)/Salzburg Chamber Orchestra (Ries)/ Froschauer, Guschlbauer, conductors — RCA VICS-1501: This fine album was picked by RCA for their bargain label from the British label Auditorium.

Both composers were pupils of Beethoven and the master's touch is evident. The theme Czerny used will be familiar to most ears; composed originally by Haydn, it later became known as "Deutschland uber Alles."

"THE SOUND OF THE MOZART PIANO" — MOZART: "Sonata in D for Two Pianos; "Variations on Ah, vous Diraije, Maman," "Fantasy in D Minor," "Andante and Variations for Four Hands" — Jorg Demus and Norman Shetler — RCA VICS-1495: The slender Viennese classical piano was closer to a clavichord than to today's grand piano. It had a subtle, expressive sound of lightness and transparency due to being lightly strung with no heavy steel frame.

Here are fine recordings of two beautifully-preserved pianofortes of that time, 1785 and 1795. It is not only musicologically correct but quite thrilling to hear Mozart's music as Mozart wrote it and not magnified out of all proportion on a concert grand.

This is not the first LP to bring listeners the unique sound of the early pianos, but I believe it is the first to consist primarily of two-hand or two-piano works — a wonderful idea.

From Australia we have two fairly conservative, tuneful and most enjoyable new trumpet concerti. While neither herald major composing talents of international interest, the spotlight here falls on the virtuoso feats of trumpet soloist John Robertson.

All fans of this regal instrument will want to add this LP to their collection.

PRISON GATES OPEN FOR ART SHOW

Art patrons file past some of the more than 2,000 paintings and craft works on display in the 17th Annual Fall Arts and Crafts Show at San Quentin Prison. About 200 persons were waiting today when the gate opened. Prison officials estimated more than 3,000 visitors had arrived by midmorning and said "the lines were long" at the sales counters. Plans by militants to picket outside the gate did not materialize after prison officials told organizers that holding down attendance at the art show could only hurt the inmates' income from art works sales. Observers reported the show drew less patronage than former years, however, perhaps as an aftermath of the Aug. 21 violence in the adjustment center.

Students Storm Emperor's Palace To Protest Trip

Okinawans Angered By Visit

The four members of a group called the "Okinawa Youth Committee" were overcome by police about 640 feet inside the gates of the 234-acre palace compound in downtown Tokyo.

Hirohito and Empress Nagako, who will meet with Nixon tomorrow in Alaska, were in their 14-room private residence a half mile from the gate when the incident occurred.

The four protesters, wearing white helmets and carrying red flags, drove up to the palace gate in a rented car shortly after noon, hurled smoke bombs at four guards, got out of the car and rushed in.

Police said four officers were injured while subduing the group.

A short time after their arrest, leaders of the 100-member Okinawa Youth Committee called a news conference.

"We will struggle with all the power at our command to prevent any injury to Okinawa," a spokesman said. He blamed the emperor for the suffering of Okinawan people during World War II.

Far left groups and all four of Japan's regular opposition parties are dissatisfied with the terms of a proposed treaty with the United States which will return Okinawa to Japan.

The opposition wants the islands to be free of all American troops. The treaty calls for continuation of American military base rights on the tropical island 1,000 miles southeast of Tokyo.

"Hirohito is just being used as a pawn to improve the government's position," one of the leaflets read.

The trip marks the first time a Japanese emperor and empress ever traveled to a foreign country.

A visit to Washington in 1969 by Sato to negotiate with Nixon on the Okinawa question touched off a battle in Japan in which 15,000 police had to be mobilized to guard the airport.

FINAL TUNEUP

As Sandor Salgo conducts the Marin Symphony Orchestra, soprano Dorothy Kirsten puts finishing touches on her scheduled performance at tonight's opening of the Veterans Memorial Building at the Marin Civic Center. The rehearsal came as workmen were driving the final nails in the darkened auditorium last night. Miss Kirsten, who will sing arias from "Tosca," "Louise," "Adriana Lecouvreur" and "Madama Butterfly," told an observer last night, "If I feel the way I do now, it will be gangbusters tomorrow night." Curtain is 8:30 p.m. for the inaugural, which also will feature the world premiere of Darius Milhaud's Suite in G.

Justice Black Dies Eight Days After Leaving Bench

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Hugo L. Black died early today—eight days after retiring from the Supreme Court that he imbued with his penetrating liberal philosophy for more than one-third of a century.

President Nixon eulogized the 85-year-old jurist as a man of "such independence, tenacity and total integrity of mind that his imprint on the Court and on our nation will be indelible."

His death was announced at Bethesda Naval Hospital where he had been ill since Aug. 28 with arterial trouble and where he suffered a severe stroke last Sunday.

In a one-sentence statement, the hospital attributed death to those causes and said the retired justice and former Alabama senator "died peacefully at 1 a.m. EDT this morning."

His immediate family was at his bedside, including his wife, two sons, Hugo J. of Miami and Sterling F. of Albuquerque, N.M., and a daughter, Mrs. Martha Josephine Pesaresi of Hackensack, N.J.

In his tribute, Nixon said: "Justice Hugo L. Black brought to the Supreme Court a mind that was brilliantly lucid and a character that was earnest and strong.

U.S. Planes Cross Viet Border Again

SAIGON (UPI) —American jets crossed the border into North Vietnam today to bomb antiaircraft gun batteries in the fifth consecutive day of what the U.S. command calls protective reaction raids.

The Viet Cong in turn increased their rocket and mortar attacks in South Vietnam and Cambodia. At least four American bases were attacked including two airfields.

In Saigon, President Nguyen Van Thieu went on the radio to defend his one-man candidacy in the Oct. 3 presidential election and to appeal for calm. But shortly after he spoke, students and disabled veterans set fire to cars and battled police in anti-Thieu demonstrations not only in Saigon but also in Hue.

The U.S. military command said two American F4 Phantom jets were on a bombing mission over the Ho Chi Minh Trail in Laos when they received gunfire from antiaircraft guns in nearby North Vietnam. The jets attacked the gun positions in Mu Gia Pass, 78 miles north of the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ) and just east of Laos. At least one secondary explosion was sighted.

It was the 64th such protective reaction raid of the year.

Two other F4s bombed another Communist antiaircraft unit Friday in Ban Karai Pass, 38 miles north of the DMZ Friday.

U.S. command spokesmen said the shelling attacks overnight against U.S. bases officially were considered insignificant because there were no casualties but the bombardments were increased markedly over the past few days.

The Viet Cong's Provisional Revolutionary Government (PRG) had said it would retaliate for the U.S. bombings of North Vietnam by increasing attacks on allied installations in

Driver Is Fatally Hurt In Sausalito

A 29-year-old Richmond garbage collector was killed yesterday when he was crushed beneath a runaway refuse truck on a hilly street in Sausalito.

Sergio Serda, an employee of Bay Cities Refuse Co., was killed as he attempted to stop the rolling truck on Lincoln Avenue, east of Highway 101, according to a co-worker, Angel Martinez, also of Richmond.

Martinez reported that both men had left the vehicle about 11:50 a.m. when it started to roll backward. He said Serda jumped in the truck, but was unable to halt it.

According to Martinez, the truck careened across Lincoln and up a driveway, then turned over when its left wheel hit a steep bank, and came to rest in the street.

Serda, who was either thrown or attempted to jump from the truck, was pinned beneath it and apparently killed instantly, according to the Marin County coroner's office.

Serda's death was the 27th traffic fatality in Marin this year, up four from this date in 1970.

Governor Signs Collier's Coastal Rivers Legislation

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —Gov. Ronald Reagan has signed legislation directing the state to draft a masterplan for preservation and development of 19 North Coast rivers.

The governor's office announced yesterday that Reagan had signed the measure by Sen. Randolph Collier, D-Yreka.

The measure appropriates $50,000 to the state Resources Agency to prepare management plans for flood control, water conservation, recreation and wildlife preservation on the rivers.

Included in the study will be the Klamath, Trinity, Salmon, Shasta, Scott, Smith, Bear, Mattole, Van Duzen, Eel, Big, Garcia, Navarro, Noyo, Ten-Mile Russian and Gualala rivers and Redwood and Alder creeks.

Conservationists, however, are strongly supporting another bill by Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael, to declare the Eel, Trinity and Klamath as wild rivers and prevent any dam construction on them.

Behr's bill was once defeated by the Senate, but has since been revived, and he has been given permission to make a second try at it.

Detectives Recover Valuable Art Works

ROME (UPI) — Detectives today recovered more than 40 stolen works of art and arrested four persons in a nationwide raid on gangs of thieves who looted churches and private art collections.

The latest recoveries included a Vivarini oil, a 16th century silver chalice covered in precious stones, three Tiepolo canvases and a Russian bronze cross found in a basement near Naples.

DEBUT '72 IN TODAY'S MAGAZINE

Across the country the home furnishings industry, starting tomorrow, will be observing for the next two weeks a Debut '72 program to present to home owners the new styles in furniture and new trends in decor.

Many of Marin's and Sonoma's finest home furnishing stores are participating in the event. And as a kick-off for Debut '72, today's edition of the Independent-Journal Marin Magazine is a special, expanded issue, devoted largely to news, photographs and advertisements about new home furnishing developments.

Nixon Off To Pacific Northwest

WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Nixon flew to the Pacific Northwest today for a four-state visit that will include a historic conversation with Japanese Emperor Hirohito.

Nixon, accompanied by his wife, planned to stop first at Kalispell, Mont., for a look at the $426 million Libby Dam under construction on the Kootenai River.

Then the President planned to fly on to Portland, Ore., to brief Northwestern editors and publishers on national and international affairs and to stay overnight.

Tomorrow he will fly to Walla

Super Jet Behind Ouster Of Soviets?

LONDON (UPI) — Some of the 105 Soviet officials ousted from Britain for spying were trying to steal technical data on the Anglo-French Concorde supersonic airliner (SST), diplomatic sources said today.

The sources said the agents were trying to get information on such things as electronic devices, computers and aircraft engines.

First Soviet Word On Peking's 'Crisis'

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Soviet Union says Communist China is in the throes of "grave political developments" and is trying to conceal them by spreading fears of an imminent Soviet invasion.

Moscow spoke its first word about the mystery of what is happening in Peking with a commentary published Friday night by the official Tass news agency.

(Julian Schuman, an American working in Peking, told UPI by telephone Saturday that "there's certainly no war scare here." He said that "it is true there hasn't been any very clear reason given (by the Chinese authorities on recent developments) but nobody's talking about any imminent invasion or to cover up war preparations."

(Schuman said that while cancellation of the October National Day celebrations has not been carried by the Chinese press most Chinese know about it. He said they were informed at work and other places.)

"One thing is clear," Tass said. "A number of grave internal political developments are affecting the general situation

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

Defeated Again

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Critics of Pentagon programs and spending still looked for their first victory today in their fight to trim a $21 billion military procurement bill in the Senate.

This week saw them lose a series of votes.

The latest defeat came yesterday on an amendment by Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., to stop deployment of the nation's newest strategic weapon — the multiple, independently targeted re-entry vehicle MIRV. The MIRV is a cluster of nuclear warheads, placed on a single Minuteman or Poseidon missile, which separate before impact and are guided to widely-separated targets.

Granted License

NEW YORK (UPI) — Averell Harriman, former U.S. ambassador to the Paris peace talks, and Pamela Digby Churchill Hayward, the late Sir Winston Churchill's daughter-in-law, were granted a marriage license yesterday.

Harriman, 79, and Mrs. Hayward, 51, first met in London during World War II. Mrs. Hayward, who said she will remain a British subject, was twice widowed. Her first husband was Churchill's son Randolph and her second husband was Broadway producer Leland Hayward, who died last March.

Endorses Muskie

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI) — Rep. Morris K. Udall, D-Ariz., a leader of House liberals, endorsed Sen. Edmund S. Muskie's undeclared presidential candidacy today, saying polls show Muskie can be the first Democratic candidate to carry Arizona since 1948.

To Study Troops

WASHINGTON (UPI) — With the American program of disengagement from Vietnam entering a critical phase, the White House has sent a special team of experts to that country to make an on-the-spot assessment of military and political conditions.

Administration officials said today that President Nixon, mindful that his predecessors sometimes were misled by overly optimistic predictions from the field, authorized National Security Adviser Henry A. Kissinger to dispatch about a dozen experts from his staff to double-check reports received through regular channels.

Bank Firebombed

NEW YORK (UPI) — A branch of the Chase Manhattan Bank was firebombed today, apparently in connection with the recent Attica state prison uprising. Police said damage was slight.

An anonymous caller to UPI said the bank was bombed in retaliation for the assault by state law enforcement officers at Attica which killed 31 inmates and 10 hostages. The storming of the prison was approved by Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller.

Hurricane Stalled

MIAMI (UPI) — Hurricane Ginger, with winds up to 85 miles per hour, was stalled in the Atlantic Ocean early today. "All the forces" were pulling in various directions, preventing forecasters from making a prediction.

Ginger barely moved Friday from a position 575 miles southeast of Cape Hatteras, N.C. Early today, it produced swells to 12 feet along the southeast U.S. coast, the northern Bahamas and the northern Caribbean.

Sets Election

BRUSSELS (UPI) — King Baudouin of Belgium has agreed to dissolve parliament and call an election Nov. 7. Normally the election would have been held next May but a dispute between Social--Christian and Socialist party leaders upset the three-year-old government coalition.

Six Bus Deaths

NIRTH BRANCH, N.Y. (UPI) — A bus carrying 13 persons from a private school in Florida careened off a rural Catskill Mountain road near the Pennsylvania state line yesterday and struck a tree. Six persons, including four children, were killed.

Houston, Tex. is frequently referred to as "the city of millionaires."

Soviet Boss In Budapest

BUDAPEST, Hungary (UPI) — Soviet Communist party leader Leonid I. Brezhnev arrived today by plane from Belgrade to explain to his Hungarian allies why he endorsed Yugoslav President Tito's liberalized brand of communism.

Hungary borders Yugoslavia on the north. Brezhnev is to fly Sunday to Bulgaria, which borders Yugoslavia on the east, to brief other Warsaw Pact leaders on the results of this three-day "unofficial" visit to Yugoslavia.

Both Tito and Brezhnev, in farewell speeches at the airport in Belgrade, said their extensive private talks "cleared up" important issues between their two countries. But only a joint commique, to be issued later, would show whether Brezhnev succeeded in persuading Tito to drop some of his independence on foreign policy and line up with the Kremlin on major world issues.

There was no advance announcement by the Hungarian government of Brezhnev's visit to Budapest, although it was an open secret in the capital.

Three Deer Hunters Slain; Suspect Held

SIERRA CITY, Calif. (UPI) —Three deer hunters were shot to death and a teen-age boy seriously wounded Friday in the northern California Mother Lode country near here.

An hour after the discovery of the bodies, two deputies arrested Carter Hall Yuen, 21, of San Francisco, about 25 miles from the scene of the killings. Yuen was a companion of the three unidentified victims, who were reportedly oriental Americans.

In a brief midnight news conference, Sheriff Sam Doyle admitted he was baffled about why the slaughter occurred.

He said the bodies had been discovered by an unidentified motorist who found the wounded victim, Ronald Gong, 19, San Francisco, crawling by the side of a mountain road. The bodies were found at a makeshift campsite 200 yards away.

Sheriff Doyle did not reveal what led deputies to Yuen, who was arrested in his car near neighboring Sierraville without resistance.

Doyle said he talked to Yuen, who did not admit the killings and was in a calm state of mind. Yuen was placed in the county jail in Downieville where he is being held on investigation of murder.

Doyle said his men had confiscated four rifles, but declined to answer many other questions.

He did not say if one of the rifles was the death weapon; whether more than one had been fired in a possible gunfire exchange; where at the campsite the bodies were found; the exact location of the death wounds; or whether any type of narcotics had been found at the scene.

Gong was rushed to the Washoe County Medical Center in Reno, Nev., where his condition was listed as serious. A hospital spokesman said he had chest wounds but "would make it."

Last July 12, a man described as "laughing, grumbling and growling like an animal," hacked two persons to death while they were camping on Bear River in Nevada County, 75 miles south of here.

Clarence Otis Smith, an unemployed trash collector from Auburn, Calif., was later arrested in Mexico and extradited from Texas to California on charges of murdering the two victims and wounding two others.

New Clear Air Engine Developed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An army effort to get better gasoline mileage for the jeep has led to the first car meeting the government's stringent antipollution standards for 1976 models.

But an auto industry spokesman says there is "virtually no chance" the engine can be mass produced by the deadline.

President Nixon startled some auto industry executives Thursday night when he said during an appearance before the Detroit Economic Club that an engine had passed tests within the "very strict standards of the clean air act."

Yesterday, the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) said Nixon was talking about a Ford Motor Co. engine. Ford then confirmed the development of the engine but cautioned there was very little chance it could be mass produced and certified for 1976 "because of its highly experimental nature."

The prototype is a four cylinder, 72-horsepower internal combustion jeep engine with four wheel drive and stick shift. A second ford prototype, due next week in a Postal Service vehicle, will have two wheel drive and automatic transmission.

Ford said it is also testing V-8 versions. Texaco, Inc., a partner in the project, is scheduled to deliver two other prototypes in November.

The EPA said the engine's key concept is "stratified charge" —the use of fuel injection and special cylinders that together measure precisely the amount of gasoline and air mixed in the cylinders. The engine has no carburetor.

This produces "smooth, efficient and controlled combustion," the EPA said, with less exhaust. Remaining exhaust is reduced further with a recirculation system and a catalytic muffler. Leaded gasoline could not be used.

The EPA said the Army began working on stratified charge in 1962 to improve the jeep's gas mileage.

It worked, improving mileage by 25 to 30 per cent. Ford and EPA added the antipollution devices, losing the improved gas mileage and leaving an engine with mileage approximately matching that of today's cars.

United Bay Crusade Opens Annual Drive

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— The United Bay Area Crusade launched its 50th annual fund drive Friday by reporting a record $4 million in advance gifts at a luncheon aboard the S. S. President Cleveland.

Funds were collected from corporations, trusts, foundations and private individuals.

Last year the Crusade raised $17,038,951 and this year says it needs $30 million.

Rockefeller To Seek Prison Reform Funds

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI)—Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, following the bloodiest prison revolt in modern U.S. history, said yesterday he will soon propose a major overhaul of New York's prison systems which may cost more than $200 million.

Rockefeller told newsmen he doesn't have any of the specifics of the program drawn up yet.

The talk of prison reform comes almost two weeks after the end of a five-day rebellion at Attica state prison Sept.13, in which 31 inmates and 10 hostages were killed.

Rockefeller would not discuss how much the program would cost, but he told reporters he informed a House committee headed by Rep. Claude Pepper, D-Fla., it would cost "more than $200 million just to rebuild the prisons in the state."

"This is something we should have begun yesterday," Rockefeller said. "It's overdue."

Other state sources said the program may be presented to the state legislature in January or at a special session on reapportionment scheduled for December.

In other developments yesterday:

-Two attorneys from the National Lawyers Guild said they had "sufficient corroborating evidence to substantiate" that inmate Thomas Hicks was "deliberately singled out and killed after he had surrendered and been placed in custody." The lawyers, talking to newsmen outside the prison in Attica, said Hicks had been moved to Attica following last year's riot at the state prison in Auburn.

-State sources revised their estimate of damage in the Attica rebellion from $3 million to "in excess" of $4 million.

-Leaders of the labor union representing prison workers met with administration officials for nearly eight hours to discuss union demands for reform.

Dissolution Of Marriage Given

The marriage of Dr. Edward Vanderhoof of Ross has been dissolved in Marin Superior Court.

Judge Thomas F. Keating granted the dissolution but withheld judgment on a property settlement. Dorothy Vanderhoof was awarded custody of one of the couple's four children.

They were married Aug. 14, 1941, in Minnesota, and Mrs. Vanderhoof filed for separate maintenance in 1969. Dr. Vanderhoof then filed for dissolution.

He went to Vietnam in 1966 in connection with a project to treat South Vietnamese civilian casualties of the war.

Armored Car Guard Killed In Holdup

BERKELEY (UPI) — Two flashy-dressed holdup men opened up with automatic pistols during a supermarket robbery near the University of California, killing an armored car guard and wounding two others.

They escaped with $400.

The robbers pulled their guns when two Loomis armed guards were delivering change and picking up receipts at the store. The guards had their hands in the air when "all at once guns started going off," witnesses told police.

Killed instantly was Patrick B. Moore, 22, Berkeley, who was shot in the chest. His partner, Roosevelt Harris, 27, Richmond, suffered a hip wound and the store manager, William Bennett, 27, Pleasanton, was wounded in the shoulder.

Police said the husky assailants fired six shots into the store as they fled the store and escaped in a late model car.

Hearing Set In Felony Drug Case

A preliminary hearing has been set for Oct. 5 in Marin Municipal Court for Gary Justice, 26, of Los Angeles.

A SULLIVAN SUCCESS STORY!

Leon Cofferata is a Sullivan Success story! Here's what Leon's mother said after her son had been enrolled in the Sullivan Program for just two weeks. "Leon had reading problems for two years. He repeated the first grade, and we were afraid he would have to repeat it again. We were desperate when we came to the Sullivan Reading Center. We had tried other sources of help with no success. Within ten days after enrolling Leon in the Sullivan Program, there was a change in Leon. For the first time he wanted to read! I don't think there is a child who can't learn from the Sullivan System. It's worked a miracle in my family!"

If your child needs improvement in Reading and Math we can help him too.

The Reading Program:

At Sullivan your child will learn to read or improve his present reading level through linguistic progression. He will find the organized, involving aspects of the program offer him an opportunity for success he may not have previously enjoyed.

The Math Program:

Our Math Program is self-motivating. Once a child is placed in the program he is presented with problems that gradually increase in complexity, leading him step-by-step to a thorough grasp of concepts. Ask your child's teacher about our proven Sullivan materials.

LUSH LOOK FORMS AT POST OFFICE

In 1966, soon after the main San Rafael Post Office was finished (top), the grounds offered only a lone fir tree for landscaping. Elsewhere, there were weeds and litter. But through a planting program, the post office yard has grown up (bottom), offering an appealing site to the person who comes to do business inside the facility. The post office is located on Bellam Boulevard.

Attack On Leadership Of Bureau

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Rep. Donald M. Fraser, D-Minn., said yesterday Interior Secretary Rogers C. B. Morton is "Out of touch with the concerns of the Indian people" and asked President Nixon to remove the Bureau of Indian Affairs from his control.

In a letter to Nixon, Fraser said the bureau should be given independent status under the office of the President.

Fraser said he has come to share the view voiced by several Indian leaders that the BIA should be taken out of the Interior Department.

"Secretary Morton appears to be out of touch with the concerns of the Indian people," Fraser said. "But a lack of leadership at the highest levels of the Interior Department is only part of the reason for the Indian bureau's problems."

He said efforts to reform the bureau "have ground to a halt" since Morton succeeded Walter J. Hickel.

The Minnesota Democrat said he was originally encouraged by efforts of a group of "young turks" in the BIA to implement Nixon's landmark message on Indian affairs in July, 1970.

Shortage Of Trained Personnel At Drug Rehabilitation Centers

WASHINGTON (UPI) —An official of the two federal drug addiction treatment centers conceded yesterday up to 50 per cent of addicts seeking voluntary commitment are turned away, but he said this was caused by lack of trained personnel to run rehabilitation programs.

"We desperately need the resources and personnel to deal with the homosexual and homicidal addict," R. Betram S. Brown, director of the National Institute of Mental Health, told a House judiciary subcommittee hearing.

The panel is investigating the effectiveness of the 1966 Narcotic Addict Rehabilitation Act, which permits commitment of drug addicts charged with minor, non-violent federal crimes in lieu of prosecution, or commitment after conviction of such crimes or for voluntary commitment sought by an addict not charged with a crime.

The General Accounting Office, an investigative arm of Congress, told the panel earlier this week that it found that despite room at the Fort Worth, Tex., and Lexington, Ky., federal drug addiction treatment centers, that 62 per cent of the addicts seeking volunteer commitment were rejected by the two centers, which are under Brown's jurisdiction.

Brown said the rejection rate was at a maximum of 50 per cent and the main reason was lack of trained personnel to handle potentially violent addicts. This requires a "weeding out" process among volunteer addicts, Brown said.

In a related matter, Rep. Don Edwards, D-Calif., chairman of the subcommittee, said before his panel resumed hearings today that the Defense Department has indirectly hampered efforts to halt the flow of heroin into the United States.

Edwards said that during a recent trip to Iran he discovered five helicopters Iran needs to patrol its borders against dope smuggling from Afghanistan and Turkey are sitting idle at the Teheran Airport because of a dispute over a purchase price for the planes. The smuggled dope, he said, ends up as heroin in the United States.

Edwards said the Pentagon has demanded $200,000 per helicopter and Iran claimed it could not afford that.

Its complaint, Edwards said, was supported by the U.S. Ambassador to Iran, but the Pentagon would not reduce the price and is planning to bring two of the ships back to the United States.

Delta Queen Turned Into Mail Carrier

CINCINNATI (UPI) — The Delta Queen, one of the last operative paddle-wheel steamboats, will churn the waters of the Ohio and Mississippi Rivers with a new purpose. The riverboat will serve as a mail carrier.

Postmaster William M. Blount, by special order, put the Delta Queen into the mail delivery business. The riverboat will shuttle between here and New Orleans carrying mail until Nov. 11., making stops at many riverfront cities.

The Court System To Be Viewed

"Our Marin Courts: How Can We Improve Them?" will be the topic of a panel discussion at a luncheon meeting to be sponsored by the San Rafael Chamber of Commerce Court Watchers on Oct. 20.

The noon luncheon will be at the Holiday Inn in San Rafael.

Panelists will include Peter Allen Smith, presiding judge of Marin Municipal Court; Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales; Asst. Public Defender Buford L. Toney; County Probation Officer John W. Brewer and Lt. Albert Howenstein.

Samuel W. Gardiner, presiding judge of the superior court, has also been invited, according to the chamber.

The panelists will discuss such topics as causes for increased crime rate, plea bargaining and backlog of cases.

Mountanos Not Keen On Shield

A bullet-proof glass shield in a Marin County Hall of Justice courtroom would mean only added expense without any savings in security manpower, the board of supervisors will be told Tuesday.

Sheriff Louis P. Mountanos has found that even if the shield were installed, he could not reduce the number of men on duty at "sensitive" trials, County Administrator John F. Barrows said yesterday.

Last Tuesday, the supervisors voted 3-2 to install the shield, similar to the one used in San Francisco for the Soledad Brothers case. However, when Supervisor Michael Wornum joined Louis H. Baar and John F. McInnis in voting for the shield he said he would support the spending only if it resulted in manpower savings.

Mountanos's report may result in reversal of the board decision. Barrows had earlier recommended against the shield, which he said might cost up to $20,000.

Mountanos reported that the safety shield "acts only as a separation of the total number of individuals into two groups" in the courtroom, but that the same safety problems "would still exist," Barrows said.

SOVIETS

"The Chinese leadership ... is trying to shift the blame for the difficulties in the country onto external factors—the imaginary threat from the Soviet Union — and thus distract the attention of the Chinese people from acute domestic political problems," Tass said.

The Soviets also said the Chinese were attributing their cancellation of the Oct. 1 revolutionary day parade to the need for war preparations. Tass said this information came in news reports from Peking, but no report reaching Moscow supported it.

"According to journalistic circles in Peking," Tass said, "the calling off of the national day parade is explained to the country's population by references to the alleged threat to China on the northern frontiers, where an attack on Chinese territory is allegedly planned."

The Soviet agency concluded: "In short, this is nothing less than a new attempt to fan up anti-Soviet sentiments in the population and ... a campaign with the slogan 'prepare for War' is being activated."

The cancellation of the Oct. 1 parade and other unusual activities in China provoked worldwide speculation the nation is experiencing a major political crisis.

Much of the speculation has centered, without substantiation, on the possible ill-health or death of Chairman Mao Tse-tung.

The Soviet commentary did not mention Mao nor did it elaborate on what the "grave developments" might me.

Dissolution Of Marriage Asked

The wife of former Sausalito Mayor Jan Paul Dyk has filed in Marin Superior Court for dissolution of their marriage.

According to the petition filed by Eugenia Benson Dyk, the couple was married Sept. 21, 1954, in Sausalito and separated Sept. 16, 1971. She cited irreconcilable differences.

Dyk, a steamship company executive with Holland-American Line in San Francisco, served on the Sausalito City Council from 1962 until 1970 and was mayor in 1964 and 1965.

Rogers Sees China Plan Going Well

UNITED NATIONS (UPI)—Secretary of State William P. Rogers said today "the momentum is going in our favor" for seating Communist China and retaining Nationalist China in the United Nations.

Rogers commented during a brief news conference after a morning call on U.N. Secretary General Thant and Adam Malik, president of the General Assembly.

Rogers said he was encouraged by the General Assembly vote Friday on the China issue. The assembly voted down, 65-47, an Albanian attempt to prevent a debate on the U.S. plan for seating the Peking government while preserving a seat for Nationalist China.

The vote, Rogers said, "has given us reason to be encouraged. The vote was larger than expected. I think the momentum is going in our favor."

The secretary of state also appraised his meeting Friday night with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko. He said "It was a particularly friendly meeting. There were no points on which there were strong differences."

Rogers added that the U.S. effort to find an interim Middle East agreement between Egypt and israel was still "quite alive."

Rogers acknowledged that the expulsion from London by the British government of 90 Soviet espionage agents might complicate the convening of a European Security conference sponsored by the Soviet Union.

U.S. sources, summing up Rogers' meeting with Gromyko Friday night, said that the Soviet official had given assurances that the Soviet Union would not interfere in U.S. efforts to reach a partial Middle East settlement.

INDO

South Vietnam.

Among the bases attacked was the American air base at Bien Hoa, 14 miles northeast of Saigon. Three 122mm rockets hit the base Friday night but none caused any damage or casualties. Phan Rangair base, 165 miles east-northeast of Saigon also came under fire.

Meanwhile, an American veteran of the Vietnam War tried to burn himself to death in the heart of Saigon tonight but was stopped by Vietnamese police.

The man was indentified as Raymond Dennis Crombie, 24, now an unemployed civilian. He was questioned by police for two hours and then taken to immigration authorities for deportation as soon as possible.

Crombie was reported wounded while serving in Vietnam in 1968, and police said he told them a brother now was serving in the war zone.

He had told police earlier another brother was killed in Vietnam. But police said Crombie appeared confused and gave contradictory statements.

Reagan Has Busy Tax Reform Week

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —Gov. Ronald Reagan has cancelled nearly all of his schedule next week to free him to negotiate with legislators over tax reform.

The schedule included a speech to the International Police Chiefs' Association Monday in Anaheim.

The Republican governor is trying to nail down a tax reform compromise plan before he leaves Oct. 8 with his family and key staff members on a two-week goodwill trip to Asia.

Accident Victim Is Reported As Fair

A 33-year-old Petaluma woman was reported in fair condition today at Hillcrest Hospital with burns of the hands and legs received yesterday in a one-car crash on Highway 101, one mile north of the Washington Street overpass in Petaluma.

The California Highway Patrol said Carolyn A. Moreda of 716 Elm Drive was southbound on the freeway about 10 a.m. when her auto ran off the road into a field, overturned and burst into flames. The car was a total loss, officers said.

Many Turn Out

STERLING HEIGHTS, Mich. (UPI)—A grandmother, 68, was the first one to show up at a free course on the basics of cars. Next came a secretary, secretary, 20, wearing a Universitq of Michigan sweatshirt. By the time the class started about 25 women were present —and just two or three men.

BLACK

the judiciary was that of giving force and effect to constitutional liberties. In his judicial life, he did exactly that—with such independence, tenacity and total integrity of mind that his imprint on the Court and on our nation will be indelible.

"His faith in the United States Constitution was absolute and so his convictions were rooted absolutely.

"Mrs. Nixon and I join the nation in mourning at the death of this noble American."

Chief Justice Warren E. Burger said Black's death removes from the scene "one of the authentic legal philosophers of our time. He will be sorely missed, not only on the Court, but in American life."

Funeral arrangements were incomplete.

During his 34 years on the nation's highest tribunal, Black probably did more than any other justice to influence the court in cases that led to broad social change.

He was an ardent defender of civil liberties and civil rights, from freedom of religion to freedom of speech and the press. He fought perpetually — and often won —his arguments that the first Amendment could never be compromised and that the 14th Amendment required every state to follow the entire Bill of Rights.

For Black, the U.S. Constitution was his Bible and he always carried a copy of it in his pocket. When he had to explain one of his many unpopular decisions, he frequently replied: "The court didn't do it. The Constitution did."

Perhaps his most notable actions were his ruling barring prayers in public schools and two dissents, both of which later became the law of the land. One required states to provide all indigent criminal defendants with a lawyer and the other ordered equal apportionment of state legislatures. Black's term on the Supreme Court was the third longest in history. His retirement was followed last Thursday by that of Justice John Marshall Harlan, 72, whose physician said he was suffering from spinal cancer.

The departure of the two men gives President Nixon a further opportunity to reshape the court. He already has appointed Chief Justice Warren E. Burger and Associate Justice Harry A. Blackmun. Two other nominations, of Clement F. Haynesworth Jr. and G. Harrold Carswell, were rejected by the Senate.

There has been speculation, part of it inspired by the President himself, that one of the two vacancies might be filled with a woman for the first time in history.

Black's condition worsened steadily after he suffered the stroke last Sunday.

Group Is Against Transfers

A group called the Marin Citizens Concerned About San Quentin is opposing a recommendation made by the board of supervisors that more violent and hardened criminals be transferred from the prison.

The supervisors had quickly agreed to a suggestion made recently by Asst. Dist. Atty. Gary W. Thomas (crippled since being wounded in the August 1970 shoot-out) that San Quentin be made into a minimum security prison.

"Such action is an attempt to shove the problem onto others and is divisive of the mutual concern of the people in all California counties," the citizens group said.

Instead, the group called for "an independent investigation of San Quentin Prison, an end to the terror against prisoners and that changes be made at the prison based on the conclusions based on an independent probe."

Boy Reported In Satisfactory Condition

A 7-year-old San Anselmo boy was reported in satisfactory condition today at Marin General Hospital with head injuries received Thursday when his bicycle collided with an auto on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard.

San Anselmo police said Michael Burke of 142 Barber Avenue was injured about 3 p.m. when he crossed the boulevard against the red light and collided with an auto driven by Kenneth J. Barnes, 20, of 4 Norma Court, Novato.

Clean Summer Air

NEW YORK (UPI)—New York City enjoyed the cleanest air this summer of any summer since such records have been kept, the Department of Air Resources reported Friday.

OBITUARIES

Hans C. Nissen Dies At 74

Hans C. Nissen of Cotati, former poultry ranch owner and manager of the community's Veterans Memorial Building, died yesterday in a Sonoma County hospital after collapsing at his home. He was 74.

A native of Denmark, he came to this country in 1923. After a brief stay in Idaho, he moved to Watsonville, Santa Cruz County, where he owned and operated a poultry ranch. He came to Sonoma County in 1945 and resided at 9615 Lau Lane.

After retiring from the poultry business, Nissen worked as manager of the Cotati Veterans Memorial building from 1963 until his death. He also operated a catering business with his wife, Jeanette.

Nissen, who served with the Navy during World War II, was a past commander of the Cotati American Legion and a member of the Cotati Veterans of Foreign Wars. He was past president of the Danish Brotherhood of Petaluma, a deacon of the Penngrove Community Church and a member of the Independent Order of Oddfellows, Petaluma Lodge 30.

In addition to his wife, Nissen is survived by three sons, Paul and Chris Nissen, both of Cotati, and Art Nissen of Honolulu, and a daughter, Mrs. Muriel Lumry of Redwood City. Other survivors include three grandchildren and two sisters and two brothers in Denmark.

Funeral will be at 11 a.m. Tuesday at Sorensen's funeral home in Petaluma. Burial will be in Cypress Hills Memorial Park, Petaluma.

Before retiring several years ago, she worked for the state of California as a clerk for 20 years. She was a member of the Vendanta Society in San Francisco.

There are no known survivors.

NIXON

Walla, Wash., to inspect the Hanford Atomic reactor plant, and then on to Alaska for his visit with Hirohito in a pink-carpeted, velvet-lined U.S. Air Force hangar.

It was a goodwill tour for Nixon in many ways. The visit with Hirohito at the start of the emperor's first trip abroad was intended to soothe Japanese feelings hurt by Nixon's new policies on mainland China and the world trade.

Nixon plans to visit China before next May, and one of the Communist government's biggest fears in Peking has been the growing strength of Japan since World War II. Nixon's economic strategy was intended in part to strengthen the United States' trading situation in the light of sharply rising imports from Japan.

While in Anchorage, Nixon was invited to a reception at the home of Walter J. Hickel, whom he fired as secretary of the interior on Thanksgiving eve last year.

Presidential speechwriter William Safire told several newsmen he had been tipped that Mansfield threatened to cut off campaign funds to any Democratic senator who did not support the Mansfield antiwar amendment on the draft bill. Democrats angrily denied it.

But Nixon was not expected to discuss publicly at least one controversial subject —whether the United States will go ahead with plans for an underground nuclear test at Amchitka in the Aleutian Islands.

Hub Board Hears Good Fund News

The San Anselmo School District board has been told the district will not lose any state aid this year but may during fiscal 1972-73.

According to Supt. W. Kenneth Lowry, a decrease in student enrollment this year will not be felt financially until next year since state aid to the district is based on the previous year's enrollment.

Trustee Mary Helen Olive earlier had expressed concern that the loss of students may cost the district more than $40,000 in revenue this year.

The board met Thursday to review its financial position.

A proposal that one teaching position be dropped or cuts made elsewhere in the budget to free revenue for emergency use will be considered at the board's Oct. 5 meeting.

The board also will meet Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. at Red Hill School to discuss with a panel of speakers the role and responsibilities of public education.

Glamorous Future Ahead For Ship

By STEVE SWENSON

One might expect a pornographic film maker to buy a large boat or yacht complete with expensive red carpet, wood paneling, a shining hull and a plush interior.

But San Rafael film maker Alex de Renzy, who has produced thousands of short skinflicks and a feature length film, "Pornography in Denmark," has recently bought a 185-foot Navy vessel that has about as much whoopee as a manhole cover.

The ship with a Navy flavor of hard grey steel was purchased by de Renzy in June for the meager sum of $41,500 (boats over 60 feet usually sell for a minimum of $1,000 per foot). However, de Renzy said, it has cost about another $40,000 so far to get it running and to begin refurbishing it.

The Marysville was built in 1944 by Pullman Car Co. of Chicago at a cost of $1.2 million. De Renzy said he was able to buy it for less because of depreciation and, because, among other things, the Navy took all the toilets out.

Now that the 36-year old movie maker has a 640-ton former Navy rescue ship, what does he intend to do with it?

De Renzy said he is not quite sure. "I don't plan my life more than six months ahead and right now the ship is just a project for me to have something to do."

He did say is is planning a trip around November to Acapulco, and he wants to make a documentary film on the boat. He said he hasn't had much time to develop an idea for the film because he is currently working on another film called "Weed," a non erotic study of marijuana around the world, from Mexican fields, to Nepal hashsish shops and people in prisons.

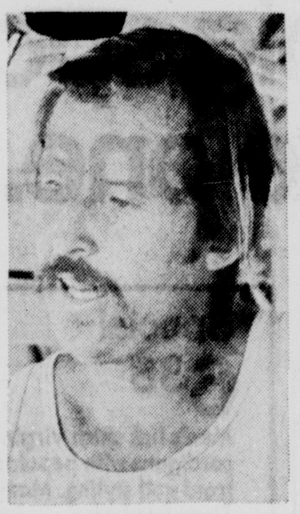
De Renzy along with his wife, Christine, and 10-month old daughter, Cheryl, spends many hours on the ship with a crew of 16 men and women. The crew is setting about painting the vessel white and the decks blue, tuning up the huge engines, decorating the interior and making it livable for people not used to the rigors of Navy life. He said 100 people could live comfortably on the Marysville.

The ship is now anchored off Paradise Cove on the Tiburon pennisula although de Renzy said he will anchor the boat in different spots because "we don't want to wear out our welcome and we don't want to bother people."

De Renzy said about 1,000 hours worth of work will be needed to get the ship in shape. Already things are beginning to get more civilian as the captain sailed it from San Diego to Sausalito and de Renzy said he was very satisfied with the sturdiness and sailing of the boat.

Sex films and former ownership of the Screening Room blue movie theatre in San Francisco have caused de Renzy legal hassles that have put him in and out of courts.

This week he is involved in a trial in San Francisco Municipal Court, charged with four counts of showing obscene movies in the theatre, even though he contends he leased it to another company last year.



ALEX de RENZY
The ship's master

and the officers' quarters are nicely arranged with double and single beds, television sets, good size bathrooms, rugs, dressers and closets.

Empty gun decks and other steel appendages which get in the way of a shuffleboard game will be removed from the decks de Renzy said.

A tour through the interior of the six-deck ship resembles a walk through a submarine because there are no portholes below the third deck. Walking through oval-shaped doors and climbing down steep steps, one looks into a beehive of rooms.

The narrow corridors dimly lit with red lights lead one to two huge engine rooms which vibrate the coffee cups on the tables in the mess hall above.

Contrasted with the dreariness still in most of the rooms on the ship, the mess hall has bright orange and padded seats stretching along the wall and shining white tables.

The Marysville was the last ship of its type built for the Navy, de Renzy said. During the last part of World War II and the Korean War, it used its several guns and depth charges for escort and rescue missions.

After the wars, it was based in San Diego and used for oceanic research for the Naval Electronics Laboratory. The Navy has since built new vessels to replace ships like the "Marysville" which in July, 1970, was the last one of its kind to be decommissioned.

De Renzy who said he comes from a long line of river and sea captains wanted to buy a big boat to use in film making. He said he was impressed with a 125-foot ship a friend of his bought from the Navy. He said his friend told him how much to bid for the Marysville.

He mailed in his sealed bid and found out in June that the ship was his. He gives the impression there isn't anything at all extraordinary about a private individual buying a boat three times the size of a large yacht.

While there is a certain restrained excitement about his new ship, de Renzy casually comments, "Well, it's a little big."

State Looks At Prison Security

By CARL INGRAM

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Prison guards yesterday proposed locking up all potentially revolutionary and violent convicts in an isolated maximum security penitentiary but state Corrections Director Raymond Procunier dismissed the idea as "inconceivable."

At the same time, the California State Employes Association called for construction of a new $50 million prison in San Diego County to house and treat inmates needing psychiatric care.

The two proposals were handed the state Board of Corrections, which launched an investigation into security and safety precautions at California prisons in the wake of violence last month at San Quentin where three guards and three inmates were killed.

A third proposal by the Teamsters Union called for the board to immediately lobby the legislature and Gov. Ronald Reagan for vast sums of money to hire more guards and beef up safety procedures at prisons.

Arnold Thompson, a San Quentin guard and vice president of the California Correctional Officers Association, proposed establishing a single prison where the inmates with "high violence potential" and "militant revolutionaries" would be kept.

"The militant revolutionary type inmates should be isolated from the rest of the prison population," Thompson told the board, suggesting that the California Medical Facility at Vacaville could house them.

But Procunier, who rose from the guard ranks to direct the California prison system, told the board such a proposal was unworkable.

"It's inconceivable to me to segregate completely all the troublemakers and deal with them," he said. "It's impossible. People have to be dealt with."

Thompson said it would be a simple matter to identify such convicts because "correctional officers know their names and their numbers. They are well known."

But Procunier insisted that identifying potential troublemakers "is the whole problem; identifying a man before he does something."

He said "the solution is to have as many of these kinds of persons under tight control and at the same time have an overlay of psychiatric care and try to work with them."

Board member Michael Canlis, sheriff of San Joaquin County, asked Thompson whether guards should carry "tranquilizing" equipment to headoff violence before it starts.

"No, sir, we're not qualified on the medicine part," he replied.

The idea of guards "tranquilizing" inmates also was brushed aside by Barney Apfel, secretary and business manager of Teamsters Local 960 in San Francisco which includes prisons guards as members.

"I don't know anything about tranquilizers," he said. "Teamsters know a little muscle and a punch in the jaw gets the job done."

Both Apfel and Loren Smith, general manager of the 116,000-member California State Employes Association, appealed to the board to lobby Reagan and the Legislature for more money for prisons, salaries, personnel and fringe benefits.

Smith said $50 million should be appropriated this year to start construction of the proposed Otay Mesa prison in San Diego County, a project long on the drawing boards. Land for a prison site already has been purchased.

He said the new prison would concentrate mainly on care and treatment of those convicts most in need of psychiatric care. He proposed using the existing California Men's Colony at San Luis Obispo as a temporary psychiatric facility until Otay Mesa was built.

Procunier last week proposed hiring 403 more employees for the prisons this year, including 318 guards. The CSEA repeated its call for hiring 441 more workers, including 344 additional guards.

The employee group also called for a 21 per cent pay increase for guards, personal alarm devices, and expanded retirement and fringe benefits.

Youth Commission To Begin Newspaper

The Marin County Youth Commission has voted to start a countywide youth newspaper in an attempt to improve communication among high school students in the county.

The commission, meeting Thursday night, appointed Ann Duggan of Terra Linda High School and Brad Craig of Sir Francis Drake High School to an editorial committee for the paper, to be called Free Youth News. Marla Koss of Novato, a student at College of Marin, also will be a member of the editorial committee.

The committee will review articles submitted to them and decide which ones will be published.

Next meeting of the committee is set for 4 p.m. Tuesday at the Planned Parenthood office, 710 C Street, San Rafael.

L. Charles Smith, youth coordinator, said articles will be submitted by each of the county's high schools. "We also hope to involve youth service agencies so that their services can be publicized," he said.

"We need articles from youths or adults," said Smith. "We also need people to work on the paper and distribute them on campuses. We need especially the use of an offset press at reduced rate."

The Marin County Youth Commission also:

EXPENSES Decided to ask the board of supervisors permission to use operating funds to reimburse commissioners' out-of-pocket expenses in carrying out commission activities.

LEGISLATION — Supported Sen. Peter H. Behr's bill (SB 265) to establish a statewide bicycle path system, and assemblyman March K. Fong's bill that would include information about venereal disease in sex education courses in schools without parental consent.

PAKISTAN RELIEF — Appointed Paul Cohen and Brad Craig as co-chairmen to campaign for Pakistan relief funds at various high schools. The campaign thus far has raised $70 from churches and the business community.

NEXT MEETING — Set the next meeting for 4 p.m. Oct. 7 at the Civic Center.

State Funds To Be Considered

The Kentfield School District board, meeting Monday at 8 p.m. at Wolfe Grade School, will consider a staff recommendation that it apply for state funds for a new program for mentally retarded students.

Under a new law, the district could acquire up to $13,000 a year for the program, aimed at integrating mentally retarded children into regular classes.

The district staff has recommended it be tried first with one student and a part-time teacher.

Innocent Plea To Pot Charge

Kenneth Keith Wynns, 23, of Novato, has pleaded innocent in Marin Municipal Court to misdemeanor charges of possessing marijuana and drunken driving.

His case was continued until Tuesday for setting of a trial date.

Wynns was arrested Sept. 11 on Grant Avenue in Novato. Police said they found marijuana in his pocket.

SWEEPING VIEW

Of the Valley, Sausalito & San Francisco. We have an exciting typical Mill Valley home in a best weather area. Altho it has 3 plus bedrooms, 3 baths, a large formal dining room, it's just a bit different. One of the bedrooms and one bath are on the lower level, ideal for a maid, or an in-law or teen-ager. Let us show this $77,500 charmer.

LOVELY IMMACULATE HOME

We have one for sale with an asking price of $44,950. This would be a great rental at $375 per month or a total of $4,500 a year. Buy why rent? We can obtain an 80% loan & the owner will carry back a 10% second, if needed. So with 10% down plus closing costs, this home can be yours to buy instead of to rent. After the down payment is made, & buyer takes title, the monthly payments on the loan & taxes will be approximately $383 a month, almost all of which is tax deductible. 3 bdrms., 2 baths, family room, all in excellent condition.

A MOST CONVENIENT LOCATION

For this 3 bedrooms, 1½ bath home with an asking price of $34,500. This home also has a formal dining room, electric kitchen, plus an interesting level backyard. Why not ask to see it!

MILL VALLEY

The building season is nearly over for 1971. We have the following exclusive lot listings. Since the building ban is in effect, why not buy now & hold for investment.

1. Beatuiful down-slope lot on Ralston Ave. Sewer & water at property line. On city-maintained street. $10,000.
2. 16,000 plus sq. ft. on Marion Ave. All utilities on city-maintained street. $9,500.
3. Beautiful Cascade area. All utilities. $14,500 including bond.
4. On Morningsun Ave. Upslope lot. County maintained street. All Utilities. $10,000.
5. Close-in on Circle Ave., upslope lot. $16,000.
6. Almost 10,000 sq. ft. in this view site on Bolsa Ave. Seller will finance with a reasonable down payment. Get control of this desirable bldg. site until the building ban is lifted, it will then be worth much more than the $7,500 asking price.

Legal Notice

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING BY THE BOARD OF DIRECTORS OF NORTH MARIN COUNTY WATER DISTRICT

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that on August 17, 1971, the Board of Directors of North Marin County Water District duly and regularly adopted the following resolution:

RESOLUTION NO. 901

A RESOLUTION OF THE BOARD OF DIRECTORS OF NORTH MARIN COUNTY WATER DISTRICT DECLARING THE NECESSITY FOR INCURRING A BONDED INDEBTEDNESS, STATING THE PURPOSE OF THE DEBT AND THE AMOUNT THEREOF AND FIXING THE TIME AND PLACE OF A HEARING BY THE BOARD ON THE QUESTION OF WHETHER THE WHOLE OR ONLY A PORTION OF THE DISTRICT WILL BE BENEFITED BY THE ACCOMPLISHMENT OF THE PURPOSE AND IF ONLY A PORTION OF THE DISTRICT WILL BE BENEFITED WHAT PORTION WILL BE SO BENEFITED.

BE IT RESOLVED by the Board of Directors of North Marin County Water District in regular meeting assembled this 17th day of August, 1971, as follows:

1. This Board hereby declares that it is necessary for the District to incur an indebtedness by the issuance of general obligation bonds in order to provide water service for domestic, commercial, industrial and other beneficial uses on lands within the District.

2. The purpose for which the proposed indebtedness is to be incurred is to provide financing for the North Marin County Water District's portion of the costs incurred by Sonoma County Water Agency for importing supplemental water supplies from the Russian River to the North Marin County Water District, including all costs and estimated costs incidental to or connected with the acquisition, construction, improving and financing of said project, and including all engineering, inspection, legal and fiscal agents fees, costs of the bond election and of the issuance of said bonds and bond interest estimated to accrue during the construction period and for a period not to exceed 12 months after completion of construction.

3. The amount of the proposed debt is the sum of $1,600,000. (one million, six hundred thousand dollars).

4. This Board of Directors hereby fixes Wednesday, the 8th day of September, 1971, at the hour of 8:00 P.M., PSDT, at the offices of this District at 999 Atherton Avenue, in the City of Novato, County of Marin, State of California, as the time and place for a public hearing by this Board of Directors on the questions:

(a) Will the whole or only a portion of North Marin County Water District be benefited by the accomplishment of the aforementioned purpose?

(b) If only a portion of said District will be benefited what portion will be so benefited?

5. It is the present intention of this Board of Directors, subject to the determination to be made at said hearing, to exclude from any improvement district to be formed which describes the area to be benefited by said indebtedness all portions of North Marin County Water District located in the western part of Marin County, being those territories denominated Annexations 2, 3, 5, 6, 7, and 8 and known as Olema, Point Reyes Station, Inverness Park, Oceana Marin, and the territories of North Marin County Water District on the east shore of Tomales Bay.

6. If this Board of Directors cannot hear all interested persons desiring to be heard at the time and place aforementioned said hearing may be continued from day to day until all such persons shall be heard.

7. The Secretary of this District be, and he hereby is, authorized and directed to cause a notice of the aforementioned hearing together with a copy of this resolution to be published in the Novato Advance, a newspaper of general circulation printed and published within the District, for at least two weeks before the time fixed for the hearing and in the manner prescribed by law.

FURTHER NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the public hearing referred to in the foregoing resolution will be held at the time and place specified in the resolution, that is, at the hour of 8:00 P.M., PDST, on Wednesday, September 8, 1971, at the office of said District at 999 Atherton Avenue, City of Novato, County of Marin, State of California. At that time and place any person interested, including all persons owning property in the District, will be heard upon the questions stated in the resolution.

Dated: August 18, 1971

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS INVITING SEALED BIDS

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the City of Fairfax will receive sealed bids at the office of the City Clerk, City Hall, Fairfax, Calif., on or before 10:00 A.M. on the first day of October, 1971 for the furnishing of all labor, materials, and services required for the 1971 STREET RESURFACING PROJECT.

Each bid shall be made in accordance with the plans, specifications, and contract documents prepared therefor, now on file at the office of Ben C. Albritton, City Engineer, 35 Mitchell Blvd., San Rafael, where they may be examined, and may be purchased for $10.00 per set (non-refundable).

Bids received by the City Clerk will be opened and read publicly at the time, date and place above specified, and will thereafter be tabulated and submitted to the City Council for consideration.

Bidders are notified that, pursuant to law, the City Council has ascertained the general prevailing rate of wages and rates in the locality in which the work is to be performed, for each craft or type of workman or mechanic needed to execute the contract, and the prevailing rate so determined is on file at the office of the City Clerk, City Hall, 142 Bolinas Road, Fairfax, California.

The City Council of the City of Fairfax reserves the right to reject any or all bids.

Dated: September 20, 1971

BY ORDER OF THE CITY COUNCIL

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Dissolving Of Kidney Stones Depends On Chemical Makeup

Is it possible to dissolve urinary stones? The answer depends on their chemical composition. Uric acid stones, for example, develop mainly in persons with gout. The victim has too much uric acid in his blood and tissues and the excess is eliminated through the kidneys.

Additional amounts of uric acid are excreted when antigout remedies are taken. When the crystals become too highly concentrated in the urine, they are likely to stick together and form a stone. Urinary acidity also plays a role. Stone formation is avoided by drinking plenty of fluids (four quarts a day) and taking an alkali, such as a citric acid sodium citrate mixture (Polycitra). For this reason every gout sufferer should drink ample fluids.

Several years ago allopurinol was introduced for the treatment of gout. It prevents the formation of uric acid and also tends to dissolve the urate crystals in the tissues and the uric acid stones in the kidneys.

CYSTINE STONES develop in 25 per cent of those with cystinuria, an hereditary disorder. The urine of these individuals contains 10 to 50 times as much of the chemical, cystine, as does normal urine. Those with cystinuria should drink large amounts of fluid and take alkalies.

Cystine (and also uric acid) stone formers will cease to make stones by following this procedure. In addition, the existing stones will not increase in size and those present often dissolve.

Large cystine stones also respond to penicillamine. This product may have some deleterious effects and consequently is used only for short periods of time.

AT PRESENT, there is no way to dissolve calcium oxalate and phosphate stones. This is unfortunate because they are the most common urinary calculi. Prevention involves treating the cause, drinking plenty of water and the use of thiazide siuretics and phosphate salts. Stones associated with urinary infections are held in abeyance with antiseptics and antibiotics.

(Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the Independent-Journal.)

NAGGING — TWO-EDGED SWORD

K. W. writes: I've read several articles in which physicians accuse many wives of "killing their husband unintentionally but efficiently" by nagging. Perhaps some wives become naggers intentionally so the husbands will get a coronary. In this way they can embark on another matrimonial venture, spend the insurance money, or enjoy single blessedness.

REPLY

The man who is said to be nagged to death probably had so many faults that his bad habits killed him, rather than his wife. But nagging works both ways. Some men would say: "I've had enough" — and wham. The Casper Milquetoast might say: "Yes, dear," and let it go in one ear and out the other.

HEART SYMPTOMS

R. D. writes: I'm weak and short of breath and the diagnosis is cardiac embarrassment. Does this mean heart trouble?

REPLY

Possibly, in that these symptoms develop when the heart fails to function properly. But weakness and shortness of breath also develop in severe anemia, malnutrition, nervousness and fatigue from too much work or too little sleep.

Today's Health Hint — Never give nuts to a toddler under the age of 2 because he may choke on them.

STARS ABOVE

Aquila The Eagle Has Double Star

By SHERMAN WALKER

The constellation that is crossing the local meridian at about 9 p.m. these evenings is Aquila or the Eagle. When it is crossing the meridian, it is nearest to overhead. Aquila has one first-magnitude star, Alpha Aquilae, which also carries the Arabian name of Altair. The other stars of the figure are of third, fourth and fifth magnitude.

Altair has a star on each side of it, Beta and Gamma, about the same distance away, somewhat like the stars on each side of Antares in Scorpius. Or it is like the belt of Orion, except that in the belt the stars are more nearly the same brightness.

To locate the Eagle in the sky, face southward at 9 p.m. and look at the region that is two-thirds of the distance up from the southern horizon to overhead.

The celestial equator, which is the plane of the earth's equator extended until it apparently touches the sky, passes through Aquila. The constellation is an aid to the casual observer in locating the sky equator.

Altair is a double star having a faint 10th magnitude companion. North of Altair, Gamma Aquilae or Tarazed is a third magnitude star of golden-yellowish color. The star south of Altair is Beta Aquilae or Alschain. It is orange-colored and of fourth magnitude.

No Complaint Filed As Yet

No complaint has been filed in Marin Municipal Court against James Edward Ireland, 20, of San Rafael, who was arrested Sept. 15 on suspicion of possessing narcotics.

The district attorney's office said no complaint would be filed pending further investigation.

Christian Scientist Will Give Lecture

Gordon F. Campbell, a Christian Science lecturer from Santa Monica, will speak at 8 p.m. Wednesday at the First Church of Christ Scientist in Mill Valley.

His lecture is titled, "Why Put Up With Fear?" and is being sponsored by the Mill Valley church.

Lick Observatory Official Will Talk

Dr. Josehh Miller of the Lick Observatory in Santa Cruz will address the Star Observers of Marin Thursday at 8 p.m. at Civic Center.

According to Melvin Beck, secretary to the 18-member organization, Miller will speak on the "Electronic Revolution in Astronomy." The meeting will be in the supervisors' chambers.

Housing, Jobs Help Avert Student Unrest

HARD CORE CAMPUS radicals are now well known to all.

We have read often about these militant perpetrators of violence. We have seen their pictures in our newspapers over and over. We have seen them on TV ad nauseum.

We are familiar with their polemics and their four-letter rhetoric.

We are thoroughly fed up with them.

Unfortunately, we have been so thoroughly exposed to their repugnancies that some of us tend to forget the grubby TV demonstrators are but a small minority of the totality of our college students.

One might say that the grubby few have given college students a "bad press" or "bad image" undeservedly.

AT SONOMA STATE College, the student housing situation and lack of part-time jobs for students are more grievous than conditions which have led to violent confrontations elsewhere.

However, I-J reporter Bonnie Bard's front-page story earlier this week made it clear that most Sonoma State students appear, so far, to be making the best of the bad situation in good humor.

Mrs. Bard reported that both the student employment director and the student housing director described applicants for jobs and housing as "not choosy."

In short, they are mostly glad to take what they can get, working in some cases for substandard wages and in some instances paying exorbitant rents.

THE HOUSING DIRECTOR says he is angry and frustrated by the situation.

This should be a warning to employers and landlords in the vicinity of Sonoma State College.

Students, like any other humans, cannot be expected to long endure such conditions amidst our affluent society. The student inclination to question the sanctity of the establishment can easily be steered by radicals into bitter attacks.

We must not let the Isla Vista explosion be duplicated at Rohnert Park and Cotati.

UNDER CONSTRUCTION on campus are 400 new student dwelling units. Four hundred isn't a drop in the bucket compared to what's needed. Further, the 400 will not be ready for occupancy until this time next year.

Those in a position to influence community action to provide more part-time jobs and better housing at more reasonable prices for students had better get off the dime.

City and county officials, chambers of commerce and real estate boards had better wake up and get busy before they find a new Isla Vista in their front yard.

A person can endure all sorts of hardship good naturedly if he believes help is on the way . . . that things will soon get better. But if he thinks there is no hope, watch out!

ONE OF THE FIRST out-of-state male students to enroll at Dominican College in San Rafael this fall understandably had a problem finding housing. The only thing the student housing office could find for him was a room in a private home near the campus where, in consideration for lower rent, the student would be expected to do babysitting and help with the housework.

The young man seeking housing, understandably, passed up the proposition, at first. After a day or two of reflection, he appeared at the student housing office to announce he was quite agreeable. After all, he explained, at home he had been a babysitter for younger brothers and sisters and he had always "helped around the house."

Bully for that young man! It is a good bet that he will succeed in college and go far in life. Bully for all the students who approach their job and housing problems at college with the same attitude!

But the rest of us must not make the mistake of thinking the problem is solved; that we have no problem; or that is not our problem but someone else's.

That was the Isla Vista attitude which led to violence and destruction.

We must not be so blind as to require violence and destruction to awaken us.

Bouquets And Brickbats

BOUQUET to Robert E. Marcucci on his appointment as San Rafael fire chief. "Bob" is in position to carry on a family tradition in the footsteps of his father, the late Nello Marcucci, longtime fire chief of San Anselmo — who wisely advised his son to join the San Rafael department rather than have accusations of nepotism perhaps hamper his advancement in the San Anselmo Fire Department.

And while bouquets are going to fire fighters, a BOUQUET to the Kentfield Fire Department for promptly pumping water out of the flooded home of Mrs. Walter Zwieg on Woodland Road when she discovered a pipe break on a Saturday and found that getting a plumber on the job was a long-wait proposition.

BRICKBATS to factions in Sausalito (and its school district) who seem unable to deal with each other on a simple man-to-man basis and must turn each difference of opinion into a confrontation.

The fanatics of today are the outgrowth of yesterday's false preachments. No longer can those in positions of responsibility merely abhor violence, yet preach the dark doctrines which inspire violence. — Carl E. Sanders.

Strange Performance By Tiburon Council

The Tiburon City Council has recently been acting in a manner which can only be described as "strange".

At their meeting on Monday night, the Tiburon City Council capped their recent performance by going into closed session and emerging with the announcement that they would put off condemning a 6.7-acre parcel of land in the Strawberry Cove area. The "strange" part of this entire performance is that the City of Tiburon has no jurisdiction at this time over this parcel of property. Perhaps the city council, along with their "strangeness," has acquired the gift of prophecy. However, it would seem that until such time as the council has the legal authority to act in regard to Strawberry Cove they could put off any official actions and possibly stick to "hopeful" statements, which are allowed.

The City Council of Tiburon has many other things that they could do to more usefully occupy their time.

School Class Barred From Watching Trial

It appears that the overriding concern for courtroom security at the Marin County Civic Center has had the unfortunate effect of endangering the existence of the public trial in this county. A small class of students from Mewah Mountain High School in Corte Madera, accompanied by their teacher, visited the Civic Center today, intending to sit in the courtroom during a criminal trial proceeding as a part of their study of the workings of government.

In attempting to reach the courtroom, we were repeatedly asked our "business" in the case by the sheriff's security men, and were finally told that we were not allowed in the courtroom until after the defendant was brought in. We returned at the suggested time to seek entry to be informed that we could not be admitted because the proceedings had already begun, and again later only to be told that the court had recessed. Throughout the episode it appeared that as members of the public without personal concern in this case, we were not welcome.

I and the students in my class feel that we learned a great deal about the workings of government from the incident, although it was not the lesson we had expected.

Secret Politicians Don't Know: What It's Like On School Bus

WASHINGTON — Many politicians talk about school busing, but it is doubtful that any of them has ever ridden on one under actual combat conditions.

Only those who have been on a school bus mission know what busing is all about.

I once took a school bus ride from St. Germain-en-Laye to Paris years ago, and to this day whenever the climate gets damp, my wounds start to ache.

This is what happened:

IT SEEMS THAT a group of American mothers who lived in the suburbs of Paris discovered there was no bus to take their children to the American school in town. So they went out and rented one, which would pick up the students in the morning and bring them home in the afternoon.

The first year they tried it without chaperones, and so many bus drivers quit that the bus company said they wouldn't rent them another bus again unless an adult other than the bus driver accompanied the children.

At first the mothers tried to hire chaperones, but they couldn't take it, so finally it was decided a different mother would ride the bus each day, trying to maintain some semblance of order. To give them a certain esprit de corps they called themselves the Mother Riders of School Bus No. 5.

AS A YOUNG newspaperman on the Paris Herald Tribune, I was always volunteering for dangerous assignments, and when the editor of the paper asked for someone to write a story about what it was like to ride an American school bus in Paris, I asked to go on the mission.

The Mother of the Day was a Mrs. Richard Edelstein, whose husband worked for Paramount Pictures. She had ridden No. 5 six times, which she told me was the equivalent of 50 bombing raids over Dusseldorf during World War II.

We picked up our charges, about 35 girls and boys at 3:15. The bus was fairly quiet when we first started off because most of the students thought I was a detective who had been hired by the parents to keep them in line. (This was a possibility because the school had gone through four bus drivers in five months, and the mothers had threatened to hire a detective after the last driver had slipped on a banana peel on the steps of the bus and broken his back.)

But when they found I was nothing more than a reporter, the wraps were off. The students in the back of the bus started hitting the students in front of them with their school books. The injured retaliated by swinging their lunch boxes at the attackers' heads. Mrs. Edelstein went back to break it up when a boy in the front produced a live frog, which he dropped down a 12-year-old girl's dress.

Her screams brought Mrs. Edelstein to the front of the bus, which gave the students in the middle an opportunity to kick the ones sitting in front of them.

A FIRE BASE for spitballs had been set up in the last row, which was targeted in on the bus driver, who like all French drivers, was barreling through the narrow streets of Paris at 60 miles an hour.

Every 10 minutes the bus screeched to a halt to discharge some human cargo, which gave the other riders a chance to throw orange peels at pedestrians.

Mrs. Edelstein walked up and down the bus, first threatening, then offering bribes of candy, and finally making the driver stop until all her charges had quieted down.

Miraculously we had arrived at the end of the line with no serious casualties. The only one shaken by the trip, besides myself, was the bus driver.

Mrs. Edelstein, who eventually was voted Mother Rider of the Year with an oak leaf cluster, told me, "If you think this was bad, you should have ridden with me through the Bois de Boulogne last week."

Tough-Minded Interior Secretary Faces Crucial Alaska Decision

WASHINGTON — Within the vast domain of the Department of Interior — 70,000 employees — are the sensitive issues that send conservationists charging into the courts and even on occasion into the streets. The new head man at interior, Rogers C. B. Morton, is coming to a decision that will infuriate either the conservationists or the powerful oil interests that have been so cozy with the Nixon administration.

With a deadline at the end of two months, Morton must issue an environmental finding on the proposed oil pipe line in Alaska. It is a crucial decision. Already conservationists have filed three suits in federal courts to prevent construction of the 789-mile line.

IT SEEMS HARDLY credible that Morton could rule against the oil companies that have been impatiently waiting with vast stores of steel pipe at Prudhoe Bay on the north slope. The need for new sources of oil in view of the nation's growing shortage of energy and the rise of price initiated by oil-producing countries provide objective reasons for a favorable finding.

Yet Morton has an independence of mind that has often been shown. His temperament — salty, down to earth, with a strong sense of humor — matches his massive physique.

He showed his independence in a confrontation with the White House shortly after he took office at the end of January. Morton had found Interior in a shambles following the removal of Walter J. Hickel, who showed little interest in administration, and less ability, as he pursued his personal overweening ambitions. The new secretary wanted to make his own choices for the positions to be filled in his department.

But he was confronted by Office of Management and Budget Director George P. Schultz with a list of names that, according to Schultz, the President wanted appointed. These were, for the most part, political payoffs. Indebted to the White House, they would have reinforced the Nixon staffers in exercising remote control over policy decisions in the sprawling empire of Interior. Morton said no, he had his own list.

THIS WAS DISCLOSED initially by the last Democrat to serve as secretary of interior, Stewart Udall, who writes a newspaper column with Jeff Stansbury. They went so far as to say that Morton had served notice on Schultz after a second confrontation that the President would get his resignation in 24 hours if he could not make his own independent choices.

Morton denied that he ever considered resigning and in a letter to editors he spoke of the "fine working relationship with the President" that he continued to have as secretary of interior. The resignation report caused a flap, with Director of Communications Herbert Klein getting into the act.

In the appointments Morton went contrary to the trend in the Nixon Administration, which has been to downgrade career officers and replace them with political appointees. The new undersecretary, replacing Fred J. Russell who had been the principal manipulator for the White House, is William T. Pecora, a career officer who moved up from director of the Geological Survey to the No. 2 post. Other career officers have been made assistant secretaries with broad responsibility. Younger men, several with extensive conservation experience, have been brought into the department.

THE BIG TEST is still to come. Alaska is the last frontier, a storehouse of great natural beauty and of animals some of which are threatened with extinction, and at the same time a treasure trove of oil, minerals, riches still uncounted.

Will this treasure be so exploited as to reduce the last frontier to a shambles? The answer does not rest entirely with Morton. A bill expected to pass Congress would give the natives — Aleuts, Eskimos, Indians — a billion dollars and up to 50 million acres of land. Never has such a bonanza been held out, and the exploiters are already on the starting line. As the initial land grabs, the scandal of Teapot Dome, and innumerable lesser peccadilloes have shown Interior is strewn with political booby traps. Morton is cautiously trying to find his way through the mine fields.

Latin Americans Solidly Opposed To Import Surcharge

By ARTHUR GOLDEN

PANAMA CITY (UPI)—The confrontation here between the United States and Latin America on the 10 per cent surcharge on most U.S. imports was a dialogue of the deaf.

The United States repeated in public and private discussions that the "temporary" surcharge announced by President Nixon Aug. 15 was nonnegotiable. In the same forums Latin American nations demanded immediate exemption from the levy.

To nobody's surprise, the 22 Latin American nations lined up solidly against the United States on a resolution opposing the surcharge at the final session of the Interamerican Economic and Social Council.

THE LATIN AMERICANS had come to the annual meeting committed to such a resolution, as the result of the Buenos Aires declaration three weeks ago by the special Latin American Coordinating Committee.

"There was no negotiation," said a weary U.S. official after the final eight-hour closed meeting between the sides. "In effect, they read the CECLA declaration to us. We told them we just could not deliver."

Basically, the Latin Americans argued that the surcharge should not apply to their region because they were not responsible for the U.S. balance of payments crisis. The U.S. has always enjoyed a commanding trade balance in the area.

The U.S. delegation replied that the measure was intended to be non-discriminatory and global. It stressed Washington was well aware of Latin America's problems and reaffirmed the U.S. commitment to aid in hemispheric development.

THIS DID NOT sooth the tempers of the Latin Americans, who estimated that 30 per cent of their exports to the United States would be affected by the levy. (The United States said the figure was slightly under 20 per cent).

If the surcharge could not be lifted now, asked the Latin Americans, then when? The United States simply could not answer.

A Brazilian mused that he had served a "temporary" government for the last seven years. An Argentine predicted the surcharge would last until after the U.S. elections inNovember 1972. A Chilean said he feared the measure would become permanent.

THE LATIN AMERICANS came up with several other proposals, all equally unacceptable to the United States.

Argentina sought compensation for damages caused by U.S. trade barriers erected in the last eight years. Brazil urged a system of U.S. generalized tariff preferences by Jan. 1. Chile called on Latin America to suspend payment on the region's debt service for the next 10 years.

For the most part, the Latin American proposals were couched in diplomatic language.

THE EXCEPTION was Chile, which has a Marxist government. United States officials submitted they were shaken by the bitter attacks of Hugo Cubillos, the 33-year-old director of economic affairs of the Chilean Planning Office and head of his nation's delegation.

Cubillos said U.S. military expenses were the real causes for Washington's balance of payments crisis. In a 40-minute tirade at the final session, he said the U.S. was determined to maintain what they implied was an economic stranglehold on the region.

A U.S. official, only half in jest, told a newsman: "If you don't watch out, we'll turn the Chileans on you."

This Week In The World

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

President Nixon was looking for two Supreme Court justices this week.

Justice John M. Harlan, 72, announced his retirement Thursday after 16 years on the bench. Harlan has suffered cancer of the lower spine and has been hospitalized for more than a month.

Six days earlier, Justice Hugo Black also announced his resignation for health reasons. Black, 85, had served 34 years and 28 days on the Supreme Court.

Nixon already was considering seven men for Black's position when Harlan retired. After Harlan's announcement, the White House said the list might be expanded. Speculation a woman might be considered for one of the Supreme Court vacancies arose when the White House said Nixon was trying to find "highly qualified persons."

THE UNITED NATIONS General Assembly opened in New York. Adam Malik, the Indonesian foreign minister, was elected president. This assembly has the job of picking a successor to Secretary General Thant and also will face the annual question of Communist Chinese membership. The United States now wants to allow Communist China to become a member but without expelling Nationalist China.

Thant told the world body his successor should have more power. He has said he will quit as secretary general at the end of the year.

Various developments in Communist China brought speculation that a power struggle was going on or that Chairman Mao Tse-tung may be seriously ill or even dead. The developments included cancellation of the Oct. 1 National Day celebration in Peking and a report that most air activity was cancelled for three days a week ago.

U.S. PLANES flew 200 sorties to attack targets north of Demilitarized Zone in Vietnam. The U.S. command said the North Vietnamese had increased the number of antiaircraft guns.

The South Vietnamese senate passed a resolution saying President Nguyen Van Thieu's one-man presidential race was a "threat to the nation." Thieu reacted by challenging the parliament to reorganize the Oct. 3 elections, newspapers in South Vietnam said.

President Nixon said the economic controls of "Phase II" of his new economic policy to begin when the wage-price freeze ends would last indefinitely. He apparently ruled out controls on business profits.

Nixon met with leaders of consumer groups who urged a ceiling on profits and dividends and said everybody should share equally in economic sacrifices.

THE COMMERCE Department reported an increase in consumer prices in August, three-tenths of one per cent. But it said the index included figures collected both before and after Nixon's price freeze announcement on Aug. 15.

The Department of Health, Education and Welfare reported that national welfare costs increased 27 per cent last year.

The Senate finally approved the draft bill and sent it to the White House. The authority to induct men into the armed forces had expired June 30 while the bill was debated. The Senate tacked on a resolution calling for troop withdrawals from Indochina subject to the release of U.S. prisoners of war.

Capt. Ernest L. Medina, charged in connection with the My Lai massacre in Vietnam, was acquitted. The charges at the close of his court-martial at Ft. McPherson, Ga., were premeditated murder of a Vietnamese woman, involuntary manslaughter of 100 civilians and two counts of assault.

A FREE MAN — Capt. Ernest L. Medina poses with his family at Fort McPherson, Ga., after being cleared of all charges of crime in connection with the My Lai massacre. From left are Gregory, 11; Cecil, 8, and Ingrid, 12; Mrs. Medina, and the captain. He said he will leave the Army, feeling that the publicity ruined his military career.

Jaycee Chapters In Prisons Help Convicts Solve Their Problems

Behind The News

SAN RAFAEL, CALIFORNIA, SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 25, 1971 21

LINCOLN, Neb. (UPI) — If you went looking for a chapter of the U.S. Jaycees — formerly the U.S. Junior Chamber of Commerce —it is unlikely you'd seek out the nearest prison.

In fact, there are Jaycee chapters in approximately 140 state and federal penitentiaries with an estimated membership of 9,000.

It began as a modest "soul saving" project almost 10 years ago. Since then it has grown into a nationwide grass roots program to help convicts while they are inside prison walls, and with job counseling and other help when they get out.

THE PROGRAM began in April 1962, with the chartering of a chapter at the West Virginia prison at Moundsville, and spread from there. Much of the credit goes to Gary Hill, the 31year-old president of Northwestern Metal Co., in Lincoln.

Hill, a short, handsome, bundle of energy, helped found the Jaycees' fourth chapter behind the walls at the Nebraska State Prison here in 1965. Since then, he has spent much of his time working to establish chapters at other prisons and has devoted full time to the project during the past two years as the Jaycees' non-paid crime and corrections consultant.

"I suppose we got involved in prisons because we had the farfetched and somewhat naive idea of saving the souls of these men by exposing them to the Jaycee principle and enthusiasm," Hill said. "But we found it didn't quite work that way."

IT WAS ONLY after the convicts were allowed "to participate fully in the Jaycee program," he said, that it really got moving. As he states it, "We have no prison chapters, but we have chapters that happen to be in prisons."

The aim and function of the in-prison chapters is the involvement of the prisoners in dealing with their own "community" problems, and to involve "outside" Jaycees and other citizens in the lives of men behind prison walls.

Hill said one of the most satisfactory accomplishments of the program has been the wide interest it has aroused in efforts to improve the lot of convicts while they serve their terms. He said as one example that about 300,000 persons had, through the program, visited prisons in just the last year or two.

"THIS HAS helped bring a new outlook on the problem of criminal rehabilitation," Hill said. "They (the visitors) found out the animal called convict or inmate is really a person. If anybody has gained from this thing it has been the outsiders and us —the organization."

Among programs fostered are drug rehabilitation, the development of halfway houses for exconvicts, and communicating with black militant groups to obtain a better understanding of their thinking. The chapters also have been a leading instrument in bringing about prison reforms through such projects as work release, correctional officer education, and internal rules changes.

At Nebraska State Prison, for example, the prison's chapter helped bring about the elimination of the old screened off visiting area, where convicts had to communicate with their wives and families via closed circuit telephones. Now, the convicts have a lounge-type visiting room where a man can hold his child on his lap and kiss his wife when she leaves.

Among other accomplishments have been the construction of a miniature golf course in the prison yard, the cleanup of a local park in a poverty area of Lincoln, and the purchase of a new fire engine for Indians on Nebraska's Macy Reservation.

"WE'RE NOW involved in the really gut level issues that don't fit the old, white, middleclass image of the Jaycees," Hill said. He is the first to concede that the program isn't perfect and doesn't have all the answers. There are still "challenges to be conquered if someone works long enough and hard enough."

At the Nebraska prison, inmates interviewed by UPI all were in favor of continuing the existing Jaycee chapter, although several said they thought more needed to be done "for our community, for those of us who live here."

And there were suggestions that membership in the Jaycees was used as an "angle" by some convicts for more favorable consideration at parole hearings, or quicker response from prison officials dealing with individual problems.

Over-all, however, there was convict approval. One man told this reporter: "It's got problems like any other organization, I suppose. But it also has helped make things a lot better for us around here."

WARDEN CHARLES L. Wolff Jr. is also a booster of the program, although he admits to having been skeptical when it was first initiated in Nebraska.

"Initially I thought it would be a great paper program, but in many respects it has been outstanding both within the institution and with its outside followup," the warden said.

"It's not the whole answer to our problems by any means, but it provides a tool. It allows a man to think of somebody besides himself and to get involved in the community."

In recent years, prison chapters have won 11 of 33 national awards for chapters of their size. In 1968 the top Jaycees chapter in community development was a prison chapter and the Washington State prison chapter recently won one of the five top division awards in the nation.

FOR THE CONVICT, the Jaycee participation does not end when he leaves prison if he doesn't want it to. Hill estimated there are 8,000 former convicts, both black and white, who are members in outside chapters. Several former inmates have become national officers.

"We can put a man in contact with a warm body anywhere in the country who can assist him with any in a wide range of housing, employment or counseling problems," Hill said. "It's up to him whether he joins the Jaycees."

'Liberty Gate' To Naval Base—Big Drug Operation

Editor's Note: American sailors who go on shore leave through the "liberty gate" of the vast U.S. Naval Base at Subic Bay in the Philippines — up to nearly 3,000,000 of them a year — are fair game for hustlers ready to sell them just about any kind of drugs they want, from heroin to LSD to marijuana and a wide variety of other narcotics.

These fast-buck drug sellers tend to be very careful when they talk to newspapermen or other strangers, but they cotton up quickly to men in Navy uniform. SUBIC BAY NAVAL BASE, Philippines (UPI)—Fortune has turned a silver dollar smile on Nick, a hard-charging entrepreneur in the wildest, gaudiest city of the Philippines — Olongapo City.

Olongapo City sits at the lip of the huge United States naval complex at Subic Bay and through it last year passed 2,800,000 American sailors on liberty. To Nick, every last one of them was a potential customer for his wares — narcotics.

A honky tonk town if there ever was one, Olongapo has always indulged American sailors. Its serpentine main street of bars and brothels winds right to the gates of the U.S. Seventh Fleet's most important resupply base.

AND NICK indulges drug-seeking sailors the best he can. He does very well.

Until last fall, Nick, a 23-year-old Filipino family man, long had teetered on the poverty line. He earned his living driving a Jeepney — the native jitney rebuilt from World War II jeeps and transformed into jiggling ensembles of tassels and crucifixes, circus colors and rusty bolts.

With the war in Indochina only two days away by sea, Jeepneys proliferate in Olongapo and it became ever harder for Nick to make a living.

"Nobody makes money just driving Jeepneys anymore," Nick told me one sweltering evening earlier this year as he thumbed a fat wad of American dollars. The dollars were the fruit of the greener pastures the skinny, affable Filipino had found late last year when he began wheeling and dealing in illicit drugs and peddling them to a thriving tide of customers who keep coming back — American sailors and marines.

ON THE OCCASION of my interview with Nick, he was a happy man, laughing, his eyes alight with the pleasurable thought of more profits still to be made tht night. He climed into his new-looking Jeepney, kicked the gears, invited me to come along, and off we went down Magsaysay Street, with its bars and clubs and painted girls (Olongapo has 7,000 bar girls by local estimate).

"Happy? Why do I feel so happy?" he asked. "Man, me and my partner sold $1,600 worth of dope tonight. That's at least 20 times more than we usually make. And you ask me why I feel so happy."

Two carriers and a dozen other ships, just in, were responsible for much of Nick's big night. Sailors were all over the narrow sidewalks, some lurching from bar to bar.

Sounding like a cheerful, suburban ice cream vendor, Nick leaned over to me and said, "Okay, what would you like ... 'O,' LSD, red devils, hearts, bennies, you name it. I probably got it, or at least can get it."

"O" IS SHORT for opium — the street name in Olongapo for heroin, an opium derivative. It sells for $1.50 for .05 grams — the usual "paper" or fix. It is the No. 3 stuff, for snorting or smoking, no mainlining. Red devils are barbiturates. You can buy them for 25 cents. Hearts and bennies are amphetamines.

Nick said he had already sold a huge amount of opium to one customer that day.

"Then those carriers that just pulled in, they helped. Guys off them bought a lot of grass, pills, a little LSD, and some opium. And, well, there are just a lot of ships in right now."

Nick was referring to the attack carrier Ranger and the helicopter carrier Iwo Jima. Combined, they added some 8,000 potential customers to Olongapo.

NICK SAID marijuana and pills were still the mainstay of his business but, he added, "more and more guys are asking for opium all the time."

We rounded a corner and drove through "Harlem," home of Olongapo's black bars. Nick slowed down, waved to someone in front of a dingy grocery store, and in a minute a youngster with floppy hair hopped into the rear of the Jeepney. He tossed into my lap a "lid," a small, plastic package equal to about 12 matchboxes of marijuana. It was quality stuff, and cost me $15.

The boy then pulled out of his left sock a "paper" of heroin and flipped it to me. I flipped it back and said no thanks. The "lid" was 1.2 grams, sold for roughly $3.

NICK DROVE me back to the main gate of the base and let me out. Along the way he was delighted to talk about his success.

"Shortly after I started selling drugs," he said, "I went into partnership with a really cool sailor stationed at the base. The guy organized everything and right away we started to make lots of money."

Nick reinvested most of his profits back into the business.

"Now I've got six other Jeepneys working for me," he boasted.

But Nick had no monopoly. Later I talked at random with 25 other Jeepney drivers and asked if they could get me some "O." Twenty said they could, and virtually all said they could get me LSD, marijuana, barbiturates and amphetamines. I found that many "legitimate" drug stores in Olongapo will sell servicemen drugs without prescription.

NARCOTICS WERE once considered to be just the problem of American Army and Air Force personnel stationed in Vietnam and Thailand, close to the source. But Navy men now agree they have a drug problem, too, and Olongapo City represents a key source for the 6,000 men stationed at Subic Bay and the men of the 150 ships of the 7th Fleet.

However, Navy authorities believe a very small percentage of the sailors who went through Subic's main gate last year on liberty were really hooked on the hard stuff. The number of known users is very small, a Navy spokesman said.

Authorities do acknowledge narcotics from marijuana to heroin are readily available in Olongapo and at prices cheaper than in the United States. They also acknowledge a small, undisclosed number of sailors and marines at Subic have been given "administrative discharges" for drug abuse instead of being court martialed.

Administrative discharges carry nearly the same benefits as an honorable discharge and generally have little effect on a serviceman returning to civilian life.

The 500-man Marine detail at Subic — the men who handle part of the security at the base —had some trouble with drugs, the authorities admit. But a naval investigator denied a rumor that as many as 300 marines had been implicated in the use or possession of heroin. "That's way, way high," he said, but gave no exact figure.

AT LEAST FOUR U.S. Navy ships were reported to have had drug problems among the crews during the past year:

—The destroyer James E. Kyes. Nineteen crew members were accused of drug abuse while the ship was in Long Beach.

—The destroyer Wallace L. Lind. Twenty-two sailors were implicated in drug charges shortly after the ship arrived at Subic Bay in August, 1970.

—The USS Satyr, a repair and maintenance ship. An investigation started after three bags of marijuana were discovered on the ship while in port at Yokosuka, Japan, in November, 1970, led to 26 crew members being accused of drug abuse.

—The USS Beneway, a floating barracks anchored off Vietnam. Fourteen crewmembers were connected with drugs in February. The ship later was brought to Subic Bay.

THE SHIP HARDEST hit in terms of the number of men involved was the U.S. Coast Guard cutter Morgenthau which patrolled for infiltration trawlers off the South Vietnam and Cambodian coastlines.

Following investigations by the ship's captain and Naval Investigative Service Office (NISO) agents from Saigon in early February, 42 of the cutter's 150 enlisted men were implicated in use of drugs ranging from marijuana to "O."

Navy authorities at Subic Bay are not convinced the drug problem is bigger today than it was six months ago. Instead, they maintain the "level of awareness" is much greater and point to their new program designed to combat drug abuse.

Keystone of the program is the amnesty or "exemption program" first introduced July 9 which allows volunteers to be treated for drug addiction without disciplinatory action. According to one doctor, this has moved the use of drugs from a legal to a health problem.

The exemption program gives the drug user only one chance to repent and is granted only to volunteers whose only offense is narcotics use. It is not available for drug-related or drug-induced offenses or for sale or transfer of drugs.

ADDITIONALLY, the Navy has established in each command a "drug abuse specialist" trained at a school in San Diego to combat drug use and help users kick the habit.

Since early July a "drug abuse team" composed of a medical officer, a legal officer, the drug abuse specialist, an investigative representative and an information officer has been meeting every Wednesday night to work on a campaign to fight the use of drugs.

The team measures the progress of the drug program, makes recommendations to higher authorities and provides lecturers.

To reach the younger men, authorities at Subic plan to open sometime in October a "rap center" complete with mod decor and stereo sound. It will be supervised by the drug abuse specialist, open 24 hours a day for users and nonusers to establish communication and provide accurate information. "It's group therapy," a Navy doctor said.

All that still isn't going to turn off the supply of drugs in Olongapo, or eradicate the likes of Nick. Authorities have been encouraged in recent months, however, by the growing awareness of Philippine national and community officials of the problem affecting Filipinos as well as foreigners.

William Moorhead—A Quiet Congressman With A History Of Getting Into Fights

By DANIEL RAPOPORT

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The new chairman of the house "freedom of information" subcommittee has taken a stand that may not endear him to his colleagues. He thinks Congress ought to be as free of secrets as it wants the government to be.

Rep. William Moorhead, D-Pa., did not blare out his position, He did not even volunteer it. It came in response to a reporter's question and was expressed in a soft, somewhat hesitating voice.

What he suggested was that the legislative branch of the federal government be covered by the provisions of the Freedom of Information Act, the same as the executive branch.

THE PROPOSITION may seem logical to outsiders but to lawmakers it is literally unthinkable. Congress specifically exempted itself when it drafted and approved the bill in 1966 and the odds are heavily against Moorhead if he ever tries to put his theory into practice.

For Moorhead that would be nothing new. Though he is not personally combative —shy would be a better word —the 48-year-old lawmaker has a way of now and then getting in battles with congressional powerhouses.

Back in 1969 he calmly remarked on a television interview that some members of Congress had dealt so long with the Pentagon and its contractors that they no longer could see their faults. The late Rep. L. Mendel Rivers, D-S.C., chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, was outraged. He virtually ordered Moorhead to appear before his committee and back up his charge.

Moorhead, who at the time was carrying on a campaign against the Air Force's C5 transport, accepted the offer. Rivers backed down.

IN THAT SAME year Moorhead infuriated another powerful dfender of the military, Rep. Chet Holifield, D-Calif. With information prepared by his staff, Moorhead surprised and annoyed Holifield by utilizing a hearing of Holifield's government operations subcommittee to raise some embarrassing questions about the C5 with Air Force witnesses.

Moorhead reflects his background. He comes from a well established Pittsburgh family, and in Washington he lives in fashionable Georgetown. His education is pure eastern establishment —Phillips Andover Academy, Yale, and Harvard Law School.

His political ideology is solid liberal Democrat. The Conservative Americans for Constitutional Action examined his 12-year voting record and gave him an approval rating of 6 out of 100.

MOORHEAD TOOK over the reins of the "freedom of information," subcommittee this year when its first and only chairman, Rep. John E. Moss, D-Calif., was forced to step down because of a Democratic rule limiting Democrats to one legislative subcommittee chairmanship.

Known officially as the foreign operations and government information subcommittee of the House Government Operations Committee, the panel was created in 1956. Its purpose is to serve as a watchdog over government information practices .

Over the years it became a champion of the press and its staff has worked with reporters in prying information out of reluctant agencies. In 1965, following a reorganization of the Government Operations Committee, it picked up the added task of maintaining a watch on the foreign aid and other U.S. overseas programs. Though its title was enlarged, newsmen still refer to it as "the freedom of information" subcommittee.

In 1966 Moss and the panel achieved its crowning triumph, passage of the Freedom of Information Act. The law went into effect on July 4, 1967, and stated as a general principle that all federal government records, unless specifically exempt, should be open to any citizen.

SUCH AREAS as military and trade secrets, personnel files and criminal investigative data were exempt. Courts were authorized to settle disputes between an individual and an agency over whether a particular piece of information should be exempt, with the burden of proof on the government.

Congress, however, was not covered. A former staff aide who played a part in drafting the law explained that it was directed against the executive branch and he could not recall any representative or senator proposing that it apply to the legislative branch.

NOVATO'S ST. ANTHONY'S CHURCH OPENS

This is the exterior of the recently completed St. Anthony's Catholic Church in Novato. The building, located at the south end of Cambridge Street, was completed 11 months after groundbreaking. Pastor of the church is Daniel J. Sheehan. Opened for services within the past month, St. Anthony's will be formally dedicated Oct. 10. The parish serves the southern part of Novato.

PRISON CRISIS

Eshelman Will Conduct Study

Former San Quentin chaplain Byron Eshelman will inaugurate a six-week study on "Our Stake in the Prison Crisis," at tomorrow's 10 a.m. service at San Anselmo's First Presbyterian Church.

Eshelman will devote tomorrow and next Sunday to backgrounding the present penal system crisis. On the following four Sundays, former inmates and present Quentin staffers will present their views.

The retired chaplain is an ordained minister of the United Church of Christ. He was introduced to the prison chaplaincy through a course he took at the Pacific School of Religion in Berkeley. Prior to taking his job at Quentin in 1951, he served for three years as a chaplain on Alcatraz Island.

He is a graduate of Kansas State Teachers College (now Kansas State University) and received his bachelor of divinity degree from Yale University in 1942.

The series conducted by Eshelman is the first of several studies the church will offer this fall, Rev. John Najarian said.

Also tomorrow, the chancel choir, under direction of Wilbur Russell, will present its first special music of the new church year.

AT THE VATICAN

Funds From Special Purchases Of Blessings Are Well Used

VATICAN CITY (UPI)—They cost the equivalent of 70 cents, and any Roman Catholic in good standing can go to a special office in the Vatican and buy a blessing by Pope Paul VI.

But put it down to philanthropy rather than commercialism. For an enscribed papal blessing to hang on the wall may well be a blessing of a material nature for a poor family in the Pope's own diocese.

In this little-known aspect of the Vatican's work, fees charged for the blessings are put toward the pontiff's extensive charity work in Rome.

Since at least 150 persons every day apply for blessings, the Pope does not sign them himself. This job is delegated to Archbishop Antonio Travia, the pontiff's former secretary and now head of the department known as "The Assistential Service of the Holy Father."

The easiest way to obtain a personal blessing is to go to any of the souvenir shops near the Vatican which sell readymade parchments, lacking only Travia's signature and the name of the petitioner.

The United Services Organization (USO) branch near the Vatican sells hundreds of parchments to U.S. servicemen during the tourist season. Both the stores and USO take care of such details as getting the parchments signed and embossed.

The scrolls vary in price and range from the simple to the ornate, like one, for example, that begins: "Prostrate at the feet of your Holiness . . ."

But the price for turning the parchments into a proper blessing is always the same, 400 lire or 70 American cents. However, Travia's office also demands a letter from a parish priest stating the petitioner is a Roman Catholic in good standing. One of Travia's aides still remembers with a wince how, some years ago, a blessing was inadvertently given to a divorced woman.

Besides distributing aid through parish priests, the office also is organizing a parish assistance network— doing such things as finding babysitters for working mothers and helpers for the old and handicapped—and it is organizing a central file of all Rome assistance organizations.

But buying a parchment is not the only way of getting a papal blessing. The Pope blesses the crowds in St. Peter's Square at noon every Sunday and at his general audiences in St. Peter's Basilica every Wednesday.

Bishops and priests around the world also have the opportunity of giving blessings in the name of the Pope on certain occasions.

Meanwhile, the Vatican's Congregation for Divine Worship is studying the whole question of blessings in the Roman Catholic church. A recent report by the congregation questioned, for example, "whether some blessings found in the Roman ritual should be approved or not, such as the blessing against throat ailments on the feast day of St. Blaise, or the blessing of seriously sick animals."

And the report said "care must always be taken that blessings do not merely become apotropaic (devil-chasing) and do not turn into talismans or good luck charms..."

Special Children's Class Is Announced

The purpose of the class, which will be conducted each Sunday from 10:45 a.m. to 12:15 p.m., will provide opportunities through a structured, but varied program.

"Adventures in Christian Living and Learning," a cooperative publication of 12 denominations, will be the basic course of study.

Director of the course will be Dorothy Nichols, who holds a masters of arts degree in Christian education and has five years' experience working with mentally retarded children as a senior child welfare worker in the San Francisco Department of Social Services.

Miss Nichols said "every effort will be made to adapt the curriculum to meet the needs and develop possibilities of each class member."

Applications to the class, which will be free, can be obtained from the church office.

No Standard Rules In Planned College

BALTIMORE (UPI)—What? A college without standard attendance, course requirements, formal measures of progress? Yep. Such a school — called a university without walls — is being planned by Morgan State College for Baltimore area adult education.

Morgan State is seeking foundation funds to put such a model program onto the drawing board. The Morgan program, as it's called, would allow students to complete studies in from a year to seven years, depending on progress and aptitude of the students.

Vigil Set At Seminary

An all-night vigil of reparation and prayer for world peace will be held next Friday and Saturday at St. Peter Chanel Seminary Chapel in San Rafael.

Sponsored by Our Lady of Fatima Crusade, Legion of Mary and Third of Mary in Marin County, the vigil will begin with a Latin mass at 8 p.m. on Friday and will conclude with a similar mass at 5 a.m. Saturday.

Rev. George Kathrien will officiate.

Exchange Pastor To Be Honored

Christ Church Episcopal Church in Sausalito will honor Rev. Charles Craft and his wife of St. Martin's Church, East Horsley, Surrey, England, at a festival choral evening at 5 p.m. next Sunday.

Reverand Craft has been serving the Sausalito parish for the past five months on an exchange with Rev. Bart Sarjeant of the Sausalito church.

Combined choirs of several Episcopal churches in Marin will participate, including the host church; Church of Our Saviour, Mill Valley; St. Stephen's Belvedere; St. John's, Ross; St. Paul's San Rafael, and Church of the Redeemer, Marinwood. Organists will be Rev. Al Price of St. Paul's and Mrs. Emily Ross of Sausalito.

Assisting Craft in the service will be Rev. Hugh Hardin of San Rafael, Rev. D. Murray Hammond of Mill Valley and Jeff Sells of Ross.

The service is open to the public. A pot-luck supper will follow.

New Board Chairman For Baptist Seminary Board

Dr. H. J. Flanders, professor of Old Testament at Baylor University in Waco, Tex., has been named chairman of the Golden Gate Baptist Theological Seminary Board of Trustees.

Flanders, who was vice-chairman of the seminary's trustees, succeeds Dr. E. Warren Rust, assistant director of the Division of Associational Services for the Southern Baptist Home Mission Board.

Flanders, a Golden Gate trustee since 1967, will serve a one-year term as chairman. He is a 1943 graduate of Baylor University with the bachelor of arts degree and a 1950 graduate of Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, Louisville, Ky., with the doctor of theology degree.

Flanders is joint-author of a textbook on the Old Testament, "People of the Covenant." The book has been used in classes at Golden Gate Seminary and at Baylor University.

The new trustee-chairman is former pastor of First Baptist Church of Waco and served on the faculty at Furman University in Greenville, S.C., where he was professor and chairman of the department of religion.

Helping Innovative Teachers: Project

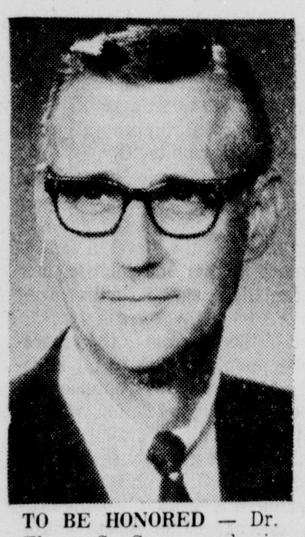
NOTRE DAME, Ind. (UPI)—The results of research on "Project Aurora," a teacher-centered experimental educational program run by a University of Notre Dame group at a local high school, confirms success of the projects goal: preparing faculty to initiate substantial educational change.

The research shows that teachers can be freed from the psychological and organizational restraints which inhibit innovation.



TO BE HONORED — Dr. Elmer G. Gray, academic dean at Golden Gate Baptist Theological Seminary at Strawberry, will be honored at an autograph party at 10 a.m. Wednesday in the seminary's student lounge. His new book, "Luke for the Space Age Church," has just come out.

Bible Study Course Set

The 13th annual Bible Study Fellowship in the Bay Area will be launched this coming week.

Sessions in San Rafael will be held on Thursdays at 9:30 a.m. at the First Methodist Church of San Rafael.

Course of study this year will be "Israel and the Minor Prophets."

The course, which will run through next spring, will be one of home study as well as lectures and discussions during the weekly meetings.

Annual Picnic Set Tomorrow

The Sleepy Hollow Presbyterian Church of San Anselmo will hold its annual church picnic tomorrow at 10:30 a.m. at Samuel Taylor Park.

A worship service will be held at 11 a.m. in the park's amphitheater, followed by the potluck picnic.

Next Sunday, the church will resume its regular Sunday school schedule with classes at 10:30 a.m.

Union Of Sanitary Districts Proposed

All existing sanitary districts in Marin County should be dissolved by 1973 and their duties taken over by water districts, County Administrator John F. Barrows recommended yesterday.

His recommendation, delivered to the board of supervisors, will be discussed at a public hearing at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the supervisors' chambers at the Civic Center. Officials of all sanitary districts and the Marin Municipal Water District and the North Marin County Water District have been invited to participate.

Barrows said his proposal for consolidation was not meant to reflect on the performance of the sanitary agencies.

"Directors of sanitary agencies in Marin are carrying out their responsibilities in a most competent manner," said Barrows.

Tam Fire Panel Will Meet Monday

Tamalpais Fire Protection District directors will hold a special meeting at 7:30 p.m. Monday in the Station One firehouse to hire a new secretary-dispatcher.

Alma Van Asperen, now district secretary, will be leaving the post after training her replacement, she said yesterday.

Another Layoff At A Platinum Mine

JOHANNESBURG (UPI) — The Rustenburg Platinum Mine, once the world's largest, announced Thursday it was firing 8,800 miners because of a slump in platinum prices.

It was the second major cutback at Rustenburg, which laid off 11,000 men in January. The latest cut means the labor force which once numbered 35,000 is now 15,000.

Sentenced To Life

SAN JOSE, Calif. (UPI)— Karl Warner, 19, convicted of knifing three teen-age girls to death in the foothills, was sentenced to life in prison Friday.

Pair Held In Probe Of Narcotics

Two Sausalito area men have been booked into Marin County Jail on suspicion of car theft and marijuana and narcotics violations, San Rafael police reported today.

Officers said they descended on a room the pair had rented in the Bermuda Palms Motel at 4:15 a.m. yesterday after a motel clerk reported the pair had acted suspiciously. The car the pair was using was found to have been reported stolen from San Francisco.

In the room, officers said they found James Christopher Wright, 22, and James Phillips, 26, both of Gate 5 plus a quantity of suspected marijuana, a hypodermic syringe, some white powder and what appeared to be paraphernalia for taking narcotics.

After booking, Wright was turned over to Sausalito police for questioning about another case. Phillips remained in jail pending court appearance Monday. No bail was set.

Familiar Names Exhibiting In Two-Day Benefit At College

By ADA GARFINKEL

What, then makes the Art Fair sponsored by the College of Marin Student Council today and tomorrow at the Student Center different is that 25 per cent of all sales will go toward helping the Marin County Economic Opportunity Council. Proceeds will directly benefit the child care center, the welfare rights program and the emergency food program.

Among the 30 painters, photographers, potters, sculptors, and weavers, whose works will be on display on both days from 10 a.m. until 6 p.m., are several well known Bay Area artists.

Eric Norstad, who is one of the award winners in the current San Francisco Art Festival, is showing two large ceramic fish platters and several bowls. Mill Valley painter Roy Gover's exquisite watercolor fantasies from his 1971 series are also there. Arthur Okamura, internationally recognized, has a red, yellow, and blue COW MAP in a silkscreen print. Some ink-on-velum (with the look of etchings) drawings by Gordon Baldwin are striking for their perfection and architectural imaginativeness.

Other items that merit considerable attention are Mardi Sears's beautifully functional teapots. Formerly associated with the ceramics department as instructor at the Mendocino Art Center, Miss Sears is now sharing a studio in Marin. And Rebecca Johnson's functional weaving includes such items as bags, packs, woven weed-pots and window shades.

Jackie Baks, a serious and pensive young fourth-year student at the San Francisco Art Institute, has done some commendable paintings, graphic prints, and oil pastels in organic combinations of nature and human forms. Two muted paintings by Ted Saladin with crystalline frosting and design are quite handsome. Photographs of people and things by Steven Frisch and Bernard Shick are worth pausing for; so are the delicate drawings of flowers and trees by Ken Murphy.

Prices are reasonable, there is lots of time to browse and sip tea or coffee and there is a children's play area in front of the Student Center. It should make for a worthwhile weekend for you and for the Economic Opportunity Council.

Winners In Art Festival

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Seven Marinites and a Petaluma resident have been honored for works entered in the San Francisco Art Festival, which continues through tomorrow at Civic Center Plaza.

A Bolinas couple, William and Patricia Creitz, was given one-man show awards in crafts by a penl of three jorors. Creitz also won a city purchase award in the same category.

Other awards went to Dennis Beale, San Anselmo, city purchase prize in graphics; Tony Williams of San Rafael, Larry Fuentes of Larkspur and Mary Fuller of Petaluma, city purchase awards in photography, and Eric Norstad of Corte Madera and Dale Roush of Stinson Beach, city purchase awards in ceramics.

Mayor's Wife In Pot Case Probe

Mrs. Ruth Rowley, wife of mayor H.G. Rowley, and another woman, Cecile Shepler, were charged with a felony for "delivery of a controlled substance."

Both women, who reside in this community of 2,536 persons, pleaded innocent and Superior Court Judge Ross R. Rakow said he would set trial for sometime this fall.

This new form is in two sections: a poly-foam pad and a fluid-filled form... important because the chest area often is made slightly concave by surgery. The foam pad brings that part of the chest level with the normal side; fluid-filled part approximates the curve of the remaining bosom. The breast form moves naturally with the body; closely resembles a natural bosom.

I WANT TO BE A PRINCESS

Using her 4-year-old daughter Kathy as a model, Mrs. David Faraday demonstrates the art of makeup and body paint for Mrs. Robert Conway at a workshop session for members of the Sunny Hills Junior Auxiliary who will work at the Grape Festival Oct. 2 at the Civic Center. Children have choices of princess, clown, bunny, Indian, and pirate faces or peace signs, flowers, lady bugs and butterflies on their bodies. Among the unusual requests Mrs. Faraday has had during three years as chairman of the booth is for a peace symbol on the tip of a teen-ager's nose. It is all done with makeup and poster paint that washes off easily, says the self-taught artist.

Few Women In State Assembly

By LIZ LAGUE

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — Only 14 women have served in California's assembly, beginning in 1918 — women were granted the right to vote in California in 1911 — with four assemblywomen — Esto Broughton of Stanislaus, Grace S. Dorris of Kern, Elizabeth Hughes of Butte, and Anna L. Saylor of Alameda. There has been at least one woman in the assembly ever since.

But no woman has ever been elected to the state senate.

There are currently three California assemblymen — they are Yvonne W. Brathwaite, D-Los Angeles, black and a lawyer; Pauline L. Davis, D-Portola, white, widow of the late Assemblyman Lester T. Davis, and March K. Fong, D-Alameda, Chinese-American and a doctor of education.

When Mrs. Brathwaite was elected, she says, "there was so much race emphasized they didn't get around to feminism." She has served on the assembly finance and insurance committee since the beginning of her term. "They had to change their meeting place because I was the only woman and they had been meeting in an all-male club."

"We assume 'stag' means all the members to come alone, unless they tell us otherwise," says Mrs. Brathwaite.

Mrs. Brathwaite is a native Californian, born and educated in Los Angeles. She graduated from University of California at Los Angeles (A.B. in political science) and went directly to University of Southern California law school. Of those days she says the law school "wasn't too female oriented — there were only four or five girls and in most classes were asked to sit together.

"I chose law because at that time I felt it was a good opportunity to work with civil rights," she explains.

Law firms at this time weren't hiring any women, so she began her own practice. This led to work representing civil rights demonstrators in federal and state courts, and, finally, politics.

No longer married, Mrs. Brathwaite has no children — a situation she says makes it easier for her to be a full-time legislator.

"If a woman has any problems in a man's field, it is because she creates them," says Pauline Davis, adding that if women take time to understand how men think, it will make their jobs much easier. Mrs. Davis has been at her job for 20 years.

"Actually 26 years," she adds, "because I was my husband's private secretary for six years before I was elected to office," in 1952 to fill the vacancy left by her husband's death. She says she was readily accepted in the assembly because "I had the opportunity of being personal friends with many of the legislators already.

"In fact, they never considered me as a freshman since I knew the floor procedures, and I was assigned to important committees immediately." With 26 years experience, Mrs. Davis has reached the top in committee appointments. She serves on the Joint Budget committee and the assembly Ways and Means Committee.

Mrs. Davis, from Plumas County, represents 10 rural counties of Northern California, and is active in legislation dealing with natural resources. She has three children and five grandchildren.

March Fong believes being of a minority race gave her high incentive. "My attitude was that while overcoming the handicap of being in a minority, I might as well overcome the other (being a woman) along the way." She says "when we first came here, our male colleagues regarded us with wonderment — I've had no problems being a woman, but I feel I have to do a little better because of it. I know I'm under scrutiny, and my private life must be exemplary."

Women have long been accepted in the field of education, but, says Mrs. Fong, "There were only a handful going for higher degrees." A native of Oakland, Mrs. Fong received her bachelor of science degree from the University of California College of Dentistry, a masters in education from Mills College in Oakland and a doctor of education from Stanford University. She prefers the title "assemblywoman" or "Mrs." to "doctor."

Mrs. Fong, also no longer married, has two children — a son and daughter — ages 15 and 17.

When asked how the women of the assembly get along with each other, the answer is, as Mrs. Brathwaite puts it, with a warm smile, "As well as the men do!"

'GOOD COOK' CONTEST

Best Recipes To Win Cash Prizes

The Independent-Journal is sponsoring its annual "good cooks in Marin" recipe contest and will select the 25 best recipes submitted for cash awards.

The winning recipes will be included in the annual I-J Cookbook Special Edition in November. More than $200 in prize money will be awarded to the 25 winners.

Judge for the contest again this year is Marin home economist Virginia Shattuck, past president of the Bay District of the California Home Economics Association and formerly home economist with the North Bay Division of the Pacific Gas and Electric Co.

Contest entry recipes must be submitted by Oct. 12.

Co-sponsoring stores with the Independent-Journal are the Bourbon Shops in Northgate, Marinwood, San Rafael and Corte Madera; Byrnes Fine Foods in Kentfield; Cala Foods in Tiburon, Fairfax, Corte Madera, Marinwood; Cox T.V. and Sound Center in Terra Linda; the Emporium at Northgate Mall; the Great San Rafael Coffee and Tea Store in San Rafael; Greenbrae Pharmacy; Hickory Farms at Strawberry Shopping Center; Jacks Drugs in San Anselmo; Marin Piano and Organ in San Rafael; Martin and Harris in San Rafael and Mill Valley; Mayfair Markets in San Rafael and Novato; Montgomery Ward in Corte Madera; Petrini's Market in Greenbrae; Rainbow T.V. in Greenbrae; United Markets in San Rafael and San Anselmo, and Western Furniture in San Rafael.

Politicos To Attend Tonight's Premiere

By MOLLY MARIN

A large contingent of legislators and officials will celebrate the opening of the Marin Veterans Memorial Building tonight at the Civic Center in San Rafael, attending the Marin Symphony concert and champagne buffet afterward.

Marin's Congressmen William S. Mailliard of San Francisco and Don H. Clausen of Crescent City will attend the "Premiere: Marin." State officials who plan to attend are Sen. Peter Behr and Assemblyman William Bagley of Marin, and Dr. Wilson Riles, state superintendent of public instruction.

Marin County's supervisors, Peter Arrigoni Jr., Louis H. Baar, Arnold M. Baptiste, John F. McInnis and Michael Wornum, will be prominent in the number of Marin officials, and supervisors from neighboring counties who will come for the opening are Robert Scofield of Solano, Henry Wigger of Napa, Henry Spomer of Sonoma and Peter Tamaras of San Francisco. Thomas Mellon of the City of San Francisco will also be a guest.

Marin mayors at the premiere will be C. Paul Bettini of San Rafael, Thomas S. Price of Belvedere, Denis T. Rice of Tiburon, Alexander R. Imlay of Sausalito and George M. Wickham of Mill Valley.

Mayors' representatives will be Joseph Gargiulo of Novato, Earl O'Grady of Larkspur, Holmes Norville of Corte Madera, Cornelius Van Vliet of Fairfax and Kenneth Anderson of San Anselmo.

Attending from the Frank Lloyd Wright organization, Taliesin, will be the architects Wesley Peters and Aaron Green, along with Mrs. Frank Lloyd Wright. The group will gather at a buffet prior to the opening, with Dr. and Mrs. S. I. Hayakawa of Mill Valley. Mrs. Hayakawa is Mr. Peters' sister. His wife, Svetlana, daughter of the late Joseph Stalin, remained at home in Arizona with the couple's baby daughter.

PRIOR TO the opening symphony program at the Veterans Memorial Building tonight W. Robert Lomax Jr. will entertain a group at dinner at his home in San Anselmo. The guests will include Mr. and Mrs. Leon Kalimos (he is executive director of the new Veterans Memorial Building), Mrs. Alma Lauritzen, Shirley Thorton, vice chairman of the Marin Community Music Association; Mrs. Dorothy Garner, president of the Contra Costa Community Concert Association; H. Donald MacKinnon of Olympia, Wash., who is visiting his mother, Mrs. Elizabeth MacKinnon in Kentfield, the Rev. Henry Kent of San Rafael, Mrs. Robert Gaines of Piedmont and Russell Farnsworth of the San Francisco School District. Hostesses will be Mmes. Mary Johnson, Peggy Bullock, Yvonne Hodges and Jessie Coleman. Also attending will be Mmes. Jackie Kirk and Shirley Pahl.

The group will go on to the opening and Marin Symphony concert.

THE COUNTY of Marin will host a reception prior to the opening at the Holiday Inn at Terra Linda, with Marin Supervisors Bud Baar, Peter Arrigoni Jr., John McInnis and Michael Wornum as hosts. Among the guests invited are Assemblyman William Bagley, and Congressmen William S. Mailliard, who have been living in San Rafael for the summer, and Don H. Clausen.

MR. AND MRS. Harry Smith of Mill Valley will host an afternoon of sailing on their "Islander," a 1904 classic sailboat. Invited aboard this third oldest sailing boat on the bay tomorrow afternoon, are Messrs. and Mmes. Ralph Neelands, Joseph Zajak, Michael Shermer, Tom Tamsma and Dale Starkey.

NOW LIVING in Santa Clara are Mr. and Mrs. James Alan Doiron, who were married in Morganton, N.C., Sept. 4 and took a wedding trip to Lake Tahoe and Carmel. The bride is the former Sharon Elizabeth Walker of Morganton, who is now employed as a dental hygienist in San Jose. James is the son of Mrs. John Analla of San Anselmo and Robert Doiron of Novato. He is a San Jose State College student.

Proper Way To Handle An Aunt Who Likes To Meddle Next Door

HI, YOU TWO:

I have a managing maiden aunt. She's great at bossing, and she makes uncalled-for remarks that my folks don't like, but put up with. As she lives next door, I can't avoid her.

Mom lets us eat when we come home from school. Auntie says this will "spoil our dinner." It doesn't. If I've heard it once I've heard it a hundred times: "Sandy, are you into the candy (or whatever) AGAIN?" Being it's none of her business — and Mom agrees but is too polite to say so — what's a good comeback? — SANDY

DEAR SANDY:

How about, "No, the candy's into ME! (Tee-hee-snicker-snicker)". — SUE

DEAR SANDY:

. . . And get standard maiden aunt lecture No. 353 on "The Impudence of the Younger Generation, Tsk, Tsk?" (Which you might enjoy, but your mother wouldn't.)

NOTE TO READERS: Writing a column with your teenage daughter is sometimes like square-dancing to rock music: we don't always agree about the beat, but we usually end up on — or near — the same chord. — HELEN

DEAR SUE AND HELEN:

I'm sending you my picture so you'll see the problem. See, my Dad doesn't understand that long hair for guys is just a fad — like wide ties and bell bottoms. He thinks "hair" means you're a hippie dope fiend. Mine isn't even half way over my ears and it's neat and trimmed, but he (Mom, too) insists I get it cut — or else!

My grades are high-B and I don't even smoke. The smartest and most active, leader-type guys in school are longhairs — and mine's only medium yet. Please help if you can. — HAIR LOVER

DEAR HAIR:

If it's any help: I like your hair — and so do my girl friends, who agree long hair on guys is fine, just so it's neat, clean — and not longer than ours.

And it doesn't mean you'are a "shaggy mutt" (Mother's version), or "Hippie'fag-doper" (Father's worry). As you say, "hair" is just a fad. You'd look like a real Delbert, these days, in a crew cut. — SUE

DEAR FATHER OF "HAIR LOVER":

Come on, Pop, buy yourself a wide, wild tie, grow sideburns, get your hair styled instead of sheared — and look back to those 1940 school days when teen fads also drove parents bonkers. Everybody survived, remember?

You have a son to be proud of. (Just ask the girls who read his letter and saw his picture!) — HELEN

DEAR HELEN AND SUE:

Here's my "rap" on the so-called generation split. I feel I am the luckiest teen in the world to have as great parents as I do. They are the two people I value most. They're open-minded, understanding, and always there when I need them. I'm not an angel in return for what they have done for me, but I'm — THANKFUL FOR THE GREATEST PARENTS EVER, MARY

DEAR MARY:

Your letter, I'm sure, says it for a lot of kids who haven't gotten to voicing it yet. We have a tendency to take our parents for granted, sometimes because they are always there when we need them. We've sorta "grown accustomed to their faces."

I'd like to go along with you and thank my mother and father for putting up with my gripes and moods for the past 17 years. They deserve all the thanks I can give. — MY PARENTS' DAUGHTER: SUE

AGENDA

7:30 p.m. Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Herb Gregory of Novato.

With gerontology the national philanthropy of Sigma Kappa, Marin members serve as recreation volunteers at Rafael Convalescent Hospital.

UNITED PRESBYTERIAN Women of Westminster Presbyterian Church in Tiburon will sponsor its fall ingathering dinner for the church's members and friends on Wednesday at 6:30 p.m. at the church. Youngsters are invited and child care is available, according to chairman Mrs. Milton Stannard.

A DOZEN members of San Francisco Yacht Club Women's Auxiliary will learn to sail some glamorous yachts during the 1971 "Dreamboats" Series. Lessons will be held on five consecutive Wednesdays starting Sept. 29. Times will be announced later by Mrs. Joanne Zink of Belvedere.

EIGHT MARIN General Hospital Volunteers in August received 100-hour pins for service. The group included the first male Junior Volunteer to receive a 100-hour pin in the history of the Marin General Volunteers organization.

He is Robert Dasher of San Rafael High School, who was part of a group which included Wendy Heller and Mrs. Michael Smith, San Rafael; Gayle Abrams and Eve Gazzola, Ross; Mrs. W. E. Blackmar, Tiburon; Mrs. Gerald Kelleher, San Anselmo, and Patti Smith, Greenbrae.

A total of 283 Volunteers served 4,207 hours in August.

Two Volunteers, Mrs. Paula Glaser of San Rafael, and Mrs. Ray Kraft of San Anselmo, earned 2,000-hour pins. Two others, Mrs. Robert McKendry of Ross and Mrs. Jane Orr of Kentfield, were awarded pins for 2,500 hours of service.

NEW ASSOCIATE members of Chicken Little Chapter, Childrens' Home Society, will be welcomed Wednesday at 11 a.m. by active members.

Preceding a salad luncheon at the Rohnert Park Recreation Center Mrs. John Tennyson, president, will introduce the auxiliary's interpretation team. The team consists of Mmes. Harold Griffith, John Roberts and Hal Janney. They will answer questions following the agency's film. "I'm 17, Pregnant and Don't Know What to Do."

Mrs. Richard McKenna is reservations chairman.

Some Tips For Smashing Clothes

By EUNICE FARMER

DEAR EUNICE,

When planning a fall wardrobe, it's so difficult to have the courage to do the things with your sewing that you see in the fashion magazines. How can we get the courage to really make smashing clothes?

MARGIE S.

DEAR MARGIE,

This has always been one of the problems with the home sewer. Half of the joy of sewing is the excitement your finished product can generate. If you find a garment that appeals to you, cut it out and keep it as a guide when you go fabric shopping. It isn't nearly as important to find the exact fabric or color or even pattern as the one you have chosen, but try to get the same feeling that was in the picture. Do this with your very own courage. Don't ask your friends if you should do it. They probably would defeat you by negative ideas.

I can guarantee that the day you start getting raves from your family and friends, that's the day it will be hard to keep you away from the sewing machine. The creative excitement will open up a whole new world for you. Try it on your next garment and let me know the results. It's much easier to follow the same path you've always followed, but not nearly as much fun.

TAILOR TRIX WINNER

Mrs. Roger Dinelli of Sausalito is this week's Tailor Trix pressing board winner for her following suggestion.

"When my velveteen all-weather coat showed a distinct line mark when I lowered the hem, I decided to do a decorative machine stitch in a contrast color (or you could use the same color) and make it a border effect. The same detail should then be used on the collar and cuffs. The coat looks like it was meant to have the stitching and I feel like I have a new coat on instead of one that had been tampered with." (See story this page)

SEAR EUNICE,

I wish to line a knit jacket even though according to all the books, they don't need to be lined. Is there any special trick when one proceeds with this?

MRS. J.C.

DEAR MRS. J.C.:

You will probably not have a pattern to go by and will have to feel your way cautiously as you go. Cut the sections of the lining larger than necessary, it's always easy to take away the excess. As you baste each section in position, remember that you must allow a little extra for the "give" of the knit. It's best to slip stitch the lining by hand at each seam, lightly catch it to the shoulder, armhole, and sides of your garment. Remember to keep all your hand sewing very loose so that it won't draw up the garment.

It is also important to choose the right type of lining. I would suggest a lining similar to silk broadcloth, china silk, or any other lightweight fabric. A crepe would not be suitable because it would sag and show at the hemline.

DEAR EUNICE,

When using stretch swim suit material for a swim suit, I noticed runners from the cross grain wherever I cut the fabric. Also, when I tried to use the cross grain for binding, it stretched out of shape and rolled up.

MRS. D. L.

DEAR MRS. D.L.:

All helenca type knits that are commonly used for swim wear will run if it is pulled on the cross grain before seaming. A preventative measure would be to stay stitch these edges before construction.

The same fabric for binding was the wrong thing to use. Instead, you must use a chlorine treated elastic to stabalize the edges of your swim wear. Helenca knits don't recover their shape if machine washed, they will stretch crosswise. Never machine wash a swim suit of this fabric, instead, hand wash and towel dry.

Banlon that is chlorine treated is often used for bindings, but it will never give the same stability that the elastic will give. If you wish to use a contrast binding, we suggest you use the elastic first, then apply the binding.

New fabrics are marvelous, but along with them comes a new world of sewing and washing techniques, one is no good without the other. You must absorb every new bit of information you get because it will surely apply to something you will be questioning in the near future.

Marinite Wins Prize For Her Sewing Tip

Mrs. Roger Dinelli of Sausalito says she was very much surprised to learn that she has won a prize for a tip sent to Sew Simple, the syndicated sewing column printed in the Independent-Journal Women's Section each Saturday.

Her tip was simple indeed, she feels, for it consisted merely of covering the line of a lowered hem on a velveteen coat with decorative stitching in a contrasting color to effect a harder detail. The stitching was used also on collar and cuffs.

For this tip Mrs. Dinelli will receive Eunice Farmer's "tailor trix" pressing board, to be mailed to her from Mrs. Farmer's sewing school in St. Louis.

"SEWING AND improving clothing is just a hobby with me — my way of relaxing," she says. "These days anything helps with alterations that have to be made to fit changing styles. If I come up with anything, I like to share it with people."

Mrs. Dinelli confesses she has had very little training in sewing — just what she learned in high school. "Enjoying what you do is the secret of success," she maintains, and she has imparted her enthusiasm to her two daughters.

Darlene Dinelli, a Greenbrae school teacher, does her own sewing and designing of clothes, and 14-year-old Lynn, a sophomore at Marin Catholic High School, is already making dresses, her mother says.

"IT'S EASY nowadays," Anne Dinelli says. "The patterns are very simple, and it's so worth while because you can select your own materials. I have some beautiful fabrics from the Philippines."

The Dinellis — he is a training captain for Pan American Airways — also have a son, Robert Dinelli, who is a department head with Akron in San Francisco.

Speaking of her prize, Anne Dinelli laughed, "Perhaps this will give me an incentive, and I'll go on to bigger things."

Edith Lutz's Part-Time Hobby Turns Into Big Money Maker

By KATHLEEN NEUMEYER

AZUSA (UPI) — When Edith Lutz quit smoking, she had to have something to do with her hands.

So she took up a hobby that's probably going to wind up paying to furnish a new house when she and her husband retire next June.

"I went to the hobby shop and bought some acrylic paints and made a wall plaque out of a page from an old family ledger — an 1843 entry from a general store record book," she explained.

"Then I went to a swap meet where I met a man with beautiful boards. They were actually cabinet door panels — he worked in a door factory."

SHE BOUGHT a big boxful of them for $5 and got a stack of old magazines from a friend who collected them.

"All my life I've made something from nothing," she laughed, pointing to some old high buttoned shoes she had sprayed bright red, filled with flowers and placed on her coffee table.

She set up shop in the backyard of her one-story home in this suburb east of Los Angeles and started turning out "Advertiques" — attractive wall hangings featuring old covers from "Woman's Home Companion" and "the Saturday Evening Post," old Union Pacific Railroad posters and quaint advertisements.

She signed them "Miss Edith" — "That's what they call me when I go back to Dresden, Tenn., where I'm from," she said.

"THE THING that makes my plaques different from others I've seen," she explained, "is the three-D effect."

Using a knife, Mrs. Lutz cuts out protions of the ad and glues them on particle board cut to the same shape, Then she glues them back on top of the cutout area, achieving a dimensional effect.

Twice a month she sells her wares for $4-$8 apiece at flea markets and arts and crafts festivals in Southern California.

"I have sold some of them in department stores and boutiques," she said, "but they double and triple the price and then they don't move as fast."

Sometimes she will sell 25 or 30 plaques in an afternoon, and other days she sells only one or two.

"I DON'T ever expect to get rich, but I'm enjoying it," she said.

"Keeps her out of the pool halls," her husband, Russell, said.

Mrs. Lutz said she has socked away enough profits to help furnish a home in Nashville, Tenn., when Lutz retires after more than 30 years as a mail carrier.

Her favorite ads are the oldest ones — those for products like victory bread have been very popular.

Firms whose ads she uses have been enthusiastic. Some have bought her plaques to decorate their offices.

"And I have onc customer who wants every old Packard ad I can find," she said.

"The old Coca Cola ads are very popular too, and if I make one showing a MacDonald's hamburger, mothers will buy them for their kid's rooms. They say it's their favorite meal."

Disposable Bags

Sleeping bags enter the disposable age with the introduction by a British firm of a lightweight paper pack that will last as long as two weeks. At the end of a camping trip the bag has a residual value as a receptacle for litter.

75-Year-Old Woman Takes To Mountains

By KATHLEEN NEUMEYER

LOMA LINDA (UPI) — Hulda Crooks intended to take a 75-mile hike this summer, one mile for each of her years, but she settled instead for a 54-mile trail which included ascending Mt. Whitney.

It was the tenth time the fragile-appearing grandmother has climbed the 14,502-foot mountain in the past 10 years, and she made it in faster time than ever before.

She thinks it is because she has been jogging.

Mrs. Crooks, who at 75 still holds down a full-time job as a research assistant in the school of health at Loma Linda University here, gets up early five or six mornings a week and runsa mile.

"I WORKED up to it gradually," she explained, starting out four years ago running just a block or so every morning.

"Then I do an hour of exercise in the university gym for the upper trunk," she said.

She began mountain-climbing nearly 40 years ago. A Saskatchewan farm girl, she grew up "chasing cows and pigs, but I didn't get any education."

At 18, she hadn't yet finished sixth grade, but she went back to school and worked her way through high school and two years of college before suffering a physical collapse.

"My husband, who was a doctor, knew he had a semi-invalid to keep or cure," she said, "so he tried every way he could to encourage my interest in the outdoors."

MRS. CROOKS loved flowers, and her husband urged her to learn the names of all the Southern California wildflowers and trees.

"It's been such a blessing, because all the trees and shrubs have a personality to me. I get many invitations now to take groups for nature walks and I tell them what all the plants are. They drink it all in, but they don't remember it," she laughed.

Mrs. Crooks began going on mountain hikes with her small son in the 1930s. Her husband, who had a heart condition, could not accompany them.

"My husband died 20 years ago," she said in an interview. "But one time when were passing through Independence, Calif., he pointed out Mt. Whitney to me and told me it was the tallest mountain in the continental United States.

"Neither he nor I ever dreamed I would climb it, but after I started working at the university, I heard students talking about climbing it, and I wondered if I was good enough."

IN 1961, she made her first ascent, with a small group of students, and she has been back nine times since. In 1968, she took her two older brothers, Dr. Edward Hoehn of Angwin, Calif., then 75, and Chris Haines, of Issaquah, Wash., then 77, along with her.

All three of them made the top of the mountain but only one of the three television cameramen who accompanied them got to the peak.

Sierra Club Wants Halt To Logging

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Interior Secretary Rogers C. B. Morton was asked yesterday to halt logging just outside Redwood National Park, Calif.

The Sierra Club, a national conservationist organization based in San Francisco, told Morton logging by three companies is a serious threat to the park created by Congress in 1968.

Dr. Edgar Wayburn, former club president, said he had met Morton to deliver a petition asking for action to halt logging operations by the Arcata National Corp., Georgia Pacific Corp., and the Simpson Timber Co.

Wayburn said the three companies had increased their logging operations adjacent to the park since it was established.

"It is apparent that destruction rather than preservation is their goal," he said, at a news conference held during the Sierra Club's 12th biennial wilderness conference.

Wayburn said Morton was urged to acquire a two-year leasehold over part of the Redwood Creek drainage and land along both sides of Highway 101 between Redwood Creek and the Prairie Creek Redwood State Park, to protect it for possible future inclusion in the park.

The petition said the companies were engaging in clear-cutting — the logging of every tree in a given area — in lands that might otherwise be added to the park in the future.

"Clear-cutting is the most destructive logging operation known to man," Wayburn said. He singled out Arcata National for special criticism because of its logging operations in the Skunk Cabbage Creek drainage. That area, he said, contains "one of the finest and heaviest stands of redwoods in the world."

Death Row's Eldest Inmate Dies

Information officer Joseph R. O'Brien said Winhoven, who had been awaiting execution for the 1960 slaying of the assistant manager of a Los Angeles bank, died yesterday in the prison hospital.

O'Brien said Winhoven, an electronics technician prior to his commitment, had suffered from a heart ailment since 1968, and had most recently been in the hospital since February 1970.

Winhoven was one of six condemned convicts who tried to escape from the row in 1962, holding two hostages at gunpoint for four hours before surrendering in a barrage of tear gas.

Red Cross Slates First Aid Course

The Marin County Chapter of the American Red Cross has scheduled an advanced first aid course to begin Thursday at the chapter house at 712 Fifth Avenue, San Rafael.

The course will run eight weeks with classes meeting Thursdays from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. Students must have a standard first aid certificate in order to enroll. Additional information may be obtained by phoning the chapter.

Public Hearing Set Monday On Proposed Rezoning In Fairfax

Proposed rezoning of the North Fairfax area west of Oak Manor subdivision for low residential density, limited agriculture and commercial recreation will get a public hearing before the Marin County Planning Commision Monday.

Another major topic before the commission, meeting at 9 a.m. in the Civic Center, will be discussion on scrapping or changing the Bolinas-Stinson Beach General Plan, adopted in 1961.

The North Fairfax rezoning area is north of Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, from Oak Manor to White's Hill. Most of it is now zoned either limited agricultural, which allows lots of 7,500 square feet, or two residential units per acre.

The proposed rezoning conforms with the Fairfax area general plan.

The Bolinas-Stinson Beach general plan will be reviewed because of major discrepancies with the preliminary countywide plan and the Bolinas Lagoon plan.

For example, the present Bolinas-Stinson Beach plan calls for harbor-commercial uses at Bolinas Lagoon, and shopping areas and resort-recreation areas near Bolinas and Stinson Beach, along the San Andreas Fault zone. The preliminary countywide plan would not allow concentrated development along the fault, and the Bolinas Lagoon plan treats the lagoon as an ecology reserve.

Other items on the planning commission agenda include:

INDUSTRIAL PARK — William Wright Jr. will seek master plan approval for his Del Pantano Industrial Park on 13 acres near Gnoss field.

Emission Regulations Due Study

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Proposed regulations on emissions will be considered by Bay Area Air Pollution Control District officials Wednesday, including limits on unregulated problems such as odor.

The meeting of the advisory council will be at 1:30 p.m. in district offices, 939 Ellis Street.

Also on the agenda are proposed regulations on fluorides, lead, nitrogen oxides, and tougher controls on procedures by industry when equipment malfunctions.

Terra Linda Whips Ells, 29-16

By RON LENT

Erstwhile injury case John Buckley latched onto a pair of Kevin Donohoe touchdown tosses in pacing Terra Linda High School's 29-16 football victory over visiting Harry Ells High of Richmond last night on the San Rafael High School field.

The wily wide receiver snagged eight passes in his delayed 1971 unveiling. Despite the flashy showing by Buckley, who had been out with a dislocated finger, head coach Don Lucas was less than impressed. "We were inconsistent in our passing, and we started getting cozy with our lead in the second half," allowing the invaders to register eight points in both the third and fourth periods.

"But overall," he added, "we played better."

The estimated 1,700 partisans who gathered to witness the Trojans' second consecutive win would likely concur with Lucas' final contention, based on the host's impressive attack and stingy defense exhibited last night.

The blue and gold Chargers of Terra Linda drew first blood with 1:47 remaining in the opening quarter when fullback Steve Sabel boomed over from six yards out, climaxing a two-play, 25-yard drive set up by defensive back Larry Offenback's 15-yard return with a pilfered pass.

The victors subsequently increased the advantage to 13-zip when fullback Doug Long powered across from the Ells' seven. An 11-yard, Pete Corbett field goal pushed the Trojan lead to 16-zero at intermission over coach Lou Guida's young team.

The Falcons, now 1-1, are only in their second year of varsity competition, but don't tell that to the bruised Trojans who were outpointed in the final 24 minutes, 16-13.

The eager birds procured the lone third period point production after junior quarterback Maurice Hamilton teamed with classmate Oscar Williams on a 32-yard paydirt pass.

Impressive 34-7 Win For Redwood

By PAUL CANE

Look out, world, the Redwood Giant football team is for real.

Daryl Edralin shredded the Encinal High School defense for 116 yards and three touchdowns on the ground yesterday, as Redwood devastated the Jets, 34-7, in Alameda.

Edralin picked up a blocked Jet punt early in the first quarter, and raced 20 yards for the first of his touchdowns, to spark the Giants to their second straight win.

With nearly half the first period gone, Bob Stubbs crashed through the Encinal line on fourth and four, and blocked Bob Leach's punt. Edralin scooped up the ball on the run and cruised into the end zone, as the Giants sped out to a 6-0 lead.

Immediately after the kickoff, however, Earl Rivard of the Jets took the handoff on a cross buck, and raced 48 yards for the only Encinal score.

Following an exchange of punts, Brown marched Redwood 92 yards in 15 plays, highlighted by two Connor catches, and culminated with a one-yard off-tackle burst by Edralin for the second of his touchdowns.

The Giants picked up a break on a Jet fumble, and moved on a 10-play drive, which was topped off by a seven-yard

Saints Entertain 49ers

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — The San Francisco 49ers, who had their troubles in the South last week in their National Football Leaguer opener, meet the New Orleans Saints Sunday in a NFC Western Division matchup.

The 49ers, Western Division favorites, fell to the Atlanta Falcons, 20-17, last week. The Saints knocked off Los Angeles, 24-20, on rookie quarterback Archie Manning's one-yard scoring run on the last play of the game.

The 49ers have been picked as a 13-point choice over the Saints, but coach Dick Nolan has said he is worried about two things—Manning and the Saints' defense.

A drop-back quarterback who also likes to run, Manning ignored seven traps and completed 16 of 29 passes for 218 yards, including touchdown tosses of 37 and six yards.

"Manning can be a problem, because, like any rookie, you don't know what he'll do," Nolan says.

Nolan said he was worried about the Saints Defense because it carries so many variations.

Nolan will go with his veteran quarterback John Brodie, who hit 17 of 34 for 225 yards against the Falcons, but had four passes intercepted. NFL rookie Vic Washington will open in place of veteran Doug Cunningham at halfback in this Channel 5-aired game at 11 a.m.

On defense, starting outside linebacker Skip Vanderbundt has missed workouts this week after twisting a knee in last week's game, and Nolan said he may not start. Jim Sniadecki, who replaced Vanderbundt for two games last year, would move into the starting role if Vanderbundt could not make it.

Rancho Wallops San Marin, 32-8

Mixing a sprinkle of Steve Wlodarczyk passing with a dash of fullback Steve Murray running, a well-seasoned Rancho Cotate High School of Rohnert Park "11" undressed San Marin High School 32-8 last night at Petaluma High.

"This is the first time that I know of that we gained more on the ground than in the air," Claude Brock, coach of the pass-happy Cougars, enthused today.

The mentor extended kudos to Murray for churning out a gaudy 148 yards on 24 bursts, 25 yards better than the Wlodarczyk aerial circus.

"Murray had a good game," Brock continued, "but he had to, because we just couldn't throw against San Marin. Those people (the 0-2 Mustangs) are going to beat somebody."

However, it won't be the greedy hosts who held the Mustangs to a scant four first downs and only 69 total yards. The victors checked all visitor attack outlets, except for wingback Marty Larson. The lithe lad caught two passes, but, more importantly, scooted 80 yards with a third period kickoff for San Marin's lone score.

Teammate and quarterback Hoza Wright connected on only five of 19 and suffered two pilfered passes enroute. "It just wasn't their night," Brock commented.

Maybe not, but the Mustangs presented a good first half ac-

Raiders Take On Chargers

Still smarting from last week's 20-6 loss in Foxboro, Mass. against the New England Patriots, the Oakland Raiders visit the San Diego Chargers tomorrow at 1 p.m.

Channel 4 will air the game live which matches long standing quarterback rivals, the Raiders' Daryl Lamonica and John Hadl. Of the two, Hadl fared the better in the season opener the previous Sunday, leading the Chargers to a 21-14 upset over visiting Kansas City, while Lamonica had his troubles against the one-lowly Patriots.

In tomorrow's tussle, the Raiders will attempt to untrack a sputtering offense, however the defense has improved significantly over last year's edition, despite surrendering two touchdown passes to Jim Plunkett and the Patriots. Rookies Horace Jones at defensive end, linebacker Phil Villapiano and free safety Jack Tatum took turns in giving Plunkett fits last week.

Though the young trio performed admirably, Coach John Madden realizes the Oaklanders need a return to form by Lamonica, and tackle Bob Brown, plus come-though efforts at two other key offensive slots, split end and fullback.

With All-Pro split end Warren Wells sidelined by a jail sentence, the pressure is on veterans Rod Sherman and Drew Buie to fill this major gap.

If the pair fail, Madden may look to third-year rookie Eldridge Dickey. After trying unsuccessfully to make the 40-man roster the two prior annums, Dickey landed a spot when Wells' probation was revoked.

In addition to the end problem, Madden must solve a difficult fullback deficiency stemming from a knee injury to incumbent Hewitt Dixon. Last week, rookie Don Highsmith and veteran Marv Hubbard shared the post.

Cincy Is Very Good In Role Of Spoiler

Giants' Lead Cut To 2 Games

CINCINNATI (UPI) —The San Francisco Giants left the Houston Astrodome with renewed confidence, but the Cincinnati Reds, who seem to be overdoing their role as spoilers, are bent on keeping the National League West race in the cliff-hanger stage.

The Reds, last year's N.L. champions, clipped San Francisco, 6-5, Friday night behind Johnny Bench's two-run homer, ending the Giants' two-game winning streak that they had put together in Houston.

The Giants' loss narrowed their first-place margin in the N.L. West division to two games over the Los Angeles Dodgers, who defeated Atlanta, 2-0.

Cincinnati, which has been in a season long-slump this year, beat Los Angeles last Tuesday and Wednesday, allowing the Giants to take a three-game lead as they were winning in Houston.

San Francisco looked like a team hungry for the division title Friday night when it drove Reds starter Ross Grimsley from the mound with a three-run first inning.

In the fourth, the Giants made it 4-0 when McCovey walked, took second on Dave Kingman's single and scored on Chris Speier's infield out.

But the Reds came back with three runs in the fifth, touched off by George Foster, a former Giant, who hit his 12th homer of the season.

In the sixth, Cincinnati tied it when Jerry Johnson, who had replaced starter Don Carrithers, balked home pinch-runner Buddy Bradford. Bench's game-winning blast came in the seventh.

The Giants tried to come back in the ninth when Jim Hart hit a pinch single and scored on Willie Mays' pop double to right field, but reliever Clay Carroll got Henderson to ground out and

Odom Out Of A's Playoff Plans

After rookies Jim Slaton and Rick Auerbach combined to give Milwaukee a 1-0 win over the A's in a night game, manager Dick Williams of the American League West champion A's announced he was reluctantly removing righthander John Odom from the 25-man roster for the A.L. playoffs because of a "tired arm."

"John says his arm felt tired in recent outings and he couldn't get enough zip on the ball," said Williams. "The doc says when your arm gets tired, you don't pitch. So rather than risk permanent injury to Odom's arm, I decided to take him off the roster. He and I talked it over Thursday."

Williams said he hopes to replace Odom with Ron Klimkowski, a mid-season acquisition of the A's. But first the Athletics must obtain permission from the baseball commissioner's office, the A.L. president and the Baltimore Orioles, Oakland's opponent in the playoffs.

"But this is just a formality," said Williams.

Williams said righthander Chuck Dobson (15-5) would hurl five innings today against the Brewers and go seven innings (hopefully) in the season finale against Kansas City next Wednesday.

"I plan to let Vida Blue go seven innings Sunday against Milwaukee because it will be his final outings before opening the playoffs next Saturday," added Williams.

Slaton, a 21-year-old rookie righthander from Lancaster, was especially happy in shutting out the A's on five hits. That's because his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Slaton, and his brother, Frank, were in the stands watching him pitch a big league game for the first time.

"I'm glad I could pitch so well in front of them," said Slaton. "I found I had good control of my curve ball early in the game. That gave me confidence and I wasn't afraid to throw it to a batter the rest of the game.

Jackson singled in a pinchhitting role and Rick Monday then singled pinch runner George Hendrick to third base. But Slaton got out of the jam by getting Curt Blefary on a flyout.

Slaton struck out 10 batters, a major league high for him and one short of the Milwaukee club record. His control was excellent and he didn't walk a batter.

Another rookie, Rick Auerbach, supplied Slaton with the only run he needed when he slammed a 1-1 pitch off starter and loser Diego Segui, now 10-8, for a 350-foot homer run in the fifth inning.

After Joe Rudi singled in the first inning, Slaton retired 17 A's in a row until Rudi led off the seventh with another single. Rudi was retired on a fielder's choice grounder but Mike Epstein singled and the A's had runners on first and third with one out. Sal Bando then hit into an inning-ending double play.

"We had that one big chance in the seventh but the double play killed us," said Williams. "The kid pitched a fine ballgame. In fact, the Brewers have a lot of good, young arms . . . all they need is some experience."

Williams announced that he would go with the rotation of Blue, Jim Hunter and Dobson in the playoffs.

If the 7% excise tax is repealed, and you bought a Volkswagen after Aug. 15, you're entitled to a refund. If you bought one before, you're saving money anyway.

If Congress votes to repeal the 7% federal excise tax on automobiles, and makes it retroactive, and you bought one of our cars after Aug. 15, lucky you.

It means you'll be getting back a nice amount of money from Volkswagen of America. (Something like $103-$171 depending on which car you've bought.)

But if you happened to buy a Volkswagen before August 15, don't feel deprived.

You're still saving over the average car about $1500 on the car itself, $135 a year on gas, and $who-knows-how much on repairs.

Colts Favored Over Browns

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The quarterbacks —Johnny Unitas and Earl Morrall —were once synonymous with the Baltimore Colts' success.

But no more. A young man named Norm Bulaich and the defense must be the keys if the Colts hope to unlock a second straight National Football League title.

Bulaich emerged from the first week of the season as the American Conference's leading rusher, carrying 22 times for 198 yards, and the defense was perfect in a 22-0 victory over the New York Jets. The only time the Jets got into Baltimore territory was when they recovered a fumble on the second half kickoff on the Colts' 27 and were forced to punt from the Colts' 48.

Bulaich broke the club single game rushing record of 194 yards set in 1955 by Alan Ameche despite spraining his ankle in the first quarter, and he highlighted the afternoon with a 67-yard touchdown run.

Meanwhile, Baltimore's passing attack went for 69 yards. Morrall completed five of 13 for 78 yards, and Unitas, recovering from a ruptured Achilles tendon, came in for two series in the fourth quarter and threw for minus nine yards on one completion in three tries.

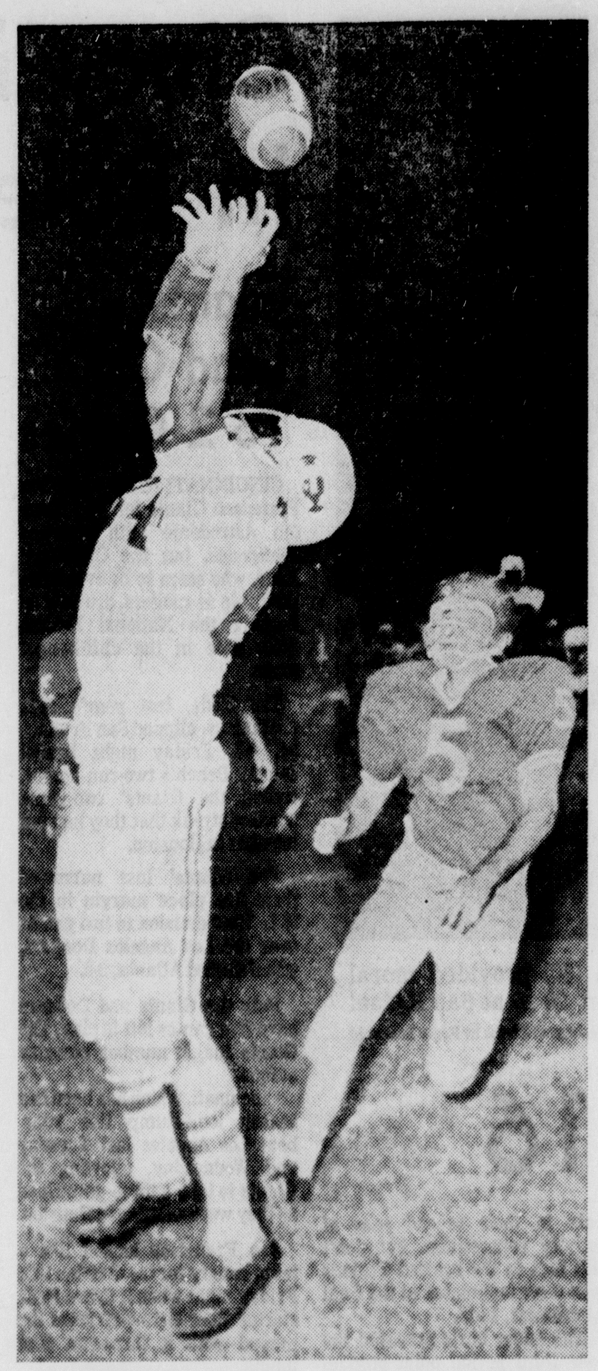
Cleveland also scored a shutout in its opener, 31-0 over Houston, and the Browns have scored all three of their victories at Baltimore in their seven-game series against the Colts. In their last meeting, Baltimore defeated Cleveland 34-0, for the 1968 NFL title.

In other games, Los Angeles is favored by 2 1-2 points over Atlanta. Washington is three over the New York Giants, Dallas is 13 over Chicago, Cincinnati is 6½ over Pittsburgh, Miami is five over Buffalo, Detroit is 10½ over New England, Green Bay is 2½ over Denver, Kansas City is seven over Houston and, on Monday night, St. Louis is 5½ over the Jets.

Los Angeles, its defense depleted when former coach George Allen took many Rams with him in his move to Washington, try to bounce back from a 24-20 upset by New Orleans last weekend. However, Atlanta is the surprise leader in the Western Division of the National Conference after beating San Francisco, 20-17.

Atlanta's Ray Berry completed 16 of 21 passes for 185 yards and two touchdowns against San Francisco while the Rams' Roman Gabriel managed only 11 completions in 30 attempts for 164 yards against New Orleans.

The Giants' hopes for a second straight upset were dimmed when quarterback Fran Tarkenton came down with a 102 degree temperature on Friday and was listed as a questionable starter against Washington.



BIG STRETCH — Harry Ells end Larry Amato reached high for an errant pass as Terra Linda defender Paul Berry moved in. Both the pass and the game went awry for the visiting Richmond "11" with the Trojans registering win number two in as many outings last night at San Rafael High. (Independent-Journal photo) touchdown pitchout to Edralin, with 1:20 left in the half.

Leading 20-7 in the third period, Redwood's defense held the fort and protected the lead, allowing Encinal only 31 net yards for the final periods.

In the third-quarter Redwood's Mark Asiano and Jay Lehman carried the ball out of what Coach Phil Roark calls the "T-Bone Set," (a variation of the "Wishbone T") for another score, with Asiano carrying it over from the nine.

Lehman was featured again early in the fourth quarter, carrying four successive times for 28 yards and a touchdown, to reach the 34-7 tally. The drive was set up on a diving interception of a Leach pass by Katsumi Johnson at Redwood's 35.

Roark said he was amazed at the 247 rushing yards, but said he had expected the long passing game to click better against the Jets.

Redwood, San Rafael Runners Win

Redwood High walloped Tamalpais 15-50, while San Rafael High topped Drake High 20-35 in separate cross country meets Thursday.

Eric Moller of Redwood took first on a three-mile Phoenix Lake course with a 15:46.5, while Jerry Lansing of San Rafael was victorious at Forest Meadows in the Dominican section with a 16:12.0 clocking.

The Redwood yearlings romped to a 15-43 triumph over Tamalpais with the winner's Pete Demarais turning in a 12:51 in circling the two-mile field.

Marin Tars Win Soccer Match

Carter Ingram and Mark Ehrhart tallied to pace College of Marin's 2-0 win over Diablo Valley College of Pleasant Hill yesterday at Kentfield in a defense-oriented soccer match.

The pair scored goals in the first and second periods respectively, and hung on from there to win.

aggregate of Trojans marched 49 yards in four plays early in the final period, featuring Buckley's first touchdown catch, a 38-yarder on an up-and-out, deep pattern.

The 1970 Marin County Athletic League kings then paraded 48 yards in eight plays for their final score of the nippy night. On third and eight to goal situation, Buckley accepted a Donohoe aerial in the right corner of the end zone, barely in the inbounds marker before falling out of bounds.

This could not end Ells' desire. The Falcons flew 57 qards in 13 thrusts when Hamilton hit end Steve Johnson from one yard away, a scant three seconds before the final gun.

The Giants meet the Reds again today in the second game of a three-game series.

After the Cincinnati series, the Giants get a day off Monday and then end the season with three games at San Diego against the Padres. The Dodgers, who play a pair this weekend at Atlanta, also rest Monday and finish at home with three games gainst Houston.

Baltimore 'Bubbly' Abounds

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

Manager Earl Weaver had every reason to celebrate. After all, it isn't every day that your team clinches the division championship and two members of your starting rotation join the 20-game winners circle.

Weaver joined the rest of the Orioles in celebrating Baltimore's clinching of its third straight American League East championship. To add icing to the cake, Mike Cuellar and Pat Dobson each posted their 20th victory as the Orioles swept a doubleheader from the Cleveland Indians, 9-2 and 7-0, Friday night.

"You didn't hear any cheers between games after we clinched the title but the boys really let loose after the second game," said Weaver, who was pouring champagne over his players in the post-game celebration.

Cuellar and Dobson joined teammate Dave McNally as 20-game winners for the Orioles. If Jim Palmer, who has 19 victories, reaches the 20-game mark, the Orioles will become the first team in 51 years to boast four 20-game winners.

"I feel real good and I'm looking forward to the playoffs," said Cuellar, who reeled off his third straight 20-victory season.

"Heck, I had only two victories on June 1 and I never thought I would win more than 15 games this season," said Dobson who was acquired in an off-season deal with the San Diego Padres.

The Orioles will go for their third straight American League pennant when they meet the Oakland Athletics in the playoffs starting Oct. 2.

In other American League action Milwaukee blanked Minnesota 1-0, Detroit whipped New York 8-5, Boston shut out Washington 4-0 and California edged Chicago 4-3. Minnesota at Kansas City was postponed because of rain.

In the National League, Cincinnati nipped San Francisco 6-5, Los Angeles blanked Atlanta 2-0, St. Louis topped Montreal 10-6, Pittsburgh edged New York 3-2, Philadelphia tripped Chicago 6-1 and Houston beat San Diego 2-1 in 21 innings before losing the second game 5-4.

Rookie Roger Moret pitched his first major league shutout with a four-hitter and drove in a run as the Red Sox defeated Washington. It was his fourth complete major league game.

Jim Northrup blooped a two-run double to drive home the last two runs of a seven-run seventh as Detroit topped New York and Joe Coleman earned his 19th victory.

Jim Fregosi singled in Sandy Alomar from second base with none out in the ninth inning to give Andy Messersmith his 19th victory.

touchdowns to elusive end Don Walden, covering 21, 7 and 67 yards. The Titans other tally came on a brilliant 35-yard run by speedy halfback Eugene Howard.

After a "pointless" first period, the Oaklanders drove 59 yards in six plays with Falschi hitting Walden over-the-shoulder from 21 yards out.

The Titans, now 2-0, quickly struck again on a three-play, 40-yard march culminated by Howard's 35-yard burst around end.

Down 14-0, the valiant Indians promptly reeled off a 55-yard six-point parade of their own with Davlin alternating quarterbacks Don Locey, Mark Dawson and Brad Bann.

All three proved useful as Locey scampered 11 vital yards in the drive, Dawson hit on a crucial fourth and nine pass to sustain the progression, and Bann teamed with Greg Biber on the eight yard touchdown aerial. Bann, making his season debut, collected the TD on his second pass.

"He's some linebacker," Davlin commented.

Though Nottingham repeatedly reeked havoc on Tam ball carriers, he could not dampen Indian enthusiasm. Playing without All-League middle guard Herb Wade, out with a kidney infection, and halfback Tom Collins, still awaiting doctor clearance on a dislocated shoulder, the junior-dominated Braves kept plugging away despite the score.

"We'll get 'em next week," a Tam player barked bravely enroute to the bus back to Mill Valley, referring to the league home opener Friday night at 8 o'clock versus defending champion Terra Linda.

DRAKE, MARIN ON ROAD

San Rafael Hosts Montgomery Vikes

Saturday evening prep pigskin fans have three games on tap.

Marin Catholic visits Piner of Santa Rosa; San Rafael entertains Montgomery of Santa Rosa, and Drake travels to Vallejo, all three games at 8 o'clock.

In the lone local contest, the Bulldogs will attempt to Muster a second straight win when they take on the Sonoma County team, but San Rafael coach Bob Muster doesn't foresee another whitewash like that week's opener at Lincoln High of San Francisco.

The S.F. team "probably wasn't ready for us, but Montgomery will be," he cautioned. Muster depicted the visitors as "a quick club, about our size. It should be quite a physical contest."

The Bulldog boss also tossed kudos at Klein's running mate Tyree Gray. Tyree has a brother Mel, currently employed as a St. Louis Cardinal wide receiver after starring in track and football at Montgomery High and later at the University of Missouri.

To no one's surprise, the younger Gray is also a speed merchant with a penchant for finding the end zone. To steer him in the proper direction, the visitors have quarterbacks John Stimack and Rick Lund. Lund, a senior, will open over his junior rival. Last week, the pair led the Vikings to a 28-7 decision over Serramonte High, a new San Francisco suburb school.

However, the volatile Vikings will face a tougher task in this, the second tilt for both teams. Bulldog rooters boast about the vaunted San Rafael running game featuring All-League halfbacks Scott Duncan and Dave Urquhart, fullback Mark Ferrar and quarterback Dirk Gansloser.

The unit combined to pulverize the Mustangs on the losers' field in the opener, no small task considering the vanquished were picked as among San Francisco's better prep squads.

Drake Coach Bob Franceschini's Pirates surrendered a 12-7 decision to Petaluma in the season inaugural for both clubs but are fully capable of springing a surprise on Vallejo.

If the invaders do, they will accomplish it with a plethora of changes, including quarterback. One-time backup Jim Tang will replace Tom MacAusland in a move Franceschini hopes will put punch in the attack. Starting ends Steve Urban and Don Trimble will give way to Gene Gilbert and Dan Trimble. In two other offensive switches, Mark Parachini stepped ahead of Rick White at left guard. Dave De Moss abdicated his fullback title to Dan Nichelini.

In assessing the rationale behind the defensive alterations, Franceschini commented that "we saw some major errors in the films which called for prompt action."

Now, if the Buc offense puts points on the scoreboard ... conversely, Marin Catholic can keep scoreboards busy, so Wildcat helmsman Bruno Banducci made only a single adjustment, but is was a big one. Steve Sherry is tentatively set to recover his starting signal calling nod from Steve Schaumleffel.

The pass-oriented Wildcats will have to assemble a solid effort to unhinge the Prospectors from Santa Rosa, but Banducci and his boys are confident they can do so.

WINNING BRIDGE

A Familiar Rule Must Be Broken To Pull Off Victory

The principle of today's hand would be familiar to a beginner, although no beginner would make four hearts. The average good player would go down because he has been taught not to waste trumps in his own hand by ruffing. The exception to that rule occurs when you have no long side suit to protect by drawing trumps and when you can't be sure of winning tricks with your low trumps in the usual way.

Opening lead — ♣ J

ACTUAL PLAY

When the hand was actually played, South won the first trick in dummy with the ace of clubs and led the singleton trump, losing the king to the ace. West returned another club to the king.

South drew trumps with the queen and jack, discovering that he still had to lose another trump trick to the nine. He also had to lose a club and a diamond. Down one.

SHOULD MAKE SURE

Declarer should have made his contract by making sure of his three low trumps. He wins the first trick with the king of clubs, leads a space to the ace and ruffs a spade. Then he leads the king of hearts, forcing out the ace.

West returns a club to dummy's ace, and declarer is now in position to ruff another spade. Having done so, South can draw two more rounds of trumps with the queen and jack. The trumps break badly, and South sees that he must ruff with his last low trump.

CASHES DIAMONDS

Declarer cashes the king and ace of diamonds and leads dummy's last spade. East must follow suit, and South takes his 10th trick by ruffing.

Even if East were out of spades he would be unable to defeat the contract. If East put in the nine of hearts, South would discard a club or diamond loser and would make his last trump later.

Guess who was born today and became famous.

1. If you watch carefully, you'll see a Hollywood tough guy playing a scoutmaster in TV commercials on his 46th birthday today. To guess who, try these clues: He starred in films like "Battle Cry"; was once a constable at Crockett, Calif.; and served as a Navy frogman in World War II: (A) Lloyd Bridges; (B) Charlton Heston; (C) Aldo Ray.

2. Now try to identify an American novelist who fought with the British Royal Air Force in the first World War. This war veteran came home to Mississippi to publish "Soldier's Pay" and start a writing career that led to so many distinguished works on the South he was awarded the Nobel Prize for Literature in 1949: (A) William Faulkner; (B) Tennessee Williams; (C) F. Scott Fitzgerald.

3. Music lovers, two greats for you today. Let's start by naming this Canadian concert pianist. He was a three-year-old prodigy who finished his conservatory studies at Toronto by the time he was 14, began professional appearances at age 15, and won acclaim from critics for his brilliant interpretation of "Piano Concerto": (A) Van Cliburn; (B) Garrick Ohlsson; (C) Glenn Gould.

4. Now wish Happy Birthday to Russia's 65-year old composer of classics. Can you match these facts with the right name? He was born in Leningrad, took music lessons from his mother, and is noted for his great composition, the Fifth Symphony: (A) Dimitri Shostakovich; (B) Sergei Prokofiev; (C) Igor Stravinsky.

BIRTHDAYS TODAY (Quiz Answers):
1-C, 2-A, 3-C, 4-A.

Sept. 25, 1971
Happy Birthday to:
Sandor Diamond
Donna Lampke

ROBERT R. CELLI
Unit leader

Cancer Unit Elects New Officers

Other new officers named were Richard S. Riede, first vice president; Dr. William A. Galeno, second vice president; Barbara Allen, secretary, and Richard H. Malloch, treasurer.

Guest speaker at the dinner was Dr. Hale Tolleth, president of the Contra Costa County Unit of the society, who described the need for volunteers in the fight for cancer control.

Fifty-six persons attended the meeting.

Temporary Site Selected For Basing Span's Fleet Of Buses

Golden Gate Bridge District directors, with a fleet of buses virtually at the starting gate in Michigan ready for delivery, yesterday approved a $5,012-a-month lease for a temporary site in San Rafael to base the coaches.

A separate site the district is buying on Highway 17 east of the San Rafael Post Office will not be ready for use when the bus system begins running in December. Because of a condemnation suit against the property, and the resulting delay of construction, the permanent site may not be ready for a year, according to district officials.

The temporary site is the adjacent Ghilotti Brothers property at 517 Jacoby Street. Ghilotti originally asked $6,200 a month, but the district's attorney, Thomas M. Jenkins, negotiated the lower price.

The directors approved a nine-month lease, with two three-month options to extend up to a total of 15 months. The price includes warehouse, office and parking space.

The district's bus transit manager, H. Donald White, told the Independent-Journal he planned to base 100 of the 152 buses at San Rafael, with the rest divided roughly evenly between satellite stations at Novato and Santa Rosa.

Only one of the 132 new buses has been delivered, the rest held back at the General Motors factory in Pontiac, Mich., pending arrangements for the San Rafael bus site. Gen. Mgr. Dale W. Luehring reported that 25 coaches were ready for delivery, and that the remainder are being readied at the rate of six a day.

The district also will buy 20 newer buses from Greyhound.

Directors previously applied to the federal government for an additional 20 buses powered by smogless engines, which would bring the fleet to 172 buses.

A Custom

NASSAU-PARADISE ISLAND, Bahamas (UPI) —As they pass through customs at the airport, arriving Nassau-Paradise Island visitors are serenaded by the welcoming music of Blind Blake and his combo. The group has been ofering its Bahamian hellos this way for the past three years.

Golden Gate Bridge District Board Also:

FERRIES — Trimmed two of the five new ferryboats from the planned fleet for early 1973 in order to boost the chance for federal funding. Each ferry costs $2.1 million, and additional vessels — perhaps hydrofoils — could be ordered later, directors agreed.

VALUATION — Received a staff report that assessed valuation of the six counties in the district totaled $3,811,827,199 for the new fiscal year, up $224,108,800 over last year. Of this new total, San Francisco accounted for 58.8 per cent of the valuation, Marin, 17.9 per cent, and Sonoma, 14.6 per cent. Napa, Mendocino and Del Norte counties accounted for the remaining 8.6 per cent.

SMALL CRAFT — Adopted an ordinance barring use of district floats by unauthorized small craft, a problem especially in San Francisco, where small craft have forced delays in docking the Sausalito ferry.

BARRIER — Referred back to committee for further review a $40,000 engineering test planned of a proposed suicide barrier.

ROPES — Asked the New York engineering firm of Ammann and Whitney to submit a proposal to supervise shop drawings, contractor's procedures and laboratory tests to replace every other suspender rope.

DREDGING — Authorized payment of $5,700 for dredging by Duncanson-Harrelson Corp. of the Sausalito ferry landing.

SIGNS — Invited bids for approximately 1,000 bus stop poles and signs, the cost estimated by White at up to $15,000.

SHELL — Awarded a $175,667 contract to Shell Oil Co., low bidder, to provide the district 1,370,500 gallons of fuel and oil for its buses, bridge maintenance vehicles and ferry.

CONCESSION — Received a report from Deputy Auditor Robert D. Tough that earnings from the Sausalito ferry concessionaire totaled $4,732 in August.

SEASHORE — Authorized staff to help Marin Transit Systems Inc. get federal funds for a demonstration shuttle bus service within Point Reyes National Seashore, and approved "in principle the concept" of moving people to and from the seashore "by means other than by private automobile."

OIL SPILL — Received $20,000 from Standard Oil to cover the full cost of repainting the Sausalito ferry for oil fouling resulting from Standard's oil spill last January.

SECRETARY — Accepted "with regret" the resignation of district secretary Helen Jack, effective Dec. 31, for health reasons. She had been with the district since 1953.

Popularity Of Ferry Boat Booms

Patronage during the first 15 days last month was 78.2 per cent higher than the same period last year, which was two weeks after operations began.

For the commute runs, patronage was up 69.5 per cent over the previous year's figures for the first 15 days in September. This was on the 7:15 and 8:25 a.m. runs from Sausalito and the 4:10 and 5:30 p.m. runs from San Francisco.

Total traffic during the sample period this year was 69,016 passengers, up from 53,946 the previous year. Of these totals, 16,536 were commuters, compared to last year's figure of 11,502.

Meanwhile, the prospect of increased commuter runs came before district directors in an offer by Harbor Carriers to add a second ferry for peak commuter-hour runs. The private carrier already serves Tiburon ferry commuters.

Harbor Carriers said it would carry commuters to and from Sausalito for 50 cents, but the district would have to pay the company 25 cents for each passenger to cover the difference between the fare of the company and the district.

The company also asked that it be allowed to share the district's Sausalito float for tourist operations, just as the district shares the company's float in San Francisco.

Harbor Carriers recently lost a second attempt to win permission by the City of Sausalito to land in that city, and has appealed the city council's denial to Marin Superior Court.

Both proposals by the company were referred to committee for study.

Ceylon's Senate Is Abolished By Leader

COLOMBO, Ceylon (UPI)— Ceylon's upper house of Parliament ceased to exist as of yesterday, a victim of Premier Sirimavo Bandaranaike's decision to abolish it on grounds it was obstructing her socialist legislative measures.

The United National Party, which was defeated in last year's general elections, has a majority in the Senate. Since Mrs. Bandaranaike's socialist programs faced hard sledding there she simply did away with it.

Another Showdown Due On Apartments

Another confrontation between land developers and residents of Larkspur appears likely with a proposal that 224 apartment units be built on Bon Air Hill.

A. Charles Brouse, chairman of the Larkspur Town Meeting, said yesterday his group probably will fight the proposal, submitted by Larwin Multi-Housing Corp. of Beverly Hills.

The firm, according to city officials, would like to construct the two-story units on about 12 acres adjacent to the Tamalpais rest home.

Its plans will go before the city planning commission Tuesday at 8 p.m. at city hall.

"This may be the first head-on collision between us and the city's leading developer," Brouse said, referring to owner Niels J. Schultz Jr., owner of the hill property. "We've just had skirmishes before."

Brouse said he will present a town meeting resolution calling for a building ban throughout the city on all developments larger than 10 units.

He said the town meeting steering committee feels such a moratorium should remain in effect until after the city's master plan is reviewed.

"We haven't studied it (Larwin's plan) in depth yet," he said, "but chances are great we will fight it."

A Home Furnishings Extravaganza —

Marin, Sonoma Stores Join In Two-Week Debut '72 Program

For the first time in history the home furnishings and fashions industry across the country has joined forces to conduct a nation-wide program introducing to the consumers the latest ideas, trends, designs and materials in house decor.

They are calling it Debut '72 in recognition of the fact that the program will offer home owners and renters a preview of the furniture styles of the coming year.

The event opens tomorrow and continues through Oct. 9.

AND UNDER the sponsorship of the Home Furnishings Council Inc., 1 Vanderbilt Ave., New York, it has attracted the enthusiastic participation of hundreds of manufacturers, plus designers, distributors and retailers.

Locally, 11 merchants, 10 in Marin and one in Sonoma, are taking part in the Debut '72 observance.

They are Johnson's Red Barn, 7389 Redwood Highway, Novato; Young Brothers of Novato, 7514 Redwood Highway, Novato; Bellach Furniture Co., 777 Francisco Blvd., San Rafael; Casa Marin, 1654 Second St., San Rafael; Braverman's, 208 Greenfield Ave., San Rafael; Colony House, 2158 Fourth Street, San Rafael; Bell's Interiors Inc., 1212 Fourth Street, San Rafael; Western Furniture, 1848 Fourth Street, San Rafael; Hideaway Bed Centers, 310 Town and Country Village Shopping Center, Strawberry, and Manor House, 1005 Fourth Street, San Rafael, in Marin, and Yeager's Carriage House, 2503 Cleveland Avenue, Santa Rosa, in Sonoma.

OF THOSE participating stores, Johnson's Red Barn, Young Brothers, Bellach's, Casa Marin, Manor House, Braverman's, Colony House, Hideaway Beds and Bell's Interiors will all be open tomorrow, Sunday, with their special Debut '72 displays.

The other two stores will begin their participation on Monday.

As a special feature of the Debut '72 program, all 11 stores through the Oct. 9 closing date of the observance will be accepting registrations from their visitors for a $20,000 modular dream house built by General Shelter Corp. that will be given away nationally to some fortunate family.

The attractive home pictured on this page is built of four plywood, steel and glass components, and stands two stories, containing a living room, a sleeping balcony, three bedrooms, kitchen, two bathrooms and outside decks. It is both heated and air conditioned, and it is fully carpeted.

THE DREAM house features a unique system that allows its owners to alter the living spaces to suit their specific requirements.

Builder General Shelter Corp. says the house is suited for use as either a vacation home or as a year-around dwelling.

Registrations for the house will be accepted at all participants in Debut '72 across the country, beginning tomorrow.

But even more important for decor-minded Marin and Sonoma residents will be the opportunity to view the special new furnishings and displays assembled by the merchants for the duration of Debut '72.

DICK SCHWARTZ of Colony House and Darryl Bellach of Bellach's have coordinated plans for the observance of Debut '72 locally.

They point out that it marks the first time such a large scale effort has been undertaken in the home furnishings industry, and that Debut '72 is particularly remarkable in view of the involvement of literally hundreds of manufacturers.

"Actually," they note, "there are only a handful of really large furniture factories. Most of our fine furnishings come from the many, many small manufacturers."

Thirty-two national consumer magazines are also taking part in the program by featuring room settings and ideas in their fall issues. And hundreds of the country's leading newspapers are according the important event special recognition, as is the San Rafael Independent-Journal with the publication of this special issue of its Marin Magazine, devoted largely to news stories, photographs and advertisements concerning the program and the new furniture products and design ideas.

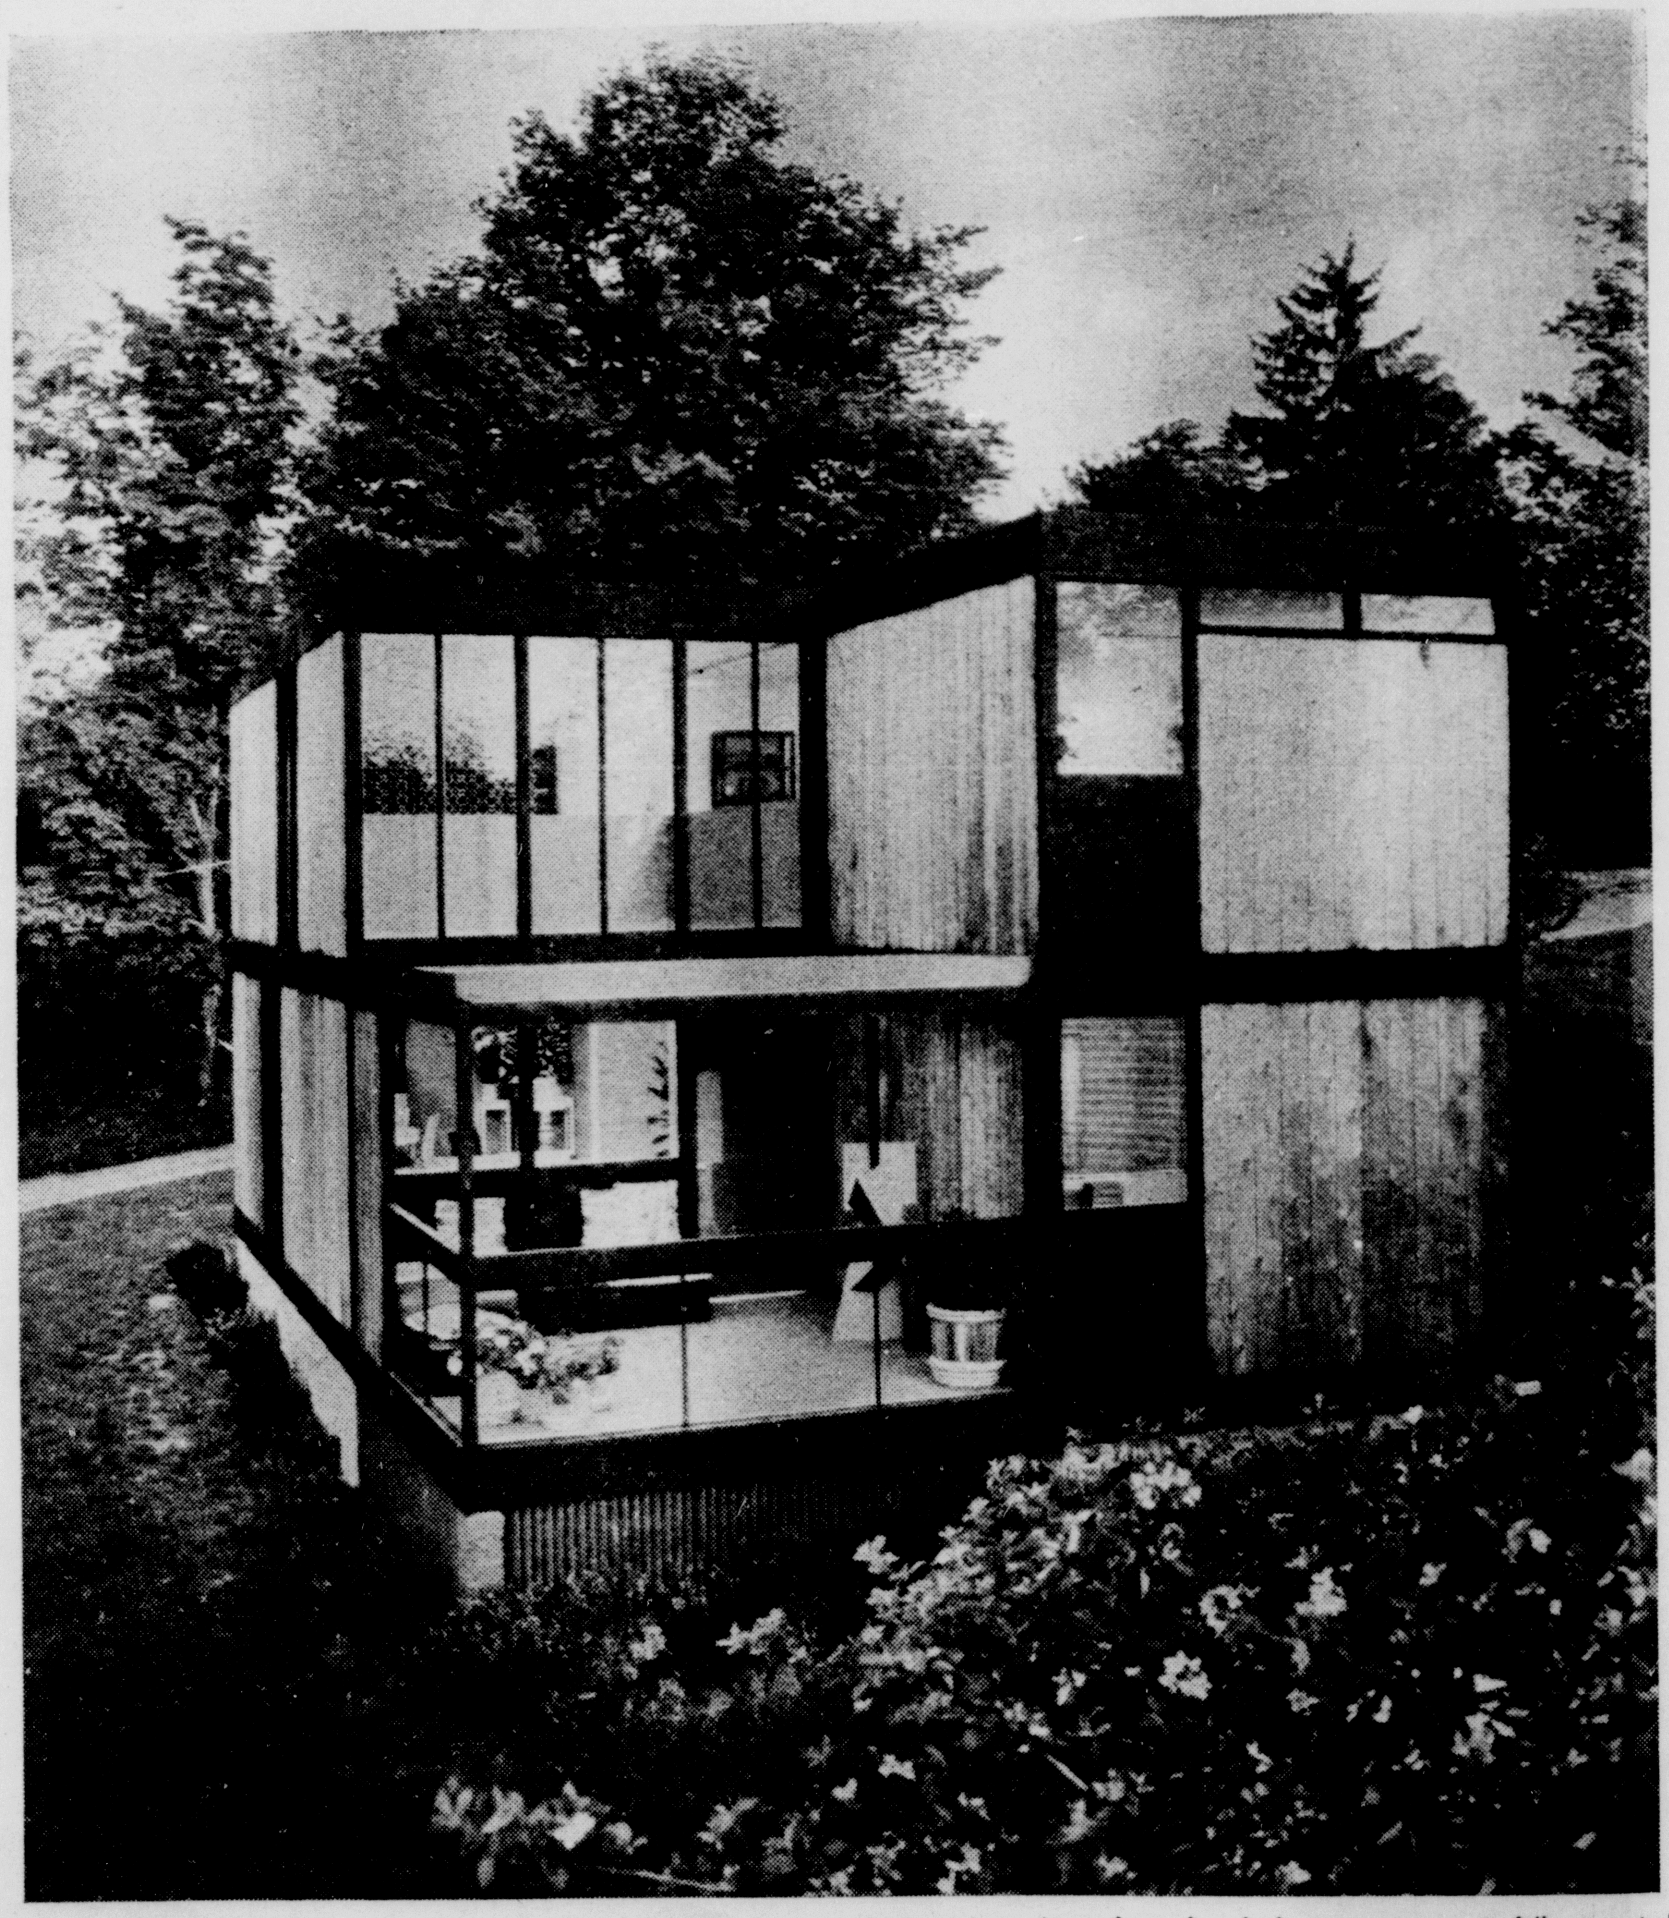
THE EMPHASIS in Debut '72 is upon meeting the home decor needs of four American life styles — the "nearlyweds," the "newlyweds," the "on-the-way-ups" and the "home-free agains" whose children have left the "nest."

It is planned to make the event an annual program for the next five years.

The goal will be: "To increase awareness of the importance of the home, and to help homemakers express themselves in their homes."

With that in mind, the 11 participating Marin and Sonoma stores will be going all-out during the next two weeks to bring to their customers the very newest and the very best in home furnishings and in ideas for their most effective use.

They invite you to visit them and to enjoy Debut '72. And to sign up for that dream home that they will be helping to give away.



THIS $20,000 MODULAR dream house built by General Shelter Corp. as its contribution to the home furnishing industry's Debut '72 campaign was selected by American Home Magazine for its October issue cover story. It will soon become home to some lucky family as first prize in the Debut '72 Home Fashions Sweepstakes. Would-be winners can sign up at any of the participating stores. The house is built of four plywood, steel and glass components, is fully carpeted throughout, stands two stories, and includes a living room, a sleeping balcony, three bedrooms, a Hotpoint-equipped kitchen, two completely fixtured bathrooms and outside decks. It is both heated and air-conditioned.

Renaissance In The Home Is Under Way

Social prophets are forecasting a renaissance in the home for the 1970s.

Whether it's a high rise apartment, townhouse, plastic bubble, commune, or the traditional house, home is where we are going to spend much of our time this decade.

Among the popular social and economic theories cited in support of this prediction, the most frequent is the reaction to the population explosion which prompts us to seek a refuge, a haven, and an identity.

FORTUNATELY, THE manufacturers who produce those things which furnish our homes, are more tuned in to the dawning of the age of the consumer than ever before. They realize that relatively few of us live in grand-scale houses. Some of us live in mobile homes, other actually have attic or garage apartments. And all of us need help in decorating.

They have realized that great numbers of us prefer the eclectic or mixed look, and do not seek matched pieces. Many are designing complete collections blending a variety of elements for a ready-made eclectic look. Others are creating individual designs to be selected from to fit that special need.

As with our cities, we are going to be moving up, not out, in our homes. This calls for furniture that makes use of wall space. Interchangeable systems that bunch horizontally and vertically, etageres, bookcases, dividers, hanging wall units, tall slim chinas and armoires, will all be important to our new decorating.

EQUALLY IMPORTANT will be furniture that goes anywhere and serves several functions. Our mobility, life styles and houses dictate multi-purpose, flexible furniture.

Disappearing will be the huge pieces, which, even if you can get them on the elevator, seldom go through an apartment door.

Increasing will be more and more maintenance free furnishings. Much of the real excitement of the 1970s will generate from the multitude of new materials pouring out of the laborities. Ease of maintenance, reduced costs, and design expansion are the chief by-products of these new test-tube wonders.

GREATER VARIETY will be ours. Inexpensive things that fill the need, but can be thrown out in five years without a trace of guilt, are already here. An enormous range of colors, bright to add sparkle to the life of someone with a routine occupation, soft for those seeking serenity after a hectic day.

The '70s promise to be the decade in which "express yourself" is not only good advice but a realistic possibility.

THIS ROOM FOR the apartment of young moderns was designed by the editors of Modern Bride for comfort and the contemporary feeling preferred by the younger generations. A multi-purpose wall unit forms a backdrop for white vinyl sofas and a handsome lounge chair, all by Dux Furniture. It is a room that takes a strong stand on color. Modern Bride used a red, white and green combination with dazzling effect. The room was a part of Modern Bride's portfolio of Debut '72 rooms featured in that magazine's September issue. Other rooms featured the same bright, airy treatment. Ziff-Davis Publishing Co. is the Modern Bride publisher.

What Total Decor Means

Total decorating is a much used phrase these days that sounds simultaneously completely clear and totally confusing!

However, the concept is perhaps the most significant aspect of your personal decorating, and not nearly as abstract as it may first appear.

ANYONE WHO has purchased on impulse, a lamp that was the wrong height for a table or an area rug whose colors screech against the draperies has already had a lesson in the importance of total decorating.

Total decorating is simply a total plan — in your head, if no place else — of each area in your home. A complete image of a room, first of what you will need. Do you need a sofa, or sectional seating? Do you need a table next to a chair? Where do you need lighting? Is there a place for the TV or stereo?

What will you be doing in this room and how can you furnish to suit those needs?

THEN, THE look should be visualized. Formal or casual? Bright or serene? Lots of pattern or splashes of it? Woods, plastics, metal and glass, or a combination?

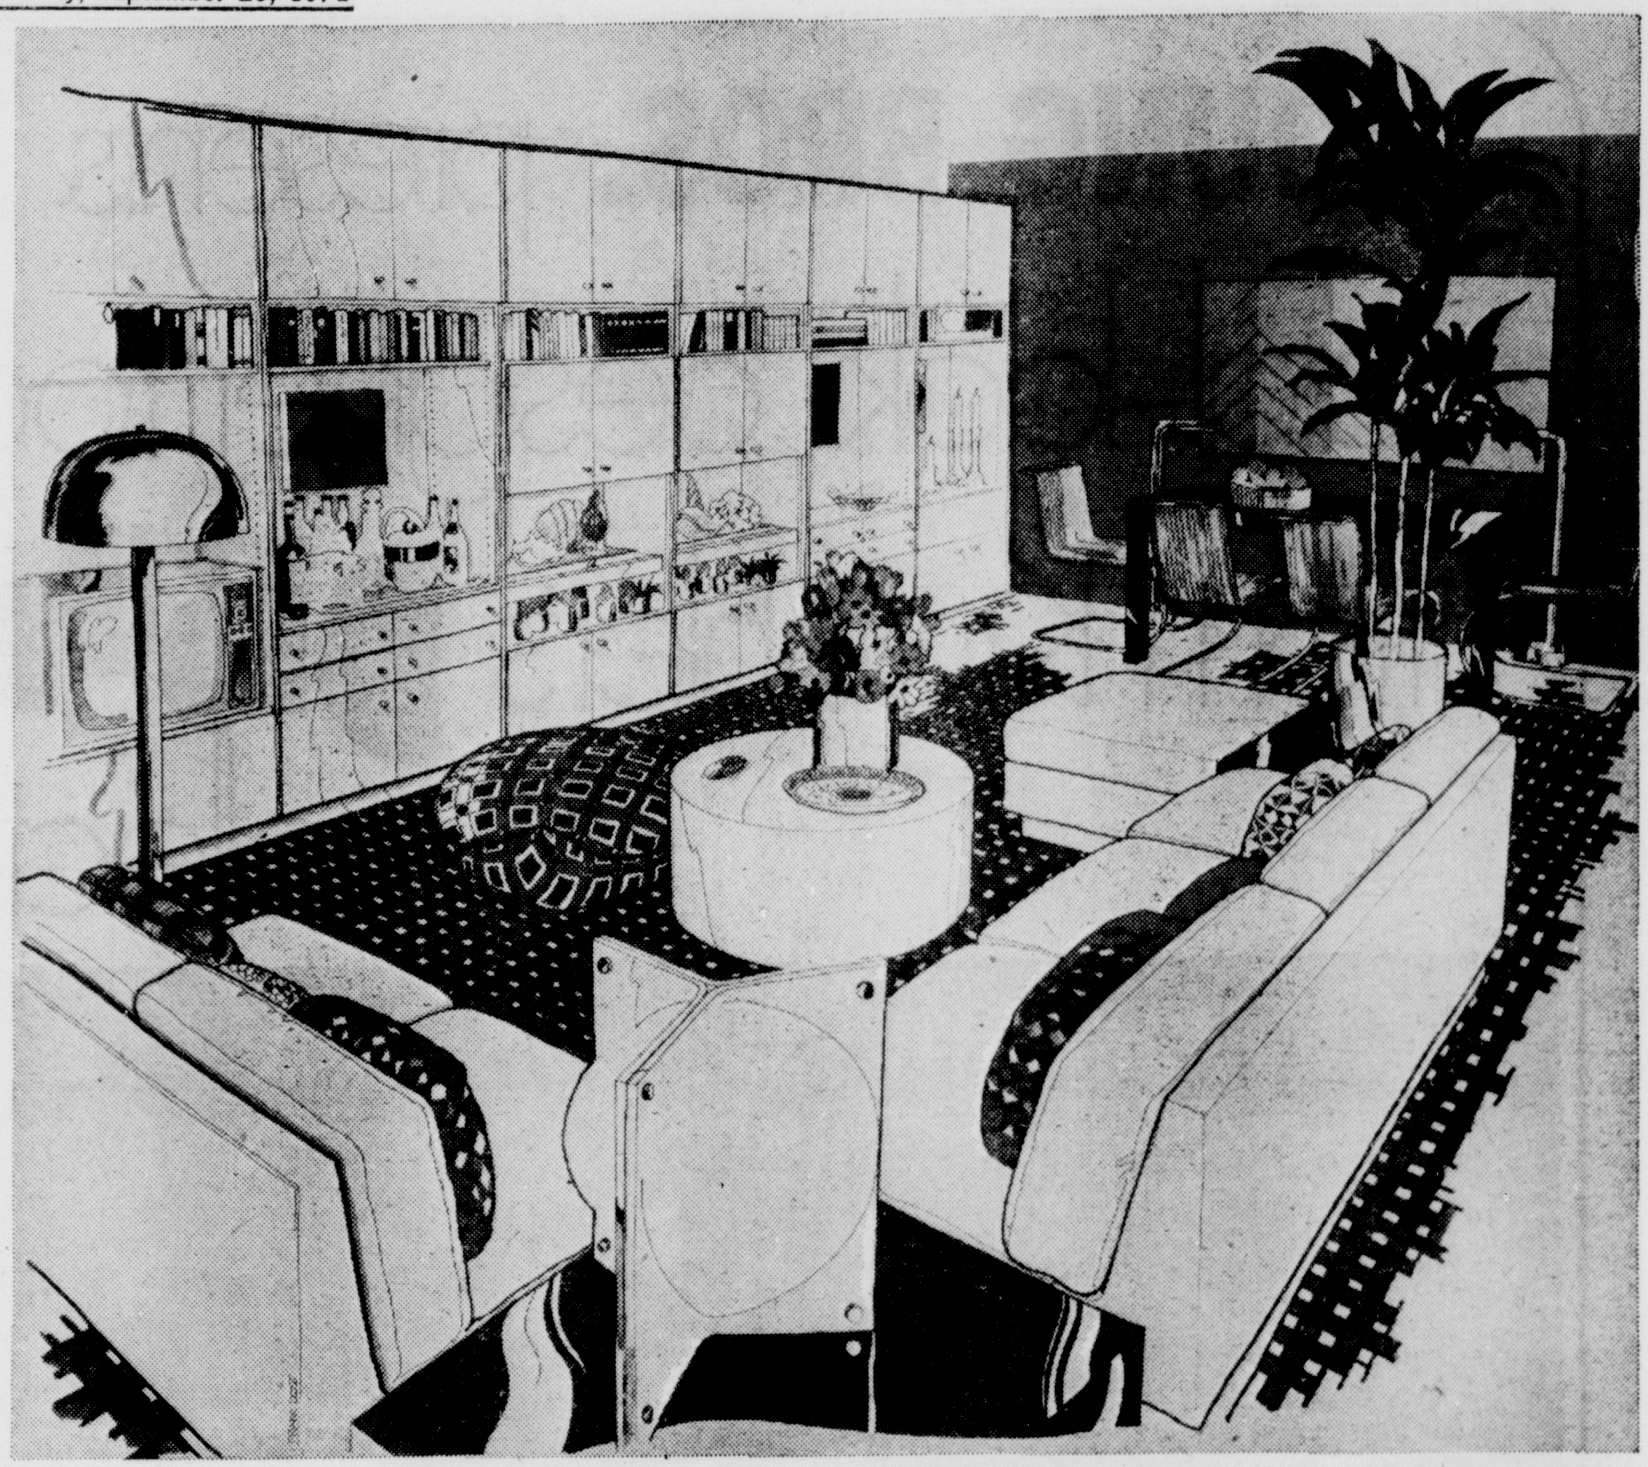
Most people can determine what their needs will be very easily. Not as many can visualize how they would like a room to look. You can learn in detail by studying the room settings in good home furnishings stores, and in the home fashions pages of newspapers and magazines.

When you see a setting that you respond to, ask yourself why. First, what is the total atmosphere: light and cheerful, formal and gracious, casual and inviting, dramatic and different?

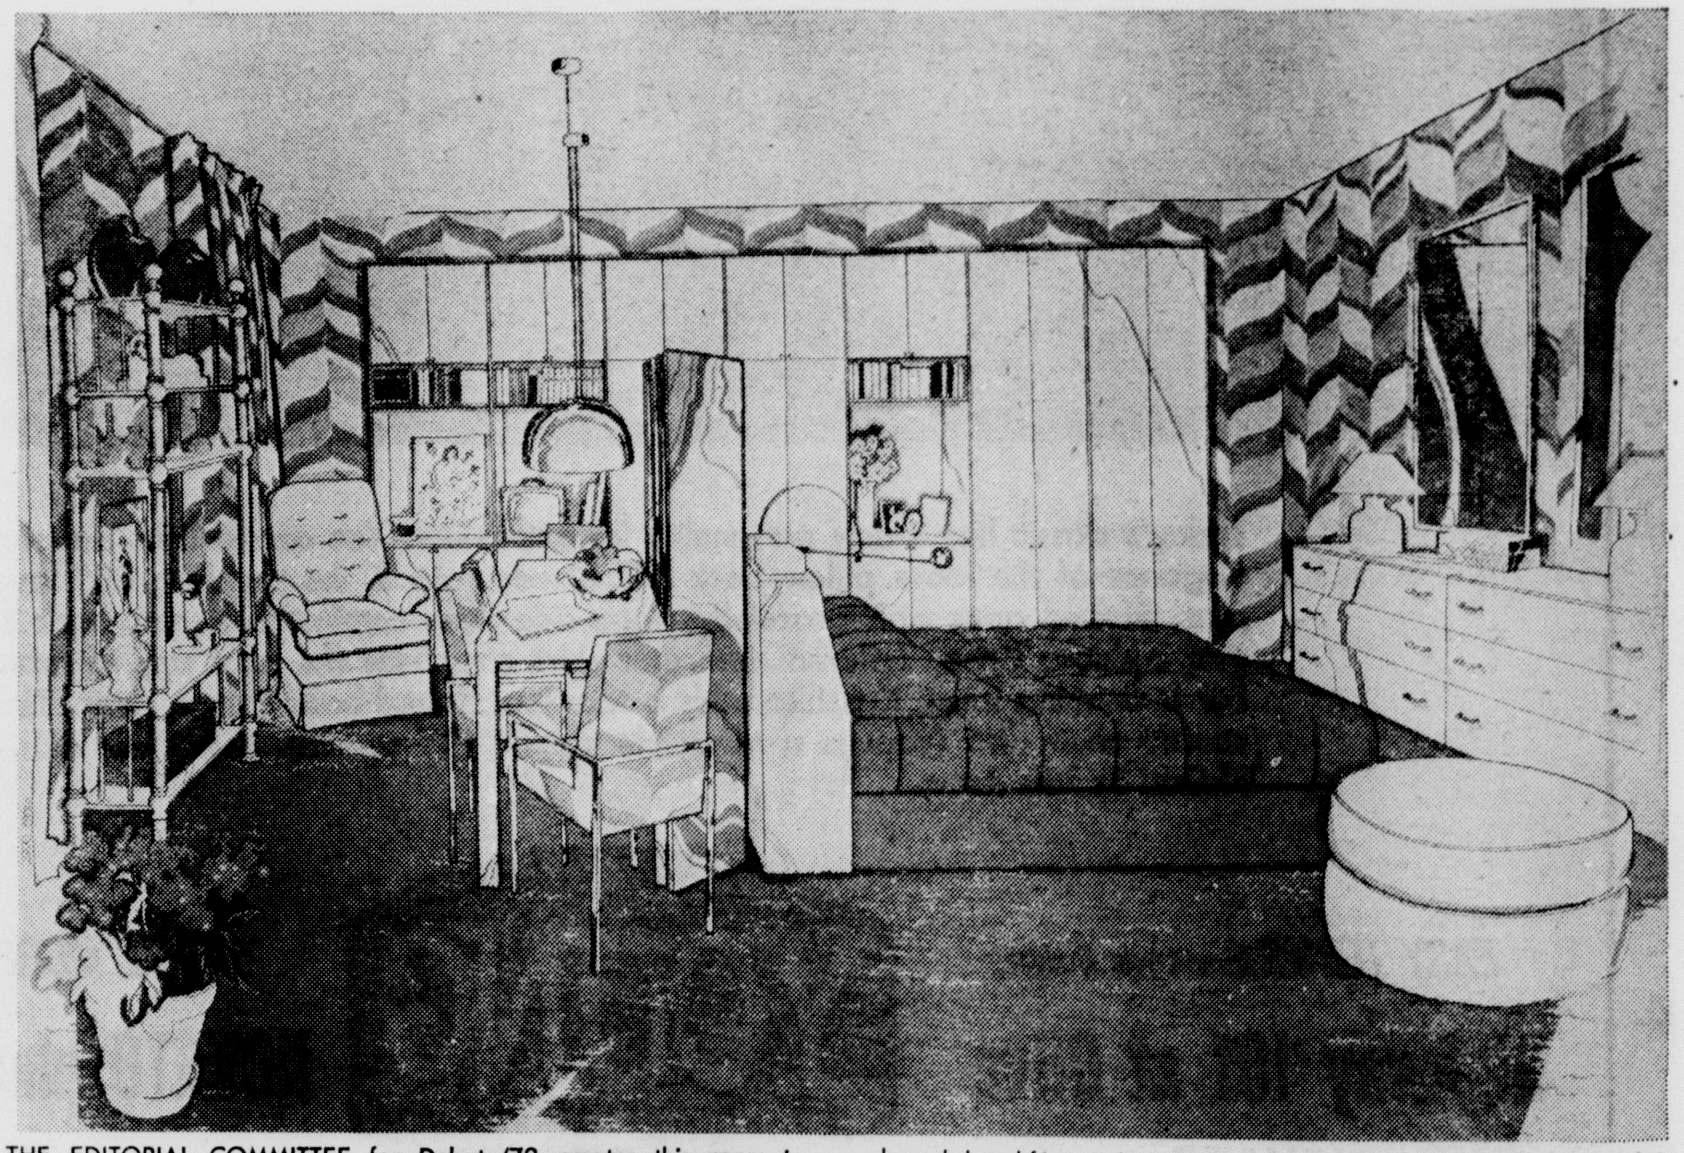
BUT DON'T stop there. Analyze each element in the room in terms of size, color, finish, texture, placement. Ask yourself what any particular item does to the total picture. Does the texture of the rug enhance the smooth velvet on the chair? Does the bookcase provide a balance for the sofa on the other wall? Would the chair and table make as pleasing a grouping without the floor lamp?

You will undoubtedly discover that everything has been placed in the setting in relationship to all things around it, much as you would evaluate the relationship of colors when painting, or composition when taking a photograph. This is not unlike the way you would buy a costume.

That is purely and simply what total decorating is all about. It is by far the most practical, and the most rewarding approach to use.



FOR NEWLYWEDS beginning their married lives in a studio apartment, or for live-alones, multi-purpose furnishings can be a savior. Here the living area has been planned for multiple use, including entertaining that can be so important to the social lives of a young couple. The furniture was selected for its sleek, contemporary use, chosen for its adaptability, so that it can be used in a larger home when the couple moves to new quarters. Note particularly the generous storage for both funcitonal and ornamental objects made available by the modular wall unit. Such storage is too often lacking in the apartment. The bold color and pattern scheme complements the youthful spirits of the occupants.



THE EDITORIAL COMMITTEE for Debut '72 creates this room to illustrate the living bedroom concept for "home-free-agains" — the parents whose children have now gone off to school or gotten married. The room is designed to serve not only as a bedroom, but also as a retreat, study and sitting room. It offers privacy and serenity as it incorporates a sleeping area, storage wall, study-brunch-breakfast-sewing area, collection display and recliner into the space of one room. Living bedrooms are also popular with parents whose offspring have taken over the rest of the house, leaving them without a place to pursue their own hobbies and interests. This room is a whimsical, sunny yellow. But a warmer, gracious color could be used with equal effectiveness.

We're not quite settled yet . . . but we're opening anyway

. . . you know how it is, getting settled in a new area. So much to do! We had hoped to have everything perfect for the opening of Debut '72. We've painted, primped and fussed, and there's still so much to do. Our Design Staff has created a whole gallery of exquisitely furnished and accessorized room settings for you to admire, browse in, learn from . . . even order, if you like . . . in whole or in part. Many are ready, and beautiful we think . . . like the Country French room, complete with parquet brick floor and tiled hearth. Or the Chinese Chippendale setting with its magnificent Chinoiserie secretary . . . or the Contemporary Suite, sparkling with chrome and glass, warmed with suede and natural cork. There's much much more. Our staff is working even as we go to press. And, even if our ladders and levels show a bit when you come in, we think you'd like to get a sneak preview of the special kind of store we plan to be. A store of brand names and custom quality. A store of far-reaching ideas and fair prices. A store of service. A store for everyone. Come in Sunday, noon to five. We'll trade coffee & compliments.

EARLY AMERICAN furnishings have given this bedroom an air of elegance and relaxation. The setting was designed by Carole Frankel.

Know Your Styles, But Pick Freely

Quality and personal preference should be the guidelines for anyone about to decorate or redecorate her home.

The battle pitch between the traditionalists and the modern buffs will go on forever. Don't let it mislead or confuse you. You must base your selection of furnishings on suitability to your life style, your budget, and your own creative tastes.

Since your home is your personal domain, don't fool around with anything that doesn't strongly appeal to you. In the words of the young "Do your own thing."

Debut '72, the nationwide home furnishings event which is being promoted locally by 10 Marin retailers Sunday through Oct. 9, offers you the unique opportunity to see and hear about the newest product of the home furnishings industry.

EVERY AREA will be covered, from furniture, right down to accessories. Coordination of the various elements that make up a room will be stressed, not to suggest stereotyped interiors, but to provide ideas hat you can interpret in your own fashion.

Today's manufacturer of furniture is well aware of your space limitations. Long-time traditional and Early American favorites have been scaled down to fit into smaller room areas. Flexibility and multifunctioning have become important design concepts.

New introductions include all sorts of horizontal and vertical systems which make walls play an integral part of the room. You will find an endless variety of bunching chests, etageres, dividers, hanging units, tall chinas, armoires, etc., all of which provide more living in the same space.

While wood will, of course, continue to be the primary material for the production of furniture, most manufacturers are researching and developing products of plastics, which simulate as well as stand on their own virtues. Quality, ease of maintenance, and design vitality have become production criteria.

FUNCTION, OF course, is basic. But don't let it be the "Be-all, end-all" of your planning. Advance thinking-through of your floor plan will help to make each of your rooms serve its purposes with convenience and comfort while sparking your own innovative freedom.

Most people start their decorating plan by selecting a furniture style. Major styles are:

EARLY AMERICAN: A design bounty from America's early settlers, with warmth, informality and rugged construction. Woods are usually maple, pine or cherry.

PROVINCIAL: Delicate, yet rustic styles of European inspiration which can veer towards Early American informality or more formal traditional pieces.

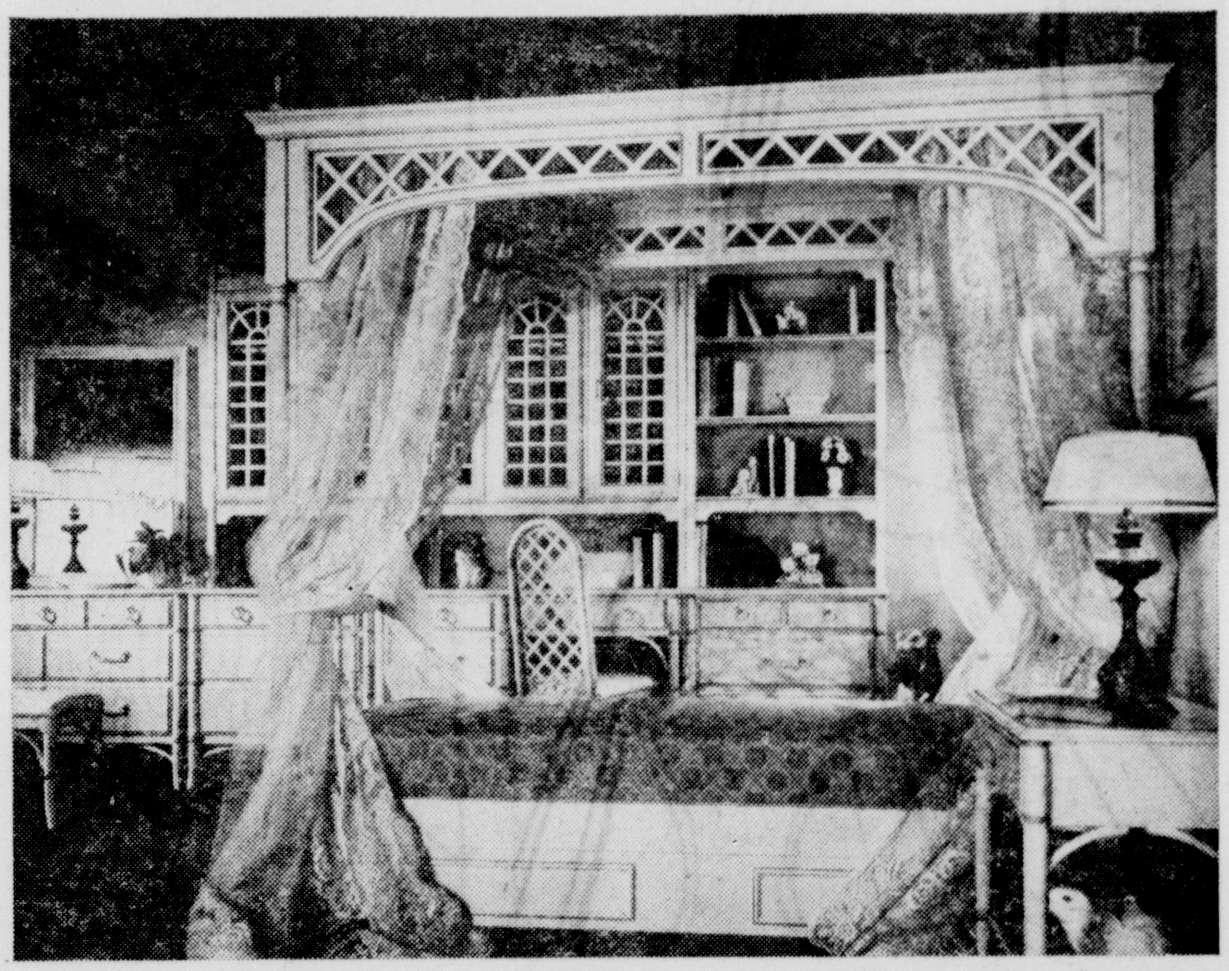
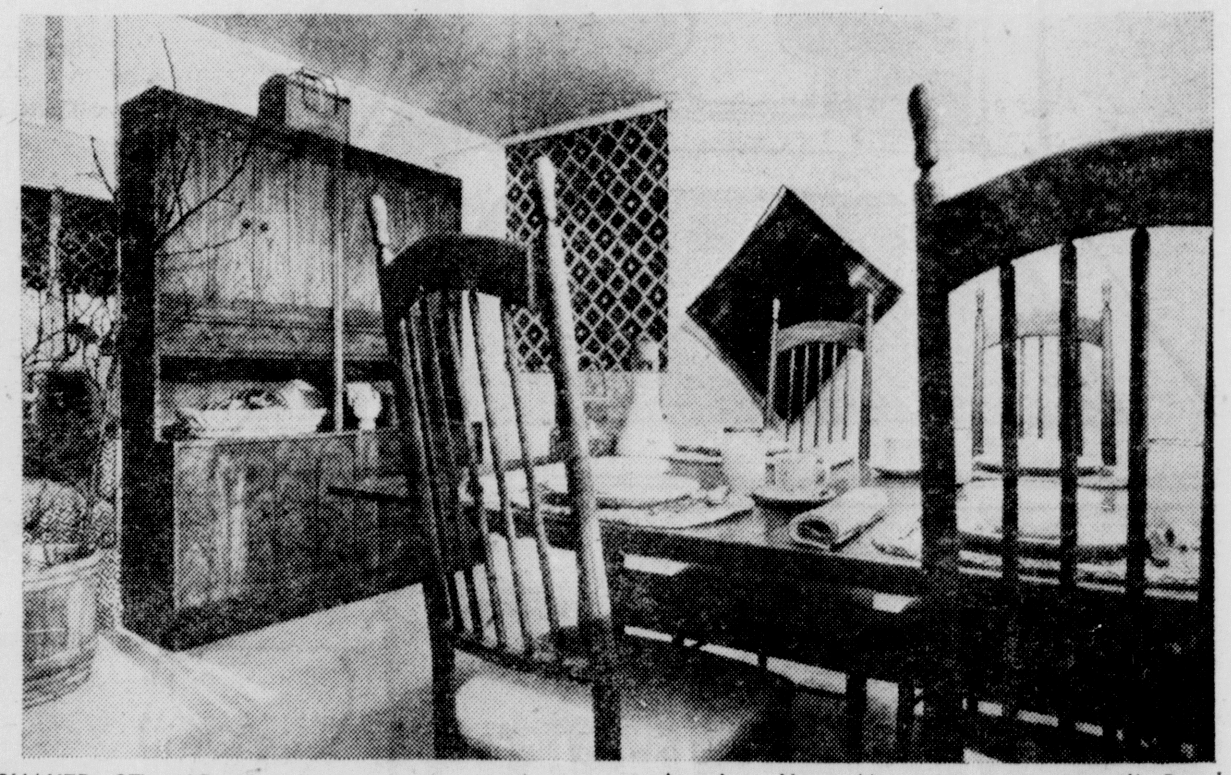
ECLECTIC: A typically American trend, which allows complete freedom of selection of various pieces, combining them with a blithes, personal spirit.

THE CONTEMPORARY styling of this Thomasville collection, the Sans Sei, has been given an Oriental touch for added flair. Thus we have both the understated and graceful lines of contemporary design, and the ornamentation, particularly in the curving legs of platform bases and chairs, that are definitely in the tradition of the Far East.



THE BRIGHTON Collection, a Debut '72 introduction by Thomasville, was inspired by gay English resort furnishings. It comes in brushed off-white with green or pink trim, or brushed daffodil with white trim, and is especially suited for the teenager's room. The plastic tops minimize upkeep worries.



SHAKER STYLING is a particularly appealing version of Early American furniture as demonstrated in this dining room created for Debut '72 by American Home Magazine, using Drexel's Benchcraft group and a camel-colored, nylon-pile carpeting by Trend. The wall sculpture is by Susan Weitzman.

Furnishings That Fit Your Life Style

From The 'Nearlyweds' To The 'Home-Free-Agains'

The kind of home you have, its size or its magnificence, is of little importance. None of us require a vaulted temple for gracious living.

However, whatever it's like, our home becomes our castle and our refuge. Its atmosphere helps to mold and solifify family life, stabilize our day-to-day living habits, and develop for us a place of warmth and serenity.

Homes differ . . . and viva la difference. Some people require a cozy little nest, while others will create a home interior that is geared to a constant round of people and parties. Each of us has divergent views of how to use our home space, and often these views change as we progress from one life style to another.

DURING THE DEBUT '72 home fashions event, Sunday througgh Oct. 9, our Marin stores will gear environmental displays and promotional events to four progressive life styles: the "nearlyweds," the "newlyweds," the "on-the-way ups," and the "home-free agains."

Under the leadership of the Home Furnishings Council Inc., the home furnishings industry (suppliers, wholesalers, manufacturers, and retailers) has banded together to visually demonstrate the important contribution interior furnishings can make to one's well-being.

In today's world, the "nearlyweds" have more money to spend than any other generation before them.

While many young girls no longer have hope chests, per se, they are formulating their tastes, evaluating their desires, and purchasing items that can be used in their future homes. No longer is the furnishing choice left solely in the hands of the girl. It is a combined effort of the couple.

FOR THIS GROUP, Debut '72 displays will be invaluable, since they will cover all styles of furnishings and mixes, an will run the gamut of prices, proving that attractive interiors can fit into any budget formula.

"Newlyweds" will number 2,250,000 in 1971. Many will purchase basic items before the wedding and continue to add to these during the next several years. Since both partners will probably be working, this couple will be seeking products that require little upkeep and care.

Because of their dual incomes, they will be in a position to make major purchases that will continue to be used during their lifetime.

"On-the-way-ups" are usually in the midst of child-rearing. Their homes change to meet the needs of a growing family . . . more space, more equipment, more long-wearing and easily maintained products, to free mother from morning till night chores.

THIS YEAR WILL be a big one for the "home-free-agains." It will mark the Silver Anniversary year of those married in 1946, the biggest wedding year we ever had.

With their children grown and having left the nest, many in this group will find their homes too large and filled with now, unused and obsolete furnishings. They are ready for a whole new life, geared to fulfilling their personal ambitions and desires.

Interior furnishings, patterned for modern life styles and living needs, are available now. Adaptability is a keynote factor in practically all home furnishings design concepts. Whether you're in the practicality-plus-style, stage; the grace and grandeur period, or the classic simplicity mood, Debut '72 will lead the way to new enjoyment of your home.

The home furnishings industry knows that today's consumer is far different than yesterday's. She is more creative, more imaginative, knows better quality and demands that she receive value for her dollar. With program such as Debut '72 and the ones to follow for the next five years, the industry will have much more direct communication with consumers across the country and will be able, more efficiently, to fulfill their requirements.

"ON-THE-WAY-UPS" with young, growing and active children need furniture that is sturdy and can stand a lot of use and abuse. This family group by Berkline fills those requirements, with an added resistance to staining. It includes a recliner in which dad can tilt to television-watching position or shift full-out for a nap. The chair at right is the recliner, covered to match the rest of the group in palomino poromeric. Buckled straps of the chairs, sofa and love seat are repeated as trim for the lamps. And these, with tables, complete the Berklin assemblage. The simple window treatment is a no-care idea — fabric panels installed on suction rods for easy removal for laundering. High-up plants do require some attention, but, say homemakers, are worth the effort because of the freshness they lend to the atmosphere. Over tile floors, easily maintained, there's a rya rug to tie colors and furnishings together.

Living Space Counts

Do You Get Best Use Out Of The Room?

Scientists remind us daily of our shrinking spaces. Nobody knows the facts more intimately than today's homemaker.

She is the real 20th Century space expert, juggling an ever increasing assortment of people, things and activities in a limited amount of living space, called home.

The space age technique for this miraculous feat is to look at our living spaces from a new point of view. Examine them less as separate rooms marked "bedroom" or "kitchen," but rather as living spaces for people.

Ignore a room's official name, and evaluate the amount of actual living available in each area. Are there spaces for togetherness, and privacy? Spaces for eating in a variety of moments and moods? Spaces for hobbies, work, entertaining? Is there, for example, a favorite family hobby crammed into a closet or corner of the basement while a dining room sit useless the majority of th time?

HERE'S A 24-HOUR dining room, geared for around-the-clock livability. Flair's Debut '72 dining-plus room puts versatile furniture to work to create an area for dining, games, social correspondence, reading and relaxing. One multi-use piece, the game table, has a flip top that opens to double the table-top space and make sufficient space for a dinner for six. The bench, ottoman and desk chair all can fill in as extra at-the-table seating. Along the wall are ceiling-high storage units that can house all the accessories of family fun and relaxation.

Bedrooms and dining rooms tend to be the biggest wastelands.

A dining room can be the children's study area, a contemporary version of the library, a greenhouse for an indoor gardener. Properly thought out, it can even be the guest room.

THE BEDROOM offers even greater versatility because you can close the door on cluttering hobbies, without feeling the need to explain to unexpected guests.

Think of a bed standing away from the wall, with the back panel of a room divider acting as a headboard. The "room side" of the divider is a bookcase, a desk or sewing surface, a television cabinet or other interest center. For a more convention look, leave the bed against the wall and use a wall system which will offer bookcases, working surfaces, as well as chests of drawers which eliminate the need for space consuming dressers.

If in reviewing your home, you find that some of your valuable living space is locked into a single function . . . a costly luxury today . . . think of your activities and interests that need better or more convenient accommodation. This is known as decorating for your life style.

CHANCES ARE that restricted function in a given area is the result of single purpose furniture . . . a large dining table that will not adapt to any other function, perhaps, or a huge triple dresser that is strictly dresser and ignores the wall space above it.

After your living spaces tour, take another walk, this one through a Marin home furnishing store. Ask to see the multi-purpose furniture. You'll discover a new world of super-engineered furniture . . . interchangeable, rearrangeable, versatile and functional.

There are wall systems that offer storage space for everything from a cassette player to shirts and socks, that not only replace the buffet and china, but provide a dining table as well. File cabinets become night stands. Hassocks double as storage units. Chairs which serve as beds by night. Chairs that stack. Game tables which double in size to serve dinner for eight. Dining tables that drop down from wall storage to also double as desks.

THE LIST is endless.

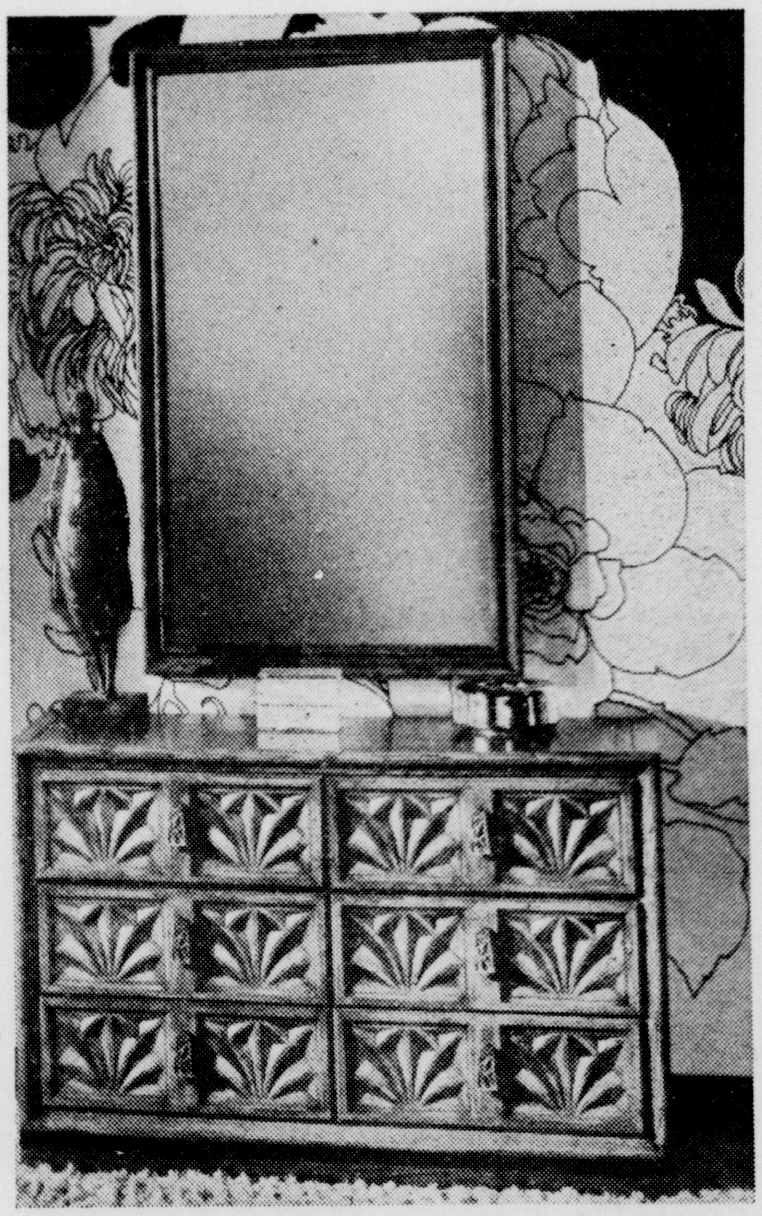
The multi-purpose marvels are your greatest allies in the battle against diminishing spaces. They can help you convert mere rooms into living spaces.



FLEXIBLE FURNITURE such as this dresser and mirror from the Spindrift Collection by Kenlea Division of Lea Industries can be used in any room of the house. It fits perfectly in bedroom, foyer, or even dining or living room. With a slightly primitive look, the pecan case features drawer fronts in a leafy jungle pattern.

THIS BEDROOM HAS been made into a hideaway villa in a Spanish mood with furniture and do-it-yourself ideas that let you work, study, sit or sleep, all in one room. The elegant furniture in a royal gold oak tone is from the Castillian III Group by Gracemark Division of Lea Industries. Both the combination bookcase and desk and the screen that divides sleeping and seating areas are easy for do-it-yourselfers to put together. All is done in warm, earthy colors. It is part of Lea Industries' Debut '72 presentation of innovative room setting.

The Child Can Learn From His Home

A Room Can Spur His Appreciation Of Beauty

Love and acceptance are unquestionably the best "furnishings" for a child's room, be it simple or showcase.

Yet this home — the child's center of the universe — includes its furnishings, and they are part of all the things that say home to him. It only follows that they can work with or against the more important emotional climate in the home.

Most young parents think of durability, guard rails for bunk beds, rounded edges for safety, and whether the furnishings are appropriate for a little boy or girl.

FURNISHINGS can help parents in teaching responsibility and sharing. They can be part of the child's first knowledge of color, form and artistic appreciation. The child who grows up in a setting that is deeply meaningful to him will thereafter treat any environment with love and respect.

On the other hand, a child who grows up in an environment that has no pleasant or personal meaning, cannot be expected to care about any environment anywhere, later in life.

Creating a home for the family's enrichment is not merely the selection of good furnishings. One of the first considerations is not to make a child feel like an intruder in his parent's well-ordered house, among their treasured possessions.

If he is taught to appreciate and respect these possessions, and feel they are part of his world, he has learned an important lesson.

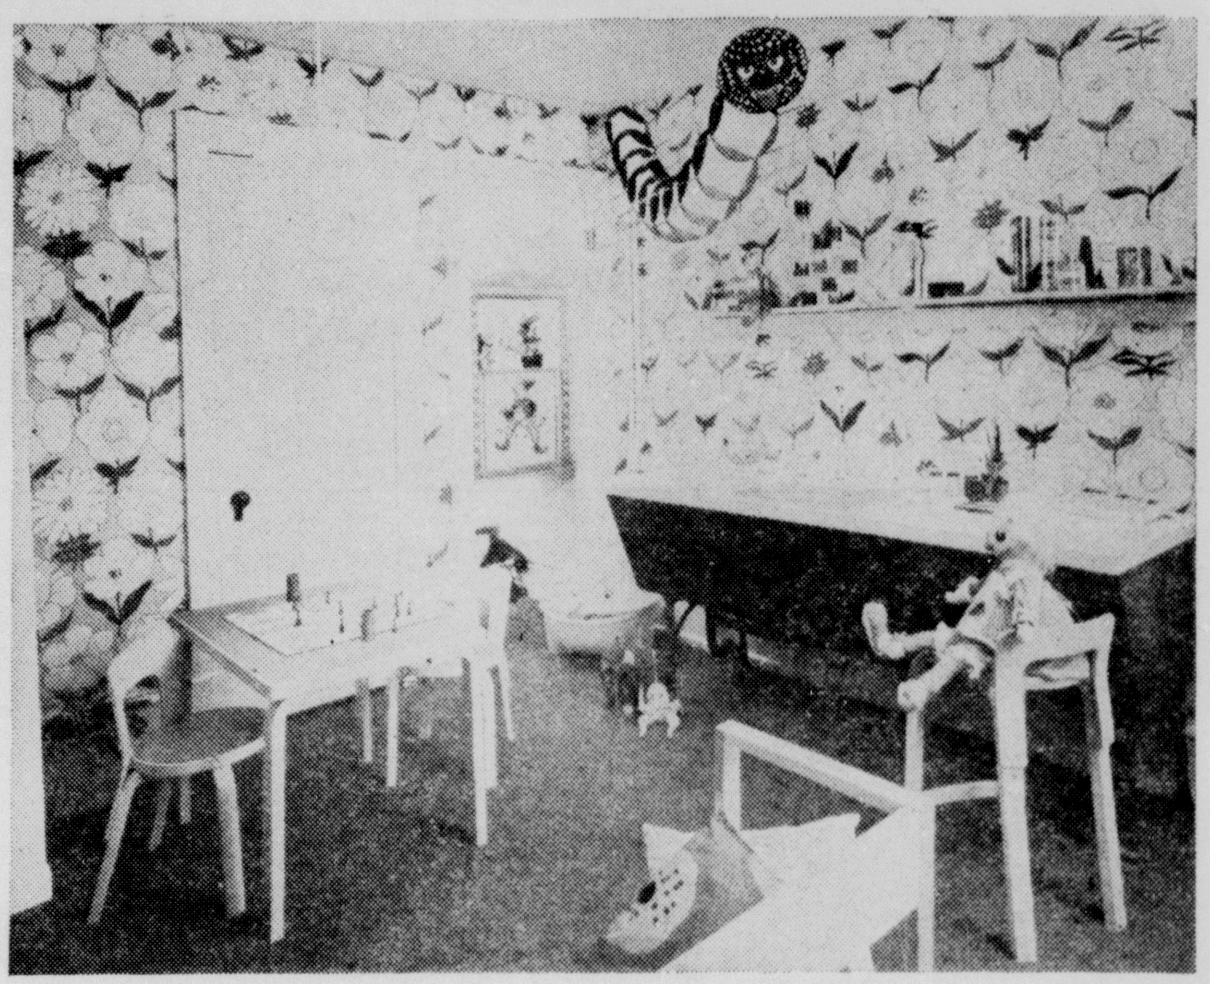
In furnishing a home for children, allow the space for a child to grow as he does. A newborn likes rather confined areas. As he begins to explore, he needs an unprohibited play area. When his interests widen, and possessions accumulate, his space needs continue to grow. And with them, his emotional needs. He usually becomes fiercely possessive about those things that belong to him and needs an area that is marked exclusively his, even if it's only a corner or a storage chest.

This can be a time when interest in things of beauty or good books can be introduced, and take their place in the prized possessions, along with the rabbit's foot and yoyo.

During the teen-age period, the child seeks and needs privacy. It may not be possible for each child to have a private room, but there should be private areas. These can often be achieved with a room divider, a personal desk, or a chest with a lock on it.

THE SOLUTION to the need for privacy offers an opportunity to teach the understanding for everyone's need for it.



BEFORE DESIGNER Kate Gaydos went to work on this room, it was an eyesore with cracked walls, peeling floor tiles, a single light bulb dangling from a cord, and hand-me-down furniture. She transformed it into a delightful, well-lit, airy playroom of which any child would be proud. And what were once wash tubs for a laundry room have become a useful part of the decor. Miss Gaydos started with Topside, the Lees indoor-outdoor carpet, for the floor, and repeated its grass green color along with red, white, blue and yellow in the wallpaper. The carpeting wipes clean and stands up to the hardest wear. The rest of the "furnishings" and games strike the whimsical note preferred by tykes.

The point is not a matter of furnishing a picture-book home. The most professionally designed house is not necessarily a home. However, a thoughtfully furnished home on any budget, can play an integral part in creating a healthy environment for the developing child. That child, having had a respect for his needs, will learn respect for others, will understand sharing, will know the real value of possessions.

Trained early in life to appreciate beauty, it will become a necessity, not a luxury.

Home Lighting Can Be Much More Than Decorative

No matter what room in your home you are thinking about, lighting is an essential part of the overall concept. It can optically lengthen a room or give it height. It can emphasize or diminsh, as you prefer.

It should never be considered as an after-thought. Rather, lighting should be planned to fit with the style, furnishings and spirit of a room.

AS PART of the Debut '72 nation-wide home furnishings event, you'll have the chance to see the latest innovations in home lighting, via room settings and vignettes at our participating Marin retail stores. Placed in a coordinated environment, lamps and lighting fixtures will take on a new meaning to you and will help you visualize how they might look in your own home.

Ceiling fixtures come in infinite variety — pull-down; recessed; spot-light, etc. Wall fixtures, back in popularity, run the design gamut.

Floor lamps, which provide a vertical element, have arms that swing, shades that swivel. Table lamps are big and small, fashioned from all available materials — ceramics, plastics, wood, metal, etc.

In addition, there is, of course, built-in lighting which contributes mightily to a home's total unity.

HERE ARE SOME general suggestions for suitable lighting for various areas in the home:

Entrance: Ceiling or wall fixture lighting

Dining Room: Light directed downward to table.

Kitchen: Lighting directed onto work centers.

Bathroom: Shadowless lighting near the mirror.

Bedrooms: Direct and indirect lighting to suit multi-needs of reading in bed; dressing; desk work, etc.

Halls: Overall ceiling lighting.

Stairways: Downward lighting to avoid accidents.

LIGHTING SHOULD always be functional as well as decorative. No matter how attractive the effect may seem, if a lamp is too dim or too glaring, it just doesn't fulfill the need.

When positioning a table or floor lamp be sure that the bottom of the lamp shade is at eye level for the person using the lamp. In working areas, place your lamp to avoid shadows. Wall fixtures with incandescent bulbs should be placed about 66 inches above the floor.

Check the lampshades, too. An opaque one is good for reading, while a transluscent shade is better for applying makeup.

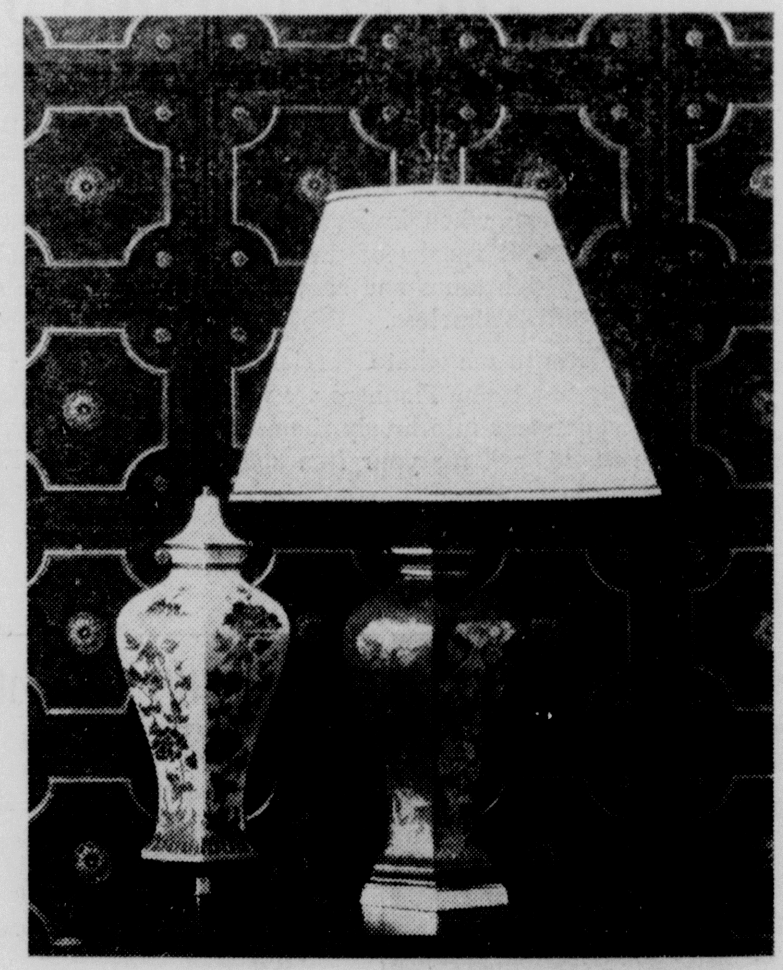
Wall colors are important when considering the effects of lighting. Light colored walls and ceilings will reflect, while deeper, darker tones do not have good reflective qualities.

Colored illumination makes a difference in a room, too. White light shows colors as they are. Warm light brightens warm colors, deadens blues and purples. Cool light has a tendency to separate objects from each other.

As with other elements of furnishings lighting can set up a pattern of design, which can run through the entire home.

Light can be employed to create an atmosphere. Bright light is stimulating. Softly diffused light will give a feeling of spaciousness. Low levels of brightness are restful and relaxing.

Spotlights can be used to dramatize a certain area to create a focal point of interest in a room.



THE RICHNESS AND beauty of Oriental antiquity highlights this new Phil-Mar Dynasty series table lamp from Thomas Industries Inc. Thirty-four inches tall, the lamp, with its four-sided ginger jar base, features a gold carnation design on a glazed olive, ebony or white jade base. Its 15-inch-high empire shade is of white textured fabric over translucent styrene. Another variation features a chromecoat shade matching the base.

AT RIGHT — NEARLYWEDS-NEWLYWEDS. Gracious dining begins with the dining table. Around this table go the chairs which lend individuality and charm to the dining area. This beautiful, but compact, drop leaf table is intimate for two and gracious for four. The rocking loveseat and chair adds charm and comfort. The space required — next to none! Perfectly scaled pieces to fit any Nearlywed or Newlyweds first apartment. Storage problem? The corner china uses space that always went to waste.

BELOW — On The Way Ups. Candlelight Pine heightens your sense of history and inspires nostalgia for America's Colonial past. It was an honorable time, when devoted craftsmen labored with love over each and every piece of furniture. Wood, one of the noblest materials known to man, was shaped and finished with reverence. Nothing was hurried. True to such tradition, Williams' dining room designs are worked in pine solids and veneers combined with cabinet hardwoods, both solids and veneers, and treated to a warm candlelight finish. There is a strong sense of today in this furniture scale and engineering. And yet as a collection, its communion with the past is clear.

Young Republic by Tell City

Candlelight Pine

AT RIGHT — HOME-FREES. French kings held court in their opulent boudoirs. Winston Churchill, smoking his breakfast cigar, conducted cabinet meetings from his bed during the war. Matisse sketched, Puccini composed, Mark Twain wrote — all in bed. One day Samuel Johnson advised young men "that nobody who does not rise early will ever do any good." He then proceeded to announce that he himself never got out of bed before noon. Pennsylvania House knows that bedrooms are special places. That's why their bedroom pieces convey a special warmth and intimacy. You'll be able to choose between formal and casual styling with all patterns faithfully recreating motifs of the American Traditional period.

Beauty Begins With Design Mastery . . . as in BENCHCRAFT

by Drexel

AT LEFT — The Shaker craftsmen who made furniture like this sought perfection. Beauty was a happy by-product! Now, Drexel brings this Shaker philosophy to life again, in a collection any connoisseur would be proud to own. Splendid shapes created a century and a half ago, with a self-sufficient grace that couldn't be more contemporary. With the warmth of woods in sturdy pecan solids, pecky pecan and figured pecan veneers. Choose the glow of fruitwood or selected pieces in warm country colors of blue, red, green and spice. All tops are super-finished for stain resistance. See this newest Drexel collection for living, dining and bedrooms. Big news, too, for the budget-conscious homemakers!

BELOW — The simplicity, the serenity, the deep sense of feeling for the natural qualities of wood make this Henredon collection of bedroom furniture a superb mixer with any period. Mandalay is crafted of solid mahogany and walnut veneer. The rich patinas of its Tokay and Imperial finishes make it as good looking as it is enduring. It's scrupulous detailing and exquisite metal work are a far cry from cliche' ornamentation. Mandalay is a most fitting match for contemporary as well as traditional homes because it is itself an elegant expression of these two worlds.

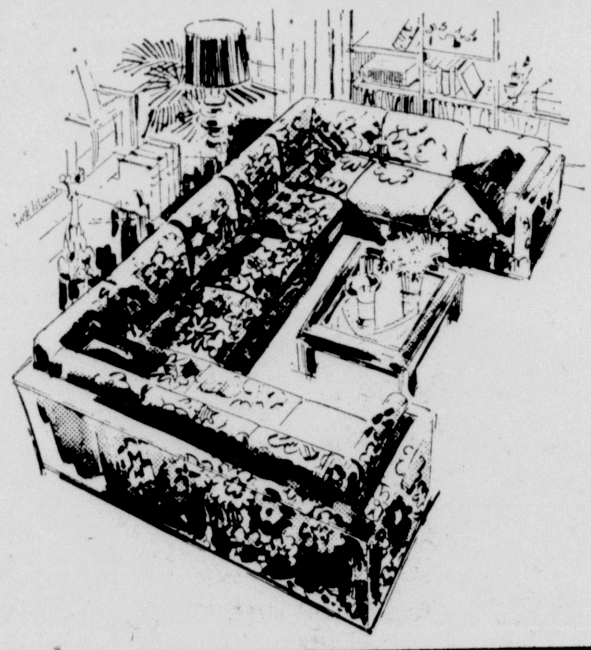
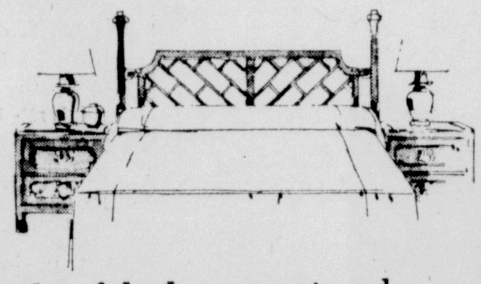
Do You Really Know What A Beautiful Sectional Can Do For Your Home And For You?





AT LEFT — This fabulous sectional we show here can be used in unlimited combinations, so that it can go around corners, kitter out on an angle, or from a wall, "change partners" and do everything but move itself. It is available in subtle comfortable patterns . . . in sassy bright, warm colors that light dark rooms . . . in luscious, luxurious velvets . . . or in cooling blue green tones. These fabrics are practical, all of them, and have been chosen to set a woman's desire on "warm and rising."

Accent Pieces Give A Home An Added Decorative Sparkle

Don't let the finishing touches in your room be the tag end of your decorating budget.

These accents, which fall intc two categories . . . decorative or functional . . . shouldn't be selected as after-thoughts. Rather, they should be considered at the very start of your planning and be in complete harmony with your total decorating concept.

Today, as never before, there are more well executed accent notes for the home . . . at every price level. Often seemingly small, accessories can pack a powerful "pow." To get a first-hand view of how accessories can spark a room, you'll want to visit your local retail stores during the Debut '72 promotion, Sunday through Oct. 9. Complete room settings and vignettes will be displayed, themed to the "Total Environment."

WALLS ARE the biggest area in the room for accessories, which can be elaborately done or decoratively stark, depending upon the theme you've selected. Pictures, of course, are basic. They can provide motion, form, and color to an interior.

Reactions to pictures are highly personal, so select completely in accordance with what appeals most to you. Styles and periods of pictures can be matched or mixed. One of the best ways to plan a grouping is to set each on the floor below the wall and play with them until you've found the most appealing arrangement.

You will have to decide whether your pictures will be originals or reproductions. Today's art explosion makes it feasible to find good originals from unknown artists at moderate prices. Prints, encompassing lithographs or etchings, are also another way to inexpensively own original art.

Mirrors combine decorativeness with function. They can create a feeling of spaciousness and depth. They are especially useful in entranceways, where they can be utilized for last-minute checkpups before leaving the house. Framing of mirrors should, of course, be selected to be in harmony with other aspects of furnishings.

Wall hangings can be tapestries, Oriental screens, area rugs, etc. Decorative hanging shelves spaced on wall to pinpoint a special collection of figurines or hobby objects, can also prove to be an interesting addition to a room.

Wall arrangements can be done either symmetrically or asymmetrically. More formal in feeling, the symmetrical arrangement is achieved by equal distribution of size and weight. Asymmetrical arrangements require careful planning and placement, combining both large and small objects.

COLORS PLAYS its role in accessories, just as it does in all elements of a room. Use color in your accents to blend other room furnishings or to spice and contrast.

When placing your accessories about the room . . . on mantel, tables, in cabinets, etc., be careful not to give a cluttered effect. Most often you will find that a fine sculpture, a bowl of greenery, or a handsome floral arrangement can stand alone and be very beautiful.

THE HANDSOME furnishings of this Spanish-style dining room of a vacation home have been further enhanced by the lavish, yet tasteful, use of accent pieces. Not only wall art, but sculpture, flowers and plantings have been used with splendid effect. The rug that is the outstanding feature of the room is Karastan's classic Alexei design in bronze and blue. It is of all-wool pile with fringe. And it adds a touch of brightness that is heightened by the use of greenery and art objects that makes the dignity of the furniture itself all the more impressive.

Treat Your 'Fifth Wall' With Care

Choice Of Floor Covering Is An Important Decision

The floor has been called the "fifth wall," and when viewed from this standpoint its treatment is generally more decorative.

Since floor covering is a major investment, it is important to select one that not only fits your life style but one which will please your eye for a long period of time.

Wall-to-wall provides the look of spaciousness and is especially good for small or "cut-up" areas. It wears best if the furniture can be re-arranged occasionally to change the "high traffic" areas.

Intense colors can offer vitality to a room for long periods of time, and have less tendency to become drab looking in soot-filled city apartments. Neutral colors, on the other hand, provide a background for colorful furnishings and a change in color scheme.

A room-sized rug will be less expensive, generally, since there will be no installation charges, and it can be turned periodically to equalize wear. It is a wise selection for the "transient" type as it is easily moved.

AREA RUGS are the new decorating pets. Bright in color and packed with design excitement, they are economical, functional and portable. They easily define living areas, can create a focal point, and even be hung on the wall.

Homemakers of the 1970s are offered, as never before, the most varied and comprehensive line-up for selection of fibers, colors, constructions and price ranges.

EACH FIBER has its own properties and price range, which make it more satisfactory for certain uses. Check this capsule rundown:

Wool: Vital quality of appearance retention. Highly resistant to soiling and abrasion. Wearability is good to excellent, depending upon price, which can go from $8 to $30 per square yard.

Nylon: Excellent color ranges, with depth and clarity. High resistance to abrasion. Easily cleaned, but more readily soiled. Priced according to quality, from $6 to $15 per square yard.

Acrylics and modacrylics: High fashion carpets. Dense, wool-like hand. Cleans easily. Good resistance, wearability depends upon quality, with pricing going from approximately $8 to $15 per square yard.

Polyester: High durability, with look of wool. Resistance to water-borne stains. Good to excellent wear, depending upon construction and pricing, which ranges from approximately $9 to $15 per square yard.

Polypropylene Olefin: Outstanding stain-resistance due to its moisture-resistant feature. Fiber has ability to withstand all kinds of weather, moisture and most chemicals, making it practical for outdoor use as well as for kitchens and other heavily trafficked areas of the home. Using price as an indicator of wearability, the range goes from approximately $7 to $11 per square yard.

AS WELL AS the variety of fibers, you must also make a style selection. Use this guide to help:

Textured: Can be sculptured look with overall design for use with formal or semi-formal furnishings or casual random effect for more casual living.

ANY RUG OR carpet will feel more luxurious and will give better service if it is protected with a good quality padding. The padding adds comfort, quiet, and insulation. It also acts as a shock absorber, extending the life of the carpeting.

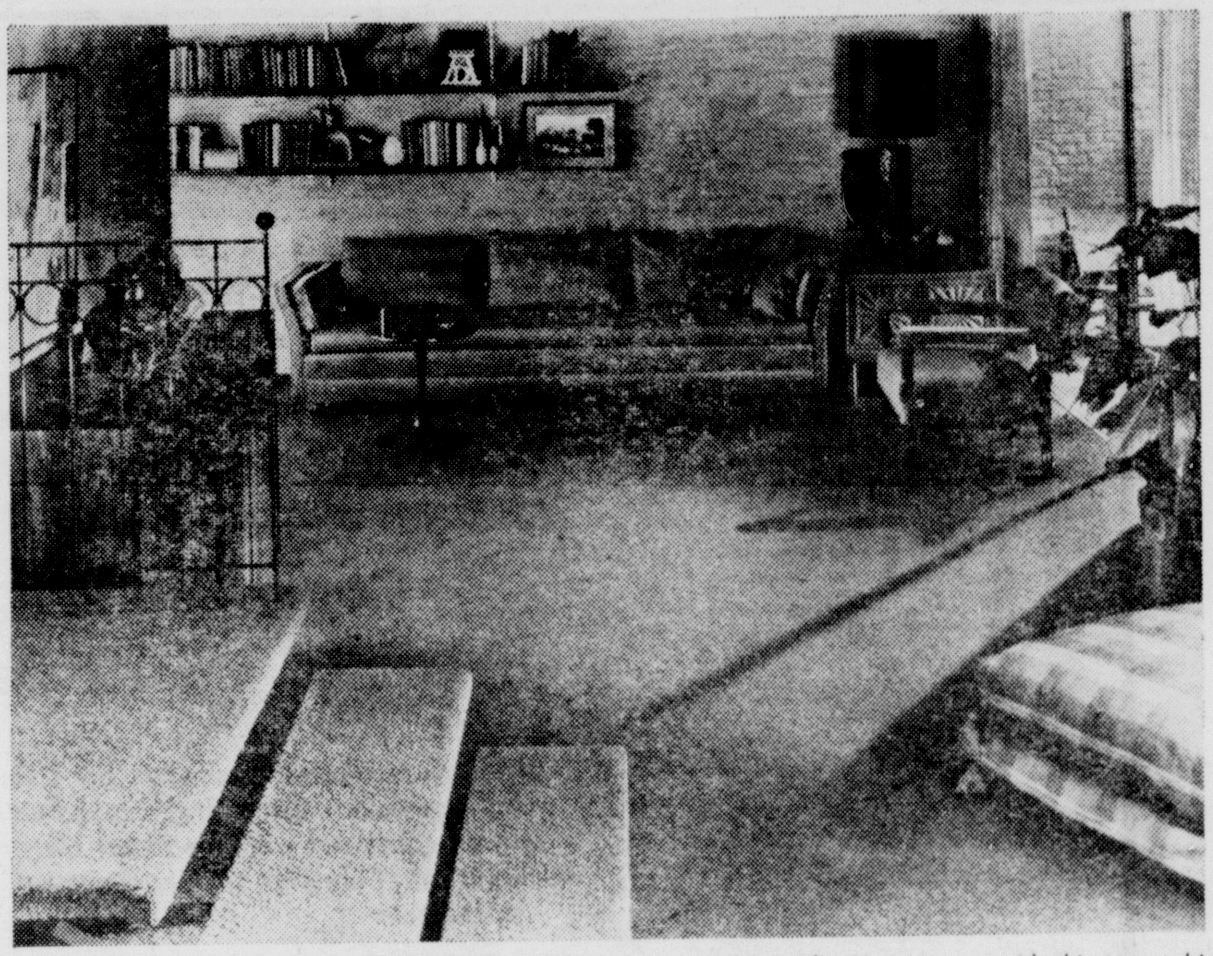
Regular care of carpets and rugs is a must to keep them looking their best. Daily carpet sweeping keeps dust and dirt from becoming imbedded. A thorough vacuuming at least once a week is required. Once a year, it's wise to have the carpet or rug cleaned by a reputable professional cleaner.

Even in the most organized of households, accidents do happen. If these accidents are taken care of immediately, they will not develop into major disasters. Stains and spots that are unattended will set into the carpet and become more difficult to remove.



IT'S NO SECRET that shag carpeting has mushroomed in popularity in the past five years until today every fourth carpet sold is shag. What will be the next carpet texture to capture America's fancy? Designer Milo Winter at Lees Carpets thinks a softer, more tailored look might be in the cards. He came up with this one, which Lees calls Live-a-Little, of high-bulk, resilient Acrilan acrylic yarns with a tip-sheared texture that stands the hardest wears and from which spots are easily removed. It is ideal for the living room of families with children.

Bedding: Select The Best For Your Rest

Probably of all the furnishings you buy for your home, bedding will be the first and one of the most important. Restful sleep is the regenerator of energies and good bedding equipment is the foundation for that restful sleep.

What type of bedding is best for you? The type that satisfies your idea of comfort.

Some folks prefer a hard mattress, others sleep better on a medium or soft mattress. Be sure you try the "stretch out" test in the store before you purchase.

AS YOU examine mattresses you will notice that each has an attached label which lists the materials used in construction. This is a federal law. Here are some of the listings you'll want to know about:

Innerspring mattresses are constructed either open-coil or pocketed coil. Open coil is created with units made of high-carbon wire. The heavier the gauge, the firmer the mattress. If coils touch each other, it will result in a noisy mattress. In a pocketed coil mattress, each spring is sewed into its own pocket of muslin. These strips of springs are then wound back and forth.

Padding is most often an all-cotton felt, sometimes with a layer of curled hairor foam added. Then there is insulating material which keeps the padding from working down and prevents feeling the coils.

Foam mattresses, which can be made of natural latex, foam rubber, or polyurethane have the denisty and firmness controlled in the manufacturing processes. Since foam mattresses do not collect dust, and are moth-and-mold proof, they are an excellent choice for anyone suffering from an allergy.

Outer fabric of mattresses has gained a whole new look with the past several years. Sturdy, firmly woven fabrics are a necessity, of course, but now they come in plaids, florals, in bright and beautiful colorings instead of the formerly staid striping.

IT'S ALWAYS best if you buy your mattresses and box spring at the same time, so you will know how they work together. When you lie on the mattress you'll find that your weight will depress the springs below.

A good box spring starts with a solid frame, and each row of springs should be supported by a slat. Spring count varies, since construction methods differ from the coil-over-coil to intricate tying methods. They are then covered by a good layer of insulation and durable fabric. Test the box spring by running your hand over it. You should not be able to feel the coils.

Size is highly important to restful sleep. A mattress should be at least six inches longer and comfortably wider than the person sleeping on the bed.

Fabrics Make The Mood For Your Living Room

Conjure up the vision of your living room with a spectacular multi-colored print, mixed well with vivid splashes of correlating plain colors in other areas, and you will readily understand why fabrics have sorcery powers which can magically change the mood of a room.

A veritable treasury of fibers and fabrics are yours for the buying, and it's a joy to see how much decorating a little money can buy.

Windows come to mind immediately when you think of fabrics. Just consider the leeway you have! You can buy yardage and make curtains and/or draperies yourself; you can have them custom-made; or you can buy ready-made treatments in a wide assortment of prints or plains. Upholstered furniture, of course, employs fabrics; and there are slipcovers, which give the chance for seasonal change.

Most of us are familiar with the world of natural fibers . . . wool, cotton, linen, silk and jute. But the overwhelming line-up of new man-made fibers, with a variety of trade names, will often seem bewildering. Check these staccato facts:

Acetate and Triacetate: Drapable, resists wrinkling. Takes brilliant dyes. Has excellent colorfastness. Hand-washable or dry-cleanable.

Polyester: Dyes well; easy to care for; resists stretching or shrinking.

Rayon: Easily dyed; has soft hand and good drapability.

Spandex: Soft and lightweight. Stretches up to 500 per cent without breaking.

The Cotswolds Charm Visitor

Roman Ruins, Quiet Inns Are Among Attractions

When the Romans wanted peace and quiet they headed for the English Cotswolds. Travelers still do.

The Romans subdued a tribe know as the Dubonni. Today, people come for the beautiful countryside with forests, farms, trout streams, old villages, market towns built with the local honey-colored stone, also cathedrals and abbeys, manors, coaching inns and antique stores.

Two towns are good bases for exploring this charming corner of England. First is Cirencester, 88 miles from London. It was originally the Dubonni-quelling fort, which grew into the Roman's administrative center of Corinium, today "capital of the Cotswolds."

THE TOWN'S Roman history is recorded in the Corinium Museum in Park Street — a fine collection of Roman mosaics, sculpture and antiquities. The Market Place is dominated by the 400-year-old church of St. John the Baptist, one of the outstanding examples of Perpendicular architecture, with an exquisite fan-vaulted chapel and a south porch that's unique in all England.

On the edge of town is one of those lordly gardens vast enough to be called a park without blushing. It's Cirencester Park, the 300-acre estate of Earl Bathurst, laid out with long avenues, ornamental buildings and "follies." Energetic visitors can walk right through the park to the village of Sapperton, about five miles away. On Sundays, May through September, they can lounge on the lawns and watch some of the world's best polo matches.

THE OTHER Cotswold tour base is Cheltenham — a fashionable spa resort with elegant Regency-style terraces, tree-lined streets and luxuriant gardens, usually considered one of the loveliest towns in England.

From these two centers the visitor can follow a rewarding series of morning, afternoon or full-day trips into the type of countryside people dream about when they dream about England. And no matter which direction the visitor takes, he will pass through villages with ancient churches and market places, mansions and inns, cottages and village greens.

IN THE VILLAGE of Chipping Campden in England's quiet Cotswold hills, every building is constructed of the honey-colored native stone, including the centuries-old market place on the left, the old coaching inns along High Street shown here that still dispense hospitality, and the homes, both very old and new, and many with thatched roofs.

A typical tour from Cirencester, for example, could include Barnsley (fine mansion and estate), Bibury (one of the "crown jewels" among Cotswold villages), Eastleach Turville and Eastleach Martin (each with a Norman church facing its neighbor across the narrow River Leach), Fairford (a tiny village with a church boasting the most perfect display of 16th Century stained glass in existence), and the Ampney quartet — Ampney St. Mary, Ampney St. Peter, Ampney Crucis and Down Ampney (where England's renowned composer, Ralph Vaughan Williams, was born in the local vicarage).

A SECOND short tour from Cirencester could include Tetbury ( a hilltop market town), Malmesbury (12th Century abbey church with a famous carved porch), and the village of Garsdon (burial place of no fewer than five ancestors of George Washington.)

From Cheltenham, a short drive might take the visitor to Winchcombe (ancient capital of the Kingdom of Mercia), Broadway (the other "crown jewel" of Cotswold villages), Chipping Campden (an old wool town with many medieval buildings), and Hailes Abbey (a medieval pilgrims' shrine).

Some visitors, bedazzled by these riches, simply follow the most intriguing signposts: Upper and Lower Swell, Upper and Lower Slaughter, Wych or Little or Great Rissington, Stow-in-the-Wold, Bourton-on-the-Water, Moreton-in-Marsh, Guiting Power and Temple Guiting. When the visitor finally reaches the signpost marked Paradise he'll probably believe it, and stop at the Adam and Eve Inn for a nip.

THE COTSWOLDS also offer visitors an opportunity to live history. Many of the region's old coaching inns are still welcoming guests; many of its old manor houses have been converted into hotels.

Among the inns in Cirencester are the Fleece and the King's Head, where Lord Chandos, an emissary of King Charles I, was forced to take refuge from a rioting mob. Nearby is Stratton House, a 17th Century manor house turned into a hotel.

Other famous old Cotswold inns are the Lygon Arms in Broadway, the King's Arms, the Swan and the Noel Arms in Chipping Campden, the Manor House and Redesdale Arms in Moreton-in-Marsh, and the Swan in Bibury. Bed and breakfast rarely costs more than $4 double, even with a private bath; dinner costs from $1 to $3.

MANY OF THE inns retain their period furniture, with cozy lounges and big open fires where visitors can get together with the local folk.

Another way to meet people is to travel around the Cotswolds by bus and coach. Services are frequent, punctual and inexpensive.

But the best way to get around is by car. Car rentals cost as little as $65 a week with unlimited mileage during the summer, and $48 a week with unlimited mileage during the winter. So visitors can enjoy the scenery without counting the miles as they drive along the Cotswolds' network of roads — many of which were originally laid out by the Romans when they went down to subdue the Dubonni.

The Museum That Ford Built Lures The Traveler

Henry Ford did more than preserve for this and future generations a rich store of Americana when he developed Greenfield Village and the museum that bears his name.

He selected a site — at Dearborn, Mich. — that is more than handy for jet-age travelers. The village and museum are only about 20 minutes away from Detroit Metropolitan Airport.

Some proximity to a major air terminal is a real advantage, especially in the winter months. Businessmen who delight in Americana — whether as a study, as a hobby or simply as a matter of occasional historical curiosity — can drop in here conveniently enroute to or from Detroit or between appointments.

Hotels, motels and restaurants are available within minutes of the Village. Snacks and lunches are served on the grounds. The Village is open daily (except Thanksgiving, Christmas and New Year's Day) from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. in the winter months, 9 to 6 in the summer-time. Admission is $1.75.

Henry Ford spent many of his later years personally overseeing the gathering and reconstruction of historic buildings, landmarks and other memorabilia of an earlier America that are on display in the 260-acre village.

Restoration of the homes and shops — about 100 of them in all — was accomplished by the most skilled craftsmen Ford could assemble.

Here in their original condition are homes or other buildings that were associated with Abraham Lincoln, Noah Webster, Luther Burbank, Stephen Foster, William H. McGuffey and other prominent Americans.

Trout In Desert? Yes, And Beautiful

Whitewater Canyon Provides The Best For Fishing Addicts

"Trout fishing! In the desert? Impossible!"

Such are the exclamations of visitors when they are told that not 20 minutes from Palm Springs, at Whitewater Trout Ranch in Whitewater Canyon, they can catch rainbow trout in all sizes up to three pounds — and all by themselves and with all tackle furnished.

And if that isn't enough, you can have your fish cleaned and packed in ice, ready to take to your favorite hotel chef, who will cook it for you in gourmet style.

Here, you can learn something about these beautiful game fish; follow their rearing in each circular tank from "fingerling trout" to 15-inch beauties of full growth. They are ready to catch in either of the two large, beautiful trout ponds, where you can see hundreds of fish swimming in the sparkling cold water ready for you to cast in your line.

This serene, refreshing oasis on the edge of the desert provides a recreational delight for the entire family, and casting your lure into the big fish pond is a thrill, especially for the youngsters.

SOMETIME IN the year 1653, Issac Walton, the english author and exponent of trout fishing, wrote his classic, "The Compleat Angler," the story of a hunter who was "converted" to a fisherman. Walton lived to be 90 years old, and he went fishing until he was 83. So says history.

If you want to find "serenity and contentment" the Isaac Walton way, try trout fishing at Whitewater Trout Ranch, one of the many year-round attractions Palm Springs offers the visitor. It's a family affair, open to all ages from 6 to 60.

And what does all this cost?

One dollar per person, including fishing pole, bait and cleaning your fish. The trout you catch, if they are from eight to 10 inches, 45 cents each. If your catch runs from 11 to 15 inches and up, $1.50 per pound. Isaac Walton, indeed, never had it so good!

For further information, write the Palm Springs Convention and Visitors Bureau, Palm Springs Municipal Airport Terminal Palm Springs, Calif. 92262.

Shopping And Sports

The stores in Charlotte Amalie, the main town, are laden with goods from all over the world. They can be bought at duty-free prices — often for only half what you would pay on the mainland.

Some visitors miss two of the best shopping bets — the Old Market, a wrought-iron, open-air mart best seen early on Saturday mornings when farmers bring in their produce, and the Schooner Market on the waterfront, where island vessels dock to sell their catches.

The cuisine is tempting at hotel and resort dining rooms and at the well-known restaurants. But for special treats, find the places featuring traditional Caribbean dishes. Oldtimers can point you in the right direction.

TRY THE soup-stew called kallaloo with crab, pork, fish, onions, okra, herbs, vinegar and spices; the fried cakes (with bananas and spices) known as benye; a zesty pot roast, daube meat, garnished with bananas or plantains.

American Airlines suggests some other things to see and do.

There is the historical side of St. Thomas, for instance, reaching back over a period of nearly 480 years. The early Carib Indians, the Spanish, English, Dutch, French, Africans and Danes all have left their mark on the islands.

THERE IS 17th Century Fort Christian and its dungeons.

In an alley back of Cavanagh's store there is a flatcar, a remnant of the old railroad line that hauled rum and other goods between the waterfront and warehouses.

There is Government House, where the legislature meets.

There is the old Danish cemetery where tombs were fashioned from conch shells and often carved with facial likenesses and painted in bright colors.

THERE ARE such historic churches as All Saints, St. Peter's and St. Paul's. And the family home of the noted French impressionist painter, Camille Pissarro, who was born here.

From Drake's Seat, across the island, there is a widespread vista of Magens Bay and the north side of St. Thomas.

The bay itself means water sports, another prime island lure. Many resorts have private beaches, but there are eight public beaches with admission prices ranging from 25 cents to $3 scattered around the shores of the 36-square-mile island.

MAGENS BAY is the largest and most popular. But the sand is white and the palm trees enticing at such others as Coki Point, Morning Star and Sapphire Bay.

Snorkeling and scuba diving are ideal over the colorful reefs. Coral viewing is simple at St. Thomas Harbor even for non-snorkelers thanks to the glass-bottom boats that ply its surface. You can skim over the water on skis or in sailboats or other craft.

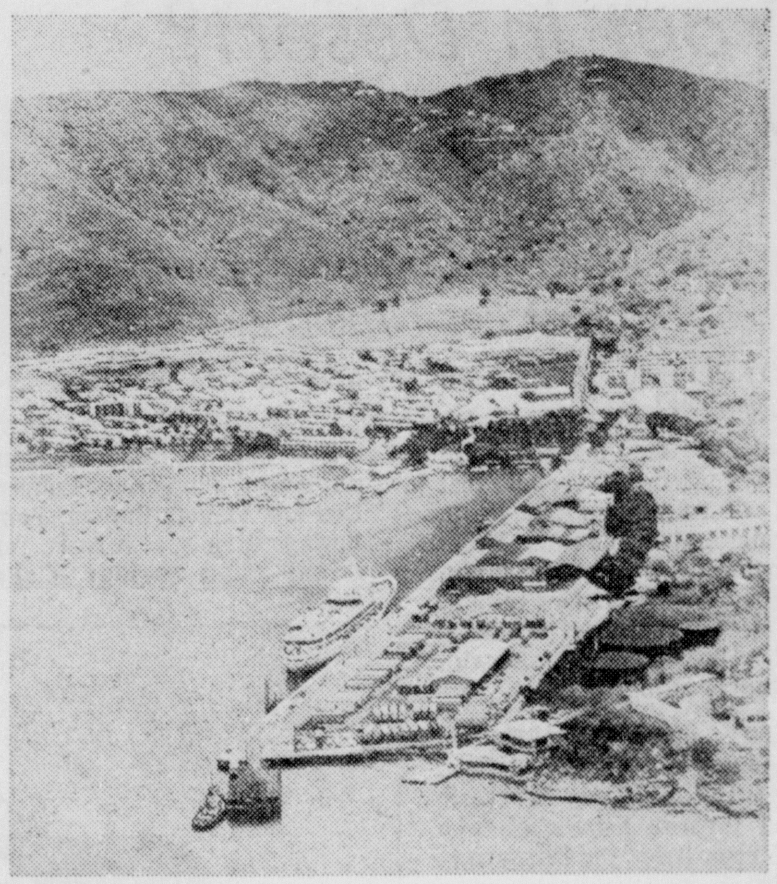
There is golf, of course. And sun-bathing.



CHARLOTTE AMALIE Harbor at St. Thomas in the Virgin Islands reflects the tranquility of the Caribbean isles. Its shopping bargains and water and land sports are also prime attractions for travelers, who come on both cruise ships and airliners.

The Fight Johnny Cash Won With His Own Troubled Self

By DON KEOWN

Yes, human nature can be changed. And that is one of the more hopeful facets of life upon this planet.

Few have demonstrated this ability to make an abrupt switch in direction more dramatically than country singer Johnny Cash whose biography is told by Look magazine editor and reporter Christopher S. Wren in his "Winners Got Scars Too."

It is the story of the son of a poor Arkansas farmer who grew up to become one of the four or five biggest names in American entertainment.

But that is not the change to which we referred. His boyhood that often saw his family on the brink of poverty was to leave him sometimes insecure even as, paradoxically, it fostered a strain of independence inside him.

But the real scars Johnny Cash bears he inflicted upon himself in the earlier years of his musical career. And it was from that way of life that he was to make a dramatic break to become the very different kind of person that he is today.

The story of Johnny Cash's addiction to amphetamine and counteracting tranquilizer pills is well known today. And this addiction was responsible for many of his erratic actions and troubles.

But it was also a symptom of other difficulties within Cash — flaws that made him moody and hot-tempered, restless and reckless, given to dangerous pranks and vandalism that betrayed a basic immaturity. Wren details dozens of those antics in which Cash and his musician-buddies quite literally played with dynamite, committing thoughtless acts that often spilled over into meanness against their victims.

It was the old, old story of the young man whose inner stability had not grown apace with his creative gifts. Cash was a mischievous, and sometimes malicious, boy involved in a man's world. And society, as it so often does, tolerated and sometimes even encouraged conduct from yet another spoiled celebrity that it would not have permitted from the less famous.

So Johnny Cash slid deeper and deeper into boyish behavior, and finally skidded the full distance from adult reality with the help of his responsibility-killing pills.

Cash rightfully claims for himself the credit for his metamorphosis. But he had two invaluable helpers in his second wife, June Carter, and her mother, Maybelle Carter, members of America's most famous hillbilly music family. They stood by Cash as he endured the ordeal of shaking the pill habit. And they watched with sympathetic and patient understanding as the man they loved struggled to regain control of his inner self.

No doubt most of the traits that made Johnny Cash such a source of heartache to himself and to others still lurk inside him. But now they are subdued. The new Johnny Cash is only sometimes restless and moody, and the old propensity for reckless violence and destruction has been tamed.

Today's Johnny Cash is a gentler and more considerate person. He can still be obstinate. But the temper tantrums that opposition used to arouse are gone. In short, the new Cash is a mature man, as opposed to the juvenile who first rose to fame on his voice, his guitar and his ability to write songs that struck a responsive chord in a large segment of America — a sector, incidentally, which has long felt neglected.

Writes Wren: "There is a nostalgia in the public response. Cash is the lost American, recalling some classic gunman or preacher (it doesn't matter which). He has walked out of yesterday at an uncertain juncture when yesterday looks very, very good. His strength is in neither the singing nor the songs, but in grassroots credibility . . . The land has graced Johnny Cash with a sense of its tradition."

Some have criticized Johnny Cash for his failure to empathize with the black's struggle for social justice, sensing in it the Southern poor white's traditional antagonism toward the Negro. Wren offers no real rebuttal, perhaps because there is none. But he does point out that Cash, while eschewing the role of crusader, has nonetheless worked for the betterment of two minorities — the Indians (he has some of the redman's blood in his own veins) and prison convicts (he has spent short stays in jails himself).

It is not the only contradiction in the Cash character. He calls himself a dove and is emphatic in his dislike of war. But he has rebuffed peace demonstrators and has defended Richard M. Nixon against his critics.

But, admittedly, he is still changing.

"Don't ever tell anybody how John Cash feels about anything unless I've told you in the last few minutes," he says. "I'm always changing. I intend to keep changing. I'm building. I'm expanding. I am still being born.

"You haven't seen the complete me yet."

So Johnny Cash, subject of an excellent and aptly titled biography in "Winners Got Scars Too," has demonstrated not only that change is possible, but also that it is a limitless and continuing process.

JOHNNY CASH is on top of the entertainment world now as America's No. 1 country musician. But for a time it was uncertain as to whether success would make or ruin the former Arkansas farm boy. His story is told in Christopher S. Wren's "Winners Got Scars Too."

SOME interesting new paperback titles from a recent Ballatine Books list:

"A Catalog of the Ways People Grow" by Severin Peterson is a $1.65 original that discusses in some depth many of the various methods people are employing to expand their potential. The former Esalen Institute sstaff member's topics range from aikido to zen, and include the likes of hatha yoga, bioenergetic analysis, gestalt thereapy, astrology, prayer, shamanism, encounter groups, hypnosis and t'ai chi ch'uan. It is a lot of ground to cover, but Peterson succeeds in imparting a lot of information in limited space upon each of his subjects.

"Diet for a Small Planet" by Frances Moore Lappe is also an original. Priced at $1.25, it is an odvocacy and explanation of a high protein diet -- without meat.

"The Radical Therapist" is a $1.25 anthology collected by Jerome Agel of the writings by the advocates of the theory that the sick individual is the product of a sick society, and that the individual can be cured only if society is cured first.

RANDOM HOUSE has made available a $2.45 Vintage Book softcover edition of Charles E. Silberman's "Crisis in the Classroom: The Remaking of America Education', that has stirred so much interest in educational circles. Life magazine described it as "the most widely and earnestly reviewed book on education in years . . . a sane, strong, responsible work of reportage."

"THE WALTER Syndrome," the excellent suspense novel by Marinite Richard Neely, is available now in a $1.25 Signet paperback edition from New American Library.

Sleuths & Suspense

COPPER BEECHES by Arthur H. Lewis; Trident Press, 317 pages, $6.95. Reviewed by Don Keown.

"Copper Beeches" is one of the most implausible — and most delightful — mysteries you are likely to encounter.

Arthur H. Lewis' characters are the members of the Sons of the Copper Beeches, the Philadelphai branch of the Baker Street Irregulars, Sherlock Holmes buffs extraordinary.

Despite all their careful screening, it develops, there is one among the Copper Beech membership, a Colonel Eberhard, who has only pretended admiration for the master detective. This scoffer and blackguard reveals himself and makes a wager with more loyal Copper Beeches that he can vanish for six months without traveling more than 125 miles from Philadelphia and not be found by them.

The chase is on. And soon the pursuers sense that they are involved in something more sinister than a simple game.

The narrator is a particularly stuffy and egotistical Philadelphian whose sanctimonious air and bumbling efforts lend added humor to an already very funny story. Holmesian scholars will relish the frequent references to the master and his cases. And Lewis makes good use, too, of material collected for his earlier book, "Carnival."

As we said, the whole thing is quite impossible. But that doesn't detract from the fun. Sherlock Holmes parodies and satires have been done before and will be done again. But few of them have been done with such imagination and flair. And none has produced greater merriment and entertainment.

A Tremendous Work

THE AGE OF ENERGY by Howard Mumford Jones; Viking, 434 pages, $12.50. Reviewed by Bryce W. Anderson.

"The Age of Energy" in the United States, as defined by Howard Mumford Jones, is the period from the Civil War to World War II. It was then, he holds, that the United States was dedicated to achievement, to doing things and to breaking new ground, to the near-exclusion of almost everything else.

Jones, Lowell professor of the humanities emeritus at Harvard, has undertaken to survey and analyze this period of our history in "The Age of Energy." He does not attempt a historical recital; rather a critique and overview, as suggested by the sub-title, "Varities of American Experience 1865-1915."

Professor Jones is a scholar of the first rank, and brings his scholarship to bear in this simultaneously diverse and incisive volume. At times, in fact, his scholarship is almost overwhelming — so that it comes as genuine relief to catch him in such errors as believing that Henry Comstock discovered the Comstock Lode, identifying Eilley Orrum as "Ellery Orrum," and reporting the wrong men as having been convicted of the murder of Idaho Gov. Frank Steunenberg.

But if the scholar cannot resist parading his scholarship, and if this is inclined to make heavy going, the going is less heavy in "The Age of Energy" because Jones also writes in an easy style, being too wise a scholar and too good a writer to fall into obscurantism.

He might have titled his volume "The American Age" as readily as "The Age of Energy," for his thesis is that the years 1865-1915 saw the emergence and solidification of America as a truly united nation — despite the unrest of the '80s and '90s (so like that of today), the persistence of sectional feelings, the Pupulist uprising, and other diversions.

Americans in that period were more and more sure of themselves. A series of events, culminating in the Columbian Exposition and the Spanish-American War, served to reinforce this assurance.

Following World War I, however, the assurance began to disappear, and the energy which had characterized the United States began to diminish as a result — or so Jones holds, and he makes an interesting case for his theory.

He blames the change principally on the emergence of Freudianism (which, as he points out, became as alien from Freud's own theories as progressive education became from those of John Dewey). And as the event signalling the end of the "Age of Energy" he chooses the New York Armory Art Show of 1913 — a precursor of what was to come, with its total departure from what had been considered the canons of art.

"Things were no longer things in themselves," he writes of this show, "they were not even what they seemed to be to the beholding eye; they were merely excuses for assembling a private idiom of form, line, and color . . . Public and rational controls of art were now not possible except as censorship; and after the Armory Show, after Freud, after World War I, though energy multiplied, the Age of Energy vanished. And we were never again to be the nation — heady, adolescent, picturesque, unpredictable, yearning to be loved and fearing to be outdone — that we had been between 1865 and 1915."

In developing his thesis, Jones perhaps puts too much emphasis on the role of critics in creating the national taste ("the genteel tradition"). He does not even mention the role of William Holmes McGuffey, who did more than all the critics put together to give Americans what historian Henry Steele Commager aptly termed "a common body of allusion." And in citing the cuases for the period's end, he perhaps puts too little emphasis on World War I, in whic for the first time hundreds of thousands of ordinary Americans (not the rich for whom the "Grand Tour" was a ritual) trod foreign soil and saw how people lived in other lands. Much that happened subsequently to change America was hinted in the tag line in a popular song of that way (which Jones also doesn't mention): "How ya gonna keep 'em down on the farm, after they've seen Paree?"

But just spotting a few ommission is easy. "The Age of Energy" is a tremendous volume, providing illuminating insight into the America That Was — and thereby, into the America That Is.

A New Novel By A Pulitzer Winner

THE CONDOR PASSES by Shirley Ann Grau; Knopf, 421 pages, $7.95. Reviewed by Alice Dalbey.

Thomas Henry Oliver is a lecherous old man, a self-made millionaire with an eye for the main chance, a man without a soul who identifies himself with that great, black, soaring bird — the condor.

But despite the feathered symbolism which flutters through this novel, Oliver is an interesting, though frightening, old buzzard with whom to spend an evening.

Most of his predatory activities take place in the steamy, seamy New Orleans of the past 75 years.

Robert, a half-starved Cajun boy he picks out of a swamp, chooses for a son-in-law; Anna, Oliver's beautiful daughter, who tries to fit Robert into her nest as the perfect groom; Margaret, Oliver's lusty, restless daughter, a reincarnation of her ruthless father; Anthony, the fatally ill, pathetic, grandson.

Of the family in spirit, though not in blood, is Stanley, the observant, outwardly impeccable black servant, who sees himself as "a big black hawk . . . stealing pieces of their lives."

Ironically, it is Stanley, rather than any of the family, who becomes fulfiller-of-wishes — the young condor with his wings powdered with gold — for old man Oliver.

Shirley Ann Grau won the Pulitzer Prize, in 1964, for "The Keepers of the House," and her writing is deft and professional. Her characters are vigorous, their conflicts and conversations believable, and her knowledge of the South is deep and understanding.

Pleasant Reading By British Author

Diane Pearson, an editor with a London publisher, has carved out a second career for herself as a novelist specializaing in the British middle class of the late 19th and early 20th centuries.

"Sarah" resumes her story of the Whitman family begun in her earlier "The Marigold Field" and focusses upon Sarah Whitman, now, in the 1920s, having risen from servant to school teacher.

In Miss Pearson's quiet, understated writing style, quiet appropriate to her material, we follow Sarah through a series of contacts with men that awaken within her the fuller woman, and finally to marriage to a missionary and a new life in India. Neither marriage nor her experiences in India are happy, for Sarah is too much of a woman for her juiceless husband and too much of a human for the restricted mission role insisted upon by the head of the mission who becomes her bitter enemy. But Sarah learns from adversity.

The book ends in 1939 with Sarah, widowed and returned to England, certain that "life was good" and that "lots of things were going to happen."

Miss Pearson's novel makes for easy, pleasant reading, and provides a welcome change-of-pace from the more frenetic and sensationalized novels pouring from the publishers. It is an old-fashioned novel. And right now there is a hunger in many of us for old-fashioned things.

Probing The Ocean Floor

200,000,000 YEARS BENEATH THE SEA by Peter Briggs, Holt, Rinehart and Winston, 228 pages, $7.95. Reviewed by Richard B. Lyttle.

Peter Briggs, who has become a specialist in the field of geophysics, puts together a fine account here of the pioneering voyages of Glomar Challenger, the first research vessel equipped for deep ocean drilling.

Briggs avoids the highly technical, explaining the workings of this complex ship and its goals in clear language. He takes pains to round out the characters of the many scientists involved, making this a very human venture on the high seas.

A People Shaped Through Battle

No land of comparable size offers a richer tapestry in its history than does Scotland.

Centuries of violence and intrigue, of a mixing of bloods and cultures, of resistance to intrusions, of clan conflicts, of religious controversy, of towering historic figures, of sometimes reckless courage, of treachery and murder, and of the gradual rising amid the violence of a distinctive Scottish culture make the writing of that record a formidable challenge.

Fortunately, John Prebble, is a man equal to the challenge, as he demonstrates in his "The Lion in the North." And ironically, historian Prebble is not a Scot at all, but a member of the English race with which the Scots have fought their bloodiest wars in a futile effort to maintain or regain their independence.

But says Prebble: "I have been in love with Scotland ever since I wrote 'Culloden' (part of a trilogy on Scotland) and have been its literary servant."

"Lion in the North" springs from that love, and is a masterful job of history-writing.

Credit publisher Coward, McCann and Geoghegan, too, with a superb job of illustrating the book with fascinating photographs including some most striking color plates.

Prebble begins his absorbing story with the ascent of Kenneth MacAlpin as the first king of Scotland 11 centuries ago and follows through to the mid-19th Century when the last real hopes for an independent Scotland died.

To the reader it sometimes seems that Scottish history is one long, only briefly and infrequently interrupted, chronicle of war, Scot against foreigner, or Scot against Scot, with the Campbells, stormy petrels of Scotland's past, most often involved on one side or the other.

But it is also the Scotland of Robert Burns, Sir Walter Scott, Adam Smith, David Allan, Allan Ramsay, Jacob More and Robert Fergusson along with other creative talents.

And if the patriotic Scot could be fierce and even savage, he could also be courageous, loyal and even romantic.

All these facets of Scottish character and life show through in Prebble's extraordinary telling of a most complex and involved story. If he seems to have given great emphasis to battle, he has good reason. For more than most people and most lands, the Scottish and Scotland have been shaped by strife. Only relatively recently has the land of the heather and the kilt come to enjoy anything like extended periods of peace. May they continue. And may John Prebble write more history.

Some New Books For The Juniors

For the scientifically-curious youngster, "What We Find When We Look Under Rocks" (McGraw-Hill) opens up a whole new fascinating world.

It is the world of the ant, the earthworm, the beetle, the salamander, the sow bug, the millipede.

Dr. Frances L. Behnke, scientist and teacher, has written the text Jean Zallinger, artist, instructor and illustrator, has done the drawings. And the two make a happy team, covering their subject with all the thoroughness of a good school text, but with a great deal more imagination and zest.

The nicely-done book will open young eyes to a facet of nature often overlooked, making the backyard or the nearby vacant lot quite suddenly a veritable jungle teeming with animal life. The book, we are informed, has been classroom tested and proven. But it will be equally useful, and enjoyable, in the home.

SNOW IS another subject that holds a special fascination for children. Unfortunately, children of the California coast rarely see it firsthand. So the suggested experiments and demonstration ideas that accompany "A Walk in the Snow" (Lippincott, $3.95) with text by Phyllis S. Busch and black-and-white photographs by Mary M. Thacher will be limited in their application here. Still, Marin youngsters will enjoy the informative and nicely descriptive text and the pictures. And the book should build anticipation for and add zest to field trips to the mountains where the white stuff can be enjoyed and examined.

Some other new books for juniors:

"A Woggle of Witches" (Scribner's, $5.95) by Adrienne Adams is a fun book for the Halloween season, with big double page picture spreads of witches enjoying a feast and spree. The colors are appropriately somber. But the characters themselves are good-humored, as witches should be for small children. The price of the book seems a bit steep, but undeniably the artwork is exceptional, and the theme of the book creatively conceived and executed.

"Harry's Bee" (Bobbs-Merrill, $4.95) is an entertaining frolic with an Englishman who finds in his prize rose "the biggest bee in England." The discovery leads to complications that involve various arms of the British government. The story is funny. And the artwork by Campbell, a New Zealander now living in England, is equally good-humored, presenting droll characters that should delight the youngsters. It's a clever book likely to tickle the funny bones of all boys and girls.

"Willy" (Doubleday, $3.95) by Helen H. King, with pictures by Carole Byard deals humorously with a situation that has had tragic implications for many a young ghetto resident. As the man in his fatherless house, it is up to the 10-year-old to get rid of the rat he calls Willy that has invaded his home. The boy experiences some setbacks in his battle of wits with the wily and persistent rodent, but eventually wins out. It is a warm, simply told story, that carries a special message — just how common such problems are for the people of the slums, and how difficult it is for them to solve these difficulties themselves without community concern and support.

BOBETTE GUGLIOTTA has chosen an unusual subject for her first published biography, "Nolle Smith" (Dodd, Mead, $4.50). Few will recognize the name — unless they hail from Hawaii. Smith was the son of a Scot-Irish father and a Negro-Indian mother, born on a Wyoming ranch, who, refused admission to West Point because of his black ancestry, earned an engineering degree, went to Hawaii and rose to political prominence. Smith is more worthy than most of biographical treatment. But such constructive lives, alas, do not always make for exciting reading. And, unfortunately, the author gives his story a rather routine treatment.

Robert B. Jackson has produced yet another of his books on cars and car racing, this one entitled "Cars Against the Clock" (Walck, $4.25). It is a history of efforts at the world land speed effort, beginning with a 39.24 miles an hour timing in 1898 and continuing through today's mark well in excess of 600 miles an hour. Some might hope that the newest generation will be less obsessed by speed than its predecessors. But such is unlikely. Speed holds a fascination for most of us. And today's small boys are likely to be beguiled by Jackson's readable text and by the photographs of the cars. But the price is too high by a good dollar.

Charles Perrault's classic "Cinderella" or "The Little Glass Slipper" (Walck, $4.75) which has charmed little girls for generations is given a lovely illustrating job by Shirley Hughes in this newest of its many editions. Miss Hughes has based her sketches upon the France of Louis XIV in which Perrault lived. And there is a delicate and romantic air to her work that is the perfect accompaniment to this grand old story.

"The Wishing Balloons" (Holt, Rinehart, $4.95) by Maryke Reesink is an enchanting picture and story book for the little ones, all about two youngsters who find the balloons at the school carnival are wishing balloons — a wish for each pop. Jan and Marika seize the opportunity for some astounding, impaginative adventures. Adrie Hospes' illustrations are a riot of eye-catching colors, quite extraordinary. Both author and artist are Hollanders.

A Bit Of Old America From Vermont Potteries

THE JUG AND RELATED STONEWARE OF BENNINGTON by Cornelius Osgood; Tuttle, 222 pages, $15. Reviewed by Maxine Keown.

"I happen to like jugs," Cornelius Osgood, Yale University professor of anthropology, begins this book. "The broad shouldered ones thinning off toward the base appeal to me most. I enjoy the touch of their cool bodies in summer and the uniform unevenness of their salt-glazed skin. . ."

Osgood's affection is apparent in his handling of his subject, and it is an attitude with which many of us can identify.

For there was something peculiarly American about the jugs produced by the Norton potteries of Bennington, Vt., so functional and yet not without an esthetic appeal as well.

The mere words "Bennington jugs" touches off a spell of nostalgia, particularly among those with New England associations.

But Professor Osgood's simple but learned history and dissertation upon the Bennington potteries and their products will touch off something more than nostalgia — especially among collectors. There is 100 years of history and page after page of fascinating expertise. And while one regrets the absence of color plates, the black and white artwork and photos present must be acknowledged as informative and helpful.

Richard Carter Barret, director of the Bennington Museum, calls it "the definitive work in its field. . . an all-time classic."

There are appendages and a bibliography. And a source reference.

It is in short a scholarly job, but done without pedantry or pretentiousness. A book as solid and practical, and yet appealing to the sense, as the bluebird decorated jugs and jars of the no-nonsense yet creative Nortons.

A Pony For Tiny Tots

Handyman's Pages

By STEVE ELLINGSON

No thoroughly occupied man was ever yet very miserable. The great secret of human happiness is this: Never let your energies go stale.

The old adage of "too many irons in the fire," conveys an abominable lie. You can't have too many — poker, tongs and all —keep them all going.

If you doubt this statement, look around among your friends. You'll find the ones with lots of projects are the most happy.

THAT'S WHY the season ahead should be a happy one for do-it-yourselfers. They can have projects going making Christmas gifts for all members of the family — saving money too.

Since it's the small fry that gets the biggest thrill at Christmas time, we though we should begin the do-it-yourselfer's busy season with a pony rocker for tiny tots.

This toy, shown at left, is designed so even the smallest infant can sit in it without fear of falling out. When it's all painted up with the bright colors, and decorated with a few upholstery tacks, you'll have a real range ridin' bronc.

TO BUILD the article requires no particular skill because you simply trace the full-size pattern on plywood and then saw the parts out and put them together. Painting is easy because you merely trace the horses' features on the plywood, then paint over the tracings.

The pattern gives complete directions for putting the parts together and the colors to use in painting. There are pictures printed on the pattern which show the various steps of assembly. Simple tools are all you need.

Some other patterns especially appropriate to the Christmas season are: No. 411, Dollhouse, $1; No. 458, Sidewalk Locomotive, $1; No. 363, Kiddy Kitchen, $1, and No. 361, Doll Furniture, $1.

But remember: When Christmas gifts are to be hand-made by daddy, an early start is essential. To make any of these fun toys for your youngsters, or a favorite nephew or niece, order your pattern without further delay.

A little bit of nature that can be your own.

PARK TERRACE an enclave of individual townhouses in the heart of Mill Valley, offers your family a new way of living by bringing back some old values . . . privacy, a sense of space, an unhurried environment at home with nature.

Small courtyards interspersed with fountains and trees give Park Terrace a village character. Each house looks out onto patios front and back, thoroughly private. And the entire community is nestled in a terraced park, with its own landscaped brook, forming a shelter of greenery and quiet on three sides. Here nature can be enjoyed on a human scale, with the conveniences not even possible in city living: a maintenance program that includes all outside gardening, lighting, and upkeep of all fences and building exteriors . . . all outside land taxes, an underground cable TV system . . . even pays all water bills and insurance on every structure. Unlike the conventional homeowner, you will never be faced with the cost of roof repairs or exterior repainting.

This unique worry-free community is the result of more than two years of planning by the team of The Haywood Company, Developer, and Agora, Architects and Planners. We have attempted to take into account the full idea of what a dwelling should offer you for twenty, thirty, forty years into the future.

PREVIEW:

We want Marin County to be the first to see Park Terrace...

65 townhouses for sale, from $33,900, most favorably located in the heart of Mill Valley, ideal for commuting, for schools, for shopping, for recreation, for worry-free living.

It's a new way of living you must see for yourself. For broadest selection, we urge you to visit or call Hearth & Home at 288 Miller Avenue, 388-2812.

A Mini-Study Helps The School Child

The old adage, "a place for everything," leads to some imaginative possibilities — like putting an at-home study in a closet of the children's room.

Such a "mini-study" could be the answer to some seemingly insolvable problems including:

How to keep the children's room neat.

How to make space available — among the clutter of toys, games and sports equipment — for school essentials like a desk and bookshelves.

How to keep school supplies, texts and homework papers out of the reach of younger siblings — especially if they share a room with the school-age child.

TRANSFORMATION of conventional closet space into a workable study area requires minimal carpentry skills, a few tools, and not much time or money. The concept works in either a regulation single-door closet or in a double closet.

Desk space in the closet is easily provided with a wide shelf installed at a comfortable height for the student to work. A straight-back chair or high stool slips under the shelf when not in use.

If the closet is shallow, you can use a wall-mounted shelf unit with a swing-down counter. If the closet is exceptionally roomy, you may be able to fit in a regulation knee-hole desk. For maximum storage and work space, choose the type with a pull-out shelf for a typewriter.

ABOVE THE desk top, you can mount as many book shelves as needed. Adjustable shelves on wall standards work well because they are easy to install and provide versatile space for books of different sizes.

If there's room, add a small cork board on which to pin notes and homework assignments. You will also need an electrical outlet for a desk or wall lamp.

TO CLOSE OFF the closet study when it is not in use, folding or sliding louver doors are an ideal choice. They are available, in stock sizes, with all necessary hardware at local lumber dealers or building supply stores, and can be installed by a do-it-yourselfer.

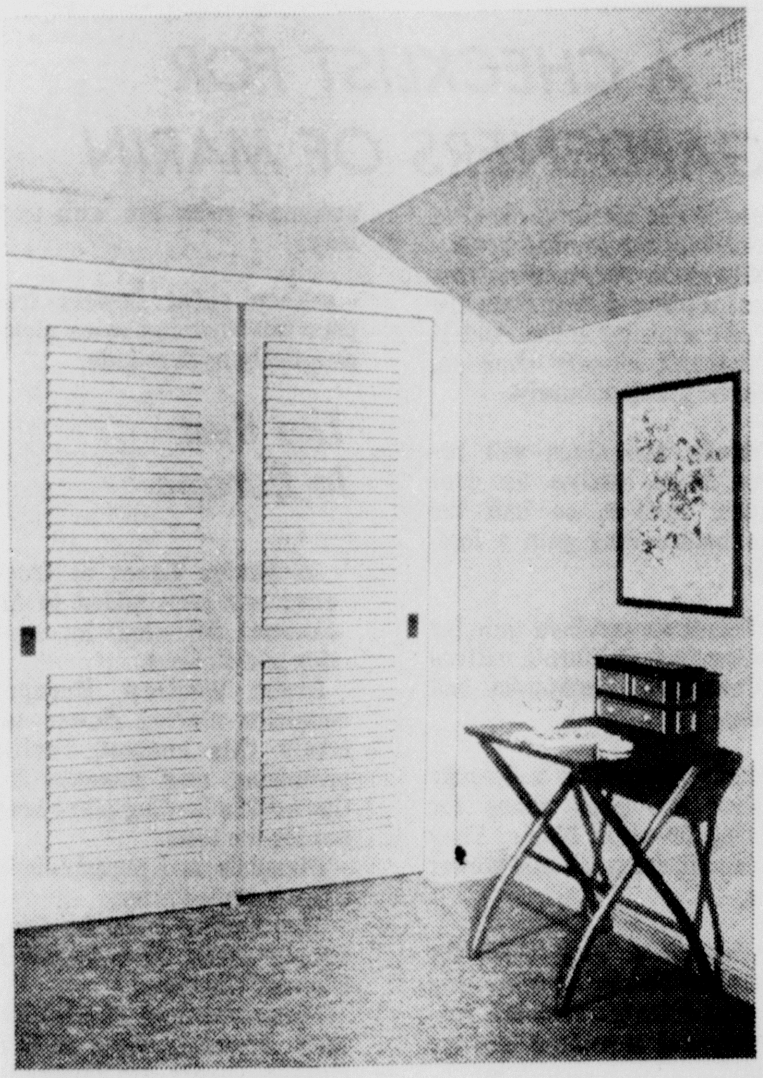
Folding doors open and close easily, and since they operate in accordian-fashion, take up minimal floor space. Sliding doors take no floor space at all. Both come in two decorative styles: fully-louvered, or with louvers in the top half, and a closed wood panel in the bottom.

Special advantage of louvers is that they allow a free flow of air to keep the study-closet from getting stale or stuffy.



BEHIND THESE sliding doors of ponderosa pine in what was intended as a closet there is plenty of space for books and school supplies, and even room for a mini-study with mounted bookshelves and a work counter.

Tulip Time In Marin

It's tulip and hyacinth buying and planting time now in Marin County.

While the dock strike has caused some interruptions and delays in the arrival of imported bulbs. Nevertheless, Marin nurseries generally have succeeded in accumulating generous stocks of quality bulbs.

IN NO OTHER planting is quality more important than in flower bulbs. The finest quality bulbs produce accordingly. Lesser quality bulbs are often a disappointment.

It is not too early to begin planting these bulbs. But the preferred practice is to chill your bulbs by placing them in the vegetable bin of your refrigerator — not in the freezer — for a few weeks before putting them into the ground.

This will delay the planting, but it will be worth the extra time. And tulip and hyacinth bulb planting can continue into early December with good results.

SOME NURSERYMEN are recommending to growers with good soil that they plant the bulbs deeper than the recommended six inches — perhaps as deep as nine inches. But this holds good only for well drained, sandy soil. And that can be found in but few places in Marin.

Tulips and hyacinths are bulb flower with dual personalities. Though both are most often thought of as formal, aristocratic-type flowers, they are impressive when planted in informal drifts, scattered in clusters along walkways and paths, in rock gardens, and in clumps beneath trees. And, with the wide range of spectacular and pleasing colors both flowers afford, no spring garden is complete without tulips and hyacinths.

THERE ARE SO many types of tulips, the best way to select them is to view the choices in the nursery, where color reproductions accompany the individual varieties. The various tulips classes make it possible to enjoy weeks and weeks of floral beauty. As one class reaches its peak, another is already preparing to burst forth in bloom.

Those with the classic "tulip-look," Triumph, Darwin and Cottage types, are ideal for planting in garden beds and borders. Early-blooming species tulips, which grow four to 12 inches tall, are most effective in a casual planting, such as rock gardens. The double Tulips, lacy-petaled Parrot types and Lily-flowering varieties—plus the large Darwin hybrids—are dramatic flowers which should be planted where they can be the center of interest.

HYACINTHS ARE colorful and fragrant, and should be planted in clusters for best effect. Being planted sparingly at random in the garden, or set out in a row like so-many wooden soldiers, doesn't give these easy-to-grow bulbs a chance to show their best.

They can be planted almost anywhere—a complete bed of hyacinths is a true showpiece; natural drifts in a given area, or clumps for accent purpose, or you can fill-in around shrubs in the landscape—where they will appreciate the partial shade—or use them to complete a garden border.

Hyacinths are among the most adaptable of bulbs for container growing. They can be planted in pots, planters and window boxes; and an indoor fun experience is to grow the bulbs in water—in special hyacinth vases which are readily available at your nursery or florist shop.

A CHECKLIST FOR GARDENERS OF MARIN

✓Give your chrysanthemums a final feeding if their buds are still not showing color. And if you haven't already done so, stake the plants securely.

✓Snails and slugs will become more active as cool weather arrives, so bait for them before they gain a foothold.

✓This is an excellent time for planting such California natives as Ceanothus, Fremontia and Toyons.

✓Late September and early October are good times for planting lawns in Marin. They will benefit from fall and winter rains.

✓This is a good time for getting such spring-blooming bulbs as daffodils, freesias, ranunculus and anemones into the ground.

✓Don't let up on your watering schedule until you are sure autumn's rains are with us to stay.

✓Keep spent flowers from your fall-blooming roses picked as quickly as they fade.

The Best In Europe

A foreign flavor or fragrance has been added to All-America Selections for superior new flowers.

Eight Western European countries started flower seed trials this season, inviting promising new annuals from the world's leading plant breeders for the tests.

Biennials and perennials are to be accepted later.

The testing organization is simply called Fleuroselect for Flower Selections.

There are now 15 trial locations, including three in Great Britain. Others are in Sweden, Denmark, Holland, Belgium, France, Germany and Switzerland.

The Groundcovers Solve The Problem Of Sunny Slopes

Groundcovers provide a ready answer for many problem landscaping areas, and, especially, are a solution for sunny slopes.

Soil conditions on sloping ground may prevent certain plants from flourishing in the location, and this difficulty is double when the slope basks in the hot sun most, or all, of the day.

There are several groundcovers which perform admirably in such landscape situations, according to the California Association of Nurserymen.

FOR TEXTURE and year-round interest, the prostrate junipers are attractive, durable choices. Wilton Carpet Juniper is just that—it all but carpets an area with its appealing silver-blue foliage. Sage green San Jose Juniper and Emerald Spreader are other junipers for slopes.

Your nurseryman can show you still others which flourish under local conditions.

Gaining in popularity, because of their ability to cover expanses of ground, are the Trailing Gazanias. On a slope, the gray-green foliage and spectacular show of yellow or orange daisy-like flowers are showcased in almost unbelievable fashion. Months of continuous color are to be enjoyed from these sun-loving performers.

ANOTHER BLOOMING choice is the Trailing African Daisy. Nurseries offer varieties that produce large white, or lavender-tinted flowers—from mid-winter into summer. These fill-in rapidly and may cover an area after one full season's growth.

Durable and attractive are apt descriptions of Baccharis (Coyote Bush). Small holly-like leaves are borne on compact branches, which follow the contour of the ground. Baccharis is planted extensively along California freeways; it requires little attention, yet provides beautiful rewards—and will do the same thing in the home garden.

Here where winters aren't marked by severe frost, Ice Plant varieties, lavender Trailing Lantana, Ivy Geraniums and even Dichondra—commonly utilized as a lawn—are other attractive groundcovers for slopes.

Hardy, too, is the groundcover Vinca Major. It has luxuriant green, heart shaped foliage and produces lavender blue flowers above ground, creates a cool illusion on the steepest of slopes.

Things You Should Know About Mums

When the plant hybridists develop a daisy that looks like a chrysanthemum ... and a chrysanthemum that looks like a daisy ... it's time to face facts. The chrysanthemum has become the most valuable and varied flower for fall.

You can use cut chrysanthemums for long-lasting arrangements ... you can enjoy masses of them in flower beds ... or have a bright closer view when you plant them in pots.

There are good reasons why chrysanthemums have been cultivated in the Orient for 2,000 years. They can be as frugal or as grand as you want them to be. They are so easy to propagate. You take cuttings from new growth and start them in moist sand. You can swap old faithfuls with your friends, or seek out the latest hybrids. They will brighten your fall garden when all else has retired for the season.

Garden Pages

THE ONLY things that rival flowers for embellishing a garden are the birds. And one way to attract them is with a bird feeder. You can buy them ready-made (this one of redwood is marketed by Germain's Inc.), or you can build your own. The feeder shown measures 11 inches wide, nine inches high and 10 inches deep.

THE TOTAL CONCEPT APPROACH FOR GRACIOUS LIVING

Have you ever purchased, on impulse, a lamp that was the wrong height for a table; draperies that were the wrong color for your room; a rug that didn't quite fit? If you have you will appreciate the "Total Concept" approach to decorating.

"Total Concept" simply means total plan. A complete look of a room. What do you need and how does it fit? What will you be doing in the room and how can you furnish to fit these needs. Should the room follow a formal or casual look. Will you use splashy bright colors or stay with a more subdued scheme? How will you combine woods, metal, plastics and glass?

All these things must be considered even when you simply want to add a lamp or occasional table.

Visit Bellach's Design Center room settings as prepared for "Debut 72" with special attention to "Total Concept" in a variety of ways. When you see a setting that you respond to, figure out the reason.

Analyze the elements of the room. Do the colors and materials of the furnishings enhance, balance and blend? You will probably find that in these room settings everything is placed in a relationship of all things around it . . . like the composition of a fine oil painting or a photograph.

Bellach's Design Center hopes that the room settings we have prepared for you will aid, inspire and open up to you the living advantages of "Total Concept" room decor in your home. Feel free to come in any time and browse. We welcome your questions. Our decorators will assist you in any way that they are able. We're eager for you to enjoy this fascinating adventure in home furnishing. It's new. It's Debut '72.

MARY URE and Richard Burton star in "Look Back in Anger," the motion picture version of John Osborne's play about a young man whose grudge with the establishment leads him to personal alienation and disaster, to be presented Monday at 8 p.m. on Channel 2.

TV NOTES

By JACK GAVER

"A Christmas Carol" is always turning up in one form or another on television. ABC has an animated half-hour version slated for Dec. 21 with narrations by British star Sir Michael Redgrave.

During the football season, NBC's "Meet the Press" will be seen in the 12:30-1 p.m. space instead of the normal 1-1:30 period. After the football season, it will return to the regular time.

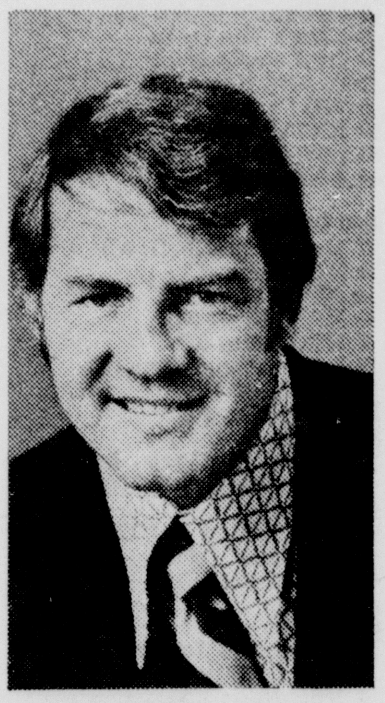
Violin virtuoso Yehudi Menuhin will conduct the CBS New York Philharmonic Young People's Concert tomorrow. He will be dealing with Bela Bartok's Concerto for Orchestra.

Leon Uris' best-seller, "QB VII," is being turned into a multi-part feature for ABC by Screen Gems for unannounced future broadcasting. Story of a libel case in a British court based on an actual experience of the author.

"NBC Children's Theater" will have six new specials during the 1971-72 season. Actors Lorne Greene and Sterling Holloway will be involved in two of them, the first as off-camera narrator for "The Blue Edge," and the latter as the voice of a character in an animated film, "All About Me."

ABC plans a series of weekly one-hour original motion pictures for children for the 1972-73 season. They will be seen on Saturday mornings.

Milburn Stone is due soon to go back to work in Hollywood in his Doc Adams role on "Gunsmoke." Open heart surgery took him out of circulation last April. The first six episodes of the new season on CBS will feature Pat Hingle as a Dr. John Chapman, filling in for Doc Adams, supposedly on a trip back East.



FRANK GIFFORD, the newest member of the sports team for the "NFL Monday Night Football" series, will provide the play-by-play report of the game and will, in addition, also offer expert commentary where the situation calls for it. He will be seen and heard Monday at 6 p.m. on Channels 7 and 11 when the New York Jets face the St. Louis Cardinals.

On The Stereo Scene

By JOHN SUNIER

Some more albums from RCA:

SCHMITT: "La Tragedie de Salome"; CHAUSSON: "Viviane"; DUPARC: "Lenore" — Antonio de Almeida conducting the New Philharmonic Orchestra — RCA LSC-3151: These three French symphonic poems of the late Romantic period are not often heard and that's a shame. They are sensual, colorful portraits of their three female personalities.

The Schmitt is the longest and most spectacular, and shows influences of both Debussy and Richard Strauss. It makes fascinating listening paired with Strauss's "salome."

"STAFFAN SCHEJA Plays Romantic Swedish Piano Music" — RCA LSC-3119: Now that's quite a mouthful of a title, but wait — look first at the portrait of handsome young pianist Scheja on the cover and you'll understand why he's packing the teen-age girls into Swedish concert halls. Then listen to any one of these four first recordings and hear some really exquisite piano music perfectly performed and recorded.

I enjoyed the "Ironical Miniatures" by Dag Wiren the most, probably because of an acquaintance with some of his other music, but the "Sonatine" by Larsson, "Three Fantasies" by Stenhammar and "Legends from Lake Malaren" by Rangstrom were also provocative listening.

A fine piano album.

"PEACE IT All Together" — Lighthouse — RCA LSP 4325: Having read a number of reviews comparing Lighthouse to Blood, Sweat and Tears I was full of expectations when first placing this LP on the turntable. Forget it.

Lighthouse has taken the least attractive parts of B, S & T and thrown out the attractive parts — like an exciting lead vocalist and a swinging sound.

The album includes something like the fourth or fifth tune titled "Sausalito" recorded in the last few years.

CZERNY: "Variations for Piano and Orchestra"; RIES: "Concerto" — Felicja Blumental, piano/Vienna Chamber Orchestra (Czerny)/Salzburg Chamber Orchestra (Ries)/Froschauer, Guschlbauer, conductors — RCA VICS-1501: This fine album was picked by RCA for their bargain label from the British label Auditorium.

Both composers were pupils of Beethoven and the master's touch is evident. The theme Czerny used will be familiar to most ears; composed originally by Haydn, it later became known as "Deutschland uber Alles."

"THE SOUND OF THE MOZART PIANO" — MOZART: "Sonata in D for Two Pianos; "Variations on Ah, vous Diraije, Maman," "Fantasy in D Minor," "Andante and Variations for Four Hands" — Jorg Demus and Norman Shetler — RCA VICS-1495: The slender Viennese classical piano was closer to a clavichord than to today's grand piano. It had a subtle, expressive sound of lightness and transparency due to being lightly strung with no heavy steel frame.

Here are fine recordings of two beautifully-preserved pianofortes of that time, 1785 and 1795. It is not only musicologically correct but quite thrilling to hear Mozart's music as Mozart wrote it and not magnified out of all proportion on a concert grand.

This is not the first LP to bring listeners the unique sound of the early pianos, but I believe it is the first to consist primarily of two-hand or two-piano works — a wonderful idea.

"NEW CONCERTOS FOR TRUMPET" — by Raymond Hanson and William Lovelock — John Robertson, trumpet/Sydney Symphony Orchestra/Joseph Post — RCA VICS-1437: RCA is ranging far and wide for interesting tapes for its Victrola label.

From Australia we have two fairly conservative, tuneful and most enjoyable new trumpet concerti. While neither herald major composing talents of international interest, the spotlight here falls on the virtuoso feats of trumpet soloist John Robertson.

All fans of this regal instrument will want to add this LP to their collection.

EARTH AND SURFACE

The wind will blow,
  The fog will disappear,
What was blue,
  Will be covered
With a brownish hue,
  Product of time,
Soon this will be gone,
  Power and energy
Change form,
  Responsibility,
Law and order,
  Causes and effects,
Mankind evolves,
  Judging and trusting
In the future
  Sun in the sky,
Earth and surface realities.
